BIG THREE BLOCKS MOVE TO PUT END TO 'LAME DUCKS'

House Rules Committee Pigeonholed Norris Constitutional Amendment to Correct Evil.

SENATE HAS PASSED IT THREE TIMES

Nebraskan Says It Would End Filibusters More Effectively Than Dawes' Proposed Gag Rule.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Abolition of the short session of Congress and not gag rule of the sort advocated by Vice President Dawes, is the proper remedy for Senate filibusters such as that which mangled legislation during the closing days of the Congress, which ended Friday.

This assertion was made today by Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, author of the proposed constitutional amendment which would eliminate the short or "lame duck" session, and enable members of Congress to take their seats two months instead of 13 months after their election.

Norris charged that the failure of Congress to submit the amendment to the states was solely due to the opposition of a handful of Old Guard leaders in the House. Three times it has passed the Senate by overwhelming majorities, and each time the House leaders, by parliamentary trickery, have prevented it from coming to a vote there, where its adoption was certain.

Lobby Profits by Present System.

The opposition, Norris added, was inspired from two sources. First, from lobbying interests, which are able, by virtue of the legislative term which always attends the short session, to slip through certain measures which they want; second, from those who are interested in maintaining a situation which enables the President, by wielding the patronage club over "lame duck" members, to compel them to vote as he desires.

The Congress, which ended Friday, produced the third instance in which the Norris amendment has been quietly strangled in the House. The resolution providing for its submission to the States was adopted by the Senate more than a year ago, by a vote of 73 to 2. It went immediately to the House, where an equally top-heavy majority was known to favor it. The all powerful Rules Committee simply pigeon-holed it. It never reached a vote.

Responsibility for this action can be laid squarely on three Republican leaders: Speaker Nicholas Longworth of Ohio; Congressman Bert Snell of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee, and Congressman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader. The resolution has a few other opponents, but if the "big three" had consented to let the House vote upon it, there would have been a vote.

Senator Norris pointed out today that the thing which makes filibusters possible, is the practice of having a short session which begins on March 4. The fact that the session lasts only three months, and must end on that date, allows filibusters to wage a campaign of delay and obstruction which consumes time and defeats measures by preventing action on them before adjournment.

Dawes Favors Cloture.

Vice President Dawes proposes to cure this by the adoption of a cloture rule under which a majority could vote to limit all debate, and set a date for voting on any given measure. Norris and a large majority of Senators of both parties object to this on the ground it would enable a bare majority to railroad legislation through the Senate without adequate study and discussion. Under present rules a majority of two-thirds is required to apply cloutre.

Under present practice, there is a long and one short session of Congress. The long session begins in December, 13 months after the election, in which all the House and one-third of the Senate have been chosen. There is no fixed date for adjournment; hence filibusters are never attempted at the short session. The short session begins in the following December, at which time another election has been held, with the invariable result that many of those participating and voting have been defeated.

URUGUAYAN'S PLANE WRECKED IN MOROCCO

Larre-Borges and Companions May Be Prisoners of Hostile Tribesmen.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, March 5.—Civilian aviators who joined the search for Maj. Larre-Borges have reported to Agadir that they found the Uruguayan flyer's plane at the mouth of the Ima Fatma River about 75 miles from Cape Jubi, Morocco.

The aviators think the four occupants of the plane may have been taken prisoner by native tribesmen.

One of the aviators reported that a nativ ehad told him that the Uruguayans were taken inland by a native had told him that the lieved the men were alive.

Plane Smashed to Bits in Hostile Territory.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 5.—A shattered seaplane near the mouth of a rivulet on the shore of Spanish Africa in territory inhabitated by unfriendly tribes marked the end of the projected trans-Atlantic flight of the Uruguayan aviator, Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges and three companions. The flyers left Casablanca, Morocco, Wednesday morning. Their fate was still in doubt tonight, but the chance of finding them alive was slim.

French and Spanish warships and airplanes had scoured the sea along the African coast for three days without finding a trace of the Uruguayan. After the discovery of the plane the Spanish gunboat, Bonifaz, and two Spanish civilian planes were dispatched to the spot where the wrecked plane lay.

News of the discovery was brought by the pilots of a French airplane northbound from Dakar. They reported that they sighted the plane north of Cape Jubi and that they flew over it at a height of barely 20 feet. Although they did not land, the pilots were positive in their identification.

The French pilots said the seaplane had been smashed to bits, the cockpit plunged deep into the ground and the motor 200 feet away. The slim hope that the aviators were still alive was based on the fact that no bodies were seen in the vicinity of the wreckage, although the Uruguayans might have been dead inside the wrecked hull.

MISSING ARMY FLYER'S NAME ON CLOTHING WASHED ASHORE

Evidently Belonged to Lieut. W. J. Harris, Who Disappeared in Fog, Feb. 18.

By the Associated Press.

BEACH HAVEN, N. J., March 5.—A leather suitcase was washed ashore here today containing clothing of an army officer marked with the initials "W. J. H." and the name "Harris." The suitcase is thought to have belonged to Lieut. Willard J. Harris, army aviator, who disappeared in a dense fog flying from Mitchel Field, Long Island, to Langley Field, Va., Feb. 18.

The plane which Lieut Harris was piloting was found the following day near Forked River, N. J.

Lieut. William Gray was lost with Harris.

Officials at Mitchel and Langley Fields have been notified.

CHARGES DECEIT IN ESTIMATES OF STATE REVENUES

President Pro Tem of Senate Analyzes Situation and Concludes Present Sources Are Sufficient.

GOVERNOR'S TAX BODY ASSAILED

Figures Misrepresent the Natural Increases That May Be Expected Under Levies Now, He Says.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 5.—Senator Cave of Callaway County, President Pro-Tem of the Senate, charges Gov. Baker's State Tax Commission with trying to honeyfogle the Legislature. The commission's estimate of State receipts is responsible for the accusation.

The Senator contends that if the commission would revise its estimate of receipts to correspond with the natural increase shown by previous years, there would be little substance to the Governor's analysis of State needs for more money. "They are trying to honeyfogle us," the Senator said today. "The Tax Commission has presented an estimate of the amount of money the State will receive, and an estimate of the needs, and the Governor has demanded that the Legislature pass an act to tax tobacco and amusements admission 10 per cent.

"An examination of the experience of the State in financial matters must convince anyone that the Tax Commission has taken an impossible basis for its calculations; and that the facts will not support its figures. They bolstered up the Governor's demand for more revenue, but they did not supply the Legislature with an unbiased statement for its guidance.

The Actual Conditions.

"Boiled down to actual conditions the general revenue fund of the State should have for the 1927-1928 biennial period more than $28,000,000 which would be more money for the school system of the State than it ever has had, and with that deducted, would provide more revenue for the general expenses of the State than ever has been expended.

"The Tax Commission in 1924 estimated that the total receipts into the general revenue fund for 1925-26 would be $20,982,000. The actual receipts for the period were $23,500,703 or $2,518,703 more than the estimate.

"For that biennial period the estimate was lower than the actual receipts for the 1923-24 biennial period, which were $21,936,000.

"Experience has shown that, taking into consideration changes in tax rates, the normal increase of the general revenues is approximately $1,500,000 for each biennial period over the preceding one.

Increased Taxes Not Justified.

"There have been no changes in tax rates for the coming biennial period, and there is no justification whatever for not figuring that normal increase, that alone would give us $25,000,000 but we will go above that. There is in the treasury now a surplus of $1,400,000 which increases the fund available for the two years to $26,400,000, but that is not all. The Legislature is going to provide the State Auditor with two additional employes to hunt down evaders of the income tax law. He says that will add another $1,000,000, which would bring the available amount up to $27,400,000. But even that is not all. The increase over the last biennial period should be even more than the natural increase, because in figuring the increase for 1925-26 over 1923-24 there was counted a higher tax rate for the earlier period.

"In other words, in 1923 the State tax rate was 7 cents on the $100 valuation, while since that time it has been only 5 cents, and the 1925-26 increase was not as great as it would have been if the 5-cent rate had prevailed for both 1923 and 1924. This will mean a difference of about $800,000 which we are entitled to figure will be added to the normal increase this year, bringing the total amount up to $28,200,000.

Possible Source of Revenue.

"But even that is not all. There is pending in the Legislature, with the probability that it will pass a measure to require every person, firm or corporation which pays out to any person more than $1000 in one year, to report the payments to the State Auditor, the information to be used in checking up income tax evasions. The amount that would add to the receipts can-

4-MILE ROAD CUT THROUGH 12 FEET OF SNOW TO STEAMER

Cargo of Autos, Valued at $250,000, Salvaged From Stranded Lake Ship.

By the Associated Press.

CALUMET, Mich., March 5.—The cutting of a highway through four miles of forest and the use of a rotary plow to open a road through 12 feet of snow, have been necessary in the salvaging of a $250,000 cargo of automobiles, shipwrecked when the steamer City of Bangor was beached at Keweenaw Point in a Lake Superior storm last Nov. 30.

The automobiles, only slightly damaged, now are their way to a railroad for return to a Detroit factory. Sixty days were required to remove the machines from the stranded ship.

Cutting of the highway through the forest was necessary to reach a logging road which touched the shore of Lake Superior several miles from the point where the City of Bangor was beached.

The automobiles then were driven over the lake ice to the snow road which is being opened at the rate of a mile a day by the rotary plow.

DYING TRAPPER'S DOGS LOSE 100-MILE RACE TO BRING AID

Master Dead When Malamutes and Indian Arrive at Cabin in Alaskan Wastes.

By the Associated Press.

CIRCLE CITY, Alaska, March 5.—How two Malamute dogs made a losing race across the most uninhabited section of Northern Alaska to summon aid for their dying master was disclosed tonight.

The story was related by Ginnis Solomon, an Indian, who lives on the virtually unexplored Black River, 100 miles Northeast of Circle City. The two dogs of Roy Felter, a trapper, arrived at Solomon's lonely cabin early Monday morning. Their feet were cut and bleeding from the long race over the jagged ice and snow. Each bore a note from Felter. The notes, wet and faded, could not be read, but Solomon started out for Felter's camp, feeling that the trapper was ill and needed assistance.

The stricken man was dead when Solomon arrived. Signs in the snow showed he had started out for assistance, but, overcome by weakness, returned to his cabin. Felter was 33 years old and a veteran of the World War.

LEGION WOULD EXPEL SENATOR

Reed of Pennsylvania Attacked For Calling Veterans "Loafers."

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—A resolution was offered today at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania American Legion recommending the expulsion from the Legion of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania. The resolution was not pressed on the ground that it was out of order.

The resolution was said to have been based on a reply made by Reed on the floor of the Senate on Feb. 21, during a discussion of Veteran's compensation. He was asked by Senator Robinson (Rep.) of Indiana if he thought 4200 veterans in the hospitals were loafers. Reed is quoted in the Congressional Record as saying, "I think that a good many of them are."

BRITISH PAVILION OF WORLD'S FAIR TO BE TORN DOWN

Used Until Recently by Fine Arts School, Now in New Building on Washington U. Campus.

PART OF THE OLD INTERIOR SAVED

Ceilings and Woodwork of Elizabethan and Georgian Rooms Removed to School's New Quarters.

Abandoned by the St. Louis School of Fine Arts a few months ago, the building on the Washington University campus which was the British pavilion during the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904 is about to be demolished.

Striking in architecture and notable in construction, it has outlived its usefulness and begun to look extremely shabby. Bids for its removal are being sought by the university, which thinks the price ought to be favorable because of valuable salvage.

The university was situated downtown before the exposition but owned its present campus. The present University Hall was the administration building of the fair. At what was to become the main entrance of the campus, on Skinker boulevard, north of Forsythe avenue, the British Government erected its pavilion for the fair in 1902.

Modeled After Hampton Court.

Hampton Court, one of the royal residences, built by Christopher Wren, a famous architect, was its prototype. It is in the style of the English renaissance. Red brick and simple trim of gray stone formed its high one-story walls. Thirteen lofty windows, divided into little, square panes, occupied its main, or eastern front, and looked across a piazza upon a formal garden. A colonnade on the north side sheltered the entrance and at the back there was a small courtyard, with the British coat of arms above its entrance.

The woodwork, the plaster cast ceilings, the hardware and the plumbing came from England. Three of the main rooms were finished in styles of three periods of English architectural history—the Elizabethan, the Georgian and the Adam.

Chief among the exhibits placed in the pavilion for the fair were articles which had belonged to the sovereigns, including jewels of Queen Victoria. For months in 1904 crowds surged through the building and the garden—men in stiff clothes and women in long skirts. Then for five years it stood vacant, while the university, which had bought the pavilion for a nominal sum, grew on the campus.

Art School Since 1909.

In 1909 the School of Fine Arts, affiliated with the university, moved to the pavilion from the old museum at Nineteenth and Locust streets. During the next 17 years, up to last June, nearly 8000 young men and women, who affected bedaubed smocks and squinted at models, pencil in hand, learned to draw and paint there. Sometimes on summer evenings student dances were held beneath gay lanterns on the piazza.

W. K. Bixby donated a new school, of stone, in English renaissance style, at the corner of Skinker road and Forsythe boulevard and to it the ceilings and woodwork of the Elizabethan and Georgian rooms were removed. The fittings of the Adam room could not be utilized.

Today, many of the trim little window panes of the pavilion are broken, the colonnade totters, the brick walls are stained by water, the formal garden is crumbling, but the lions rampant still hold a crown aloft on the courtyard coat of arms.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Copies of the Washington Post for Feb. 22 and 23, mailed to Mexico have been returned with the notation on the wrapper: "Entry refused by the Mexican Government." No explanation has been given.

In the Feb. 22 edition an editorial, "The Nicaraguan Revolution," stated that the Sacasa Liberals, supported by arms smuggled from Mexico, could not hope to make further headway against the Diaz Government. In the Feb. 23 issue was a cartoon, depicting President Calles standing on a prostrate American ranch owner in Mexico and shouting "Viva Senor Borah."

CROWD CAPTURES NEGRO TRYING TO KIDNAP GIRL, 5

Ferguson Citizens Hear Child's Screams and Rescue Her, Constable Taking Prisoner.

George White, 38 years old, Negro peddler, was captured by some 20 men who ran out after he picked up a small girl on a street in Ferguson, St. Louis County, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was taken into custody by Deputy Constable Harrigan and the crowd dispersed.

Doris, 5-year-old daughter of Harry P. McGrath, was playing in front of her home at 15 Compton avenue when the man picked her up and started to run toward a nearby creek. The child's screams attracted neighbors from every direction.

Harrigan reported that the crowd followed him to Justice of the Peace Chase's office, where a warrant was issued. White, who smelled of alcohol, was taken immediately to the Clayton jail. He insisted he did not intend to harm the child. His home, he said, was at Lexington, Mo.

GOLD BONANZA FOUND ON LAND PURCHASED UNDER JUDGMENT

Hundreds Brave Nevada Blizzard to Stake Claims After Rich Vein Is Located.

By the Associated Press.

TONOPAH, Nev., March 5.—Location of the region where four days ago, Frank Horton Jr., and James Traynor found gold ore that assayed $78,000 to the ton, was disclosed tonight to be within the acreage of the company operated by the Elder Horton. It was sold under judgment three months ago, with the right of redemption in six months.

Arthur H. Lawry, manager of the Goldfield Consolidated Mining Co., sampled the ground this morning but refused to make a statement. A forest of stakes rose during the early morning and a few who guessed at the location of the strike found themselves close in. Three hundred men and women braved the blizzard during the last few days to make their locations.

This afternoon the two boys were sacking the ore from a shallow shaft, and experts said it will average from $2000 to $3000 a sack.

WOMAN ENVOY MAY GO HOME

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—El Universal Grafico says Mme. Alexandra Kollantay, who recently took up her post in Mexico City as Russian soviet envoy, may leave Mexico because the attitude has affected her health.

The paper says she may apply to the soviet government for a transfer. The soviet legation, refusing to confirm the report, said it was true Mme. Kollantay has not been in good health since her arrival here, because of the altitude, but that she had no plans at present to leave Mexico.

Flyer Loses Engine, Lands Safely.

DALLAS, Tex., March 5.—When the engine dropped from his plane at an altitude of 2000 feet today, T. O. Hardin glided to a landing at Love Field. The plane suffered little damage and Hardin was unhurt. At the time of the mishap, the pilot was making some experiments in sky-writing, negotiating sharp banks at a high rate of speed. Excessive vibrations caused by a defective propellor probably loosened the engine from its supports, aviators said.

PERJURY CHARGED IN 2 INDICTMENTS IN GRANT FAILURE

J. M. Grant, Brother of Wagner-Grant-Bell Partner, and C. D. McQuoid, Ex-Salesman, Accused.

John M. Grant and Charles D. McQuoid have been indicted on perjury charges by the grand jury inquiring into the collapse of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Realty Co. Grant is under $5000 bond, having been indicted on two counts, and McQuoid has furnished $2500 bond, on one count.

Grant is a brother of Edward W. Grant, secretary-treasurer of Wagner-Grant-Bell, whose flight from the city on New Year's day revealed the condition of the firm. Edward W. Grant was indicted, after his return to the city, on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, and is under $50,000 bond. The investigation of his transactions, being directed by Andrew C. Maroney as special prosecutor, is expected to result in further indictments. John M. Grant lives at 6211 McPherson avenue, and is a buyer for the Chester Knitting Mills. McQuoid is a former salesman and clerk for Wagner-Grant-Bell, who has recently been working for another realty company. He lives at 7433 Cromwell avenue.

The indictments against J. M. Grant and McQuoid charge that they made false affidavits, Grand in two cases and McQuoid in one, for the release of deeds of trust which had not, in fact, been satisfied.

Both acted as assignees in what is known as cestui que trusts, in connection with the deeds in question. It is charged that J. M. Grant signed a false affidavit for release of two deeds of trust, of a face value of $4500 each, on property at 3134 and 3130 Magnolia avenue, the deeds having been sold to Edward H. Keiser, former Washington University professor. The deed for release of which McQuoid is alleged to have signed a false affidavit is or $15,000, and was on property at 6226 Northwood avenue. It was held by the Citizens' Loan Co. The release on Grant's affidavits were made Nov. 4 last, and the other Nov. 16.

DEMOCRATS SHY AT PROHIBITION AS PARTY ISSUE IN NEXT CAMPAIGN

Wets Haven't Made Much Headway — Caucus of Senators Sticks to Tariff and "Fundamentals."

HAWES ANSWERS BRUCE'S CRITICISM

Marylander Modifies His Remarks — Conference Indorses Reed's Expose of Corruption.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—That little, if any, fruit has been borne by the efforts of Senator Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland, a leader of the Congressional wets, to persuade the Democratic party to accept the wet cause as a national campaign issue was made evident today at a caucus of the Senate Democrats. No vote was taken on the subject, but the opinion was generally expressed that the party should wage the next campaign on "fundamental" lines, with special attention to the tariff and the evidences of Republican election corruption uncovered by the Reed campaign fund investigating committee. The caucus was in private.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, described the meeting as having been, "a protracted and amicable discussion of legislation," resulting in agreement "on fundamentals" to be stressed in the campaign. The caucus recognized, he said, that there were differences among Democrats on the prohibition question.

"Prohibition," he added, "is not a partisan question and cannot be made a party issue."

Hawes Replies to Bruce.

A slight break in the harmony of the meeting, it was learned, was occasioned by a speech in which Senator Hawes of Missouri paid polite but pointed respects to Bruce. Hawes objected to Bruce's recent sharp criticism of the Senate wets who refused to follow his (Bruce's) leadership in opposing cloture on the prohibition reorganization bill. Defending his vote for cloture, Hawes pointed out that when this bill came to a vote, only five Senators, by no means the full wet strength of the Senate, joined Bruce in opposition.

This is the bill which divorces the prohibition unit from the Internal Revenue Bureau and makes it a separate bureau of the Treasury Department. Reed of Missouri and Edge of New Jersey, a wet leader on the Republican side, were among the large majority who favored it.

Bruce, it was said, modified his criticism in his reply to Hawes, and from that time forward, by all accounts, the meeting was a "Democratic love feast."

Reed Investigation Praised.

The caucus praised Reed's work in the campaign fund inquiry and indorsed his refusal to yield to the filibuster against his resolution to prolong the life of his committee. The opinion was unanimous that this committee, notwithstanding the defeat of the resolution, had the power to proceed with its investigation of election frauds and should do so.

Nothing came of a threat on the part of two or three Southern Senators to introduce a resolution reading Cole Blease of South Carolina out of the party. Blease voted against his party several times during the session, and assisted the Republican old guard in the filibuster against the Reed resolution. The proposed ouster resolution, which possibly will be introduced by Senator Harrison of Mississippi or Senator Caraway of Arkansas when the caucus meets again next winter, would serve notice on Blease to apply to the Republicans for his committee assignments.

Neither Blease nor Heflin of Alabama, another disturbing element in the party, attended the caucus.

Robinson Re-elected Chairman.

Robinson was re-elected chairman of the caucus, a position which carries with it the floor leadership of the party in the Senate. Senator Walsh of Montana was re-elected vice chairman, and Senator Gerry of Rhode Island, whip. Senator Black, the incoming Senator from Alabama, successor to Oscar Underwood, was elected secretary.

Pittman of Nevada was chosen as the party candidate for president pro tem of the Senate. Others

BLAMES MEDDLING BY M'GREGOR FOR MUDDLE IN PRISON

J. I. Burnett, Expert, Says Industrial Department Profits Were "Thrown Away in Front Office."

SPECIAL TERMS GIVEN TO D. M. OBERMAN

Senate Committee Learns He Had 45 Days to Pay Bills Instead of 30 Allowed Other Debtors.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 5.—Under the meddlesome methods and muddled management of the Penal Board in the last two years, even an experienced industrial expert was faced with almost insuperable difficulties in the operation of the factories of the State penitentiary, it appeared today from testimony given the senatorial prison investigating committee by John I. Burnett, former member of the board.

Burnett was drawn from the forces of D. M. Oberman of Jefferson City, the largest single purchaser of convict-made supplies from the prison. He is an acknowledge expert in factory methods, and in the management of prison contracts, but he confessed today somewhat reluctantly that he had finally left the employ of the penitentiary because "life was too short to make money in the industrial department, and have it thrown away in the front office."

He was inclined to attribute most of the trouble with the administration, not so much to Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, head of the board, whose conduct is under fire in the investigation, as to William B. McGregor, commissioner of farms and outside industries, whose official actions are also directly under the committee's scrutiny.

The Incident of the Shirts.

He cited, as an example of McGregor's alleged meddlesome tactics, a meeting on the lawn at Oberman's home on May 23, 1925, at which Burnett offered to make some shirts in the prison factory for $2.30 a dozen and Oberman was unwilling to pay more than $2.10.

While Burnett would not say so directly, it appeared from the circumstances that McGregor and possibly Enloe did not back up Burnett's figures, but did urge an agreement of some sort.

Finally Oberman walked into the house with the remark, "I guess you gentlemen can't agree among yourselves." Burnett was inclined to blame the disagreement on McGregor and frankly admitted that he was "thoroughly disgusted" with the farm superintendent's espousal of Oberman's prices, which Burnett regarded as losing rates for the penitentiary.

Later, Burnett said, he went to Gov. Baker and told him he could not operate the factory under the prevailing conditions, that he was not boss of his own department. He said Baker told him to go back and run the factories according to his own judgment, and to disregard the advice of others.

The former board member, although a Democrat, could not be induced to say directly that Enloe, a Republican, interfered with his work or that he regarded Enloe as inefficient, but when asked point-blank by Senator Wammack "What qualities did Enloe have to fit him for the managing directorship of a penitentiary?" he answered "I don't know." He did admit, however, that perhaps the poor management of the prison, which led to the expenditures of $608,000 in excess of its appropriation in 1925-1926, might have been improved if Enloe had consulted the board members more frequently.

The first confirmation of the wide-spread rumor that Oberman, a Colonel on Gov. Baker's staff, and a friend of the executive, had received preferential credit terms from the State prison as compared with other buyers of convict-made textile products, was given.

Special Favors for Oberman.

Oberman had said on the witness stand that he had 45 days to pay his bills to the penitentiary, which approximated $2,000,000 in the past two years. He declared so far as he knew other creditors of the prison got the same terms but Karl Autenrieth, credit manager of the prison factory, testified that most of the other purchasers had only 30 days in which to pay.

As has been told, Oberman is a fellow stockholder in a mining company with Gov. Baker and Dr. Enloe. He had not been engaged extensively in purchasing from the penitentiary for several years prior to the Enloe administration, but 1925, his purchases approximated $600,000 and last year about $1,400,000. However, he was a principal buyer of penitentiary goods during the Gardner administration.

Richard A. Pohlman, formerly a $5000-a-year employe of Oberman, is now superintendent of the prison factory at only $3600 a year, he told the board. He declared he had expected to have his salary raised to $5000 after he entered the prison employ, but declared his principal reason for working for the State was that he had become "run down" while working for Oberman. Many other former Oberman employes are working in the prison industrial department.

Another witness, J. Harold Tucker, an accountant, went over with the committee the figures which showed the penitentiary ran $608,000 over its appropriation during the Enloe administration his figured showed, too, that the monthly payroll was $7000 higher in 1926 than in 1925, but added that part of that increase at least, was due to the greater amount of outside work, and the necessity for more guards during the last year.

CONGRESS PASSED ONLY 998 OF 25,000 BILLS INTRODUCED

18,312 of Measures Were Presented in the House—200 New Laws National in Scope.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The record of the Sixty-ninth Congress discloses that out of an avalanche of nearly 25,000 bills and resolutions only 998 succeeded in overcoming the legislative barriers finally to become laws.

In the number added to the statute books are hundreds of a purely private character and several hundred more pertaining to local or sectional needs, so that the number of new laws affecting the nation as a whole is probably not in excess of 200.

Members of the House far outstripped their less numerous colleagues in the Senate in the bill-introducing melee. During the two sessions of the Sixty-ninth, House members offered 18,312 bills and resolutions, while the number in the Senate was 6417.

Of this number President Coolidge signed 523 during the first session and 475 in the session which terminated yesterday, affixing his signature to 229 within the 24 hours before the gavels fell.

During the two sessions, also, House committees made 2319 written reports and Senate committees 1717. President Coolidge sent an even 100 special messages to the Senate, including his annual messages, one explaining the Nicaraguan situation and another outlining plans for another naval arms conference. Heads of various departments filed 1055 reports with Congress.

SOVIET HOLDS FILM OFFICERS

MOSCOW, March 5.—Sixteen high officers of the Soviet State Cinema Syndicate were arrested and held for trial today for "criminal neglect and extravagance" in the production of films last year. They are charged with having caused the State the loss of nearly $100,000 through unnecessary traveling, inadequate preparation for the films, extravagant living and other irregularities.

One of their pictures, costing $58,000, was a total loss. In another film intended to feature the shooting by Czarist Cossacks of several hundred workers in the gold field of Siberia, the promoters are charged with neglecting to take with them from Moscow soldiers' uniforms of the pre-revolutionary period, resulting in the ultimate abandonment of the film at a loss of $35,000. The director of this expedition was further charged with offering to take two actresses to Siberia provided they became his wives.

Linotype Machine Gets War Tablet

AN interesting decoration for service rendered to the cause during the World War was made the other day at Washington, D. C. The Linotype machine in the Government printing office, that typed Gen. Pershing's commands to the American Army, has been decorated with a tablet reading as follows: "In honor of a linotype that served its country on the battlefields of France. There upon a throbbing motor truck, mid shot and shell this machine typed Gen. Pershing's commands to America's victorious army." Photo shows the machine with its tablet of honor.

LEAVENWORTH WARDEN CHOSEN FOR EFFICIENCY

Thomas B. White, Named Prison Head, Served Governor for 16 Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Thomas B. White today was appointed Warden of the Leavenworth Federal prison, effective Monday. He has been Acting Warden for some time and formerly was attached in an executive capacity to the Atlanta prison.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The appointment of Thomas B. White as warden of the Leavenworth Federal prison is a case like that of the St. Louis postmastership, in which experience and efficiency in the Government service were recognized, as against the political claims of outside aspirants.

White has been acting warden at Leavenworth since the resignation of Warden W. I. Biddle last November. As a prison official he has been known as just and fair toward prisoners and capable in management.

But the work which has commended him chiefly to Government officials is that which he did in 16 years' service as a Department of Justice agent with headquarters in Oklahoma City.

His work in connection with prohibition enforcement gained the favorable attention of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General, in charge of prohibition matters. She and other officials of the department supported him for promotion to the temporary positions at Atlanta and Leavenworth, arising from the removal of Warden Sartain, later convicted of taking bribes, and the withdrawal of Warden Biddle. To obtain the permanent appointment at Leavenworth for White was more difficult, for strong political influences blocked other candidates.

White is 44 years old, and was a Texas ranger in his early days. A notable feature of his work in Oklahoma was in the Osage murder conspiracy, in which the deaths of a number of Indians were traced to a plot of white men to obtain oil lands of their victims.

BIG THREE BLOCKS MOVE TO PUT END TO "LAME DUCKS"

ed. They are called "lame ducks." This is the session which must end March 4.

Under the Norris amendment, Congress would convene in January, at which time the President, Vice President, Senators and Representatives elected in the preceding November would take their seats. There would be two long sessions, the second of which would begin the following January, early enough to insure ample time for the consideration of all measures, and early enough to make filibusters impossible.

Feeding the "Lame Ducks."

The objection to the "lame ducks" aside from the obvious objection to allowing a man to legislate after he has been repdiated by his constituents, is that it allows the President to exercise an undue influence over his vote by promising him a Federal appointment. The use of this power is admitted and notorious. The most conspicuous example of it occurred in the short session following the 1922 election. Seventy-one Representatives, who had been defeated sat in this session, and their votes enabled President Harding to put a ship subsidy bill through the House, where it passed by a majority of only 24 votes. It was filibustered to death in the Senate.

Two outstanding cases of "lame ducks" in that session were Senator Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota and Senator Harry New of Indiana. Both had been beaten. Both supported the administration of the ship subsidy bill. Shortly afterward Kellogg was appointed Ambassador to Great Britain, and New was appointed Postmaster-General. President Coolidge afterward promoted Kellogg to the office of Secretary of State.

The American Bar Association several times had indorsed the principle contained in the Norris amendment. On one occasion it formally stated that, in its opinion, the existence of such a provision in 1861 would have prevented the Civil War. Had it existed, Lincoln would have been inaugurated in January instead of March. The application of his conciliatory influence two months earlier, the association stated, probably would have prevented the secession of Virginia.

Remedy Worse Than the Evil.

In his statement yesterday, made apropos of the Congress just ended, Senator Norris said:

"The adjournment of Congress in helplessness and confusion is a shining illustration of the necessity of an amendment to the Constitution which will abolish the short session of Congress.

"Many persons, including the Vice President of the United States, are of the opinion that a filibuster in the Senate can be prevented by a change in its rules. The only change that would have this effect would be to permit the moving of the previous question, which automatically shuts off all debate and prevents even the offering of amendments.

"It is true that the Senate could adopt the rule, but if it did, the last vestige of deliberation would disappear and the country would be left without any forum for the consideration of public questions. The remedy would be much worse than the evil. The gag rule is one extreme and the filibuster is the other.

"The truth is that under existing rules no legislation favored by a substantial majority can be defeated by a filibuster, except during the short session of Congress. If we could abolish the short session, we would at once remove the threat of filibuster and avoid gag rule.

"But the prevention of a filibuster is not the only benefit that would come from the abolition of the short session. The control of Congress by political machine or by executive is made possible, during a short session of Congress, by the control of members of the House and of the Senate who have been defeated for re-election, commonly known as 'lame ducks.'

"Everyone knows that in the past some members of Congress, defeated for re-election, have, during the short session, been absolutely subservient to the wishes of the President, and have willingly obeyed the wishes and the commands of political bosses who are powerful in the distribution of Federal patronage.

"When such a condition arises in the Senate, there is only one way in which such a disgraceful use of Federal patronage can be prevented, and that is by resorting to the desperate remedy of a filibuster.

Handful Blocks Action.

"Three times the Senate has adopted a resolution for the submission of a constitutional amendment which would remedy this situation. In every instance the House was denied the right to vote upon it by fewer men than could be numbered on the fingers of one hand. A few political bosses and patronage dispensers kept it from coming to a vote."

Norris recalled how, in 1923, when both the Elections Committee and the Rules Committee of the House had voted to report a resolution, Representative Philip Campbell (Rep.) of Kansas, chairman of the Rules Committee, put it in his pocket and simply refused to report it. His hand could have been forced, but it happened that Speaker Gillett, who was ill, had designated Campbell to preside over the House, and every time a member attempted to raise the question on the floor, Campbell refused to recognize him.

The most ironical aspect of the entire episode was the fact that Campbell himself was a "lame duck," having been beaten in the previous election. Thus the movement to abolish "lame ducks" was thwarted by a "lame duck."

There is another possibility under the present practice, as Norris pointed out. The Constitution provides that when no candidate for President receives a majority of the vote in the Electoral College, the House elects a President. It would be possible, in such an event, for a President to be elected by a House which had just been repudiated at the polls. This possibility would be eliminated by the amendment.

The resolution for the submission of the amendment will be offered at the next Congress, and is certain again to pass the Senate. Its fate in the House, however, will still be at the mercy of the Republican leaders. Their ability to strangle it arises, in large part, from the existence of rules similar to those which Vice President Dawes desires the Senate to adopt.

Roll of the Filibusters.

Senator David I. Walsh (Dem.) of Massachusetts, denouncing on the last day of Congress the filibuster conducted to prevent the continuation of the investigation of election corruption in Illinois and Pennsylvania—a filibuster which resulted incidentally in the death of a dozen measures of great importance—uttered the following words:

"Let the roll be called. Let every honest newspaper in the land print the names of these 24 men who, in order to prevent an investigation of election frauds, have stopped all proceedings, denied three-fourths of this body its right to function, prevented the appropriation of money necessary to carry on the public business, destroyed the just hopes of those who have waited for eight years to have their war claims settled, blocked the loans on the soldiers' certificates and defeated the provision for the hospitalization of wounded veterans. Let the people know who they are—and let them bear the responsibility."

Walsh referred to the 24 Senators who had voted not to take up the resolution by Senator Reed of Missouri. However, not all of them participated actively in the filibuster. Those who did participate in, or contribute to the filibuster were:

Republicans—Reed of Pennsylvania, Moses of New Hampshire, Wadsworth of New York, Edge of New Jersey, Cameron of Arizona, Deneen of Illinois, Watson and Robinson of Indiana, Phipps of Colorado, Lenroot of Wisconsin, Stanfield of Oregon and Fess of Ohio.

Democrat—Blease of South Carolina.

In addition to the foregoing, the following Senators voted against taking up the Reed resolution, and were, to that extent, a part of the filibuster:

All Republicans—Ernst of Kentucky, Gould and Hale of Maine, Keyes of New Hampshire, McLean of Connecticut, Metcalf of Rhode Island, Norbeck of South Dakota, Oddie of Nevada, Pine of Oklahoma, Schall of Minnesota, Shortridge of California, Warren or Wyoming and Willis of Ohio.

"I want to congratulate this one-fourth," said Walsh, "for their nerve in daring to send this Congress into adjournment without enacting the legislation which the administration has promised the country, and without supplying the funds necessary to carry on its business. And I promise that the country will not forget them."

Mexico Denies American Note Objected to Course of Tellez.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—Complete denial that the recent note of the United States to Mexico protested against alleged propaganda activities of Ambassado. Tellez or Arturo Elias, Mexican Consul General in New York, and that it declared Ambassador Tellez was persona non grata, is made officially by the Mexican Foreign Office.

It was also denied yesterday that a break in the diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico was in prospect or was feared. Foreign Minister Saenz said these reports were not true.

The American Embassy continued silent as to the character of the note. Ambassador Tellez' visit to Mexico City is purely personal and is solely for the purpose of visiting his sick brother, the Foreign Office declared.

TEXANS ESCAPE AS ASSOCIATE IS KILLED IN MEXICO

R. B. Creager and Walter Dunn Leave Sugar Plant Just Before Fight Over Receivership Starts.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March. 5—Reticence of Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican Ambassador at Washington, who passed through San Antonio tonight en route to Mexico City, left the American-Mexican diplomatic situation still a mystery.

"I am not answering any questions," was the Ambassador's sharp reply when pressed to comment on the significance of his trip to Mexico. Asked it the mystery note sent to Mexico City by the State Department at Washington recently had any influence on his departure, the Mexican representative gyrated his hands and uttered an emphatic "no."

By the Associated Press.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 5.—Francisco J. Betanza, a Mexican engineer, who formerly resided in Brownsville, Tex., was killed here yesterday in a shooting affray which arose from a business quarrel. Two Texan associates of Betanza, R. B. Creager and Walter Dunn, had just left the sugar plant where the shooting occurred.

Betanza, with Creager and Dunn, was negotiating to take charge of La Gloria Sugar Central as receiver. The Federal authorities, knowing there would be opposition from former owners of the property, detailed soldiers to guard Betanza. Nevertheless, a group of former owners and their friends opened fire, which the soldiers returned. Betanza and several others were shot in the fighting.

Betanza held engineering posts under the administration of President Porfirio Diaz. He married a daughter of the Mexican General, Angel Garcia Pesa. He was a Mexican citizen. His son, Joe, is a high-school student in Brownsville.

The La Gloria sugar plantation was owned by a Mexican company.

Betanza took part in the construction of international bridges across the Rio Grande, at which time he became well acquainted with many Americans in Brownsville.

New York Throngs Welcome De Valera Back to America

Men and Women Break Through Police Lines to Bestow Kisses on the Irish Republican Leader.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, arrived today on the liner President Roosevelt and was wildly acclaimed by thousands. Many of his admirers, men and women, broke through police line to kiss him.

Coming to defend Irish Republican funds totaling $2,500,000 tied up in litigation, De Valera is making his first visit to the United States in six and one-half years. The enthusiastic welcome extended from the Battery to City Hall, where he was received by Mayor Walker.

The Mayor recalled a previous meeting with De Valera in Albany, when the Mayor was President pro tem. of the State Senate.

"Things have changed for both of us a little bit," Mayor Walker said. "I am proud that another native New Yorker has made his place in the sun. I am proud that another native New Yorker has made his place among the statesmen of the world. The whole world esteems men who have ideals and who are loyal and everlastingly true to them."

De Valera said in reply that he noted that the love for liberty had not been diminished in this country during his absence.

"I am glad to know that you understand our cause, and it is this understanding that will be a great aid to my people at home in helping them to achieve the goal they seek," he said. "You have the same love for liberty here and, no matter how things have changed, your warmth of reception and cordiality is still the same."

Agnes Casement Newman of Atlantic City, sister of the late Sir Roger Casement, was the first to greet De Valera when he left the tug that had brought him from the steamship pier in Hoboken. She presented him with a gold shamrock.

The Irish leader is to testify in the Irish Republic bond suit, to be heard before the State Supreme Court, March 9. The dispuated funds represent the unexpended balance of the first and second external loans of the Irish Republic raised by De Valera and associates from 1919 to 1921. The Free State seeks custody of the money. While in the United States he will visti Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago.

SEAPORT WRECKED BY MADAGASCAR STORM

Loss of Life Estimated As High As 500 in Devastation of Tamatave.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 5.—A terrific storm which swept the east coast of the island of Madagascar last Thursday caused loss of life which some estimates place as high as 500 and immense property damage.

Private wireless messages received at Cape Town, South Africa, by way of Mauritius place the dead at 500, while other reports simply say that there was "some loss of life."

The steamship General Duchesne sent wireless message to Lloyds by way of Mauritius saying that the cyclone had wrecked the town and harbor of Tamatave, the most important seaport of Madagascar, causing damage of $4,000,000. The message added that the steamers Catinat, Stanne and Amanda and the sailing vessels Elizabeth and Beriziky were a total loss. "Loss of life is expected," the message concluded.

A Reuter's dispatch from Cape Town indicated that the storm struck yesterday, instead of Thursday, and completely devastated Tamatave. Two steamers collided and were driven ashore.

STUDENT HELD AS BURGLAR DENIES HE STOLE WATCH

Henry Edward Threlkeld, Washington University Senior, Contradicts Former Roommate.

FATHER IS TRYING TO ARRANGE BOND

Youth Also Disputes Oak Park (Ill.) Man's Statement That He Told of Oil Station Robberies.

Waiting in his cell at Central District police headquarters, while his father, a Brandsville (Mo.) farmer, sought to arrange for his $10,000 bond on a burglary warrant, Henry Edward Threlkeld, 23-year-old Washington University senior, yesterday was confronted with a new charge, that he had appropriated the watch of a former roommate who suspected him of being a filling station robber.

The watch, found in Threlkeld's room at the Psi Delta fraternity house, 5898 Clemens avenue, had been traced to Cecil Claeworth, with whom Threlkeld shared a room on Cates avenue until a year ago. Claeworth, who is now married and living at Oak Park, Ill., said the watch disappeared while they were living together, but that he had never suspected his roommate.

Claeworth added that Threlkeld was working nights at an oil station, and that oil station was robbed several times.

Says He Bought Watch.

Threlkeld vehemently denied his former roommate's charges. Claeworth, he declared, sold him the watch for $10. He paid $7 on installments, but could not recall, he said, whether he ever paid the balance. Perhaps, he suggested, Claeworth was "sore" because he had forgotten to pay the balance.

He had worked in a filling station at High and Gay streets nights, for a period he roomed with Claeworth. But, he insisted, the station was never robbed while he worked there and he had never told Claeworth that it was. Claeworth worked in another station, he added, and came home one night relating, "They tried to stick us up tonight, but we turned out the lights and fooled them." That was the only time they mentioned robberies, he declared.

Threlkeld was caught early Friday morning in the basement of a home at 3935 De Tenty street, with a screwdriver, a wrench and a vial of chloroform in his pockets, crouching under a stairway. He has persisted in a lapse of memory plea, maintaining he can remember nothing after midnight Thursday until after he was captured.

His father came to St. Louis Friday night, boarding a train 10 minutes after learning by telephone of his son's predicament. After talking to his son yesterday, the elder Threlkeld related that he had been told the same story.

Will Stand by Him.

"Do you believe him?" he was asked. "Well," he replied, "all his life Eddie would come to me with his troubles, and he has always told me the truth. I told him I would stand by him, regardless of what he had done, and he swore every word he said was true. He has always been a truthful, hard-working boy, and I believe him."

The father is seeking a bondsman who will not charge him as much as $125 for a bond, pending the preliminary hearing which is the best offer he has had so far.

The student declared he wanted to go back to his studies, but Chancellor Hadley said yesterday that would depend largely upon the decision of the university's Committee on Discipline. Several schoolmates and fraternity brothers, including a young attorney who formerly was a schoolmate, have called on the prisoner, offering to assist him insofar as they are able.

FEDERAL AGENTS ARREST FOUR MEN AND WOMEN AT O'FALLON

Six Places Closed, Two Others "Dry" When Officers Arrive for Raids.

Eleven Federal prohibition agents from the East St. Louis office, under Deputy Administrator Madden of Springfield, drove to O'Fallon, 19 miles from East St. Louis, last night, with search warrants for 12 saloons, pool rooms and residences. Six of the places had been closed, small quantities of beer and whisky were found in four and two of the places were open, but "dry." The warrants were based on affidavits by "undercover" agents.

Four men and a woman were arrested and taken to the East St. Louis jail to appear before the United States Commissioner. They are Guy Harris, Fred J. Mensing, Ivan Harris, Henry Scheibel and Miss Essie Duncan.

Threlkeld was caught early Friday morning in the basement of a home at 3935 De Tonty street, with a screwdriver, a wrench and a vial of chloroform in his pockets, crouching under a stairway. He persisted in a lapse of memory plea, maintaining he can remember nothing after midnight Thursday until after he was captured.

His father came to St. Louis Friday night, boarding a train 10 minutes after learning by telephone of his son's predicament. After talking to his son yesterday, the elder Threlkeld related that he had been told the same story.

Will Stand by Him.

"Do you believe him?" he was asked. "Well," he replied, "all his life Eddie would come to me with his troubles, and he has always told me the truth. I told him I would stand by him, regardless of what he had done, and he swore every word he said was true. He has always been a truthful, hard-working boy, and I believe him."

The father is seeking a bondsman who will not charge him as much as $125 for a bond, pending the preliminary hearing which is the best offer he has had so far. The student declared he wanted to go back to his studies, but Chandler Hadley said yesterday that he would depend largely upon the decision of the university's Committee on Discipline. Several schools, fraternities and fraternity brothers, including a young attorney who formerly was a schoolmate, have called on the prisoner, offering to assist him insofar as they are able.

FEDERAL AGENTS ARREST FOUR MEN AND WOMEN AT O'FALLON

Places Closed. Two Others "Dry" When Officers Arrive for Raids.

Eleven Federal prohibition agents from the East St. Louis office, under Deputy Administrator Holden of Springfield, drove to O'Fallon, 19 miles from East St. Louis, last night, with search warrants for 12 saloons, pool rooms and residences. Six of the places had been closed, small quantities of beer and whisky were found in two, and two of the places were open, but "dry." The warrants were based on affidavits by "undercover" agents.

Four men and a woman were arrested and taken to the East St. Louis jail to appear before the United States Commissioner. They were Guy Harris, Fred J. Mensing, Jim Harris, Henry Scheibel and Essie Duncan.

CITY HOLDS UP $49,620 DUE ON LIGHT CONTRACT

Comptroller Claims Error of 190,000 Feet in Amount of Cable Used.

Payment of $49,626.44 on the city's electric street light installation contract with A. M. Ryckoff of Chicago has been withheld by City Comptroller Nolte's office because of a difference of 190,000 feet between the contractor's figures and those of the Comptroller as to the footage of wire cable used in the job.

The city yesterday paid Ryckoff $190,000, making the total of payments to him thus far $1,825,-800.81. His total claim is $1,875,-427.25, for the first completed section of the work, covering about 8000 light standards. This includes payment for a total of 2,515,597 feet of cable. The Director of Public Utilities has approved the entire claim. A check-up made by Arthur C. Meyers of the Comptroller's office, and by the Bureau of Municipal Research, an outside unofficial body, shows 190,000 feet less cable. As the highest price for cable is 17 cents a foot, this difference would amount to not more than $32,300, but the holding out of nearly $50,000, pending a further investigation, was agreed upon at the time of yesterday's payment. The next move toward settlement has not been indicated.

Heath Backs Contractor.

George B. Heath, superintendent of lighting construction in the Department of Public Utilities, said yesterday that, since he had been in charge of the installation work, all cable had been measured with tape by the inspection force, and that he is confident of the correctness of the figures for that time. For the first two or three months of the work, he said, before he took charge, he had not found records of a systematic check-up, but he had checked up Ryckoff's invoices of cable ordered and delivered on the job, and these invoices, he said, agreed with the figures in Ryckoff's present claim.

Basis of Claim Not Explained.

The Comptroller's office and the Bureau of Municipal Research have not made known the basis for their conclusion that the amount of cable furnished is 190,000 feet less than that claimed by Ryckoff and approved by the utilities department.

As has been told, the lighting installation is costing about 38 per cent more than was indicated by the advance estimates, and there is doubt whether the $8,000,000 bond issue item will suffice for the completed new lighting system. The work was begun under the supervision of Director of Utilities Wall and the immediate direction of Ralf Toensfeldt as superintendent of lighting. Wall was ousted by Mayor Miller last May, and Toensfeldt resigned, Pritchard becoming director and Heath superintendent.

ST. LOUIS FEDERAL BUILDING DELAYED BY FILIBUSTER

Hope for Immediate Start on Adequate Structure Ended When Bill Died.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The failure of the $125,000,000 public buildings bill to break through the filibuster in the Senate ends whatever hope may have been entertained of getting an immediate start on an adequate Federal building for St. Louis.

Though the bill carried on special authorization for the St. Louis project, Congressman L. C. Dyer of St. Louis had hoped the Treasury would draw upon the general fund for enough money to give St. Louis, with the $1,600,000 already available, a building to cost about $3,-500,000. The failure of the bill, Dyer said tonight, would mean delay in beginning construction.

In the opinion of Congressman Cochran of St. Louis, there is no chance for a building such as St. Louis desires without a special act of Congress increasing the present specific authorization of $1,600,-000. Had the omnibus buildings bill been allowed to come to a vote in the Senate, Cochran said, Senator Reed would have introduced an amendment providing for the increase. Cochran said the authorization, hitherto held up by the budget bureau, could be passed through the next Congress. Meantime, in his opinion, no start could be made on the building.

selected to be put forward at the opening session of the new Congress were Edwin A. Halsey of Virginia, for secretary of the Senate, and Charles S. Hartman of Great Falls, Mont., for sergeant-at-arms.

Robinson was authorized to appoint a steering committee of 10 members and a committee of three on patronage.

All the new Democratic Senators were at the conference. They are Black of Alabama, Hayden of Arizona, Barkley of Kentucky, Thomas of Oklahoma, Tydings of Maryland and Wagner of New York. All except Black displace defeated Republicans.

Reed Will Continue Pennsylvania Work

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Senator Reed of Missouri, chairman of the special campaign fund investigating committee, and his colleagues, have decided to proceed, under the Robinson resolution, with the seizure of additional ballot boxes used in the senatorial election in Pennsylvania last November. Whether its work will be extended beyond the mere "taking and preserving" of evidence, as authorized by the Robinson resolution, probably will be determined at the meeting tentatively arranged for March 25.

Members of the committee are known, however, to hold the view that it can function under the original resolution creating it as well as under the Robinson resolution directing the seizing of the ballot boxes which was adopted after formal notice had been filed with the Senate of a contest by William B. Wilson, Democrat, who was defeated in the senatorial contest by William S. Vare.

The effort to take possession of the ballot boxes in Luzerne, Delaware, Lackawanna and Schuylkill counties may result in the question of the committee's authority being thrown into the courts.

Two Committees in Field.

The contest brought by Wilson was filed with the regular Elections Committee by the Senate just before adjournment yesterday and in its inquiry that committee unquestionably will seek to obtain the ballots since Wilson alleges he was not credited with many votes cast for him.

Senator David A. Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, who led the long and successful filibuster against continuing the life of the Missouri Reed's committee, said this fact naturally would be known by the officers having custody of the county ballot boxes and they might well decline to deliver them to the Reed committee.

Pennsylvanian Doubts Power.

The Pennsylvanian reiterated his doubt of the authority of the Reed committee to open the more than 8000 ballot boxes, already brought here from Philadelphia and Pittsburg, calling attention that the Senate merely gave the committee authority to "preserve" the ballots.

Subpenas for use by the Senate Sergeant-at-Arms in making demand for the ballot boxes probably will be issued next week.

It was suggested today that the Reed committee might not be able to obtain funds for its work. While it has a large unexpended balance to its credit, its vouchers must be countersigned by the chairman of the Audit Committee, of which Senator Keyes (Rep.) of New Hampshire, is chairman. Should Keyes withhold approval funds could not be obtained for traveling or other expenses.

STILL AFTER SUNDAY GOLFERS

South Carolina Governor Will Use State Constables.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 5.—Gov. Richards announced tonight he would send State constables to Aiken to arrest any golfers who attempt to play on any links in that city tomorrow.

The Governor, who for the last two Sundays has been attempting to have South Carolina's century old blue laws enforced, made his announcement after he had been informed that Circuit Judge Hayne F. Rice at Aiken had granted a temporary injunction restraining State constables and Sheriffs from interfering with the playing of golf on the links of the Palmetto and Highland aPrk Golf Clubs there.

As Frederick W. Sherrod, a collector for the Washington Fidelity Insurance Co., left a flat at 1326A Carr street, where he had made a $3 collection, at 7:10 o'clock last night, he was halted by an armed Negro, who robbed him of $20 and fired one shot, the bullet grazing his forehead. The robber escaped.

Sherrod is 39 years old and lives at 3940 Delmar boulevard.

L. C. PROBERT RESIGNS POST WITH THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Superintendent of Washington Bureau to Devote Himself to Personal Interests.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The resignation of L. C. Probert, superintendent of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press, was announced here today by Kent Cooper, general manager. Probert had been 22 years with the organization—18 of them in Washington and 10 as chief of the Washington staff. He intends to devote himself for the present, Cooper said, to personal interests.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—L. C. Probert said tonight that his resignation as superintendent of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press has no connection whatever with what has become known as the "Olds incident." This incident, as will be recalled, began with the charge by the Post-Dispatch that Assistant Secretary of State Olds "inspired" an Associated Press dispatch from Washington telling of a "Mexican-fostered bolshevist hegemony" in Latin-America.

Probert said that his decision to resign was directly traceable to the fire of last December which destroyed the dwelling house on his 300-acre farm in Maryland. Finding "absentee ownership" unsatisfactory, he had decided, he said, to give his whole attention to the rehabilitation of his farm.

$500,000 MILL CREEK SEWER AUXILIARY DRAIN COMPLETED

The Camp Spring sewer, or auxiliary for the Mill Creek sewer, under twenty-first and Twenty-second streets from Biddle street to a connection with the Mill Creek main, which is expected to prevent the future flooding of the Union Station baggage subway, has been completed and put into use. The contract cost was $513,415, of which $25,000 was for inlets.

From Franklin avenue to Adams street, the contractors had to tunnel through limestone. This portion of the work cost nearly $325,-000.

Contracts for the western relief sewer of the Mill Creek system are to be let soon. This sewer will serve the district between Vandeventer and Taylor avenues, Duncan avenue and North Market street. The cost will approximate $1,000,000. Both this and the Camp Spring sewers are paid for from bond issue funds.

61 ARE INDICTED FOR $1,000,000 LIQUOR SHIP

Bail for Men Accused in Seizure of Boat Aggregates $1,200,000.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5. — The Federal grand jury, in extraordinary session, brought the Federalship liquor running case to a climax today by indicting all the members of the Federalship crew, three supposed directors of the Consolidated Exporters, Ltd., of Canada, and a number of others on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act and related laws and treaties. The jury, whose summoning had been opposed in court as illegal was out only a few minutes and its quick action came as a surprise.

The Federalship was seized on the open sea, 300 miles off San Francisco, and brought to this city Thursday as a prize by two coast guard patrol boats. Its seizure has occasioned international questions regarding registry and treaty rights.

Sixty-one defendants, alleged to be concerned with half a score of liquor smuggling conspiracies on the coast, are named in the indictments. Their bail aggregates more than $1,200,000. The indictment gave impetus to one of the greatest liquor smuggling cleanups in the history of the century.

The Canadians indicted are Russell Whitelaw, George Norgan and A. L. McClennon, named as directors of Consolidated Exporters; R. R. Anderson, attorney representing the exporters, and W. J. Murdoch, attorney representing the Federal Shipping Company, Ltd.

Others indicted are Joseph Ferris, J. W. Nard, John Murphy, said to be the local agent of the Consolidated Exporters; R. R. Belanger, Jack Miller, Arthur Lily, Jack Zuckor, Paul Gatto, William Emmons, Mel Smith, Johnny Moreno, Charles McKinnon, Albert Young, Henry Radigan, Ray Miller, Phil Brottman and Nathan Bell, all of San Francisco. A number of these men are under previous indictments and some are fugitives from justice.

Captain S. S. Stone, of the Federalship, and every member of his crew were indicted despite their contention that they were committing no illgal act when taken in charge by the coast guard craft Federalship is riding at anchor under heavy guard here with a cargo of liquor aboard valued at more than $1,000,000.

State Department Discloses Operations of Liquor Ship.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—A lengthy recital of "facts" in the operations off the Pacific Coast of the Panama-chartered steamer Federalship, seized by prohibition enforcement authorities, was published tonight by the State Department. It was disclosed that Treasury agents had reported that no Panama citizen was aboard the ship when it was seized, that its registered owner was a Canadian corporation and that its Captain, Stewart S. Stone, "is understood to be a Canadian under indictment in the United States in connection with previous smuggling operations."

HOUSE PASSES ONE HOME RULE BILL, SIDETRACKS THREE

Approved Measure Gives St. Louis Authority Over Certain Miscellaneous Police Matters.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 5. — Passage of a series of three bills giving St. Louis a modified form of police home rule through discretionary power over some of the police department appropriations was temporarily blocked in the House this afternoon when opposition developed from some outstate legislators who feared the bill would terminate state control of the city's police department.

One of the bills, giving the city the power to determine the amounts to be appropriated for station houses, clerks, employes other than policemen, supplies and equipment was passed with 90 "ayes" and no "noes" before the opposition developed.

The other bills, giving the city discretionary power over other police appropriations, except salaries of policemen, and repealing the law making it a misdemeanor for any city officials to obstruct the granting of appropriation demands of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, were placed on the informal calendar by the author, Representative Horace G. Beedle, in the face of a growing storm of opposition.

Most of St. Louisans Absent.

Many of the members of the House had gone home for the week-end, including the majority of the St. Louis members, and a roll call might have resulted in defeat of the measures.

Beedle said the two bills would be called up from the informal calendar for another attempt at passage as soon as the full membership of the House is present.

One bill driven to the informal calendar would eliminate from the State law the mandatory provision that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Aldermen must approve, without question, whatever appropriations are certified as necessary by the Board of Police Commissioners. The bill requires that the city must appropriate the amounts necessary for pay of policemen, whose salaries and number are regulated by the State, but allows the city to fix the amounts to be appropriated for miscellaneous police purposes.

Program Hits a Snag.

The program struck a snag when Representative T. J. Roney of Jasper County, who admitted he did not clearly understand the bill opened an attack on it. His opposition apparently was in the belief he measure would give the city full control of the police. Other opposition developed and Beedle, after surveying the number of empty seats, retired the bills to the informal calendar, a haven for bills when attacked.

In defending the measures, Beedle pointed out that they did not affect the appointment of board members, policemen, or the powers of the Police Commissioners over law enforcement, and that they did not affect the appropriations for actual police salaries.

In defending the bills, Beedle pointed out that they did not affect the present State control over appointment of the Police Commissioners, law enforcement in St. Louis, or the number and pay of the policemen.

City Given Some Voice.

"The bills do give the city some voice in the expenditure of a part of the money it turns over to the police department" Beedle declared "such as the amounts spent for equipment, purchase of supplies and automobiles, including those assigned to use of the police commissioners. They would give the city some voice in the erection of the new police headquarters building, now estimated to cost $1,000,-000 or more. Under the present system, the board calls for whatever amount it pleases for such purpose and the city has to pay. If it does not pay, the city officials are subject to prosecution and disfranchisement."

The Beedle bills are intended as a sort of compromise with rural legislators who fear the principal cities are not capable of controlling or managing their own police department except to provide the appropriations for operation. Distribution of the police patronage, and department of policies remains in the hands of the Governor.

As originally introduced, the bills gave the city discretionary power over all the police appropriations, but weer amended to require appropriation of the amounts necessary to pay the salaries and number of policemen prescribed by the Legislature.

The Kansas City and St. Joseph police departments also under State control, are not affected by the Beedle bills.

GRAND JURY DROPS INQUIRY INTO LEGISLATIVE BRIBERY

Suggests That If House Has Any Evidence It Should Do Its Own Investigating.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 5.—No indictments resulted from the investigation of reports of bribery in connection with legislation in the House by the Cole County grand jury which went out of existence today. These reports did not mention the Senate. In its final report the grand jury made this statement:

"If the House has specific knowledge of such reports as those called to the attention of the grand jury, these reports should be given a searching investigation by the House itself, for the sake of purging its own membership, or for the correction of unjustified insinuations. The grand juries of Cole County in the past have conducted investigations similar to the one proposed in this House resolution and have expended thousands of dollars in these investigations, all of which have been entirely without results."

The grand jury forced the closing of three resorts in Jefferson City where liquor was alleged to have been sold, and gambling permitted, by calling in the owners of the property and threatening action against them. One of the places closed is directly across the street from the Supreme Court Building, and fronting the Capitol grounds. Nine indictments were returned charging local residents with operating and maintaining gambling rooms.

CHARGES DEFICIT IN ESTIMATES OF STATE REVENUES

not be estimated, but it probably would be enormous. Yet the Tax Commission's estimate of receipts for 1927-28 is only $21,880,000 or $1,620,703 less than actual receipts for the previous two years. In the face of the evidence of inaccuracies in estimates by the Tax Commission, I hardly think the Senate would be disposed to provide the Governor with the funds he has told us he needed for State expenditures.

"If it had not been that some of us looked beyond the totals of the figures presented to us, this 'honey-fogling business' of the administration might have fooled the Senate, but now they will have to come forward with something else."

The Senate next week probably will take up the Governor's nuisance tax bill. So far the Democratic majority has not attempted to bind its members by caucus action but it may be expected the caucus next week will have that as principal business.

REMARRIED, SHE FINDS FIRST HUSBAND ALIVE

Told He Had Died in War, Now Seeks Annulment of Second Wedding.

Suit for annulment was filed in Judge Taylor's division of Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Alma Pauline Franke against August Herman Franke, whom she married in Granite City, March 4, 1918.

They separated Feb. 18, last, when Mrs. Franke learned that a former husband, Henry C. Paul, was still alive. She had believed he was killed in the World War.

Her petition states that she married Paul in East St. Louis May 15, 1905, and lived with him until 1908, when he went to Germany to live. She says she received information of his death in September, 1917. She asks for the restoration of her former married name of Paul.

Her attorney refused to divulge her address.

Below is in a serious condition with three stab wounds in the neck, back and forehead. Mrs. Vonsky was stabbed in the right arm. Vonsky denied stabbing them, but admitted he had sought to injure a former boarder at the Vonsky home who showed attentions to Mrs. Vonsky at the party. The boarder escaped.

PENSION PAYMENT TO 500,000 HELD UP UNTIL JULY 1

Aged Men and Women Must Wait for Money Because G. O. P. Filibuster Killed Deficiency Bill.

VETERANS' BUREAU ABLE TO CARRY ON

Will Be Able to Make Loans on Bonus Certificates on April 1 From Available Funds.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Approximately 500,000 old men and women, entitled to pensions under present laws, will not receive the May and June payments until July 1 because the Senate did not pass the $93,000,000 second deficiency appropriations bill, Commissioner Winfield Scott of the Pension Bureau announced today.

The deficiency bill carried a $37,200,000 item to complete pension payments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927. This item was necessitated by the passage of two bills in the first session of the Sixty-ninth Congress authorizing increased pensions to Spanish War veterans and Civil War veterans and their widows. Since pension appropriations go into one general fund, the failure of the deficiency bill affects all pension beneficiaries.

The filibuster conducted by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania and Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, both administration Republicans, was responsible for the death of the bill.

Pensions to Be Paid July 1.

Commissioner Scott said that the May and June payments would be suspended until July 1, at which time the accrued pensions for the three months period would be paid.

Another item in the deficiency bill was $25,000,000 to enable the Veterans' Bureau to make loans to veterans on their bonus certificates. Notwithstanding the failure of this sum to materialize, Director Frank T. Hines announced that the bureau had made arrangements to authorize all regional offices to make the loans after April 1. The money will be obtained by using funds accruing from converted insurance payments. Hines stated that the bureau had approximately $3,000,000 monthly for investment purposes from these payments which heretofore has been invested in farm loan bonds.

Hines said that April 1 had been decided on as the first date for payment because special checks, blanks, forms and the like, had to be printed and distributed to the field stations of the bureau.

Hines emphasized that the bureau service was intended to supplement that of the banks, which have reported loans to veterans aggregating $27,000,000. He said that he hoped that only those veterans who had failed to negotiate with the banks would apply to the bureau as the latter's service was only intended to cover an emergency in veterans relief.

The bureau's loans to the veterans will be made at the same rate as that required of the banks, namely, two per cent above the Federal Reserve Bank rate. To facilitate identification, the bureau will accept the certification of the postmaster of the community in which the veteran lives.

The notes will be for one year and will be extended automatically if not paid at the date due, and unpaid interest will be automatically added to the principal.

The loan can be repaid at any time by payment of principal and accrued interest, and if the veteran desires, he may make installment payments of $5 or a multiple thereof.

Four Pension Bills Signed.

Five pension bills were passed by the Senate and the House in the session just ended and four of them were signed by the President. The President did not sign the Elliott-Norbeck bill providing an increase of $10 a month to widows of Civil War veterans now on the pension rolls and more than 75 years old. Approximately 158,000 widows would have benefited by the passage of this bill, which required an appropriation of $23,000,000.

The law governing widows' pensions was amended at the first session of the Sixty-ninth Congress to increase the payments to women who married soldiers during their war service.

Two omnibus bills passed Congress and were approved by the President. The first included 2000 persons for whom special bills were introduced in the Senate or House. This measure called for appropriations of about $500,000. The second omnibus bill authorized the payment of about $39,000 to 140 Indian war veterans or their widows.

A general Indian war pension bill, introduced by Representative Leatherwood of Utah, and approved by the President, provided that the present flat payments of $20 a month each to the veterans be increased to a maximum of $50 depending upon the age and disability of the veteran. This bill also increased the pensions of widows and dependents from $12 a month to $30. It called for an appropriation of at least $1,800,000.

Disabled Spanish-American War veterans were benefited by a bill passed early in the last session. This measure authorized the payment of $80 a month to a veteran who had lost an arm or a leg in the service, and $90 to a veteran totally disabled.

Senator Dale (Rep.) of Vermont sponsored a bill in the Senate to include members of the Civil War telegraph corps among those entitled to pensions. It passed the Senate in February and by mistake it was referred to the House Military Affairs Committee. Before the error could be rectified the Congress died.

The Veterans' Bureau was not materially affected by legislation passed in the last session. The loan bill, of course, passed, but the appropriation for it was lost. This made necessary the arrangement already described. The bill introduced by Representative Robert Luce (Rep.) of Massachusetts, authorizing the construction of 14 new hospitals at an approximate cost of $11,000,000 was favorably reported to the House, but no vote was taken.

Three Bills Failed.

Three bills introduced by Representative Royal C. Johnson, chairman of the House Veterans' Committee, failed. The first proposed slight amendments to the veterans' act, the second authorized the transfer of the Pension Bureau to the Veterans' Bureau, and the third provided for Veterans' Bureau supervision over the 14 national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers. Early in the session both houses passed, and the President approved, a bill to allow 200 tubercular veterans to remain at the hospitals at Saranac and Liberty, N. Y.

"More Inconvenient Than Injurious," Says Congressman Madden.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—After hasty inventories, various Government departments found today that their activities would not be impaired by failure of the Senate to pass the $93,000,000 second deficiency appropriation bill so seriously as had been feared.

Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee predicted the situation would be "more inconvenient than injurious." Madden added the failure of the bill might prove "a blessing in disguise," as many of the proposed expenditures were not urgent and others were merely to tide over activities until funds should become available at the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1.

Hope of administration of the $8,600,000 seed loan bill, however, was abandoned, and its author, Senator Norbeck (Rep.) of South Dakota, who said after a conference with President Coolidge and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine that he saw no way of obtaining funds to lend farmers in crop failure areas.

4 LIQUOR THIEVES TAKEN IN CHICAGO WAREHOUSE PLOT

William (Klondike) O'Donnell and Three Aids Captured After Pistol Fight With 50 Officers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Four members of the William (Klondike) O'Donnell gang of liquor runners, including O'Donnell himself, were held under bond of $50,000 each today. They were arrested after a pistol fight that ensued when they were found trying to loot the only pre-war whisky warehouse in Chicago. More than 50 city detectives and prohibition agents took part in the capture.

The prisoners are O'Donnell, James (Fur) Sammons, paroled convict; James Barry and James (English Jimmy) Driscoll, alias Davis. Driscoll has been wanted for a jewelry robbery several years ago. Sammons, whose real name is believed to be John Nolan, is wanted in Baltimore, Md., for a $47,000 payroll robbery.

Barrels Tapped by Hose Line.

The attempted whisky robbery was at the Morand Bros.' warehouse, in one room of which are stored 500 barrels and 86,000 cases of whisky, in bond there since 1914. Bungs had been taken from barrels and 500 feet of rubber hose led out a fifth-floor window across an adjoining roof and into another house rented by the gang. Eighteen barrels already had been pumped out. Officers watched the operation while eight barrels were being filled, then dashed in on the robbers. O'Donnell and Barry ran to the warehouse roof, where they stood off the officers with their pistols until their ammunition was exhausted. Then they surrendered.

The plot was disclosed when a Government gauger found a small pump in the warehouse two days ago. He notified Pat Roche and Clarence L. Converse, special intelligence agents, who previously had learned of an attempt to raid the place, and they set a watch Friday night.

Possibility of the men giving bond was considered remote, since in each case unincumbered estate of $100,000 would have to be scheduled. The men will have hearings March 15.

Five Suspects Arrested.

Five alleged members of the Joseph (Polack Joe) Saltis gang were arrested for questioning. They were found in the same saloon in which they recently barricaded themselves after they were chased by squads of detectives in automobiles. Those arrested included Frank (Lefty) Koncil, recently acquitted of murder; John (Dingbat) Oberta, defeated candidate for Alderman at the February primary election; George Hart, Frank Thompson and Edward Hyes.

3 ARMY GOOD WILL PLANES REUNITED AT MONTEVIDEO

Flyers Received by President of Uruguay; Next Stop to Be at Rio Grande du Sol.

By the Associated Press.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, March 5.—The United States Army Pan-American good will flight squadron is reunited. But there are only three planes, since the fatal crash at Buenos Aires a week ago, in which the New York and the Detroit were wrecked and Capt. Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieut. John W. Benton were killed.

The squadron was reunited by the arrival of the San Antonio from Buenos Aires late this afternoon, rejoining its sister ships, the San Francisco and the St. Louis. The San Antonio has been left behind at Tumaco, Colombia, when it developed engine trouble. It has followed the other planes down the Pacific Coast and across the continent, overtaking them here by omitting the detour to Ascunsion, Paraguay, which the other flyers left yesterday to fly here.

Maj. Dargue and his companions, accompanied by American Minister Grant Smith, were received today by President Juan Campisteguy of Uruguay and his Cabinet. The flight commander delivered to the President a letter of greeting from President Coolidge.

Arrival of the planes marked the end of an 1800-mile flight from Buenos Aires. From this city the flight will continue north along the coast of Brazil, the next stop to be at Rio Grande do Sul.

JUSTICE LIABLE FOR COSTS UNDER WRIT

City and County Magistrates to Appeal From Decision in Bank Garnishment Suit.

Justices of the Peace of St. Louis and St. Louis County, meeting yesterday at the court of Justice Elmer Moone, 7 North Sixth street, voted to take to the State Supreme Court a recent decision of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, which makes a Justice of the Peace liable for court costs in cases taken to the Court of Appeals for review on a writ of certiorari.

Ten of the 23 city and county Justices attended the meeting and five others concurred in the action through representatives. The decision of the Court of Appeals is regarded as adverse to all Missouri Justices of the Peace in that a Justice can be made a party to and assessed costs in a suit in which he has made a decision by virtue of his office.

Bank Wins on Writ.

The Court of Appeals decision resulted from a $500 garnishment judgment rendered by Justice of the Peace Henry Pfeffle, of the Second District, against the Shaw State Bank, 1501 South Grand boulevard, in July, 1924. The bank failed to appeal from the judgment within the 10-day period provided by statute, but subsequently brought certiorari proceedings against Justice Pfeffle, alleging that officers of the institution had not been notified of the judgment within the 10-day period.

A hearing on the writ of certiorari was held before Circuit Judge Pearcy, who ruled in favor of the bank and ordered the judgment quashed because of alleged technical errors by Justice Pfeffle and his Constable. Justice Pfeffle, who had become defendant under the certiorari proceedings, appealed to the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and Commissioner Walter E. Bennick, in a decision of Nov. 2, last, found in favor of the Justice. The decision held that the judgment of a Justice of the Peace could be reviewed only on a properly filed appeal, as provided by Section 2890 of the Revised Statutes, and not through certiorari proceedings.

Decision Reversed.

Attorneys for the bank filed a motion for a rehearing and Judge Bennick, in a second decision on Feb. 21, last, held that the certiorari proceedings were lawful. The ruling, based on decisions cited by Commissioner Bennick, made Justice Pfeffle, the losing party to the suit, liable for the costs accruing from the appeal, which have amounted to several hundred dollars.

Justice Pfeffle has filed a motion for a rehearing from Judge Bennick's decision. His attorney, John V. Lee, yesterday urged the assembled justices to assist in taking the rehearing to the Supreme Court for a decision. Lee stated that, under Commissioner Bennick's last decision, any judgment of a Justice of the Peace not decided by consent can be reviewed on certiorari proceedings with the possibility of the Justice being held responsible for the resultant costs. It was unanimously agreed that the proper proceedings in a disputed judgment was an appeal, as provided by statute, with the original parties to the suit alone involved.

Parole for Missourian Denied.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LANSING, Mich., March 5. — Gov. Green today denied a parole application and refused to commute the sentence of Harold Cobb of Missouri, who has served four years of a 10 to 20-year sentence for robbery in Detroit. A petition in Cobb's behalf was presented by Congressman Dickinson of Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

"One-fourth of our soil," the President said, "is better suited to timber growing than anything else. I cannot escape the conviction that our industrial and agricultural stability will be strengthened by bringing into full production this great empire of land."

COURT RESTORES NAME TO NEGRO ASSOCIATION

But Internal Dissension Has Wracked Redemption of Souls Spiritualist Society.

The Redemption of Souls Spiritualist Association of Missouri, which once boasted 500 members, mostly Negroes, and a church at 815 Beaumont street, has nothing now but its name. Internal dissension has drained the treasury and the membership rolls and, what is more, for a few months deprived the organization of its name.

The name was restored the other day through a court order, and the board of trustees are enthusiastically trying to reorganize the association. But Mordecai Yeiser, Negro barber, who refuses to be voted out of the presidency of the order, is not to be discouraged by a mere court ruling.

Appointed by Sister.

Yeiser claims a sort of divine right to the headship of the organization. In 1913 when the St. Louis branch was established, his sister, Mrs. Julia Johnson, who founded the association in Chicago, appointed Yeizer as president. He remained in power for 12 years in spite of wrangles with the board of trustees.

"He tried to run everything," complained Mrs. Nellie Nash Brooks, secretary of the organization. "If we elected officers, Mordecai Yeizer would come to the next meeting and elect his own. If we voted to do one thing, Yeizer would do another. He was the brother of our founder and we stood him as long as we could. Then in October, 1925, we voted him out as a general disturbance, but he wouldn't stay out."

Had Name Changed.

The officers of the dwindling organization, including its president, A. L. Bennett, thought Yeizer was out of the way until last October when a public notice appeared in the newspapers to the effect that the association's name had been changed to "The Divine Inspiration Association," and that the old order was defunct. It was signed by Yeizer.

The trustees were surprised. They learned that Yeizer had been to court, as president of the association, and deprived them of their name. They went to the same court and prevailed on Judge Calhoun to rescind the former order. The association was authorized to do business as usual.

"But," said Mrs. Brooks, "everything is gone. Our church is closed, our money is gone and our members have drifted away. It is Yeizer's fault. He tried to run everything. The dues were 10 cents a week. One-third of the money went to our founder, and Yeizer took care of that. We had a duly elected treasurer to handle the rest, but Yeizer took care of that, too."

Yeizer was found stropping a razor in the Chamber of Commerce barber shop. "I am still president," he announced. "My sister appointed me and they can't do anything about it. Without me there isn't any R. S. S. A. I changed the name to the "Divine Inspiration Spiritualist Association of Missouri,' and the court changed it back. But the Judge didn't say I wasn't president."

SUSPECT ADMITS HE WAS IN HOLDUP WHEN MAN WAS SHOT

Prisoner, One of Three Arrested With Revolver, Also Clears Up Other Robberies.

Charles "Blackie" Carnahan, 24 years old, of East St. Louis, admitted to St. Louis police yesterday that he and two other men, prisoners in the City Jail, participated in the holdup and shooting of Fred Garvey, 29, in his father's saloon at 1435 East Broadway, East St. Louis, Sept. 11. Garvey, who was wounded in the abdomen, recovered. The robbers got $25.

Detective Sergt. Wren announced that Carnahan also admitted three other holdups in East St. Louis and two in Dupo, and that he was planning a $2000 robbery in Collinsville, when police arrested him with two other men in an automobile at Seventh street and Chouteau avenue, Friday night, as they were inspecting a revolver.

Victims of recent holdups will view Carnahan and his companions today.

HONOR AMONG BOOTLEGGERS

Seven Convicted Refuse to Name Higher-Ups to Free Selves.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 5.—Seven convicted bootleggers, awaiting sentence here, failed today to take advantage of an offer by Circuit Court Judge Frank G. Wagaman, to grant them immunity if they would divulge the names of "higher-ups."

Judge Wagaman said "only small fry" were being caught and he was willing to let them slip through the net if by so doing he could obtain evidence against wholesale illicit liquor dealers. The convicted "small fry," however, held their peace.

Dry Agents Acquitted for Murder.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 5.—Four prohibition agents and their chauffeur were acquitted of charges of killing Lawrence Wenger, Harford County, Md., farmer, in 1924 by a jury in Federal Court tonight. The killing occurred in connection with a raid on a still. Worthington Hopkins, State's Attorney for Harford County, had asked for a verdict of murder. He charged that the agents ambushed and wantonly shot down their victim when he approached the still where they were hiding.

SUSPECT ADMITS HE WAS IN HOLDUP WHEN MAN WAS SHOT

Prisoner, One of Three Arrested With Revolver, Also Clears Up Other Robberies.

Charles "Blackie" Carnahan, 24 years old, of East St. Louis, admitted to St. Louis police yesterday that he and two other men, prisoners in the City Jail, participated in the holdup and shooting of Fred Garvey, 29, in his father's saloon at 1435 East Broadway, East St. Louis, Sept. 11. Garvey, who was wounded in the abdomen, recovered. The robbers got $25.

Detective Sergt. Wren announced that Carnahan also admitted three other holdups in East St. Louis and two in Dupo, and that he was planning a $2000 robbery in Collinsville, when police arrested him with two other men in an automobile at Seventh street and Chouteau avenue, Friday night, as they were inspecting a revolver.

Victims of recent holdups will view Carnahan and his companions today.

HONOR AMONG BOOTLEGGERS

Seven Convicted Refuse to Name Higher-Ups to Free Selves.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 5.—Seven convicted bootleggers, awaiting sentence here, failed today to take advantage of an offer by Circuit Court Judge Frank G. Wagaman, to grant them immunity if they would divulge the names of "higher-ups."

Judge Wagaman said "only small fry" were being caught and he was willing to let them slip through the net if by so doing he could obtain evidence against wholesale illicit liquor dealers. The convicted "small fry," however, held their peace.

The killing occurred in connection with a raid on a still. W. Worthington Hopkins, State's Attorney for Harford County, had asked for a verdict of murder. INDIANA JUDGE WILL FIGHT IMPEACHMENT Dearth's Attorneys to Test Senate Authority With Trial Set for March 21.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 5. — Impeachment proceedings against Clarence W. Dearth of Muncie were advanced a step in the Indiana Legislature today when the Senate set his trial for Monday, March 21. This action was taken despite declarations of the jurist's attorneys that they will bring court action to test the Senate's authority to hear the case.

The articles of impeachment, based upon allegations that the Judge violated the Constitution of the United States by suppressing an edition of the weekly Post-Democrat, of which George R. Dale is editor, were carried to Muncie tonight by Jerome Brown, chief doorkeeper of the Senate. Brown was to serve them on the Judge, together with notice of the date of trial.

Dearth's tenure of office pending trial is uncertain. Lawyer members of the Legislature have held that the vote to begin impeachment action automatically suspended him from the bench and empowered Gov. Ed. Jackson to appoint a successor. Judge Dearth has intimated he will seek to retain the bench. He presided over a number of cases today.

Gov. Jackson has asked several attorneys to submit briefs on the legality of the proceedings which, under the law of 1897, require that the Governor appoint a successor in such an impeachment case. Two opinions from Attorney-General Arthur L. Gilliom have contended the proceedure against Judge Dearth is unconstitutional.

Dale, whose editorial attacks on the Judge caused the latter to suppress Dale's newspaper, remained safely across the Ohio line, deciding to stay outside of Indiana until Judge Dearth definitely is removed. His newspaper, however, appeared today with even sharper articles criticising the Judge, but no effort was made to interfere with its sale, as was done on Feb. 19.

It is expected further conferences will be necessary next week.

NEGRO WANTED FOR MURDER CAPTURED AFTER PISTOL FIGHT

Isaac Mosier, Alleged Slayer of Parma Man, Had Been Hiding in St. Louis.

SENATH, Mo., March 5.—Isaac Mosier, 25 years old, a Negro, was captured following a pistol battle in a Negro settlement here late yesterday, and today is in jail at New Madrid pending trial for the killing of Jack O. Doty, manager of the Lorwood plantation near Parma, Jan. 18.

Mosier, who has been hiding in St. Louis, said he returned to persuade his wife to go to St. Louis. He was heavily armed and fired several shots at Marshal W. E. Pool of Senath, and Constable Bill Grooms, when they appeared to arrest him. The officers opened fire on the building in which Mosier was hiding.

Feeling against the Negro is tense in this vicinity and officers kept his arrest a secret until they had him in jail.

TO RECALL GRAND JURY IN MELLETT MURDER

Louis Mazer, Third Facing Trial, Confers Hour and a Half With Prosecutor.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, O., March 5.—That Louis Mazer, who goes to trial March 16 for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton newspaper man, has lifted, at least in part, the secrecy that has hung about the killing since last July, appeared certain tonight.

For an hour and a half Mazer and his counsel, David Kramer, remained locked in a room at the court house with Henry W. Harter Jr., county prosecutor, today, and when the conference ended Harter announced the county grand jury would be reconvened Tuesday to continue its investigation of the case.

Harter declined ot say that Mazer had talked of the killing and neither would he deny it.

Significance was attached to the announcement today of E. L. Mills and George W. Spooner of Mazer's counsel, that they had withdrawn from the case. Spooner declared that if Mazer had decided to confer with the State's attorneys in an effort to obtain clemency, he saw no reason for him to continue further with the case.

"I do not want to say what will be done by the grand jury or who will testify, but there have been developments that seem to warrant calling the jury in session immediately," Harter said. "The prosecutor's office hopes the case will be cleared up speedily."

Just what led to Mazer's request to see the prosecutor was not divulged. Mazer's aged mother, however, has been seriously ill ever since his arrest shortly after the killing, and it has been reported that she urged him several times to tell what he knew of the case.

The arrest Thursday of Floyd Streitenberger, former Canton city detective, on a murder charge in connection with Mellett's death also is thought to have influenced Mazer. Streitenberger became involved when he told authorities Mazer was at his home on the night of the killing.

Although Mazer was the first man indicted and arrested after the shooting, two others have preceded him before a jury. In addition to Bed Rudner, who was convicted last week, Patrick McDermott, the first tried, is serving a life sentence.

McDONALD. — Justice is pictured as blindfolded because the idea can be traced to the conception of the Egyptian goddess Maat, the personification of physical and moral law, and order and truth. Maat became the personification of justice who awarded to every man his due. Maat was the "lady of the judgment hall." Dr. Alfred Wiedeman, professor in the University of Bonn, writing in "Religion of the Ancient Egyptians," says of Maat that this goddess of truth and justice who is mentioned in some of the oldest texts was occasionally represented with bandaged eyes because justice judges without respect of persons.

CURIOUS. — Easter day is the first Sunday after the Paschal full moon, that is, the first Sunday after the ecclesiastical full moon, appearing after March 21. This makes Easter fall on a Sunday between March 22 and April 25. The Paschal full moon is the fourteenth day of the lunar month reckoned according to an ancient ecclesiastical computation, and is not the astronomical or real full moon. Lent begins 40 days previous to Easter Sunday and the first day of Lent is called Ash Wednesday. Sundays are not counted in the 40 days. The earliest Easter on record since 1850 was that of March 22, 1818. The latest Easter was that of April 23, 1898.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

G. C. L.—A suit for an injury received in 1914 would be barred by the statute of limitations.

J. L.—Report to the police about the children in the neighborhood annoying you.

R. F.—Since the 1921 law common-law marriages have not been permitted in Missouri.

A READLR.—(1) Second cousins. (2) Yes. (3) This depends upon your own conscience and the minister's.

BOY.—Common-law marriages have not been permitted in Missouri since the 1921 law took effect.

MRS. E. G. M.—We doubt if the girls' parents could have the marriage annulled. However, they should consult a lawyer and tell him all the facts.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

R. E. P.—You can receive free treatment for female troubles at the clinics of any of the large hospitals, such as Barnes, St. Mary's, St. Luke's, Mullanphy and others.

I. J. M. — If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question we will send you a diet list for your guidance. A properly regulated diet should benefit you.

FLORENCE K.—After such an operation your symptoms are not unnatural, as the system must undergo a complete readjustment, and in time they will disappear to the extent that your general health will be improved.

DESPAIR.—The following ointment should furnish relief for the itching: Carbolic acid, 1 drachm; camphor, ½ drachm; vaseline, 1 ounce. Mix and make into an ointment and apply night and morning.

ROBT. W.—You make no mention of the state of your health or any cause of your trouble, which is not a disease in itself. As a remedy for the nervous tension you should be benefited by taking one or two grains of veronal at bed time.

EVER TRY.—For this information you should consult a throat specialist and if you so desire and will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question we will recommend some one for such service.

S. A. V. — The title doctor is used rather promiscously, being given to dentists, preachers, chiropodists and others, and should be permissible in your case if you are a graduate in the practice of medicine and surgery and have a local license, which is required by law.

GARNET. — Carbolated soap is one of the best soaps for removing stains from the face. The symptoms you mention indicate very high degree of nervousness. If you desire, send a self-addressed, stamped, self-addressed envelope, we will direct you to some one who will give your case the proper care and treatment.

MRS. MARY E. S.—This condition known as nusce volitantes or floating specks in the field of vision, is due to certain opacities in the eyeball and usually is caused by a certain degree of nervous tension. We advise you to consult your oculist for information regarding treatment and causes.

CATTLE PRICES MIXED IN TRADE FOR WEEK

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Last Year.
Cattle and calves	20,211	21,983	20,763
Hogs	67,204	82,066	69,479
Sheep	7,796	8,643	6,438
Horses and mules	1,543	2,111	1,624
Totals	96,754	114,808	98,297

Livestock receipts for the past week ran lighter in all departments compared with the previous six-day period and likewise with the same time last year. Advances in prices followed the decreased supply in many cases, beef steers, hogs, lambs and sheep among those to reach higher price levels. Depression was felt in some departments of the cattle trade, due to the Lenten season which is curtailing consumption of fresh meats to some extent. Price of beef steers closed the period of trading at an advance of 15c to 25c, best weighty kinds showing the maximum gain and medium and plain kinds carrying the small end. Tops for the week reached $10.50, $11 and $11.50, the latter price a new top since 1921 in Bulk sold at $8.25 to $9.75 with plainer varieties ranging $6.50 to $7.75 largely. Pressure was exerted on light butcher steers throughout the week due to the Lenten season and declines were registered in this class, better quality kinds and weighty heifers suffering the most severe price cuts which amounted to 50c to 75c. Mixed consignments sold upward to $9.50, with bulk of the sales of desirable fleshy kinds at $8 to $9.50. Most straight heifers of desirable flesh sold from $8 to $9, lower grade kinds clearing at $6.50 to $7.75 largely. Movement was sluggish throughout.

Cows recovered early weaknesses and closed fully steady with a week ago, a good demand in effect for this class of cattle on the week's close. Beef offerings bulked at $5 to $6.50, top reaching $8. Cutter cows $4.25 to $5, and canners $3.85 to $4.25; low and common canners, $3 down. Bulls strengthened on the week's increase and closed steady on most grades, bologna bulls 10c to 15c higher in spots. Best heavy bologna bulls closed at $6.50 to $7, tops reaching $7.25 and $7.50. Bologna bulls bulked at $5.25 to $6.25, top $6.50. Best common and medium grades made $4 to $5. Stocker and feeder cattle in fair demand, strengthened on modest receipts, closing 10c to 25c higher, feeding class selling up to $8.75. Bulk of stocker cattle sold at $6.50 to $7.50, while common and canner grades made $4 to $5. Stocker and feeder cattle in fair demand, strengthened on modest receipts, better feeder kinds in the yearling class selling up to $8.75. Bulk of steers available sold at $7.50 to $8, top reaching $8.25, while short-feds ranged up to $7. She-stuff remained unchanged. Veal calves dropped $1.25 to $1.50 on the best grades, the week's top reaching $12.50, closing in proportion and throwouts showing as much as $2 loss in spots. Weighty veal calves, long-fed kinds and canners went through the period at no material change in price, buyers furnishing a ready outlet for all offerings.

Hog Receipts Smaller.

Receipts of swine in the past week show a decrease from the previous week and a year ago. Quality of the majority was fair to good. Quality of the offerings from Southern offerings that were on plain quality. Eleven markets' receipts this week total 67,204 head, as compared with 552,030 last week and 564,440 the corresponding week last year. In the past period of trading, packers paid a sharp increase in orders, show and advance over the previous week's close. Medium and heavy hogs sold up to 10c higher, with the Monday session the market advanced 25c, but this was short-lived, as in the Tuesday session the bulk of sales declined 10c to 15c, and the medium and heavy grades 25c to 40c. Wednesday the market rallied and all weights showed more strong to 10c higher. In the Thursday and Friday periods light hogs were fully steady with the previous week's close, and showed a sharp decline. Packers were very bearish in these two days and held out of the market. By the close on Thursday, medium and heavies declined 15c to 25c, and in the next day's trading dropped 10c to 15c more. Pigs closed higher than last week's close. Most 120 to 150 lbs. average ranged for the week $11.75 to $12.25, 150 to 180 lbs. at $11.25 to $11.75; light lights, 90 lbs. and down, $10.25 to $11.25. COTTON CLOSES STEADY BUT SHOWING DECLINES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Further liquidation and some Southern selling featured the brief session of the cotton market today. After selling off to 14.19c at the start, values rallied to 14.31c, but eased in later trading, closing at 14.23c. The general market closed steady at net declines of 1 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Liquidation was much less active, after the heavy selling of the past two days and initial offerings seemed to be readily absorbed by covering and trade buying.

Prices steadied up in consequence. March advanced during the forenoon, and October from 14.15c to 14.31c, and the market eased again later on the favorable weather news from the South, and a spurt of March liquidation. March sold off to 14.10c, or 8 points net lower in late trading and closed at the lowest, while later months showed reactions of 8 or 10 points from the high levels of the morning.

Some of the early buying may have been promoted by reports that spot holders in the Southwest were showing weakness to any further decline in the basis and tone of week-end reviews of the domestic goods markets.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 96,000 bales, against 103,000 last year, the figures, pointing to a continued good volume of exports.

March sold at 14.10@14.11, closing many Lancashire cotton mills have sufficient orders booked to keep them running until the end of June.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review today, says:

"If it cannot be said that the market has developed a good case of nerves, stocks plainly now are more sensitive to pressure of any sort than they have been at any time this year. On the upside and on the downside they respond readily to the news developments. A report that one of Wall street's most prominent and oldest bankers was ill was pounced upon by bear traders to force the market emphatically down, but once the rumor was denied prices bounded back. In the news may be found no sensible explanation why General Motors yesterday within the five-hour session should have risen to a new high for the year only to fall 5 points within a brief trading space and later to recover again. Good stiff gains are followed by good stiff losses, or to put it in another way, good stiff losses are followed by good stiff gains.

1926 Break Recalled.

"This week a year ago brought the onslaught that did not cease in the market until April, but the conditions that now prevail are very different from those of early March a year ago. So confident had people become that the market could not fail that they were buying on the right and left up to the day of the break in 1926. So far in 1927 the speculative activity has, in general been tempered by caution. This week's sharp upturn in brokers' loans was the first in seven weeks and leaves total far below that at the peak of last year. Not the least interesting distinction between the positions of the market now and then lies in technical aspects. In March, 1926, there was no short interest to check the fall, but the market could not now drop sharply without inviting purchases by shorts anxious to cover their positions.

Money Ease Question.

"Primarily the stock market followers that are on the constructive side of the list have depended upon a continuation of easy money to maintain bullish activity but the early March reports of an upturn in trade has provided an additional basis for market optimism. On the other hand, many students of the business situation feel that at the current levels the market has discounted good business for a considerable period and that the indications of a clear road ahead should not be made a reason for fresh speculation on the upside. In a least two of the key industries, the motor and steel industries, the week's news has been signs of improvement of moderate proportions. But if in addition to a slowly rising business curve they may look forward to further gold imports the optimists see an opportunity both to have their cake and eat it. They would have an improving business situation, in other words, and easy money, an ideal combination to hold stocks up.

Gold Movement Problem.

"Whether or not money remains so plentiful in the next few months as it has been of late depends upon several things. If the inward gold movement continues, and if meanwhile the demands for money in business and on the stock market do not expand greatly, money, presumably, should stand around its present level or drift lower. It is not certain by any means, however, that the heavy inflow of yellow metal will keep up, and if the demand for funds from the stock market does not diminish, the period of seasonal ease may have passed its peak. Both the domestic and foreign developments will be watched closely for light on the trend of money rates.

Bond Distribution.

"In the investment bond market the plethora of funds has not done all that bankers had hoped to new offerings brought out at high levels and at a lower coupon rate. A temporary period for the digestion of the heavy flotations of early 1927 has been needed before bankers could get themselves in position to issue new securities now in the works. This explains why the volume of offerings has been reduced for the moment and why, notwithstanding the broad demand for good bonds, dealers' shelves have been too much weighted down to justify any fresh financing of large proportions. The market has about caught up with itself again, however, and if present plans are carried out a new lot of sizable flotations may be expected this spring.

Recession on Saturday.

"Prices of speculative securities failed to reflect Wall street's relief over assurances no extra session of Congress would be called this summer and further sign of unsettlement developed in today's short session of the stock market. Seemingly, traders were not surprised at the turn of events and yesterday's setback may have been due more to technical conditions than the fear of an extra session. In any event a brisk show of enthusiasm at the start was quickly dissipated and speculative operations for the decline were resumed in some of the weakly held specialties. Standard industrials for the most part were rather freely offered, but a few specialties that came into prominence yesterday recorded further advances.

Oils Inclined to Sag.

"Opposing forces were again at work in the more active speculative issues and were instrumental in unsettling the general price trend. Selling pressure developed in several of the specialties which showed signs of impaired support yesterday, while in other parts of the list operations for the rise were resumed. Mercantile issues received support when Woolworth shares were bid up in response to the favorable sales report for February but oil shares were inclined to sag when traders took further profits. Further crude oil price cutting appeared to have shaken confidence of traders who previously had refused to change their position at signs of market weakness. Weakness became more pronounced in some of the automotive accessory stocks in a further reflection of the dividend reduction ordered earlier in the week by directors of Stromberg Carburetor.

Spanish Rates Higher.

"The volume of business in foreign exchanges was small in the short session and changes were small, the only movement of prominence being a sharp upturn in Spanish rates to a new peak for the year just below the 17c level.

Clearing House Statement.

"A sharp decrease in surplus of the Clearing House banks, revealed in today's statement, reflected month-end settlements and accounted for temporary money stringency earlier in the week. The drop of $29,507,780 resulted in a deficit of $5,909,970. Loans, discounts, etc., decreased $2,727,000.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Coffee futures were lower today under liquidation and trade selling accommanied by reports of an easier tone in Rio and slightly lower cost and freight offers from some shippers. The market opened at a decline of 3 to 8 points and sold off to 13.45c for May with the close easy, 12 to 16 points net lower. Estimated sales 38,000 bags. Closing quotations: March, 14.03c; May, 13.45c; July, 12.66c; September, 12.00c; December, 11.63c; January, 11.70c. March (1928), 11.44c.

Spot coffee quiet. Rio 7s, 15¾c to 15¾c; Santos 4s, 18c to 18¼c. Cost and freight offers included 2,000 bags of bourbon at 17c to 17.03c.

Rio exchanges on London unchanged; dollar buying rate unchanged. Rio market 50 to 250 reis lower; sanios unchanged to 25 reis higher. Brazilian ports' receipts, 44,000; Jundiahy receipts, 21,000.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The raw market was quiet today with sales of 43,000 bags, or Porto Rico prompt shipment, and 10,000 bags of Cuban, for delivery in half of March, at $4.90, duty paid.

There was not much activity in refined sugar futures but prices were somewhat irregular. The steadiness of the spot situation had a favorable influence and left a little covering and trade buying of distant crop positions, but new crop positions were easier under liquidation and selling. The close was 1 point higher to 2 net lower. Approximate sales, 112,000 tons. March closed at 5.03c; May, 5.03c; July, 5.03c; September, 5.04c; December, 5.06c; March (1928), 5.06c.

Spot refined sugar steady; was quoted at 5.90c; extra granulated, 5.75c; fine granulated, 5.60c; powdered, 5.50c; confectioners' A, 5.40c; soft grades, 5.30c to 5.50c. Futures closed steady; March, 5.90c; May, 5.90c; July, 5.90c; September, 5.90c; December, 5.90c; March (1928), 5.90c.

Weekly Metal Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Steel mills were very steady during the past week and the industry was encouraged by orders for more extended delivery. Second quarters than has been the case for several months. Output for February was 5 per cent greater than January. Automobile manufacturers announced a substantial increase in the output schedule for March and January. Structural steel and steel contracts were being withheld pending closer cabling between fabricators' bookings for February, estimated at 18 per cent larger than in January.

Pig iron was steady in nearby at eastern. Small orders were received by merchant-furnace agencies.

Copper has shown continued firmness. Heavy sales by producers during February both here in the interior of the country improved their position, and there has been evidence of continued export movement. Foreign quotations have increased consumption and diminishing warehouse stocks abroad. Reports that one of the largest producers in Rhodesia, Africa, mines may have had some influence on sentiment also, but the demand for foreign copper has been the principal factor in the improvement. Sales of electrolytic copper were reported at the 13¾-cent level with producers generally quoting 14 cents for the end of the week. The price declined sharply early in March as a result of the determination of the Anaconda Copper Mining company to maintain its 13½-cent quotation. A rally followed later with the demand and a sweeping advance in prices.

Lead was advanced rather sharply by one of the leading sellers in the East, but the movement was checked by continued good demand and the fact that producers were being booked for March and April.

Zinc was steady. Consuming demand was fair, largely for prompt and all but shipment.

Antimony was easier with ample offerings to consumers for June and July.

TURPENTINE, FLAX, LINSEED OIL

Linseed oil, in 1 to 4 barrel lots, is unchanged for the week at 12.7c per lb.

DULUTH, March 5.—Cash and March Flax—March, $2.21¼; April, $2.22; May, $2.23¼; June, $2.24¼.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange review, says:

"Foreign exchange rates moved in an irregular manner this week, fluctuations in different countries being governed by special conditions. Sterling moved up ¼c on the cable to $4.85 7/16 in the heaviest trading on the largest scale in yesterday's trading. This movement was attributed to the practice of capitalists in London to sell dollars in advance of imports to London before March 30, which marks the end of the commercial year.

"French exchange continued governed by the official efforts of the French governmental agents, which were in large measure at 3.91¼. This supply in the market offsets the current orders to execute lower bids. Italian exchange, after a slight decline earlier in the week, moved to 3.91 cents for cables. Swiss and Dutch were both under pressure, especially toward the end of the week, when the cables here were down 2 points to 40.02.

"Spanish exchanges had a special movement, the end of the week seeing a buying coming into the market because of the report of the successful consolidation of the Spanish national debt, which is expected to materially help the dollar and peseta exchange rate, which ruled earlier in the week at 16.75. Rose to 16.86. Norwegian exchange also rose in the movement, advancing from 26.81 to 26.96, making a new high for the year and in the past few days Swedish exchange has followed.

"Japanese exchange was in special demand, making a new high on an advance to 49.25 cents for cables. Greek exchange alternated between weakness and strength but closed with a net gain of ¼c.

"Argentina made a new high for the year, advancing from 41.95 to 42.25. Canadian exchange dropped 4 points to 99.87.

The volume of business in foreign exchanges was small in the short session and changes were small, the only movement of prominence being a sharp upturn in Spanish rates to a new peak for the year just below the 17c level.

MIXED PRICE TREND IN OIL GROUP ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Bullish activities continued in those issues that have held lately a foremost position in the dealings today on the curb exchange. Buying in the short period, however, lacked the volume of nearby sessions.

There were a few movements in pe area among them being Auburn Au which rose about two points to 101¼ and Safeway Stores which gained two points to 264, also a new high record. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, American Seating and several public utilities were in demand at moderate gains while pressure developed in Pillsbury Mills and North American Cement, which yielded 3¾ and two points respectively.

Oil shares ranged narrowly with some trade gains in additional advances. Prairie & Vacuum displayed early strength. Cities Service opened off ⅝ of a point at 49 and then yielded on small offerings to 48¾. The mixed trend in this group became pronounced in the last hour when selling by unidentified interests in the market community is waiting to see what turn that financing will take.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange review, says:

Foreign exchange trades moved in an irregular manner all this week, exchanges in the principal countries being governed by special conditions. Sterling moved up ¾c to $4.85¾ for cables, the buying power of the interest sensitive slightly downward. This movement was attributed to the practice of merchants in remitting proceeds of sales of commodities in London before March 30, which marks the end of the commercial year.

French exchange continued governed by the offerings of the French governmental agents, which were in largest volume on Monday, when the market was compelled outside sellers to accept lower bids. Italian exchange, after a slight decline on the week, moved 4 points to 4.41 for cables. Swiss and Dutch were both under pressure, especially toward the end of the week, when cables were down 2 points to 40.02.

Spanish exchanges had a special movement toward the end of the week, heavy coming into the market because of the prompt payment of the amortization of the Spanish Government debts, which is expected to materially help the pesetas in the near future. Peseta cables, which ruled earlier in the week at 16.75, moved up to 16.86. Norwegian exchange also had a wide movement, ranging from 35.81 to 35.96, making a new high for the year, and in the past few days Swedish exchange was strong.

Japanese exchange was in special demand, making a new high on an advance of 49.35 for cables. Belgian exchange alternated between weakness and strength but late in week was at lower levels.

Argentine rates were higher for the year, advancing from 41.95 to 42.25. Canadian exchange dropped 4 points to 1-32.

The volume of business in foreign exchanges was small in the short session and dealings were quiet, only movement of prominence being a sharp upturn in Spanish rates to a new peak for the year just below the 17c level.

BOND SALES SATURDAY SMALLEST OF THE YEAR

Transactions at Short Session on New York Exchange Slightly Over $6,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The one feature of the very dull bond market in today's short session rested in the fact that total sales, slightly more than $6,000,000, fell to the lowest figure of the year. Prices generally were steady, with soft spots here and there attributed to week-end profit-taking.

French governmental 7s and 7½s displayed moderate activity in further reflection of the French offer to pay $10,000,000 on account of the debt to the United States. Otherwise little attention was paid to the foreign group.

Prices of domestic bonds were mixed. Railway issues tending slightly downward, while some industrials were firm. Randolph Kardex 5½s and Gould Coupler 6s were favorites in the trading.

A good demand for fourth Liberty 4¼s, which touched their record high price, featured the U. S. Government list, which was on the whole inactive.

Bond Market of Week Specialty Affair.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The bond market continued to be a specialty affair. Dealings in a small group of securities were fairly active but trading generally ruled broadth.

The striking contrast with the dullness in old bonds was a quickening of interest in new securities. Public offerings were substantially larger than the previous week, that market at least, gave promise of early betterment.

The continued hesitancy of the market for listed investments is now perhaps a further reflection of the heavy financing done during the first six weeks of the year. Some influences, however, also were adverse. Money had a firm undertone and is likely to continue steady until forthcoming heavy tax payments are made on March 15. The fact that Government financing is impending also tend to curb activity in the bond market. The investment community is awaiting to see what turn that financing will take.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange review, says:

Foreign exchange trades moved in an irregular manner all this week, exchanges in the principal countries being governed by special conditions. Sterling moved up ¾c to $4.85¾ for cables, the buying power of the interest sensitive slightly downward. This movement was attributed to the practice of merchants in remitting proceeds of sales of commodities in London before March 30, which marks the end of the commercial year.

French exchange continued governed by the offerings of the French governmental agents, which were in largest volume on Monday, when the market was compelled outside sellers to accept lower bids. Italian exchange, after a slight decline on the week, moved 4 points to 4.41 for cables. Swiss and Dutch were both under pressure, especially toward the end of the week, when cables were down 2 points to 40.02.

Spanish exchanges had a special movement toward the end of the week, heavy coming into the market because of the prompt payment of the amortization of the Spanish Government debts, which is expected to materially help the pesetas in the near future. Peseta cables, which ruled earlier in the week at 16.75, moved up to 16.86. Norwegian exchange also had a wide movement, ranging from 35.81 to 35.96, making a new high for the year, and in the past few days Swedish exchange was strong.

Japanese exchange was in special demand, making a new high on an advance of 49.35 for cables. Belgian exchange alternated between weakness and strength but late in week was at lower levels.

Argentine rates were higher for the year, advancing from 41.95 to 42.25. Canadian exchange dropped 4 points to 1-32.

The volume of business in foreign exchanges was small in the short session and dealings were quiet, only movement of prominence being a sharp upturn in Spanish rates to a new peak for the year just below the 17c level.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged today, with sales of 43,000 bags of Porto Rican prompt shipment, and 10,000 bags of Cuban, for first half of March shipment, at $4.90, duty paid.

There was not much activity in raw sugar futures and prices were somewhat irregular. The steadiness of the spot market had a favorable influence and led to a little covering and trade buying of nearby crop positions, but new crop deliveries were easier under liquidation and hedge selling. The close was 1 point higher to 2 net lower. Approximate sales, 12,850 tons. March closed $3.09; May, $3.53; July, $3.61; September, $3.41; December, $3.26; March, 1928, $2.92.

The refined sugar market was quiet and prices were unchanged at $6 to $6.20 for fine granulated.

WAR Cardinal PRACTICE TILT DECIDED BY PITCHING

Hurlers Far Ahead of Batters in Rounding to Form —Snyder Works Behind Bat—Flowers Plays Short

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 5.—Pitching decided the outcome of the first game of 1927 for the athletes in the uniforms of the world champion Cardinals.

Manager Bob O'Farrell sent his regulars, patched up because of the absence of several stars, against the Yannigans, or reserves, this afternoon and the scrub team, by virtue of a savage batting rally in the eighth inning, defeated the so-called regulars, 9 to 5.

Frankie Frisch, successor to Rogers Hornsby at second base, contributed a resounding triple to the cause of the regulars, scoring one run and driving in another.

Eddie Dyer was the hitting hero of the afternoon. Playing right field for the Yannigans, the former Syracuse left-hander hit a triple and a double, driving in one run and scoring two.

The Shelling of Shellberg.

Ray Shellberg, right-hander from Houston, started for the Scrubs and held the Regulars to one hit in three innings. Then, through mistake in signals or intentionally shady strategy, Shellberg was ordered to circle the field, being told that he was through for the day. When he came back to the bench, puffing and tired from the long run, Manager O'Farrell told him it was all

AVON PARK, Fla., March 5.—Pitching decided the outcome of the first game of 1927 for the athletes in the uniforms of the world champion Cardinals.

Manager Bob O'Farrell sent his regulars, patched up because of the absence of several stars, against the Yannigans, or reserves, this afternoon and the scrub team, by virtue of a savage batting rally in the eighth inning, defeated the so-called regulars, 9 to 5.

Except for that one inning, in which Paul Derringer of Springfield, Ky., was rudely pounded, neither Cardinal team showed much of a punch, although there were some solid wallops.

Frankie Frisch, successor to Rogers Hornsby at second base, contributed a resounding triple to the cause of the regulars, scoring one run and driving in another.

Eddie Dyer was the hitting hero of the afternoon. Playing right field for the Yannigans, the former Syracuse left-hander hit a triple and a double, driving in one run and scoring two.

The Shelling of Shellberg.

Ray Shellberg, right-hander from Houston, started for the Scrubs and held the Regulars to one hit in three innings. Then, through mistake in signals or intentionally shady strategy, Shellberg was ordered to circle the field, being told that he was through for the day. When he came back to the bench, puffing and tired from the long run, Manager O'Farrel told him it was all

Goal Posts Moved Back Ten Yards by New Rule Of Football Committee

Extension of Distance at Each End of Gridiron Planned to Curb Scoring Via Kicks From Field and Try for Point After Touchdown.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—To curb the emphasis on goal kicking from the field and in the try for point after touchdown, gridiron goal posts will be moved backward ten yards behind each end of the playing field, for the 1927 season, the National Inter-collegiate Football Rules Committee decided today.

The playing field remains the same length, 100 yards, but the new distance between goal posts will be 120 yards.

Goal Kick Is Chief Target.

The change is aimed principally at making goal kicks more difficult, taking away much of the advantage gained by a team with a star booter, but it also is designed to remove the hazard of the goal posts interfering with rushing attacks at the goal line.

The rule makers approved retention of the much discussed shift plays but took measures against their illegal use by defining a one-second halt as approximately sufficient and increasing the penalty from five to 15 yards for not making the required stop.

"The action on the shift retains all its strategic advantages, while also giving officials definite measures by which to prevent its abuses," E. K. Hall, chairman of the committee, explained.

To stop the use of the huddle for "town meeting purposes," Hall added, officials now may apply the five-yard penalty for delaying the game to a team consuming more than 15 seconds in giving the signals.

Encourage Backward Passing.

In another important rule change the committee acted to encourage the use of the backward pass by ruling that the ball, if fumbled, grounded or thrown out of bounds on such a pass, shal be declared dead on the spot and stay in the offensive team's possession, unless it is the fourth down. On the fourth down the pigskin would go to the opposing team. Previously the ball, on backward passes, has been free for recovery and a run by the opposing team.

Completing its two-day session, the committee also ruled that hereafter fumbled punts shall be declared dead at the point of recovery. This would prevent the repetition of such plays as that by which the Army scored one of its touchdowns against the Navy at Chicago last fall. The new rule does not apply to fumbles on kick-off, kick from fair catch or kick following a safety.

The committee recognized advocates of the 40-plays-a-period system by announcing it has no objection to two teams agreeing to play on this basis instead of the usual time limit of 15 minutes a period. Present rules, however, will not be altered to cover this departure.

Killarneys Win From Brandts In Soccer Game

Extra Time Required to Settle Municipal Match—Two Games Today.

Jimmy McCarthy's goal from a scrimmage in the first overtime period and Fullback Joe Kyle's failure to score on a penalty kick one minute before the conclusion of the game were high lights in the 1 to 0 victory of the Killarney Rose team over the Brandts in a Municipal Soccer League championship elimination game at Fairground Park yesterday afternoon.

The teams battled to a scoreless tie in the two regulation 45-minute periods. They had played a tie last Sunday and it was necessary to reach a conclusion, so extra periods were ordered by the referee. A foul outside the penalty zone resulted in a free kick and then McCarthy scored. A crowd of about 5000 persons filled the stands surrounding the field at Grounds 2 where the game was played. A high wind greatly interfered with play. The game was cleanly played and there were no injuries.

This afternoon, the Killarneys will oppose the City Roofers, champions of the Junior League, who advanced to the semifinal by defeating the St. Thomas team of the senior group last Sunday.

In the second game of this afternoon's double-header, which will be played at Fairground Park, the Morgans will oppose the Palermos. Both are Fairground teams, the Morgans having won the Group 2 championship and the Palermeros the Group 3-4 title. The Morgans had comparatively easy sailing in their first round game, smothering the Union Electric entry 11 goals, but the Palermos had to travel at top speed to overcome the Schollmeyers, 3—2, last Sunday.

If form holds true, the Morgans and the Killarneys should advance to the final, which is played in a series of three games, the first to be contested next Sunday.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to this afternoon's double-header. The first game will start at 1:15 p. m.

Concordia Ends Season With Clean Slate

Basketball Five Beats Valparaiso U., 47-28—Ninth Straight Victory.

The Concordia Seminary basketball team closed its season last night with a victory over Valparaiso University of Valparaiso, Ind., 47 to 28, at the Armory. The victory was the ninth of the season for Coach Eber Simpson's squad, which averaged 44 points a game, a scoring record for the local cage men. More than 1200 saw the game.

Dau and Schmidt, Concordia forwards, set a scoring pace too fast for the visiting offense and sunk 25 points of their quintet's total. Each netted five field goals, while Werling, Concordia center, made four. Petersen, Valparaiso forward, led the visitors in scoring with three field goals and three free throws, while Van Buskirk made three goals from the floor.

The locals took an early lead when Dau sunk a field goal twenty seconds after the ball was put in play. A free throw by Michael,

MAN O' WAR COLT SETS TRACK MARK IN WINNING

War Flame, Second by Head, Pays $52.40 for $2 to Place—Race Is Valued at $24,100 to Victor—Time Is 1:51 1-5.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., March 5.—Edward Beal McLean's Man o'War colt, War Eagle, stamped himself as a real star when he won the $25,000 added Miami Cup Handicap this afternoon. Back of him was a field of the best horses that ever faced the starter at the Hialeah course.

Ridden by E. Ambrose and setting a dazzling pace from the start, War Eagle held his opposition safe throughout and at the end won in clever fashion by a head from War Flame. Fly Hawk was third, beaten a couple of lengths for the place and a nose in front of Washakie.

War Eagle paid $8.80 for a $2 straight ticket, while War Flame paid $52.40 to $2 to place.

The field was a bit fractious at the barrier and when the break came, Sun Altos was first away. They had not gone a hundred yards before War Eagle was out in front and flying. Rounding the first turn War Eagle drew away into a two-length lead and Ambrose then took him under slight restraint.

Never Able to Get Up.

Striding perfectly, he was apparently going well within himself and he went to the half mile in :47 flat. At the half mile pole, War Flame moved up next to the inside rail and was second. Son of John was right up with the leaders on the outside, but after they went six furlongs, the latter collapsed and dropped out of picture. Ambrose was still sitting still on the flying leader. The clockers ticked off the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5 and many thought the leader would stop. He still kept up a fast pace and at the mile, which was run in 1:38 2-5, he had a length's advantage.

War Flame, under a drive, closed gamely, but was never able to get to the winner and at the finish, Ambrose was looking over at the contender.

There is no question but that War Eagle could have won by a larger margin. The mile and a furlong in 1:51 1-5 established a new track record for the distance.

$24,100 to the Victor.

The winner's portion of the stake was $24,100 and a handsome silver cup valued at $500. War Eagle is a candidate for the New Orleans Derby and the Kentucky Derby. His owner may reserve him for the latter event. E. Ambrose will ride the colt in the Kentucky classic.

Twenty-five thousand racing fans were present to witness Miami's closing feature.

War Eagle assumed command from the first turn, drew away into a safe command but reserved even footage the inside rail in the final eighth and outlasted War Flame in the final drive. The latter displayed marked improvement, worked his way up on the inside rounding the far turn, made a determined bid in the stretch run and appeared to be in close quarters in the final 70 yards. Fly Hawk improved his position steadily, responded with determination in stretch run and outlasted Washakie. The latter moved up with a rush when called upon and finished strongly. Rothermel went evenly all the way. Old Slip, a late outside from the start, had no other excuses. Sun Altos stopped. Son of John quit under the weight and was eased up in the stretch run.

Time of minutes quick: War Eagle, won $8.80, place $6.60, show $5.50; War Flame, place $52.40, show $16.10; Fly Hawk, show $9.40.

NEITHER MALONEY NOR SHARKEY CAN BEAT TUNNEY, WRAY THINKS

BOTH ARE MADE TO ORDER FOR TITLE-HOLDER

Boston Heavies, Survivors in Rickard's Eliminations, Will Meet in Open-Air Battle Next May.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Tex Rickard's heavyweight championship eliminations are now in the final stage, as a result of five fights already decided. In the mind of the writer, who saw three of the eliminations, there is today no question that the survivors, Jim Maloney, the Boston "strong boy," and Jack Sharkey, likewise a "Beantown" product, earned their right to pre-eminence.

There will be a fight of the first water when these two meet in an outdoor arena, next May. The other contenders in the race, Stribling, Berlenbach, Huffman, Delaney, Hansen and Paulino, even though two of them were winners, showed lack of the class or of the development needed for an assault on Title Peak.

In fact, the general class of the contenders was indicated when a weazened, middle-aged former middleweight like McTigue could win one elimination and give an opponent 20 pounds heavier a gallant, though losing battle in another fight.

Maloney Better Equipped.

The survivors in two senses, however, measure up to pugilistic title requirements. Weighing 200 pounds and 190 pounds, respectively, Maloney and Sharkey are at about the best tonnage for heavyweight success. The poundage is enough to give power to their attack and not too great to hamper their speed. Both men are very fast for heavyweights; and, best of all, both are aggressive battlers, who bore in constantly and put their opponents on the defensive throughout. Maloney is a little better equipped, since he can hit fast hooks with either hand.

Both have the same weaknesses, one of which at least can be corrected. Neither is as experienced as one could wish to see in a challenger; and they have the common failing of lacking a convincing punch. It is rather significant, perhaps, that in the last four eliminations not one knockdown was scored.

When Maloney and Sharkey meet there is little doubt that the bulk of the support will be given the "new John L. Sullivan," Maloney. That's because Jim will have about 10 pounds the better of the weight; because in previous fights he has had his opponent on the floor many times—seven in one battle, to be more exact—and because he is a two-fisted "fighting fool," when turned loose.

Maloney is the harder hitter of the two. Sharkey hit little Mike McTigue solidly with rights and lefts repeatedly; but it must be said that Mike's own rights seemed to carry much more weight than did those of his conqueror. Sharkey was unable at any time to bring his man to the canvas for a knockdown, last Thursday.

On Sunny Side of 25.

One of the favorable features about both survivors is their youth. They are both on the sunny side of 25 and going strong.

While neither fighter is a world-beater and neither has quite won the public, because both lack of finishing punches, there is a chance that greater experience and more accuracy in hitting will make them (or at least Maloney) more convincing candidates for Tunney's crown.

Boston today is fight frenzied once more, the first time since old "Jawn L." awed us with his mighty voice and his devastating paw. Boston believes that Gene Tunney's crown is as good as lost and that either Maloney or Sharkey will bring back home the fame that once was Sullivan's.

Boston is entitled to think so. But Gene Tunney probably regards the situation humorously. Gene is the boy who founded the present school of pugilistic intelligentsia, disciples of which go in for trading polysyllables and punches. Gene is some thinker himself. If he has ever seen these two Boston boys work—both outweigh him, by the way—he must have thought to himself, "Those lads are made to order for me."

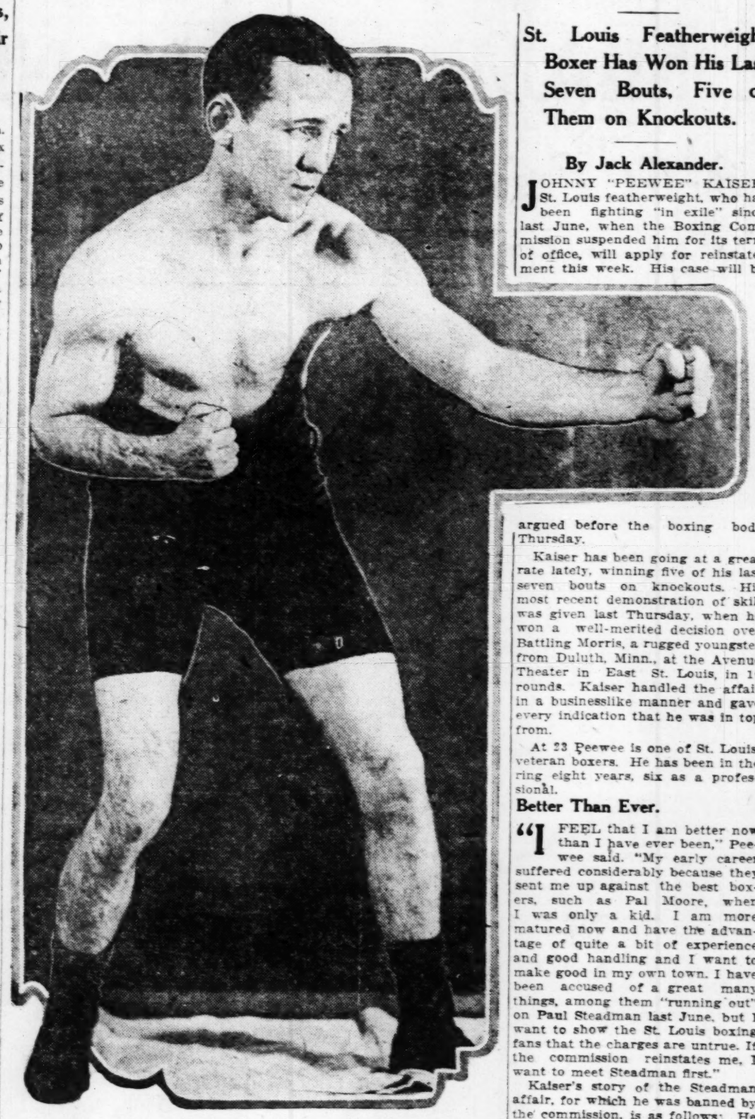
That's what they appear to be. Both men carry the attack; and it is against this style of fighter that Tunney stands out. A counter hitter primarily, one who fights while backing away, Tunney would be in his element against either Maloney or Sharkey. The fighter who can play Tunney's game and beat him is not yet in the picture, in our opinion.

Maloney will pile in, Sharkey will rush in. Both will run into shots that will be entirely different from those handed out by the men the two Bostonians faced in the Garden.

This writer is not with those who think that Jack Dempsey is out of the running. Just at present Dempsey is not disclosing his plans. If he fights again and is given adequate preparation, and has no mental anxieties, when his elimination comes around, Maloney and Sharkey will have to look to themselves.

Peewee Kaiser, Barred "For Life," To Ask Reinstatement This Week

Veteran at 23, Says He's Better Than Ever



JOHNNY "PEEWEE" KAISER.

St. Louis Featherweight Boxer Has Won His Last Seven Bouts, Five of Them on Knockouts.

By Jack Alexander.

JOHNNY "PEEWEE" KAISER, St. Louis featherweight, who has been fighting "in exile" since last June, when the Boxing Commission suspended him for its term of office, will apply for reinstatement this week. His case will be argued before the boxing body Thursday.

Kaiser has been going at a great rate lately, winning five of his last seven bouts on knockouts. His most recent demonstration of skill was given last Thursday, when he won a well-merited decision over Battling Morris, a rugged youngster from Duluth, Minn., at the Avenue Theater in East St. Louis, in 10 rounds. Kaiser handled the affair in a businesslike manner and gave every indication that he was in top from.

At 23 Peewee is one of St. Louis' veteran boxers. He has been in the ring eight years, six as a professional.

Better Than Ever.

"I FEEL that I am better now than I have ever been," Peewee said. "My early career suffered considerably because they sent me up against the best boxers, such as Pal Moore, when I was only a kid. I am more matured now and have the advantage of quite a bit of experience and good handling and I want to make good in my own town. I have been accused of a great many things, among them "running out" on Paul Steadman last June, but I want to show the St. Louis boxing fans that the charges are untrue. If the commission reinstates me, I want to meet Steadman first."

Kaiser's story of the Steadman affair, for which he was banned by the commission, is as follows: He was on the grounds (Handlan's Park) and ready to go on with the fight on the night on which it was scheduled (a Friday in last June) but a light drizzle caused the promoters to postpone the bout until the following Monday.

On Monday Pewee reported at the park feeling sick and upset. He was examined by the commission doctor, Dr. R. A. Walker, who stated, according to Kaiser, that Peewee was all right physically except that he seemed to have something wrong in the region of the heart which he thought was a possible "leakage." On hearing this, Peewee's backers withdrew him for fear of serious injury. He was then barred "for life" by the commission, but the sentence was cut down later to the life of the present commission.

"Then that forfeit check deal," Kaiser explained. "When I realized that my only means of livelihood was being taken away from me indefinitely, I stopped payment on my forfeit check for $150. I would be a boob to let an employer discharge me and charge me $150 for doing it, wouldn't I?"

Withdrawal Justified.

"I DIDN'T 'run out' on Steadman. I was ready for him on the scheduled date and wanted to go on in spite of the rain, but they wouldn't have it. Incidentally, I was 'broke' at the time and I had a guarantee of $500 for that fight. Do you think I would run away from that?

"My withdrawal from that fight was certainly justified. The very commission that barred me for refusing to fight in a sick condition had previously warned me, after my fight with the Denver Kid, that if I ever went into the ring again in the condition I was when I met the Kid, that they would suspend me for good. And when I tried to protect the public from that very thing, I was suspended."

In his recent "comeback spurt," Kaiser has knocked out Jackie Poole in two rounds, Jack Stacey in two rounds (twice), Allen Watson in seven rounds and Paul Wangley in seven. He outpointed Claude Wilson at Memphis in eight rounds and last week won a decision over Battling Morris in 10 rounds.

Schaefer and Cochran Win Billiard Matches

Former 18.2 Champion Goes Out in Fifth Inning Against Matsuyama.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Kinrey Matsuyama of Japan, dropped his fifth straight match in the world championship 18.2 balkline billiard tournament tonight, losing to Jake Schaefer of Chicago, former champion, 400 to 94.

Schaefer's victory put him in a three-cornered tie for first place in the tournament standing with Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, and Welker Cochran. Each having two wins and no defeats to their credit. Willie Hoppe, of New York, present titleholder, and Hagenlacher each have won one match and lost one; Felix Grange of France is credited with one victory and two defeats, while Matsuyama has failed to break into the win column.

Schaefer, while in better form tonight than in his first match, frequently was in hot water. He had plenty of tough breaks, even during his remarkable run of 221, but he managed to pull himself out of trouble by difficult shots.

Schaefer went out in the fifth inning with an unfinished run of 221, second only as a high in the tournament to the 299 reeled off in the afternoon by Cochran in the match he took from Erich Hagenlacher, of Germany, 400 to 77.

Schaefer's average was 80; Matsuyama 23 2-4.

The score by innings:

Schaefer—19 17 49 94 221—400.
Matsuyama—0 15 3 76—94.

In the afternoon match Cochran's average was 80, breaking his own high average mark for the tournament of 66 4-12, made against Matsuyama. Hagenlacher averaged 15 2-5, counting for 44 in his best inning.

guard, was the sole Valparaiso tally for the first ten minutes of the half, Van Buskirk opening the visitors' floor offensive with a long basket. Concordia led 24 to 14 at the half, at no time pressed by the visitors.

Second period activity on the part of Schmidt and Werling netted Concordia more points when each contributed three field goals in a scoring spurt. Danny Chuvala, substituting for Dau, rang in the 400th point of the season from the floor with three minutes to play. Both teams sent in reserves in the last few minutes of play.

Rough play by both teams occasioned a number of free throw opportunities, with Valparaiso taking advantage of more charity chances than the locals.

The entire Concordia first string with the exception of Capt. Ernest Kuechle will return to next year's squad, Dr. Simpson announced. In addition to Kuechle, however, three other seniors closed their varsity careers — Dan Chuvala, Gene Kuechle and Herman Wolters. Werling and Reibke, formerly of the Ft. Wayne Concordia College quintet, and Schmidt and Dau, former players at St. John's College, Winfield, Kan., will return.

Michigan Near Big Ten Title

Victory Over Chicago Brings Wolverines Close to Cage Honors.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Michigan drew a bit closer to the Big Ten basketball championship tonight by defeating Chicago 24 to 15, with only one more game to play, against Iowa, Monday night, on the home floor.

Indiana and Purdue also won, retaining the faint hope of a triple tie for the title if Michigan falters. Iowa, the fourth member of the quartet which tied for the championship last year and seemed likely to repeat the close finish this year, was knocked out of the running by Ohio State, 30 to 28.

Indiana won easily from Northwestern, 44 to 25, but Purdue had a narrow escape from the other cellar occupant, Minnesota winning by the margin of a single point, 29 to 28.

Wisconsin, with a revised lineup, overwhelmed Illinois 39 to 13. Minnesota and Illinois have completed their seasons, while the other teams have one or two more games.

ALONSO AND HUNTER DEFEAT TILDEN AND COEN IN FINAL

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 5.—Manuel Alonso, No. 2 ranking player of the country, and Francis Hunter, former Olympic doubles champion, won the South Florida tennis doubles championship this afternoon by defeating William T. Tilden II and his protege, Wilbur Coen Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., 8—6, 5—7, 1—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Alonso and Hunter played consistent tennis together, but Tilden seemed to falter and several times during the match was outplayed by his youthful partner, Coen.

In the first game of the fourth set, Coen aced Alonso three times in succession. Four games were carried to deuce in the first set and so even was the play that only five games were won to love.

Leading five games to two in the final set, Alonso and Hunter dropped their set when Coen won his service game. But the boy lost the deciding point when his return of Hunter's final service went wild.

Schenbergs Beat Y. M. H. A.

The Schenberg basket ball five defeated Y. M. H. A. last night on the latter team's floor, 25-18. It was the first defeat for the Y on its home floor in six games. Crystal of the winners, with 10 points, was high scorer. Larner starred for the Y. Next Sunday the Y. M. H. A. will play in Kansas City and a week later will oppose the New Orleans Y. M. H. A. team here.

Introducing Rose Fitzsimmons At Feast for Another Bride

Bob's Showing of Illuminated Picture at Dinner Party Proved Undying Love for Acrobatic Performer, Although He Had Two Other Brides.

INSTALLMENT XVII of "Ruby Robert," by Robert H. Davis

UNQUESTIONABLY the individual who had the most influence on Bob Fitzsimmons's career was Rose, his second wife, the sister of Martin Julian. She knew him to be a man of keen exuberance, actuated by whimsical impulses. He had a mania for elaborate display at his dinner table. All the silver, glassware and paraphernalia of gastronomic ceremony were required before he sat down to feast. The children were required to be in their places at regular hours, and no nibbling between meals.

The most extraordinary dinner I ever attended under Bob's roof I arranged to celebrate his marriage to Julia Gifford in 1905. The wedding took place out West while Bob was traveling with his theatrical troupe.

FITZ.

I was commissioned by wire to open the Bath House Beach house, which was already completely furnished, and made all necessary arrangements with lavish hand. Invitations were issued, principally to the gentry of the press, with a smattering of kindly neighbors and a few old-time pals. The couple were due to arrive about 8 o'clock.

It seemed to me as though nothing could be improved. Dan Hickey and I stood in the main vestibule and inspected the layout.

The Lighted Panel.

IMMEDIATELY over the grand piano in the main hallway my eye fell upon a dark panel about 5 feet in height and 3 in width. It flashed upon me that that seemingly harmless rectangle deserved careful consideration and a swift decision. Beyond its glassy surface was a cluster of electric lights, operated by a push button located at the main entrance of the vestibule, the object being to illuminate a gorgeous photographic transparency of the late Rose Julian garbed in tights and spangles of the acrobatic role which she played in the latter '80s as one of the Julian family.

A cold chill ran through me. I turned to Hickey.

"Dan, do you suppose Bob would have the nerve when he enters the front door to push the button on that picture?"

There was only one thing to do. The electric plug controlling this object of art was in the basement into which I dove immediately and withdrew it.

I emerged from the basement just as Bob stepped from his carriage and led the new bride up the steps into the house. A salvo of applause greeted the couple. Bob gently urged the bride forward into the vestibule and then he reached out and pressed the button. There was no illumination. An expression of pain pranced across his face, but before he could recover, Hickey forced him into the drawing-room.

We both felt that the danger line had been crossed and that Bob would, in the flow of good cheer, forget the gallant idea.

A battery of waiters served the dinner without delay. Bob and his bride occupying the head of the table.

As the evening wore on and mirth multiplied we relaxed our vigilance. The guests mingled in joy and accord throughout the brilliantly illuminated homestead. The bride, to her own accompaniment, sang several of the songs that had helped to contribute to her celebrity as an artist. Everybody made a friendly speech.

Introducing Rose.

AT 2:00 a. m. someone observed that Fitzsimmons had disappeared. We thought perhaps he had gone out on the lawn to cool his fevered brow or perhaps retired to get some sleep. Insofar as his absence had not been observed by the majority of the guests, no confusion ensued. With the hope of keeping the procession of gayety in motion, I induced the new Mrs. Fitzsimmons to sing another song which I announced in a loud voice.

The guests reassembled on the ground floor and the singer resumed her seat at the piano. Before she had got well into the first bar every light in the house went out.

An appalling silence ensued. From the basement came sounds suggesting that somebody was falling over all the stored furniture in Bath Beach.

In due course somebody floundered up the stairs, picked his way through the guests and pressed the electric switch at the entrance of the front door. Instantly there appeared in the panel over the piano in all its exquisite coloring the figure of Rose Julian, livelier, prettier and more entrancing than the Venus de Milo.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons, with her hands still on the keyboard, seemed completely overpowered. The ex-champion of the world, quite disheveled but obviously satisfied waved his hand at the picture and in a clear voice introduced:

"Rose Fitzsimmons!"

He pressed the button again and plunged the scene into darkness. Hickey and I found our way to the basement stairway, readjusted the plugs and untangled the social scenery. Ruby Robert, with an air of one who had done his full duty to the memory of a loved one, returned to the banquet hall cajoling the bride in transit. Be it recorded to her credit that she accepted the proceedings with infinite grace.

The festivities were resumed and before the guests took their departure a general atmosphere of complete undertsanding, even admiration for the interlude, hovered over all.

The Flame of His Life.

BOB and his new bride were not together for long. His heart and his life and his soul was Rose and all that came to him apart from her was mere glamour.

Teno Ziller, whom he married in 1915, brought a certain quiet and consolation to his declining years, but Rose was his flame and his existence.

I reserve for conclusion a story that in my mind invests both Bob and Rose with a nameless distinction.

On the morning of the Carson fight Mrs. Fitzsimmons retired to her bedroom and closed the door. Bob seemed to have the feeling that something of tremendous significance was afoot. He disappeared into the hall leading to her chamber. Almost immediately he reappeared and beckoned me to follow him on tiptoe. Reluctantly I complied. We could hear her slow, deliberate speech through the thin partition. The wife was on her knees praying, not for the defeat of Corbett, but for her husband's victory.

I pulled Robert away from the door and got him back into the sitting room. Bob's chin was trembling, and he was quite inarticulate. I suggested that it might not be a bad idea for him to add his prayers to the Most High.

"No," he said thickly. "What's the use? If 'E won't do it for 'er, 'E won't do it for me."

THE END.

Sara De Sota Is Gold Cup Winner

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5.—The Sara de Sota, piloted by Fred Blosom of Sarasota, climaxed a day of thrills by winning the 25-mile gold cup race in the feature event of the Tampa Bay Regatta late today. The time was 32 minutes, 19 seconds.

Sara de Sota was out in front practically all of the way and finished 10 seconds ahead of Miss Tampa, driven by Otis Beard, Tampa. Palm Beach Days, piloted by W. P. McBigelow of Palm Beach, was third.

The interstate trophy of the American Power Boat Association was awarded Forest Adair, Atlanta, owner of the Sara de Sota and the other prizes, including $3500 in cash, distributed at a dinner and reception given by the Davis Island Yacht Club tonight.

The thrills were provided when four boats were upset, throwing their drivers into the water, but in each case pilots and craft were rescued.

At the start of the game the Billikens got into the lead, but the advantage was short-lived and the count at the end of the half was 10 to 5 in favor of the visitors.

Cleveland Beats Roosevelt and Soldan Wins

Victors Remain Tied for Second Place in High School Basket Race.

The Cleveland and Soldan basket ball team remain a tie for second place in the High School League as a result of vanquishing their respective foes last night.

Cleveland ended its season by defeating Roosevelt, 1926-27 champions, in a fast game on the Cleveland court, 29 to 23, while Soldan crushed Beaumont at Beaumont, 26 to 14. Beaumont, previous to last night's game, shared a tie for second place with Cleveland and Soldan. The Soldan team will have a chance to gain undisputed possession of second place Wednesday when it meets Central.

In its game against Roosevelt Cleveland took the lead in the first quarter, but a spurt by the Rough Riders enabled them to lead at the half, 13 to 12. Weingart was high scorer of the game with 11 points.

The majority of the few chances Soldan gave Beaumont at the basket were lost by erratic shooting. The work of Constance and Doris featured for the Soldan team, which played minus the presence of its coach, Harry White.

Harvard Wins Tight Indoor Track Battle

Syracuse Mile Relay Team Sets Record in Eastern College Meet.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Harvard's well-balanced array of track and field stars tonight captured the indoor intercollegiate team championship for the second successive year defeating Cornell, Yale and Penn State in a sensational four-cornered battle.

The result was in doubt until the final event, the broad jump, in which Arthur French, Crimson football star, placed fourth to register the two points that clinched the victory.

Penn State, a strong title contender from the start, lost its bid for victory when the team's distance star, Bill Cox, after winning the mile race, failed to place in the two mile run, dropping out as Horace Benson of Cornell swept on to victory.

The biggest upset of the competition for individual honors came in the pole vault when Sabin Carr of Yale, the favorite and world's indoor record holder, was tied for first place by Steve Bradley of Princeton, the 1926 champion, both cleared 13 feet.

Edvin Wide, famous Swedish runner, easily conquered a half dozen college runners in an exhibition handicap race of one and a half miles. Conceding liberal margins, Wide caught and passed all his opponents, breaking the tape in six minutes, 44 4-10 seconds and leading his nearest rival, Temple of Union, by about 75 yards. This was considerably behind world's record time.

The Syracuse one-mile relay team raced to a new indoor intercollegiate record in a thrilling battle with Georgetown and Holy Cross. The speedy Syracuse quartet set the pace from the start, but it was a nip and tuck race until the last leg when Chet Cooke, Negro star and Syracuse anchor runner, flashed a great finish to break the tape eight yards in front of Burgess of Holy Cross yielded second place to Burgess in the closing dash.

Cook turned the last 1-4 mile in the sensational time of 49 seconds flat, to give Syracuse the new record mark of three minutes, 21 4-10 seconds. This clipped four-tenths of a second off the former record set by Georgetown in 1926.

The complete team scores:

Harvard 23 3-7; Cornell 21 7-10; Yale 20 1-2; Penn State 19; Pennsylvania 14 2-7; Dartmouth 13 1-2; Georgetown 11 5-7; Boston College 9; Princeton 8 1-2; Syracuse 4; Columbia 4; Union, Holy Cross, Bowdoin and Brown, 3 each; Colgate 1.

BROWNS

HOWLEY TO TAKE 22 PLAYERS ON TWO-DAY TRIP

Sisler and Sturdy to Alternate at First Base in Early Contests—Williams Will Be Used as Pinch-Hitter in Sarasota Battle.

From a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 5.—A brief pitching warmup, scheduled for tomorrow, stands between the Browns and the first exhibition game of the season, Monday at Sarasota, the training camp of the Giants, the St. Louisans will meet the New Yorkers. After that the Browns will be extremely busy battling National League teams.

Following the game comes one with Buffalo at Palmetto, Tuesday, and another with the Reds at Orlando, Friday. Three days then intervene before the Browns face another foe, the Brooklyn Nationals visiting here, March 15. Other games with Reds, Robins, Braves and Giants fill in the time until March 24, when the Missourians break camp and start North with a dozen battles before St. Louis is reached.

22 Men Will Make Trip.

It may be said that, if any of the major league teams training in this State, are ready for exhibition games, the Browns are. The cold weather of a few days' duration has moderated enough to allow the athletes to go through the paces and the spirit of the Browns has been such as to record a certain advance in conditioning work.

The fact that Manager Howley is taking 22 men to Sarasota and Palmetto would indicate that he figures them ready. This is true of the entire squad, with the exception of one or two of the veteran pitchers and some of the late arrivals.

While he is not likely to play, Kenny Williams will make the trip for pinch-hitting purposes. There is no doubt that Howley is much impressed with the power of Ken's bat and a situation may arise where the Grant's Pass star may fit in these exhibitions. Schang, Bing Miller, Vangilder, Zachary and Nevers will be left at home under orders to take regular workouts.

Only three pitchers who may be classed as veterans will make the trip—Ballou, Gaston and Wingard—and it is not likely that Gaston will be called upon in either of the games, unless some crisis arises where steadiness of pitching may mean the ball game. Wingard, though, is expected to toil, but the burden will rest on the shoulders of Blaeholder, Falk, Beck, Stewart and Bolen. Ballou, working faithfully, has rounded into pitching form in record time and those who, last year in St. Louis, were not especially pleased when the former Washington pitcher took the mound, are likely to be pleasantly surprised in 1927.

The work of Fred Schulte, the high priced Milwaukee outfielder, is sure to attract interest, not only by observers of the Browns, but in other camps. Even in these days of high baseball finance, $100,000 is quite a sum to be paid for a ball player and much of the success of the Browns the coming year depends on the 1926 American Association sensation. Harry Rice is in condition—in better condition than he has been for some time and Herschel Bennett, picked to play left field against New York and Buffalo, is about ready for regular action.

Sisler and Sturdy Alternate.

Sisler will divide the first base work with Guy Sturdy while Otis Miller and Wallie Gerber will split the shortstop labor. Mullen and Paul Richards will be used at third base. Frank O'Rourke will play second, while Dixon, O'Neill and Tony Rego are drawn to do the catching.

Manager Howley is anxious to make a good showing on this short trip. Nothing depends on the result of the games, of course, but there is the morale of the club to be thought of and it is surprising how much a good spring beginning means. A year ago, in Palmetto, the Browns found a tartar in Buffalo and had to labor 18 innings to gain a 3-3 tie.

Returning late Tuesday night, the Browns will start preparation for the Orlando game with the Reds.

PAULINO AND HEENEY WILL MEET MARCH 23

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper, has been matched to fight Tom Heeney, Australian heavyweight, in a ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden, March 23, it was announced today.

Uzcudun took a decision from Knute Hansen in a match at the Garden Feb. 25. Heeney knocked out Charley Anderson in the ninth round of a 10-round match on the same card.

EBENEZER CAPTURES BASKETBALL TITLE

Ebenezer, as a result of its victory over St. Mathews, 18 to 16, won the basketball title of the South Side Evangelical Junior League. Both teams finished the regular season tied for first place, necessitating a play-off. Ketter starred for the winners, while Kreyling and Temper were outstanding for the losers.

Three Women's World Swimming Marks Lowered

Agnes Geraghty and Adelaide Lambert Star in Philadelphia Meet.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—Mermaids of the New York Womens' Association splashed their way to three world records at the Penn Athletic Club tonight.

Dates and Places Confuse English Channel Swimmer

He Was About to Sail for U. S. to Swim From Youngstown, O., to Canada, May 1.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 5.—Lured by an opportunity to make American dollars by engaging in what he understood was a swim from Youngstown, O., to Toronto, Ontario, on Labor day, Norman Leslie Derham, who conquered the English Channel last year, forgot to inquire about the date of America's Labor day, assuming it to be on May 1, as in Europe, and made all plans to leave for America on the Aquitania on March 9.

At the last moment he asked the Associated Press about the swim and learned, much to his surprise, that floating ice in the Great Lakes might seriously interfere with swimming there at this season of the year, not to mention the geographical difficulties to be encountered in swimming from Youngstown, O., to Toronto, which might take him over the Niagara Falls, as well as over considerable dry land.

When he learned that the proposed swim was from Youngstown, N. Y., to Toronto and that Labor day in the United States is the first Monday in September he went back to his home at South End. He plans to start channel training next Monday, and says he will swim from England to France before going to the United States this summer.

BETHLEHEM CRUSHES PHILADELPHIA, 7 TO 0

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 5.—The Bethlehem Steel Soccer team moved a notch closer to clinching the American Soccer League pennant here today by trouncing the Philadelphia eleven in a league game, 7 to 0. The steel workers scored three goals in the first half and added four to this total in the last 45 minutes of play.

With the seven goals scored against Philadelphia, the champions have counted 18 goals in the last three games against one for their opponents.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Defeating the New York Giants by the score of 2 goals to 1 in their American Soccer League game here today, the Newark Soccer Club sprung a great surprise, as the home club was favored to win the match in an easy fashion. A crowd of 3000 fans turned out.

Davey Brown, Giant captain and star forward, was compelled to retire, due to injuries.

Cardinals Field Well In First Practice Game

a mistake and that he was scheduled to work another inning.

With one out in the fourth, Frisch tripled over Dyer's head, a tremendous wallop, and scored when Bottomley lined a single to right. Danny Clark, slugger from Syracuse, crashed a double to left and Bottomley scored, the two runs tying the count. The scrubs had counted two in the first inning on a single by Nemo Yengst, Dyer's triple and Reinhart's single.

Some More Scoring.

Hal Smith, lanky right-hander, had the Regulars retired in order in the fifth, but Catcher Chambers dropped a third strike on Walter Roettger, new outfielder from Syracuse and Roettger, reached first, Southworth then singled, sending Roettger to third and on a double steal, Roettger scored, putting the Regulars ahead.

Derringer started pitching in the seventh, and in that inning the Scrubs tied the score. Dyer started the rally with a double to left, Toporcer reached first and Dyer third on Flowers' high throw. Reinhart walked, filling the bases and Dyer scored on Holm's infield out.

With one out in the eighth, Derringer walked Bronson, an Avon Park native; Smith singled, Yengst doubled, Dyer grounded out, Toporcer doubled, Reinhart singled, Holm tripled and Abbott and Nadolson singled, the seven safeties and a base on balls producing six runs.

The Regulars scored twice in the ninth inning. Bell singled to center and when Holm fumbled Clark's single to left, Bell reached third and Clark second. Burns struck out, and Flowers singled to center, scoring Bell and Clark.

Frisch's Work Pleasing.

Fielding was ragged on both sides, as might be expected at this early stage of the training season, but there were some clever plays.

The Regulars turned three double plays, Bell starting one and Flowers one with Frisch as middle man and Flowers turning one without assistance. Frisch's work at second was highly pleasing. He handled everything that came his way and his throwing was as accurate as in mid-season.

Frank Snyder caught part of the game for the Regulars and while his backstopping was all that could be desired, he showed that he needed work to strengthen his throwing arm. He had a man trapped off first base, but his throw was wild.

Jake Flowers fielded cleverly with the exception of a wild throw. He had too much time and loafed on the throw instead of setting himself. His work on ground balls was excellent, a fine back-handed stop far to his right featuring his performance.

Six Pitchers in Contest.

Runssell Miller, Ray Quincy and Derringer pitched for the Regulars, with Shellberg, Smith and Joe Poetz doing the throwing for the Yannigans.

It appeared that the Yannigans had the better of it in the pitching department, Scheilberg's curves and Smith's fine speed causing the Regulars considerable trouble. The pitchers, as pointed out several days ago, are far ahead of the batters, and it was expected that there would not be much heavy batting.

Roettger arrived this morning and was rushed into the game. He played center field for Syracuse last year and was voted the position on an all-International League team by an almost unanimous vote. He is a St. Louis product, having played four years at Yeatman High School and four at Illinois University. George Huff, Illinois athletic director, said that Roettger was the best looking ball player he had ever seen on any college team. Roettger is regarded as certain to remain on the Cardinal roster—a promising candidate for regular duty, if Blades and Hafey are slow in returning to their best form.

How the Teams Lined Up.

Manager O'Farrell sat on the bench and watched his athletes perform, his only part in the game being a time at bat when he hit for Pitcher Miller in the third inning. Bob connected with the ball, but sent a fly to left field.

Billy Southworth, Roettger and Danny Clark formed the outfield for the Regulars. Clark took care of his field satisfactorily and hit the ball solidly each time at bat, getting a two-bagger to left in the fourth inning. He impresses as a dangerous hitter, a sturdily-built athlete with a fine swing and a punch to all fields. In the role of pinch hitter and utility outfielder he will add much to the strength of the world champions.

The Regular infield, as it will be unless Thevenow signs and reports, was on duty with Bottomley on first, Frisch at second, Flowers at short and Bell at third. The combination worked well, though Flowers would have to do wonders to make the public forget young Thomas Thevenow.

Dyer and Reinhart, pitchers, and Watty Holm, utility outfielder, patrolled the outer garden for the Yannigans. Abbott, a catcher, played first; Yengst, a protege of Bill McKechnie, was at second; George Toporcer at short and Bronson at third. Frank Chambers and Dave Nadolson divided the catching burden.

Two Promising Catchers.

Burns, a catcher from Houston, relieved Frank Synder after five innings. Chambers and Burns appear to be the most promising of the young catchers and one of them probably will be retained for third string duty, which will not be heavy with O'Farrell and Snyder on hand.

Tomorrow the Cardinals will have a day of rest, with two workouts scheduled for Monday and an exhibition game against the Florida University nine on Tuesday. Wednesday will see the first major league opposition, the Boston Braves meeting the Cardinals here.

President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals missed today's workout. He had a fever last night and today was ordered to remain in his room. His illness was diagnosed as a cold, with flu symptoms.

Outfielders Douthit nd Hafey are due in camp tomorrow and when they arrive Thevenow and Flint Rhem, holdouts, will be the only absentees.

Warm weather returned and a scorching sun beat down on the athletes in their first practice game. Continued warm weather is forecast.

Pennsylvania Boxers Oppose St. Louis Boys

Knost, White, Power, Staunton and Other Amateur Stars on Tuesday's Card Here.

Eastern and Western district candidates for national championship honors in the heavyweight and featherweight divisions are scheduled to compete in intersectional bouts, arranged as special events at the amateur boxing tournament to be conducted under the auspices of the People's Motorbus A. C. at the new St. Louis University Gymnasium, Tuesday night. Two Western district champions are also numbered among 27 boxers who have filed entries.

Dave Knost, Sherman Park heavyweight, who battled his way to runner-up honors in the National A. A. U. meet at Boston last year, meets John Cakacur of the Uniontown, Pa., Y. M. C. A., in one of the features. The other intersectional contest brings together Pete White, featherweight star, and John McClearnan of Pittsburg, Pa. McClearnan is a former captain of the Penn State College boxing team.

Knost and White are members of the Western district team scheduled to represent St. Louis in the national junior championships at Cincinnati, March 19 and 21. Frank Power, South Broadway middleweight, and Jerry Hoffman, lightheavyweight star of the Sherman Park troupe, are other district titleholders on Tuesday night's entry list. Power and Hoffman will draw for pairings in the open events if other class A punchers enroll for their respective weight divisions.

An interclub special of the Motorbus card will feature Joe Staunton of the South Broadway A. C., and George Campanelli of the Red Ball Gymnasium, in a featherweight bout. Arrangements were under way for an interclub special between Reggie Wood and Eddie Burke, local lightweight rivals, but tourney officials abandoned plans for the match when Burke accepted an invitation yesterday to box Dwight Fryer, district lightweight champion, at Little Rock, Ark., next Wednesday night. Nine organizations are represented on the list of 27 entries for the open events.

THE HUNTING - - CALL - - By ALEC MERMOD

Some sportsmen who have not been able to investigate for themselves will be interested to learn how quail fared during the heavy sleet storm in January. Many birds, including whole coveys, were reported found frozen during the inclement stretch, in addition to being starved. From one source came the information that one covey, barely able to fly across the road, had been observed in Forest Park. The same party had heard of other coveys in as poor or worse condition, but could not verify this information.

As a matter of fact, the birds in Forest Park did suffer for lack of food and shelter and many died. However, that is not startling, for food is scarce in the park and the birds do not have access to the farmer's barnyard as they do away from the city.

From the meager reports we have had and from the writer's personal observation, the birds in low, flat country suffered, but in the hilly country they fared much better, and came through with a loss not to exceed 10 per cent. The loss in unprotected bottom lands probably was as high as 20 per cent.

Natives of Europe.

Speaking of quail, most sportsmen know that our "Bob White" belongs to the partridge family and really should not be called a quail, which is a different bird and is not a native of America, but hails from Europe. It has the migration instinct to quite an extent. These birds move in large numbers out of Central and Southern Europe to Africa and it is claimed that they are trapped by the thousand along the coast.

If we are to believe the reports of this migration the birds wait near the sea until a favorable wind appears when they rise in immense flocks and practically sail across the sea between Europe and Africa.

The late Sir William Northrop McMillan, a native of St. Louis, but later of England and British East Africa, once told me that he had shot quail in parts of Abyssinia. He likened these African birds to our blue or scaled quail of New Mexico.

McMillan was a mighty hunter in every sense of the word. He measured 6 foot 3 and when I first met him weighed 220 pounds. He was a splendid shot with either rifle or shotgun and was a fair shot with revolver.

He and I spent part of two winters in New Mexico before and during the opening of the big irrigation project on the Pecos in Lincoln and Eddy counties.

Antelope were plentiful and quail could be seen by the thousand, while ducks were so plentiful and easy to approach there was no sport in shooting them.

The Bore of the Shotgun.

We have often been asked just what is meant by the gauge or bore of a shotgun, so here's the answer:

Years ago before the invention of small shot and before the days of the grooved rifle, all guns were smooth bore and round balls were used and the size of the bore was designated by the number of these round balls to the pound. Hence, 20-gauge meant that there were 20 balls to the pound, 12-gauge, 12 to the pound, etc. Fifty years ago guns were made as large as four gauge and eight gauge, but they are now a thing of the past. Today there are even few 10-gauge guns being used.

Trap Shooting.

While trap shooting is not new and has had its ups and downs during the last quarter of a century, it seems to be on an upward trend at the present time and bids fair to reach its highest peak during the coming year. Game is getting less plentiful with the result that there will be more interest taken in bursting clay targets.

Trap shooting is one of the cleanest sports, and as it is conducted in this country there is very little chance for trickery.

Twenty years ago there were a great many professional shooters employed by the various gun and ammunition companies. These men attended the different tournaments throughout the country and demonstrated the merits of the particular gun, powder or shell they represented. These shooters were not permitted to contest for any money or prize.

Their duties consisted of making a good score to be used for advertising purposes and to help the beginner improve his score. The professional was in demand at all tournaments both as a drawing card on account of his shooting ability and because he was a good contributor, buying his shells from the club at retail prices and shooting quite a bit before and during the tournament.

I recall one tournament held in Kansas City where there were 16 professional shooters. Today the paid representative is conspicuous by his absence and there are very few on the circuit. He has apparently outlived his usefulness because of the many amateurs who shoot for the prizes today.

The status of the amateur trap-shooter is exactly opposite to an amateur in any other sport, in as much as he is permitted to shoot for money, while the professional cannot. Members of country clubs, seeking diversion in sport, are now equipped with shooting grounds. The latest club to install traps is the Riverview Club. The opening shoot took place Feb. 19 and was well attended.

NAVIGATOR DEFEATS KING NADI BY NOSE IN NEW ORLEANS FEATURE

LOSER IS GIVEN WEAK RIDE BY JOCKEY EAGAN

Beneficent Is Third in Commonwealth Handicap—Devon Comes With Rush to Beat Ragtime in Secondary Attraction.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—Exhibiting his best riding skill, George Ellis rode the Greentree Stable's Navigator to a nose victory over J. J. Troxler's King Nadi in the Commonwealth Handicap feature at Jefferson Park this afternoon. King Nadi, ridden by the inexperienced C. Eagan, raced like much the best of the two, and with riders reversed probably would have won. The race was over a distance of one mile and 70 yards. Beneficent carried the Idle Hour Farm Stable colors into third place, eight lengths back of the leaders. Sea Rocket and Alleviator completed the field.

The race between Navigator and King Nadi was as thrilling as any witnessed here this winter. They became lapped after going three furlongs, and inches separated them as they alternated in the lead over the last five furlongs. Through the stretch, Ellis was master after he had forced Eagan to race King Nadi wide on the last two turns. In the straightaway, Ellis gave Navigator the finest possible guidance and the son of Broomstick, responding gamely, rewarded his rider for his efforts. Eagan's riding mitigated against King Nadi, as he handled the King James colt weakly in the final drive. King Nadi was the choice, with Navigator next in demand.

The distance was negotiated in 1:44, with Navigator carrying 115 pounds to 122 on King Nadi.

The next best race, a handicap at six furlongs, in which seven older horses started, brought an unexpected victory for Devon, which finished with a terrific rush and beat Ragtime by a head. The latter had raced in front of the field almost from the start. Birley M. C. finished third, while the well backed Senator Norris and the Greentree's Stable pair, Stirrup Cup and Temeraire, were among the unplaced.

Creek Indian, from the Audley Farm stable, re-established himself as a formidable eligible for the Louisiana Derby, by racing to an easy victory over nine other three-year-olds in the Blackthorn Purse. The race was at six furlongs with Creek Indian beating Scotland one and one-half lengths. Fannie May was third in a close finish with the fast closing Henry Sommers. Best Friend and Bottom Dollar, early forward ones, quit badly.

Long Point added another purse to his score by defeating Dolly Bay, Hats Up and eight other platers at six furlongs in the opening race. After disposing of Brunswick, Long Point went on to win by a comfortable margin.

Live Let Live, a maiden, won over a cheap field in the second race. He was up in the stretch to win from Just, with Infante third.

It was Ray's second winner of the day. He previously had ridden Policeman Day to victory.

Live Let Live, owned by Alderman J. J. Coughlin of Chicago, turned a complete form reversal in winning the second race at Jefferson Park. In his last previous out Live Let Live was beaten by 17 lengths by a group of cheap 3-year-olds. A $2 ticket on the winner called for $24.40. Live Let Live was grouped in the field with Blossom House and Mercutio.

Gaffney, making his second start in two days, won the opening event on the card at Miami yesterday from a band of ordinary horses. Gaffney paid $16.30 for $2 to win. Friday, Gaffney ran sixth in the third race. He got off to a good lead, but tired badly after reaching the turn and finished seven lengths in the rear of the winner.

Mose Shapoff saddled the winner of the second race, Policeman Day, ridden by Byron Ray. The horse, a castoff of the Greentree Stable, ran over a field of fair horses to win the race in 1:12. Policeman Day beat Ball Gee in a drive by a nose. The winner is owned by L. B. Draun, Louisville turfman.

PACKS PLANS TO SHOW JOE STECHER ON MAT CARD, MARCH 15

Anton Stecher, brother and manager of Joe Stecher, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis today, according to Promoter Tom Packs, who stated last night that he would confer with the titleholder's brother about terms for a match between Stecher and either Paul Jones or the winner of a proposed elimination tryout in which Jones may be sent against either John Pesek or Jimmy Londos.

Packs announced that he wired offers yesterday to both Pesek and Londos of a match with Jones at the Coliseum on March 15. The promoter stated he notified both grapplers he would match Jones with Stecher for his next show in the event one of the proposed elimination bouts is not closed at once.

Jones defeated Allan Eustace at the Coliseum last Friday night.

Classics Would Be Banned Under New A. B. C. Law

Milwaukee Association Drafts Rules to Be Voted on at Peoria, March 18.

That officials of the American Bowling Congress intend to carry on the fight against the "world's classic individual championships" is evinced by a new rule, drafted by the Milwaukee Bowling Association, to be voted upon at the annual meeting of the A. B. C. delegates at Peoria, Ill., March 18. However, this rule is but one of the few changes to be voted upon at the annual gathering, which is expected to be the most important in the game's history.

Recently when the classic officials announced a championship tournament to be held at Detroit, in April, A. L. Langtry, secretary of the A. B. C., announced that bowlers competing would be blacklisted from the national body. The new law, drawn up by the Milwaukee body, will do just this. Langtry's hand is seen in the drafting of the rule, in that he is a resident of Milwaukee and makes that city his home.

The Rule in Detail.

The new rule, and the one which will give the delegates a lot of food for thought, reads as follows:

Rule 43: To bar forever from competition in all tournaments that have been approved of, and sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress, all individuals and all teams that participate in any of the so-called "World's Bowling Championship" tournaments, classics, or any bowling tournament that signifies under the name of "World's Bowling Championships," except American Bowling Congress "World's Bowling Championships."

To bar forever from membership, all individuals, members of corporations and partnerships who promote, conduct or participate in the conduction of such tournaments, and who may also grant medals, escutcheons, badges, souvenirs, and the like from membership in the American Bowling Congress.

To bar the holding of any of our certified city, State or sanctioned tournaments, from any bowling esfablisment controlled in part or in the whole, by any parties outlined above who promote tournaments of this character.

The rule shall also apply to promoters and participants in tournaments of any character whose entry fee shall be over five dollars ($5.00) in each event, or any one event, with the exception of match games, which shall be previously declared as match games by teams or individuals without any championship of any character at stake.

If carried by a vote of the delegates, the Milwaukee delegation wants the rule to become effective immediately.

Otto Stein Is Entered.

Otto Stein Jr., St. Louis star, has sent his entry for the classic, while Joe Fliger, Chicago star, and Joe Falcora of New York recently qualified for the championship.

Judge Howard of Chicago will place before the delegation a proposal that all changes go into effect next Aug. 1. If this passes, the 1927 classic title event will not be affected.

Another rule change of interest, to be introduced by Howard, will limit the number of alley owners or managers rolling with a team to one, instead of two, permitted under the present rule.

Practice on Weak Strokes Found Real Valuable Asset In Improving Tennis Game

Helen Wills Recommends Idea to Finished Player as Well as Beginner; Finds Plenty of Benefit in Plan Herself, She Says.

By Helen Wills.

What are you going to do about improving your tennis this season? Are you going to trust to the powers that be that simply playing set after set will improve you game? Or are you going to use judgment and decide that the powers that be will need your help if any wonders are to be worked. To borrow from Franklin, Lady Luck helps the tennis player who helps himself.

It is safe to say that nowhere in the world is there a tennis player who does not wish to play a better game. From champions to beginners there is the desire for improvement, the desire to make the stroke more smooth, balls balls faster and more accurate, service more dependable, for the better the game the greater the pleasure. The fun of a thing well done, as well as the fun from the thrills of the game, lead the player to try to improve his tennis.

HELEN WILLS.

I'm sure no player, no matter how good he is, even the very best, would say he thought his game was perfect. Games can't be perfect, but they can always be nearer and nearer that ideal state.

Now that spring is coming, and the weather begins to be more suitable for tennis, many people who play will be looking over their rackets and planning for the games that are to come with the pleasant sunny days. No matter whether one is a beginner, or whether he knows quite a lot about the game, there are several things one can do so that one's tennis will improve.

Stroke Practice Valuable.

For instance, there is stroke practice which improves the game wonderfully. A number of the very best players practice strokes. That is, if they feel that a particular stroke, their backhand, for example, does not measure up to the rest of their game, they go out on the court with some other player and try out the back-hand stroke for 15 or 20 minutes, before their regular games. Sometimes it is hard to find some one who is willing to return the ball again and again, but usually, there is more than one person who wants to practice a certain stroke. The "I'll give you 10 and then you give me 10" plan works out well, and lends variety to the practice.

Sometimes the player executes the stroke itself satisfactorily, but finds it very difficult to send the ball in a certain direction. Practice of this sort enables him to try the same shot on consecutive strokes, while in a regular game, the opportunity to make this certain shot might come only now and then. Strangely enough, from experience, I have found that in a match the ball that is hardest to return always comes, seemingly, at the most crucial time, when one has most need of the point.

Youngsters Work Hard.

At one tennis club in Berkeley, I frequently see players out for stroke practice, and it seems that, of late, many more have discovered its value. There are several of the junior players, about 13 or 14 years of age, who are very keen about it, and seem to have a great deal of fun trying their strokes.

The important thing in stroke practice is to be sure that you are doing the stroke in the correct fashion. Then, if you give it a good try-out of 15 or 20 minutes before your regular game, it is bound to improve. Stroke practice is, in itself, very interesting when you get into it. To me, sometimes it is almost as much fun as a regular game. When the stroke begins to show improvements and the results of the practice are evident to the player himself, he is pleased beyond words—if you are a tennis player you will know exactly what I mean.

LOCKHART SETS TWO NEW SPEEDWAY MARKS

By the Associated Press.

CULVER CITY, Cal., March 5.—Frank Lockhart of Los Angeles today toured the mile and a quarter Culver City track in 31 1-5 seconds, a speed of 144 2-10 miles an hour, to establish a new world's record for all size automobiles on a bowl.

His speed, made while qualifying for the 250-mile championship race for 91.5 cubic inch displacement cars here tomorrow afternoon, surpassed by more than two miles an hour the mark set last year by Bennett Hill with a larger motor on the mile and a half Atlantic City track.

Lockhart was timed by Fred J. Wagner, official American Automobile Association starter, and Art Klein, assistant starter.

The mark made by the 23-year-old driver also eclipsed the world's straightaway record of 141.3 miles an hour for 122 cubic inch displacement cars, established by Tommy Milton in 1924 at Muroc Lake, Cal.

Track coaches of Beaumont High School and Clayton High School are preparing to enter representative teams in the prep events of the annual Western A. A. Soldan High School has already filed 12 entries for the district carnival, while seven entries were submitted a few days ago by the St. Louis Country Day School. Other prep institutions represented on the list of early entries are: Wentworth Military Academy of Lexington, Mo.; Kemper Military Academy of Boonville, Mo., and the Benld (Ill.) High School.

Coach Schultz of Riddick Playground filed six entries yesterday with Secretary Bob Probst, for the women's events of the New Coliseum carnival. Members of the Riddick squad will compete in the women's 200-yard relay race, women's 50-yard open handicap dash and women's open handicap running high jump.

Four teams are now enrolled for the women's relay feature. The other contenders in this event are: Loretto Academy, Curlee Clothing Co. and the New Coliseum A. C. Miss Dolores Boeckman, captain of the New Coliseum squad, has been sending her team of feminine relay candidates through a series of training sprints during the past three weeks in preparation for a determined effort to retain the district championship title captured by the team in last year's meet.

Steadman to Box Ross at Coliseum

Featherweights to Mix in Six-Round Bout at Thursday's Show.

Paul Steadman, local featherweight title claimant, and Jack Ross of Chicago, have signed articles for a six-round bout on next Thursday night's professional boxing program at the New Coliseum arena, according to an announcement from Matchmaker Jack Tippett.

Tippett also announced that Gene Riley and Roy Eckert, local lightweight maulers, had accepted terms for a six-round match. Riley's southpaw style of milling made him one of the most feared punchers in the amateur ranks. He was awarded the referee's decision over Eckert two years ago in an amateur tourney. Riley was floored twice and Eckert three times.

Other six-round contests will feature Henry Malcor of Carlinville, Ill., in a middleweight bout with Clarence "Kid" Shaulters of Scott Field; Clifford "Digger" Nelson of East St. Louis, in a flyweight match with Young Ketchel of this city.

Four preliminary bouts of four rounds each are planned.

Benny Nash Back In Forward Line For Ben Millers

Nationally Known Soccer Star Will Play Beside His Old Pal, Mulroy.

Declining to mark time while waiting for the next national challenge cup game, Manager Billy Foley of the Ben Millers will make a few changes in his lineup for today's league game in the hope that he will bring about a stronger scoring combination.

Foley announced yesterday that he will have Benny Nash, his great inside left forward, back in the game, playing in the position which he filled so capably last season. He has been inactive all year because of illness. This will necessitate shifting Joe Hennessy, who has been playing inside left, to inside right. In view of the fact that he may not be able to play a full game, Nash may be replaced in the second half, in which case Syl Currel will get a chance to show his tricks in the forward line.

A Brilliant Wing Combination.

Nash and his wingmate Tal Mulroy played in such sensational style in the national final against Bethlehem last spring that several American Soccer League clubs made overtures after the game, seeking to sign them. Nash was especially brilliant and he has earned recognition as one of the most skillful young soccer forwards in America. With Hennessy at inside right, the Millers will have a great forward line, provided Manager Foley keeps the combination intact long enough for the boys to develop some understanding.

Another change today will bring Tommy White into the game as a fullback, supplanting Frank Vaughn, who is ill. Vaughn suffered a slight concussion of the brain when he stopped with his head a terrific shot, two weeks ago.

Delaney in the Goal.

Manager Harry McCarthy of the White Bantams will also make a few changes. He will shoot a new fullback in Rogers formerly of the St. John Rovers, and he will have Delaney in goal.

The schedule today calls for two St. Louis Soccer League games, the opener between the White Bantams and Ben Millers and the second game between the Wellmans and Raitcans.

The first game will start at 2 o'clock.

DOG FANCIERS TO HOLD JOINT SHOW AT COLISEUM IN APRIL

Exhibitors of collies, pointers, setters and beagles in the annual benched show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club at the Coliseum April 1, 2 and 3, will have an opportunity to win double honors, as the St. Louis Collie Club, St. Louis Pointer and Setter Club and the St. Louis Beagle Club have arranged to hold their exhibitions at the same time and place.

The Collie Club show will be on April 1 and the Pointer and Setter and Beagle Club shows will be held on April 2. Points in these shows, as well as honors won in the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club events, will count in the championships.

R. I. Pautler, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, said yesterday the show is attracting attention throughout the country, and promises to be the largest and best exhibition of pedigreed canines ever seen in St. Louis. Entry blanks are now ready and premium lists will be ready by March 10. Gerald B. O'Reilly is president of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club.

"Pros" Gave Junior Team 27 Outs in Last Inning Just to "Show Them Up"

Athletics Retired 16 in a Row and Then Became "Careless" and Opponents Put Over Four Tallies.

NO. 3 — WHEN BASEBALL WAS YOUNG.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright, 1927.)

FEW baseball fans have ever been treated to a game in which 27 putouts were registered in one inning. Such a game was played in Philadelphia long before the present generation followers came into being, though not before there was a team called the Athletics.

It seems there always has been an outfit called the Athletics. Even when Benjamin Franklin was a young man in Philadelphia, walking down the street eating his loaf, and despite the fact that no baseball was visible around there at the time, there must have been some sort of playing combination called "Athletics."

All history in Philadelphia is redolent with that of the Athletics and if there is any history recorded before the beginning of the Athletics it doesn't matter much.

On this particular afternoon, when the Athletics had nothing better to do than give diversion to the fans of Philadelphia, they arranged to play with a junior team. The contest was thoroughly advertised over the city and there was a crowd of some size present. These juniors had a very good opinion of themselves and they were quite sure that they would win from the professional experts.

Pitcher Was a Star.

THE juniors had a pitcher who held his own with anything in the junior line on the west bank of the Delaware River, and they were "good at first base" and in the outfield, and also at second base. The Athletics in the old days were always good at first base, because the pick of first basemen seemed to come their way. In recent years they have been less fortunate. For two years they have been trying very hard to get a real first baseman, who can stand up throughout a season and catch the ball without blundering.

The game began, and for the first eight innings the juniors were unable to make a run. They were quite downcast. A lot of their friends were seated in the bleachers and the comments which came out of the bleachers were equally as impudent as they are now. Bleacherites never have softened in spirit since the beginning of baseball.

The game was so one-sided that the boss of the Athletics said to the boss of the juniors, "Now, just to give you fellows a chance, we are going to put 27 of you out in the ninth inning."

"Pros" Too Careless.

"JUST to show us up, you mean," said the crestfallen juniors. "But we're game. We'll play you that way, last inning for us, and you've got to put 27 of us out before the inning is over."

Thereupon, the Athletics went forth on the field and arranged themselves in their positions and the young men of the juniors grabbed their best bats and prepared to get all into the baneful team of professionals.

The Athletics put 16 of them out in succession. When the inning was over, the juniors had scored four runs, but the backers of the Athletics affirm to this day that they were scored only because the Athletics were a careless lot of darn fools, and that, if they had really played ball, they would have put out 27 players in succession and established a record that never could have been broken.

State Prep Cage Meet Opens Here Friday Morning

Final Games on Saturday; Winner and Runner-Up Go to Columbia.

The district eliminations of the Missouri State High School Athletic Association will open next Friday morning at the St. Louis University gymnasium with a game between Maplewood and Normandy High Schools, both of the County League. Sixteen of the 21 member schools comprising the St. Louis district are entered in the tournament and all will get into action in the first day's play.

Both the winning team and the runner-up will be entered in the final games at Columbia. Six other districts throughout the State will send two teams but only the winner will be entered from St. Joseph and Rolla since these districts have fewer member schools.

The eventual winners and the runner-up will have a strenuous day in the second day of the eliminations as it will be necessary for these teams to play three games, the final being set for 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

The pairings of the 1st round: 9 a. m., Maplewood vs. Normandy; 10 a. m., Beaumont vs. Webster; 11 a. m., Clayton vs. Jennings; 2 p. m., Soldan vs. St. Charles; 4 p. m., Cleveland vs. McBride; 5 p. m., University City vs. Kirkwood; 7:30 p. m., Chaminade vs. Webster Groves; 8:30 p. m., C. Have been helped by this authoritative booklet

Every radio set contains from one to a dozen fixed condensers. Do you know what they are for? Do you know how to test them to see whether they are working properly? Do you know that there is a way of changing the range of your tuning condensers?—of getting greater selectivity—of improving the tone? All through simple applications of fixed condensers.

The Dubilier Condenser Corporation is now supplying radio fans with a complete and authoritative explanation of the correct use of fixed condensers.

You have often envied the man who could look over your set and by inserting a small fixed condenser somewhere, greatly improve its tone and operation. Do this yourself. Perhaps some defect in reception that you have always thought could not be helped is due to an imperfect condenser.

This new booklet will also give you the most recent information on power amplifiers, filters and battery eliminators. Send 10 cents in stamps or coin for your copy.

Republican Majority Failed Coolidge In Short Session of 69th Congress

President's Pet Schemes Suffered Almost 100 Per Cent Defeat—Thwarted on Tax Reduction, Cruisers, Civil Control of Philippines and Many Nominations.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 5.

THREE salient facts stand out as the record of the second session of the sixty-ninth Congress is passed in review: the almost 100 per cent failure of the President to get his recommendations accepted; the astonishing activity of the Vice President, and the constant increase in the stature of Senator Reed of Missouri as a presidential possibility. The story of the session revolves, in large measure, about the deeds, doughty and otherwise, of these three.

The session began with the President recommending a tax refund. Congress turned a deaf ear. He recommended radio control by the Secretary of Commerce and got radio control by a commission. He recommended that no money be appropriated at this time for additional cruisers, and Congress appropriated for three. He asked in vain for power to deal with coal strike emergencies. He called for legislation to expedite railroad consolidation, and got nothing. He urged the transfer of the Philippine Islands from military to civil control. There was no response. He made it known that he opposed the McNary-Haugen bill, and the bill was passed.

Smitten in the Camp of His Party Friends

Such is the record of the President's defeats in a Congress containing a Republican majority of nine in the Senate and 61 in the House. It cannot be said they were due to an unholy alliance of the Democrats and the insurgent Republicans. On virtually every one of his major policies President Coolidge was opposed by some of the leading stalwarts among the Republicans. Speaker Longworth, for example, came down from the Rostrum in the House to argue for the cruiser appropriation, while in the Senate the Vice-President took an active part in the maneuvers that brought about the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill.

The second outstanding feature of the session was the departure of the Vice-President from the passive role that tradition has assigned to his office. He showed the McNary-Haugenites the way out of the Legislative morass in which their bill appeared to be lost. Likewise, he assisted the supporters of the Pepper-McFadden branch banking bill in getting that measure to a vote. But for his active aid it is likely that both measures would have been swamped. His intervention in behalf of the farm bill is the more remarkable in that it brought him into direct collision with the President—a condition almost without precedent in the relations of presidents and vice-presidents.

Dawes proved himself, moreover, a capable and alert presiding officer—the very antithesis of the Dawes whose untimely nap at the Willard Hotel early in his Vice Presidential career prevented the confirmation of Charles B. Warren as Attorney-General. He was a different Dawes, too, from the man who delivered a shrill-voiced lecture to the Senate at the opening of his term. The Senate which once heckled him grew to like him, and he carried on his off-stage negotiations without loss of popularity. Dawes emerges from the session with greatly increased prestige. With Frank O. Lowden, he profits politically from the President's veto of the farm bill. At the same time, he has improved his standing with the large banking interests by his effective work for the Pepper-McFadden bill.

Reed of Missouri Was Session's Outstanding Figure

Senator Reed of Missouri was the outstanding figure of the session. Corruption in public life was again his compelling theme. He pushed Frank L. Smith of Illinois, beneficiary of the Insull slush fund, off the doorstep of the Senate. Continuing the work of his Investigating Committee, he reported to the Senate his discoveries in Illinois and Pennsylvania and cited three witnesses, Samuel Insull included, for contempt. The end of the session found him in a spectacular fight with his cousin, David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, over the Missourian's effort to have the life of the Slush Fund Committee formally prolonged into the next Congress. The filibuster by David A. Reed was successful and the Missouri Reed was denied also the specific right to open the ballot boxes of the last Pennsylvania general election.

Among the more important measures killed by the filibuster were the alien property bill; the $125,000,000 public buildings bill; the second deficiency bill, carrying an appropriation of about $94,000,000; a conference report on a proposed revision of postal rates; the Walsh resolution for an investigation of public utility combinations; the Norris resolution for investigation of the sale of Federal offices, and the bill giving the Government the right to contract for the manufacture of medicinal liquor. Among the items lost in the deficiency bill was $11,000,000 for the authorized purchase of the Cape Cod Canal.

James A Reed never appeared to better advantage in the Senate than when, in the closing hours of the session, he confronted the other Reed with a dramatic recital of his findings in Pennsylvania. Ending with the defiant challenge: "This, sirs, is the head and front of my offending." There is general agreement that the course pursued by Reed has heightened his chance of receiving the Democratic presidential nomination.

List of the Very Few Important Bills Passed

The record of important bills passed during the session is short. Aided by cloture, the Pepper-McFadden branch banking bill, with its rider extending the Federal Reserve Bank charters, got through after a long fight. The bill permits the establishment of branches of national banks, in cities of 25,000 and above, in states where a similar right is enjoyed by State banks. Other successful measures of capital importance were the radio control act; the $71,870,000 river and harbors bill, providing also for the purchase of the Cape Cod canal; the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, later vetoed by the President, and the naval appropriation bill, carrying the three-cruiser item opposed by the President. Of prime interest to the farmers was the passage of a bill providing $10,000,000 for a fight on the European corn borer and another authorizing $8,600,000 for the relief of farmers in crop-failure areas.

Prohibition enforcement legislation, with the exception of the bill making the enforcement unit a separate bureau of the Treasury, was pushed into the discard by the determined opposition of the wet bloc. The exception was made possible by the adoption of cloture in the Senate. Votes for cloture by Senator Hawes of Missouri and some of the other wets, who took the position that the reorganization bill was needed in the interest of better enforcement, brought on a heated row in the wet bloc. The squabble as usual with all quafrels pertaining to religion or prohibition, was confined to the Democratic side.

All Tax Reduction Measures Swamped

Among other measures which received approval were a bill making firearms nonmailable except to authorized manufacturers and dealers; the Federal Judge's salary increase bill, fathered by Reed of Missouri; a bill extending the maternity and infancy act for two years, but providing that appropriations for it shall cease at the end of that period; a bill penalizing the purchase of influence to obtain appointment to a Federal office; a bill setting up an embargo against certain grades of Canadian milk and cream; and a Senate resolution extending the life of the commission which is investigating the working of the tariff commission.

All tax reduction proposals, as predicted, fell by the wayside. House leaders ignored the President's plan for a temporary reduction. Representative Garner of Texas offered a bill calling for a permanent reduction, but the Ways and Means Committee squelched it. A subsequent effort to bring the bill out by petition failed to command the necessary support. On the Senate side, the best the Democrats could do was to make political war medicine by offering the President's own plan and taunting the Republicans for their refusal to accept it.

Two measures of special interest to World War veterans were the bill authorizing the Veterans' Bureau to make loans on soldiers

Much Bark but Little Bite In Anglo-Soviet Note Exchange

As a Move Against Russia British Note May Be a Failure but as Maneuver Against Hoary Die-hards, Who Have Been Worrying Government to Turn Out the Aliens, It Is a Success.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of England.

LONDON, March 5.

LONDON and Moscow have been engaged in a barking match at the end of a chain; but there is no intention on either side to let the dogs loose. The only danger is that one of the chains may snap if the tugging and jumping goes on any longer. On the other hand, the incident may ser to ease matters between the two countries. Neither wants a break. Britain wants to sell and buy. Russia wants to buy and sell. Neither is in a condition or mood to wage war. The Russian note is described by one Tory paper as "insolent, mendacious and diffuse," but the anticlimax of the word "diffuse" is significant.

Even the Daily Mail, which took the lead in prodding the Government to take action, shrinks from counseling extreme measures when the time for a decision has arrived. You cannot declare war because the deputy Foreign Secretary employed by a country with which you have a controversy happens to have a "diffuse" literary style. Other papers denounce the Russian note as "illogical." That is hardly a casus belli.

Die-Hards Prod Cabinet Into Move Against Soviets

The British Government has, for some time, been subjected to most insulting pressure from its supporters to take action against Moscow. One of its most brilliant unofficial supporters in the House of Commons demanded to know whether our leaders were "rulers or rabbits." There is a strong die-hard organization inside the Tory party in the House of Commons which has been worrying the Government for months to chase the soviet representatives out of Britain. They have powerful friends inside the cabinet. Both the Prime Minister and Sir Austen Chamberlain, whilst fully conscious of the fact of bolshevist propaganda against the British Empire, have been reluctant to take any active steps to call the soviets to account. Lord Birkenhead, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Mr. Amery and, of course, Mr. Winston Churchill are supposed to be more in sympathy with the die-hard demand for action.

The British note was a compromise and had it not been for the unwise threat at the end of it, there would have been no harm in the despatch which was sent. But to threaten not only to terminate a trade agreement but actually to sever diplomatic relations was to convert a protest into an ultimatum. From such a position there was no escape except by the surrender of one or the other of the two parties or through the horrible gateway of war. Which will back out of it? The soviet government is not prepared to acknowledge it is in fault and it cannot therefore promise redress or reformation, but it shows real anxiety to avoid a break by reaffirming its desire "to remove all difficulties existing between the two countries and everything giving ground for mutual complaint." This affords the British Government an opportunity for retreating with some show of dignity from the brink of the precipice towards which it has been pushed by its rash friends.

Cries for Drastic Action Growing Much Fainter

These agitators are not pushing quite so hard now that they see the chasm below. The Daily Mail contents itself with an article abusing the soviet note but the call for action has faded away.

The Daily Telegraph, which has been consistently anti-Red in its articles, contents itself with imitating the soviet "diffuseness."

The Morning Post, whose truculence has hitherto been above suspicion, ends its leading article on a note of unconcealed pusillanimity: "Mr. Litvinoff, in effect, dares Sir Austen Chamberlain to fulfil his threat to break off relations and thus he presents a logical conclusion to the argument. It may well be that that conclusion would be inexpedient and ineffective, but in that case, let us have done with remonstrance. Recognizing that the soviet government is unalterably inimical, let us endure relations with it as we must and content ourselves with taking what measures are available for countering its malevolence."

There, indeed, is the still small voice which the Post acclaims in another connection. As a move against the soviet government, the British note may have been a failure, but as a maneuver against the little Tory soviet which has been worrying the Government to turn out the Russians, this note is a conspicuous success. The barking will still go on, but it is the tail and not the teeth that will point towards Moscow.

It is quite possible that the incident may at least temporarily produce an improvement, if not in the relations between the two countries, at least in the manners of their leaders towards each other. Lord Birkenhead, Mr. Churchill and other anti-Red ministers must in future realize that every time they deliver a tirade against the Moscow Government, they are supplying an argument for bolshevik propaganda against the British Empire, and the leading Russian communists will also understand that their outbursts against Britain are imperiling the trade which is so essential to the life of their country.

Bogeys of Suspicion Frighten Both Nations

One of the troubles that will continue is the atmosphere of rank suspicion that pervades both countries. Britain is thoroughly anti-bolshevik and ready to believe any mischief or atrocity which may be imputed to Russian communism. There is no paper of any color which does not condemn bolshevik propaganda. Even the Manchester Guardian, which—with its usual courage and consistency—fought for the unpopular side over Russia, is very critical of Russian methods towards Britain and says: "Russians would not help American strikers as they helped the British miners. Credits and concessions are far too important. Indeed, Russians are much more careful of offending America than they are of offending England, although even the help given to the British miners was not given without some hesitation."

British public opinion, in the main, is inclined to ascribe the anti-British character of the nationalist movement in China to Russian influence. Red agents everywhere are supposed to be as plentiful as influenza germs and always choosing Britain and her interests as their special objects of hatred and attack.

On the other hand, Moscow is full of rumors as to the sinister design of Great Britain against Russia. One moment it is a loan to Poland to enable her to arm for an attack on Russia. Next day, it is an understanding between France, Germany and Britain to organize an attack on Russia. That is supposed to be the real purport of Locarno. It was not peace with Germany but war against Russia. A foolish speech delivered by a British Minister lent some countenance to this grotesque supposition. There can be no better illustration of the phantoms which people the Russian fog than the statement recorded in the remarkable articles contributed recently by a well-informed correspondent to the Manchester Guardian: "That possibility, or rather the inevitability of war between America and England or between America and Europe is the favorite topic of hopeful discussion in Russia."

Where the Real Danger of Situation Lies

People who honestly believe that kind of wild nonsense are capable of believing anything and of doing anything. That, of course, is the danger.

It has not been without interest to watch the reception accorded by the continental press to the Chamberlain note. The French papers are, of course, loud in their acclamation of the note and in their satisfaction "that the British cabinet has been roused from its majestic reserve" on the subject of Russia. But will Moscow be moved? they ask. Certainly not. It then remains to be seen whether the British cabinet will be satisfied with vague protestations or will give effect to its threat of rupture.

The Temps points out that there is a difference of opinion in the cabinet and the fact that this note of warning has been sent instead of relations being immediately broken off is a triumph for Chamberlain.

Most of the French papers say that all this is "the result of Mr. Lloyd George's policy to bring Russia into the European family."

The German papers are very uneasy about the British note. They fear that Germany may have to choose definitely between the alternative east and west and they are obviously anxious to avoid the appearance of taking sides.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Washington's Ancestry.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE discussion about genealogical antecedents of George Washington stimulated by a recent editorial in the Post-Dispatch touches upon a subject which appears to be of first importance to statesmen who must deal with international affairs, especially with the great British statesmen.

Was Washington of Swedish descent? Yes and no. The Washington (DeWessington) family was established in England prior to the organization of what has been known as the Kingdom of Sweden. That Washington was, in part, of Norse descent is probably true. Researches along genealogical lines incline me to the conclusion that the male line that was to found the Washington family went from Norseland into Normandy (France) about the ninth century with the historic invasions of the Norsemen. Inter-marriage of the Norsemen with the partially Celtic, Latin, Teutonic or Frankish (French) women, produced what I believe to have been the truly "Great Race," the Norman.

Under William The Conqueror these Normans whipped the Anglo-Saxons, the pseudo "Great Race" of Madison Grant and Lothrop Stoddard, with one punch, at Hastings, 1066. That finished, for all time, the Anglo-Saxon race. Since 1066 the Norman, not the Anglo-Saxon, has been the superior race. Since Hastings all "Englishmen" who wished to claim distinction, have claimed Norman blood. To the Norman blood belong William The Conqueror and practically all the great English-speaking soldiers and world statesmen since 1066.

The importance of all this to Americans is that when they deal with so-called "English" statesmen and soldiers, they should be keenly alive to the fact that they deal, not with stupid beer-sodden, pork-foundered Anglo-Saxon hinds, but with Normans, the greatest soldiers and statesmen the world has known. Neglected Dog Heroes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES is giving the world an example of real old-fashioned gratitude and remembrance. Balto, Alaska dog hero, unless somebody rescues him, is fated to spend the rest of his life, tethered day after day, in a dark, cluttered dime museum for men only. At night he and his teammates are shunted into rear quarters, cramped, dark and cold, with never any exercise except a few minutes on leash in the narrow alley. When this big Alaska husky made his heart-breaking drive into Nome, where epidemic sufferers waited for help which only he could bring, the world acclaimed him. Central Park erected a bronze statue of him. Congress extended official thanks and a medal. If he was worthy of all that then, he is certainly worthy of decent treatment now. Humans accept his benefaction; then when their emotional splurge is over, forget all about him. People who love dogs and everybody else who likes to see justice done ought to see that Balto has his freedom.

How Mexican State Aided Farmers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT seems that we have come to the end of another political farce, known as the "farmers' aid bill." If by some miracle the President had failed to veto the measure, it would have met its death at the hands of our Supreme Court.

If the authors of the "farm relief bill" really wanted to give the farmers relief (always providing that Congress was so constituted that aid could be given), we have a wholesome example of such action in our near neighbor in Mexico. Fifteen years ago the State of Yucatan was being strangled to death by foreign interests. Its chief industry, the raising of sisal, was at the mercy of the harvester twine interests, bankers, merchants, transportation; every avenue was controlled by foreign capital. It seemed as though no help could come from anywhere. However, with the fall of the Diaz regime, the Legislature of Yucatan found new life. Suddenly it threw off the incubus of ancient precedent, the cry went forth; "Down with exploitation! To producers belongs the product!" Laws were enacted making minimum prices on all farm produce. Result, today the Yucatan farmer knows when he plants his crop, if no unforeseen misfortune overtakes him, just what he is going to get for it. He knows what he can afford to pay his labor. The laborer is satisfied, because the farmer's prosperity has brought him better wages, steadier employment and opened to him many fields of endeavor, formerly closed for want of capital. Forfeiting Public Sympathy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE public might have some sympathy for the striking employes of the cleaners and dyers if they had conducted their fight in an orderly manner, but when they are guilty of throwing stench bombs, destroying property, slugging and endangering lives, they show themselves in their true colors as hoodlums, thugs and lawbreakers, discredit the whole cause of union labor and brand themselves as fit inmates of the penitentiary.

H. H. H.

BARNACLES.

Not one of the numerous measures for increasing taxes will be passed by the Missouri Legislature. There was a gorgeous collection of them. Gov. Baker contributed the blue-ribbon exhibit. He was going to swell the biennial revenue by some $9,000,000 with taxes levied on tobacco products and amusements. The proposition never had a chance. Other plans appeared when it became evident that the Governor's pet project was doomed. One by one they have all withered. The session will adjourn, it is now confidently predicted at the State capital, with taxes unchanged.

Taxes in Missouri are now "all the traffic will bear." But our revenues, increased from $4,000,000 to $50,000,000 in 25 years, are inadequate. More money is needed for our public schools, also by our higher institutions of learning. The State University is subsisting on thin rations. That, too, is the plight of our social and humane activities, which public sentiment cordially approves as obligations of civilization.

What is to be done in this dilemma where taxes have reached the limit, yet revenue is insufficient for the State's competent functioning? Were the situation unique to Missouri the people of this State would address themselves to it with energy and purpose until they found a solution. It is not unique. The same problem proportionately is found in all our states. The mounting costs of state and municipal government is one of the ominous challenges of our times. It must be met.

The Legislature's refusal to hearken to the cry for more taxes may, perhaps, drive the fact home to the Governor and other State officials that retrenchment is the one route to solvency; that the twin virtues of economy and efficiency in the public business, which are always promised, must be put into practice.

Missouri has got to scrape the barnacles off her ship of state. These barnacles are many. Duplications, unnecessary bureaus, overstaffed, or, better, overstuffed, departments, and the whole thing smeared with the blight of that inefficiency inseparable from spoils politics.

Just what we have got to do has been clearly set forth by a voluntary organization of public-spirited citizens know as the Association for Economy in Public Expenditures. That body has searchingly studied our situation, pointed out our wasteful practices and methods and submitted recommendations, which, if adopted, would reorganize the State's government and put it on a business basis.

That this will have to be done, and done soon, no informed citizen can doubt. The people of Missouri have not yet delivered their retrenchment mandate, but they surely will. They are today furnishing ample money for every need of the State. The people, however, are failing in their first duty and prerogative as citizens. They are not choosing men for office for ability to handle the job. The big majority of citizens who go to the polls vote for their party candidates, not for business managers. It is party victory they are thinking about in elections, not capable public servants. That attitude is primarily responsible for the high taxes we pay and for the frightful inefficiency and wasteful squandering of our revenue.

Unintelligent party servitude is the first and the worst barnacle which the people of every state must pry off the hull. Once we get rid of that old dragging superstition we shall be on our way to honest, able, economic public service.

THE SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

Six years ago Friday Warren G. Harding was inaugurated President of the United States. It was a gay and festive occasion, geared to the blithe keynote of "Government after all is a very simple thing." New faces appeared in the circle of the nation's chosen and old figures robed in the purple and fine linen of exalted prestige. The solemn ceremonial of the official oath was as a signal for the bacchanalia to begin. The song of carousal has long since been hushed. Through dreary exits so many of them have vanished. The King is dead. The king-maker, old Warwick himself, smiles wanly in the gloom of a faltering twilight as a jury confesses itself unable to find him guilty or pronounce him innocent. With this dubious permit the man who six years ago became Attorney-General turns back to what postcript of life may remain.

Fall, branded unclean by the highest tribunal, is ill of body and deadly ill of soul in the exile of El Paso. The ghosts of wounded soldiers, killed by his murderous corruption, stalk accusingly by the grated window of the prisoner, Forbes. There are other reputations blasted, and there is a splash of suicidal blood to give a garish tint to this sixth anniversary.

A pessimist is one who has pulled out all the golden strings of human belief without finding any of them fastened at the other end.

MR. COOLIDGE CAME TO MISSOURI.

Mr. Coolidge's address to the Pan-American Congress last April made a happy impression. It revealed a knowledge of Latin-American history and conditions, cultural and educational as well as commercial, that delighted his audience. It now appears that the content of the President's paper was mostly taken from a book written by Dr. Warshaw of Missouri University.

Dr. Warshaw, however, is not one of those touchy highbrows. He is not tearing his hair out in great, devastating chunks while screaming plagiarism at the Puritan in the White House. With professorial poise and scholarly urbanity he expresses delight at the compliment the President has paid him. And this admirable attitude is one the rest of us may well adopt.

Presidents, after all, are mortal. No royal road to learning for them, any more than for the humblest citizen. With the labors of others compressed into books they must furnish their minds. In the pressure of their duties original research is obviously impracticable. Anyhow, if they were built that way they would never make the presidential grade.

Were it necessary, Mr. Coolidge's procedure in the instance under discussion could impressively be justified by official precedent. Our nearest magisterial approach to omniscience was the redoubtable Roosevelt, though Jefferson's range of knowledge astonished the European savants and sophisticates who came into contact with him. And the Colonel, exuberantly and fluently at home in every ology, once came to Missouri, literarily speaking, and boldly lifted a couple of paragraphs of Gov. Folk, which he incorporated in his message.

So far, then, from pointing an accusing finger at Mr. Coolidge, we congratulate him on coming to Missouri for the dope.

DOHENY AND MEXICO.

When the United States Supreme Court held that Edward L. Doheny had acquired the Elk Hills oil field by conspiracy and fraud it gave credence to Mexico's protest that at least some of his oil claims are no better there.

Mexico, meanwhile, was charging that he had secured some of his immense holdings in that country by fraud and coercion. It has been claimed in the Mexican Congress that in the case of the Cerro Azul plantation, one of the best of the Doheny properties, the methods of the Doheny agents were ruthless even to the point of assassination. Recently there was presented the strange spectacle of the United States defending him against charges of doing in that country what it charged him with doing in this. While proceeding against him both criminally and civilly, it was still protecting him as an American citizen against efforts upon the part of Mexico to dispossess him of lands which it claimed he had not rightfully acquired. We carried that defense to a veritable threat of war. We are still doing this. The United States Supreme Court has exploded the hollow claim of patriotism for what he did in this country. It has stripped him of that sentimental disguise and revealed him in the despicable part of one who sought by bribery to despoil his country of one of its naval oil reserves.

Did someone hear Mexico laugh? Probably not. Since we ourselves cannot understand why the Coolidge administration has so rallied around him, even to sending the Secretary of the Navy to the witness stand as a character witness for him, how much less must Mexico feel that anything that has happened has altered his prestige at Washington as a superfigure in Big Business? More than 36 per cent of the oil produced by Mexico comes from his holdings. We do not know whether his claims to all of them are good. Mexico says they are not. We do know that when we tested his claim to one of the biggest oil fields in the United States we found that he held it by conspiracy and fraud. Is he white there and black here? The reasonable presumption is that he is not. How, then, denouncing him here, can we defend him there?

WHO'S WHO IN JEFF CITY.

1. Sam Baker, stockholder in the Cortez-King-Brand Mining Co., Governor of Missouri.

2. Cortez Enloe, managing director of the Cortez-King-Brand Mining Co., practicing physician, Director of Penal Institutions, boss of the State Prison.

3. D. M. Oberman, principal owner of the Cortez-King-Brand Mining Co, manufacturer, large purchaser of products of prison labor, financier-extraordinary of the State Prison.

These are the characters in a story now being written and which, we respectfully suggest, should be entitled, "Government by the Cortez-King-Brand Mining Co."

MR. SHAW AND AMERICA.

One cannot read Archibald Henderson's "My Friend Bernard Shaw," which has been running serially in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, without regretting that this most celebrated literary personage of our time has never felt it safe to come to the United States.

"They would put me in jail," Shaw said to a correspondent 10 years ago.

That is a sufficient commentary upon our intolerance, and one by which posterity is more likely to judge us than we may imagine. As Caesar left the lasting impression that the Belgians are brave and the French scrappy, the great fame and authority of Shaw may easily be able to fix upon us the eternal stigma of being intolerant.

Do we like that? Does it please and flatter us to have the cleverest man in the world, whose wit goes through the armadillo hide of materialism as lightning penetrates cloud, storm at us always because we make the greatest professions to liberty of all the nations and know it so little? Do we seem to ourselves in the character of all that we have sought to be when the greatest luminary in modern literature and the man who has made the world laugh and think as no other figure in our time has done protests that he could not come here, because we would lock him up?

So we may believe that we will never see Shaw. Our most revealing critic, the delight of our theater, that Momus whose laughter carries to every shore of human folly, must remain to us an Olympian Jove whose thunder we have heard but whose face we have never seen. It is our loss, not Shaw's. He would not give a snap of his fingers to visit so intolerant a people. We are afraid. We sit clutching our wealth, fearful lest someone will say something that ought to be said about it. To us, socialism, to which Shaw has given his life, is the same thing as bolshevism.

That is why Shaw despises us. He cares nothing about visiting the various inquisitions now flourishing upon earth, so he will not see ours. That is final, and it is deserved.

Conundrum: Which is the more idyllic friendship, the Baker-Enloe one or the Ittner-Arky specimen?

ENGLAND AND RUSSIA.

It is just as we told you it would be. The Russians, mighty mad about what the British said of them, have replied hotly—but turned sweet enough at thought of Russian-British trade. The British, in turn, say they are mad all through over the Russian reply to their protest against communist propaganda against the British Empire—but since British trade with Russia is indispensable they are not going to do anything about it.

So we have it—the new warfare. The two greatest Powers in Europe are introducing the world to a new kind of conflict. "To anybody but Russia such a note as we sent would mean war," says Lloyd George. "We cannot have war with Russia," says Austen Chamberlain. "It would have too many repercussions."

Meet trade as a peacemaker. That greatest of all war makers, the arch villain of history, assumes a new and shining role. Meanwhile Russia and England will think up more bluster and more make-believe that mean nothing and alarm nobody.

Dean Inge says he is gloomy because he has to write to make up the difference between his salary and what it costs him to live. In other words, he has to work for a living. We quite agree with him that there is no fun in that.

LOOKING TOWARD MEXICO.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

OUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAW.

ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY in World's Work for March.

IT must be admitted that any system which ignores all sound principles of taxation is defective. Adam Smith, in "The Wealth of Nations," has given certain maxims in regard to taxation which have become almost axiomatic in their general adoption. * *

Herein lies the chief defect of the law. It purports to provide for every known human activity without allowing for American versatility. The smart taxpayer is always one jump ahead of the law. He does something the tax draftsman never thought of and thus he escapes tax. That something is taken care of in the next law, but by that time it is old stuff to the smart taxpayer, who has had a new thought. Under the present system, a detailed tax law will never catch up with the wise boys. The present law contains about 50,000 words, which is about 28,000 too many. Theoretically everything is covered in the law in the fullest detail and further explanations should not be necessary, but in addition to the law the regulations contain about 180,000 words. The law is a total loss and the regulations are a partial loss. More words will not cure inherent defects. Insoluble problems cannot be solved. Unless we have a new system there will grow up in this country a small group of men learned in the law, most of them ex-Government employes, who will claim to be able to interpret our tax laws, and while they may not be able to do it, they will be able to charge high fees, since the taxpayers themselves will never know the difference.

AMERICAN INFLUENCE IN PERSIA.

MAURICE PERNOT in Revue des deux Mondes, as translated for the Kansas City Star.

THE considerable influence which the Americans exercise in Persia is to some extent due to the fact that, next to the English and the Russians, they are the largest purchasers of Persian products, but much more to the fact that the Shah's Government has confided to them the direction and reform of the imperial finances. There is some conflict of opinion in Persia regarding the work of the American advisers. I heard them criticised for excessive centralization, not applicable to a country whose territory is so strongly differentiated and where communication is so slow and irregular. When they present the apparent balancing of the budget as proof of the good results obtained, they are reminded of the heavy advances made to the treasury by the imperial bank. The fact remains, however, that Dr. Millspaugh and his assistants have restored some order to Persian finances, something of which they were in great need. At the time of the last famine the American mission, by a prompt requisition of all means of transport and timely purchases of Indian wheat, succeeded in forcing down the Russian prices and sensibly lessening the suffering. The Americans hold the purse strings in Persia, which means that their influence is considerable. In fact, the employment of foreign officials in any capacity is subject to their approval, and it is surprising the extent to which the departments in which Persia requires help are the very ones which the Americans are able to man.

MARYLAND NOMENCLATURE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

THERE is no accounting for tastes. At the reques of somebody a bill has been introduced in the House of Delegates to change the name of Cat Tail Creek, on the Magothy River, to Sunshine Creek. Cat Tail Creek is a distinctive name. It brings up visions of those little creek head marshes, with an army of tawny cat tails standing erect like guardsmen on parade. Any creek anywhere might be called Sunshine Creek. But a Cat Tail Creek is rare, so rare and so descriptive that it deserves to hold its place with those other rare creeks of the Magothy—Old Man's, Cypress, Red House, Black Hole and Cornfield.

Cat Tail Creek is a worthy companion to Persimmon Point, Tar Cove, Sillery Bay, Dutch Ship Island, Chest Neck, Eagle Hill, Windmill Point, Mountain Point, all of which contribute to the Magothy a fragrance of past days when place names happened and were not produced from the tired brains of realtors.

Change the name of Cat Tail Creek? As well gild the lily or bob the silver locks of a grandmother.

INDIVIDUALITY IN DRESS.

MARY B. WILLIAMS in Liberty Magazine.

WHILE we in America are preaching the doctrine of the principle of uniformity and standardization and absence of all individuality in dressing, Paris is issuing a new dictum. Once again individuality is coming in. We have had news of its tentative approaches and its setbacks. But it is surely coming. Even with dead black as the favorite of all afternoon colors, even with definite measurements as the standard for all cuts, individualism is coming into all the styles and dominating them, as it is coming to control all other forms of art in the world today. In fact, fashion is faced with a revolt. It is a revolt against the mass production that, for at least the period since the war, has swayed the world. The fashion of obliterating your personality has had its run.

lovers who were dead).
In all of them, my pretty pet, when Death's
cool hand was near
The dying lover saw the light—the Ryle
got a sneer;
You'd fain reverse the process, and you know if I would keep My yow to love forever when your grave is cool—and deep.

I swear that should I lose you, dear, the world would seem all wrong
(At least, it would be that way till the next girl came along);
Should jealous Death dare claim your heart
my life were void of bliss
(But then I'm fond of kissing, and I don't care whom I kiss);
The loss of you, O lass I love, would fill
my soul with grief
(The pain, though, is forgotten when a new
love gives relief);
Forbear this talk of Death, sweet miss—love let thought be turned
(But you came after one who's dead, so far as I'm concerned).

FUNERAL OF FORMER JUDGE GOODE TODAY

Services at Family Home at 3 O'Clock; Burial to Be at Springfield, Mo.

Following funeral services for former Supreme Judge Richard Livingston Goode at the family residence, 4429 West Pine boulevard, at 3 p. m. today, the body will be sent to Springfield, Mo., where burial will take place at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Judge Goode, noted jurist and educator, died at the Jewish Hospital Friday night of diabetes. He was 72 years old and had been ill since last September when he retired as dean of the Washington University School of Law. He had been a resident of St. Louis since 1901, having come here as Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals after 20 years of law practice in Springfield. FUNERAL OF FORMER JUDGE GOODE TODAY

Following funeral services for former Supreme Judge Richard Livingston Goode at the family residence, 4429 West Pine boulevard, at 3 p. m. today, the body will be sent to Springfield, Mo., where burial will take place at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Judge Goode, noted jurist and educator, died at the Jewish Hospital Friday night of diabetes. He was 72 years old and had been ill since last September when he retired as dean of the Washington University School of Law. He had been a resident of St. Louis since 1901, having come here as Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals after 20 years of law practice in Springfield. His connection with Washington University began in 1906 as professor of equity. In 1915 he was made professor of law and dean of the school. His service as dean was interrupted in 1919 when he was appointed to the Supreme Court by Gov. Gardner, but he returned to the university post in 1921.

Judge Goode is survived by his widow, Mrs. Estelle Maurer Goode, and two daughters, Mrs. Chauncey H. Clarke and Mrs. T. J. Moss.

Honorary pallbearers will be: Presiding Circuit Judge Walter H. Sanborn, Wells H. Blodgett, Edward J. White, Judge Albert D. Nortoni, Gov. Herbert S. Hadley, Tyrrell Williams, Judge John Turner White, William D. D'Oench, Gov. Frederick D. Gardner, Joseph H. Zumbalen, Chief Justice David E. Blair, Judge Robert Franklin Walker, Fred Wislizenus, Judge James T. Blair, Charles P. Williams, T. E. Francis, Dr. George W. Cale, Alfred Mansfield, Judge Walter W. Graves, Edward Flad, Charles F. Sparks, Percy Werner, Harry B. Hawes, Charles W. Bates, John W. Fristoe, Judge Kimbrough Stone, Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh, Judge Charles B. Faris, Judge Charles B. Davis, Judge Albert L. Reeves, Judge William T. Ragland, Judge Frank E. Atwood, Judge Ernest S. Gantt, Judge Charles H. Daues, Judge William Dee Becker, Judge Simon G. Nipper, Thomas T. Fauntleroy, Raymond Mancha, Judge Henry S. Priest, Judge Henry S. Caulfield, Judge William T. Jones and Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton.

SOUTH SIDE BUSINESS MEN URGE RAPID TRANSIT SYSTEM

Association Adopts Resolution Favoring Particularly the Suggestion of Subways.

The Board of Directors of the South St. Louis Business Men's Association has adopted a resolution favoring the general idea of rapid transit development in St. Louis with the particular thought of a subway system.

This action followed a discussion of the transit situation, brought out by the Post-Dispatch editorial suggestion for a Rapid Transportation Commission of experts to survey the needs. Charles W. Spiess, president of the association, said it was prepared to favor anything that would improve transportation here.

Republican Majority Failed Coolidge

bonus certificates and the emergency officers' retirement bill. The first was passed, but the sponsors of the second were never able to bring it to a vote in the Senate.

Nine regular supply bills, exclusive of the deficiency bills, were passed, totaling about $2,811,830,043. The total for the corresponding bills passed during the first session of the same Congress was $2,528,046,805.

With Senator Norris of Nebraska eternally vigilant in his fight to retain Muscle Shoals for the Government, no action was taken on the report of a joint congressional committee recommending the leasing of the project to 13 Southern public utility corporations. The shoals question has been before Congress since 1919. President Coolidge has urged several times that the property be leased to private interests.

Power Combine Beats Boulder Dam

Coming to the front again after a period of comparative obscurity, Senator Johnson of California made a remarkable fight for passage of the Boulder Canyon Dam bill. The measure called for a $125,000,000 project, financed by the Government, but eventually to be paid for in full by the sale of water and power. Private power interests formed an effective lobby against the bill. It would have passed, nevertheless, but for a filibuster conducted by five Western Senators, headed by Ashurst of Arizona. One of the five was the millionaire Phipps of Colorado, the owner of large power interests in the West. The measure will be brought forward again in the next Congress, and with excellent chances of passage.

Foreign relations held the center of the stage during a large part of the session. Senator Trammell (Dem.) of Florida sought to have the Senate rescind its ratification of the World Court protocol. His resolution was laid on the table by a vote of 59 to 10. Senator Borah and others opposed to the Court said that the rejection of the American reservations by the foreign Powers concerned had already removed all possibility of American participation in the Court.

Two important treaties were considered—the Geneva protocol to prohibit the use of poison gas in warfare and the Lausanne treaty, re-establishing diplomatic relations with Turkey. The protocol was withdrawn by Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, when it became evident that it could not command the two-third majority required for ratification. The Lausanne treaty was beaten by a vote of 50 ayes to 37 nays—or six votes less than the required two-thirds.

Latin-America Storm Center.

Vehement debate was aroused by the dispatch of Marines to Nicaragua and the policy of the administration toward Mexico. Resolutions were introduced in both Houses to require the withdrawal of the Marines, but none of them got out of committee. The Senate did, however, adopt by unanimous vote the Robinson resolution favoring arbitration of the oil and land law dispute with Mexico. In the closing days of the session Senator Borah sought to put through a resolution authorizing the Foreign Relations Committee to sit during the recess, so that it might keep a watchful eye on the administration's dealings with Latin America. The resolution failed to emerge from the last-minute jam in the Senate.

In the debates on foreign affairs in the Senate, Bingham of Connecticut, a former Yale Professor, made himself the principal defender of administration policy. On numerous other occasions, Bingham proved himself a stalwart of the stalwarts. Only Senator Fess of Ohio equaled the record of the "tall sycamore from Connecticut" as a thick-and-thin supporter of the administration.

Senator Heflin (Dem.), Alabama, indulged throughout the session in attacks on the Catholics and on the press, which he accused of suppressing his remarks. One of his diatribes was answered by an eloquent plea for religious tolerance by Senator Reed of Missouri. Heflin capped the climax with an assault on the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, a Catholic, whom he linked with an alleged "conspiracy" to plunge the United States into war with Mexico. During the filibuster Thursday night Heflin told with pride and in great detail how he had once shot a Negro in Washington.

Breakers Ahead for Smith and Vare

As a result of the disclosures of the Reed Committee, the Senate by a vote of 48 to 33 refused to seat Senator-Designate Frank L. Smith of Illinois, pending a report on his credentials by the Privileges and Elections Committee. Near the end of the session, the credentials of Smith as an elected Senator were presented to the Senate by Senator Deneen of Illinois, and on the motion of Reed of Missouri were referred to the Privileges and Election Committee. The same disposition was made of the credentials of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, which were laid before the Senate by Reed of Pennsylvania, leader of the fight to keep James A. Reed's committee from opening the Pennsylvania ballot boxes. The vote by which Smith was made to stand aside when his case first came before the Senate is taken as an indication that both he and Vare will be barred when they present themselves next December.

In the case of Senator Gould of Maine, whose title to a seat was questioned on the ground that he had bribed a Canadian official 15 years ago, the Senate revived a long-standing controversy as to its powers in determining the qualifications of members. The same question figured also in the Smith and Vare cases. Some Senators held that the Senate could not go beyond the three constitutional requirements as to age, residence and citizenship; others contended that it had the right to exclude a man for moral unfitness. The Privileges and Elections Committee exonerated Senator Gould. It did not undertake to say whether he could have been excluded if the charge against him had been proved.

House Blocks Relief.

As in previous sessions of the Senate, the President fared badly with some of his major appointments. His worst setback in this respect was the rejection of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, whom he nominated to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The rejection was a severe defeat also for Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, on whose recommendation Woods had been named. The President withdrew the nomination of William J. Tilson, brother of the Republican floor leader of the House, to be a United States Judge in Georgia, after the Senate Judiciary Committee had refused to sanction the appointment.

The session came to an end in the manner characteristic of short sessions—with a filibuster. All business was thrust aside while Reed of Pennsylvania battled to put an end to James A. Reed's Investigating Committee. Numerous bills and resolutions were sidetracked.

Never was there a more striking demonstration of the evils inherent in the short session with its fixed time for adjournment. The remedy lies in the Norris amendment, which would abolish the short sessions and substitute a session of indeterminate length, beginning in January. The Senate three times has voted, by heavy majorities, to submit the amendment to the States for approval. Three times the House leadership has refused to let it come to a vote. The last such refusal was in the Congress just ended. So long as this obstruction persists in the House the country will be treated, every other year, to some such perversion of representative government as has just been witnessed.

Lloyd George on Anglo-Soviet Note Exchange

The Socialist organ, Vorwaerts, writes that "both sides have a thousand reasons for avoiding war." It also says: "Germany can attach herself neither to England nor to Russia without incurring the danger of being misused on behalf of foreign interest. All the more clearly does it grow necessary to enter into closer relations with France than those that exist at present."

But at the moment it is felt that the situation contains serious risks.

The Tageblatt writes: "In such cases, the wish to avoid war which undoubtedly exists on both sides is far from being an adequate guarantee for the maintenance of peace."

War is off, but peace is not on. But if Sir Austen Chamberlain were permitted by his colleagues to give a strong turn to the wheel in the direction of the arrow that points towards peace, I believe Russia is willing to assist in that turn. He will compromise by doing nothing.

IF YOU SHOULD DIE.

Now should you really die, my dear, I'm sure that I should weep
(But judging by the verse I've read, tears would not hurt your sleep);
I've read ten thousand stanzas on the coolness of that bed (Presumed to have been written by fond lovers who were dead).
In all of them, my pretty pet, when Death's
cool hand was near
The dying lover saw the light—the living
got a sneer;
You'd fain reverse the process, and you'd know if I would keep
My vow to love forever when your grave
is cool—and deep.

I swear that should I lose you, dear, the
world would seem all wrong
(At least, it would be that way till the next
girl came along);
Should jealous Death dare claim your hand,
my life were void of bliss
(But then I'm fond of kissing, and I don't care whom I kiss);
The loss of you, O lass I love, would fill
my soul with grief
(The pain, though, is forgotten when a new
love gives relief);
Forbear this talk of Death, sweet miss—to love let thought be turned
(But you came after one who's dead, so far as I'm concerned).

ORGANIZATIONS UNITE FOR SCHOOL ELECTION

Total of 21 Signify Willingness to Select Best Qualified Candidates.

Twenty-one organizations have signified their willingness to cooperate in the selection and support of the best qualified men and women for the Board of Education through the Citizens' School Board Committee.

Representatives of the organizations affiliating in the citizenship movement have been placed on the Executive Committee and will help to direct its affairs. The bodies represented are the following:

Bindery Women's Union, Board of Religious Organizations, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Carondelet Women's Club, City Club, College Club, Council of Catholic Women, Council of Jewish Women, Joint Council of Women's Auxiliaries, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Junior League, Kiwanis Club, League of Women Voters, Rotary Club, Town Club, Tuesday Club, Wednesday Club, Woman's Bar Association, Women's Chamber of Commerce and W. C. T. U.

Will Select Candidates.

It is the purpose of the Citizens' Committee and its affiliated organizations to select by ballot of its members the four candidates who seem best fitted to serve as board members and then make a quick city-wide campaign to elect them. Arthur B. Birge, president of the organization, said yesterday that at the rate the committee was growing he expected that at least 20,000 ballots would be issued and used.

The committee is calling for contributions toward a fund to defray the expenses of its campaign. Charles H. Stix is treasurer of the committee, at 602 Chamber of Commerce Building.

"Our committee will not endorse any one because of his particular political or religious affiliations," said Birge, "nor will we oppose him on account of his position in those regards.

Cities Qualifications.

"We only want to know if he is honest, intelligent, unselfish. These qualifications, together with his judgment in administrative affairs, any special experience and knowledge in school matters, and his purpose to give of his time and energy to the duties of a board member, will greatly weigh in his favor.

"The citizenship of St. Louis is coming to realize that the most important phase of our city government is that which has to do with the public schools. We have the greatest school system in the country. With a school plant worth more than $25,000,000, 140 great school buildings, and 130,000 pupils in the day and night schools, it is nefarious to turn it over to a set of ward-scheming politicians. It is nothing less than criminal negligence to allow it to be done without putting up the best fight possible for something better."

MUD, BRIMSTONE AND SHOVELS HELP TO MAKE WOMEN'S HATS

Molds Over Which Materials Are Shaped Are of Metal, Made in Foundries.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Mud, brimstone, iron kettles and shovels are as necessary to the making of women's hats as silks from the East, feathers from Africa or laces from Southern Europe.

The American-made hats which rival the chic chapeaus of Parisian design come into being through foundries, which might seem to the layman to be turning out manhole covers or windmill pumps.

The designer pictures her hat on paper, and the picture goes to the artisans and laborers who make a plaster model from which a metal die is cast. Without these metal molds, the hats would lack style and shape, according to R. H. Harvey, president of a large hat company.

A woman worker takes a hank of braid from Milan, dampens it to make it pliable, and dries it. The free end of the braid goes into a spindle and deft fingers start sewing at the top of the crown, guiding the braid through the stitching process and stopping often to fit the crown to the plaster model.

The soft crown is taken to the metal mold for subjection to heat and pressure, hydraulic presses giving it smoothness and uniform surface. The brim is heated on another mold, an airtight bag is placed over it, and the air is withdrawn. The vacuum and resulting suction fold the brim snugly over the mold, giving it the shape which fashion calls style.

Several coats of hat varnish, and the hat goes back to the designer for adornment. When finally it appears in the shop window, it carries no suggestion of the mechanic labor which wrought character into shapeless straw and felt.

MECHANIC ALSO AN ARTIST

Biloxi Man Machinist in Day and Painter at Night.

BILOXI, Miss., March 5.—Charles E. Hultberg, sailor, mechanic and machinist by trade, is an artist by inclination.

Spending his days tinkering with machinery for a local canning company, he blended colors on canvas by night so successfully the Gulf Coast Art Association has awarded him its gold medal for the best oil painting on display here. Hultberg was born in Sweden and ran away to sea because he had been whipped at school for spending his time sketching and carving objects from wood.

Capt. Parker has been working on the river since he was 20 years old. He is 55. His father was a riverman. Capt. Parker was skipper of two tugs before his last command, which he relinquished yesterday to take charge of the Erastus Wells, the wharf and the harbor.

WIFE HELD AFTER DEATH OF WEALTHY IOWA FARMER

She Says He Was Killed in Alighting from Auto She Was Driving Before It Stopped.

By the Associated Press.

BOONE, Ia., March 5.—Mrs. John H. Crouse, 30-year-old widow of a wealthy Boone County farmer, who died yesterday after he fell from an automobile driven by Mrs. Crouse, today faced a charge of manslaughter.

Mrs. Crouse was arrested last night. She declared her 62-year-old husband, who owned nearly 1000 acres of land, fell from the car in attempting to alight before the machine stopped.

Mrs. Crouse turned over to authorities $3500 her husband had withdrawn from a bank earlier in the day and which he held in his hand when he was taken to a hospital.

Authorities were working on the theory that the couple had been quarreling over the money and that this may have led to the aged man's sudden determination to leave the automobile. They had been married five months.

JOINT INQUEST WEDNESDAY INTO DEATH OF SIX BABIES

Chicago Coroner and Health Director in Controversy Over Hospital Tragedy.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Inquest into the deaths of six babies who died after being given a boric acid solution instead of sterile water at the Columbus Memorial Hospital were ordered consolidated today. Determination of the cause of death and responsibility in all the cases will be fixed according to the Galitz, which has been continued to Galitz, which has been continued to Wednesday.

The seventh of the baby sufferers of the tragic mistake apparently was recovering today after hope for its life once was abandoned. The mother, Mrs. Thomas Gibbons, 19 years old, was prepared for the possibility of the death of her 9-day-old daughter, Marjorie Elizabeth, by being told the infant was one of the victims of the accident. Mrs. Gibbons insisted that her daughter be brought to her.

Oscar Wolff, Coroner, issued a statement, charging Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Chicago Health Commissioner, either had perjured himself in testimony at the Coroner's inquest or was "bunking" the public in statements made for publication. The Coroner also announced that Dr. Zan D. Klopper was not requested to resign from his staff of physicians because of incompetency, but "because, in making postmortems on two bodies when he was ordered to make only one, and in failing to report the second postmortem he was not complying with a rule of the Coroner's office."

Wolff stated that Dr. Bundesen would be recalled at the inquest to "explain his midnight presence at the Columbus Hospital on March 2."

CHURCH TAKES HAND IN PORO COLLEGE ROW

Aaron Malone Threatened With Expulsion From Committee of Ministerial Alliance.

The munificience of Annie M. Turnbo Malone, president and founder of Poro College (hair-straightening taught) overshadows the clash between the Civic Committee of the Ministerial Alliance of African Methodist Episcopal Church and her estranged husband, Aaron Malone, who as one committee member said "was just a plain school teacher till he married Mrs. Turnbo."

The Civic Committee has delivered the ultimatum that unless Malone withdraws his receivership suit against the "college" tomorrow morning he will be expelled from lay membership in the Ministerial Alliance.

"Poro College," said the committee, 'is the largest and most successful business enterprise of the Negro race" and will be seriously injured if not destroyed," by a receivership.

Comment of Negro Journal.

Echoing this sentiment the Chicago "Light," a Negro journal says: "The entire race has its eyes on St. Louis, watching for the outcome. The question seems to be 'Shall this great commercial venture, a business conducted not only upon racial lines, but for the good of humanity, be sacrificed?' "

When it came to choosing between Mrs. Malone and Mr. Malone in ther falling out, most influential St. Louis Negroes appear to have sided with the former She paid the largest income tax of any St. Louis Negro last year. She bought one of the first Rolls-Royce automobiles seen in St Louis. Her business is valued at $1,000,000. Negroes "in every clime beautify themselves with Poro College preparations," to paraphrase the advertising pamphlets. Mrs. Malone has been a large contributor to Negro churches and charities.

Poro College, with its pergolaed roof garden crowning its brick height at Pendleton and St. Ferdinand avenues, its theater and cafeteria, its staff of spruce attendants, has long been the show place of the Negro district. In former years visitors to the "college" were shown through the Malone suite, which at one time was decorated in Louis XV style. The "college" entertained visiting conventions of Negro doctors, lawyers and newspaper men, and its fame spread abroad.

Complaints Against Receiver.

Mrs. Malone asserts that it all belongs to her. Malone says he has a half interest. Conrad Paeben, the temporary receiver, aroused the Ministerial Alliance (African) by making changes in the business staff unacceptable to Mrs. Malone. He fired Edgar McDaniel, college graduate and business manager, also Charles S. Stone, superintendent of male employes. Mrs. Malone complained to the Ministerial Alliance that a woman disliked by her had been put in McDaniel's place. This complaint precipitated the ultimatum of the alliance.

"We'll fight harder than ever," announced Edward Foristel, counsel for Malone, when asked if Malone would obey the ministers.

Malone, who has served as president of the National Layman's Union of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, refused to comment yesterday, but it is understood that he will protest before the Ministerial Alliance against the Alliance's alliance with Mrs. Malone.

BERLIN BOOTLEGGERS MAKE ALCOHOL FROM SYNTHETIC GAS

Automobile Fuel Made From Potatoes When Distilled Gives Pure Product.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 5.—Bootleggers of grain alcohol, illegally redistilled from a patented automobile "gasoline," are increasing in such numbers that the Government is considering enlarging its force of liquor agents to cope with the new evil.

Since Cologne police seized two stills and 5000 gallons of alcohol and arrested two men on charges of manufacturing alcohol without a license, raids in other parts of the country have disclosed that the extraction of alcohol from the motor fuel and its sale to liquor industries has grown to be a tremendous business.

The evil was more or less sponsored by the Government in fostering the manufacture of a "gasoline" called monopolin to curb the heavy imports of gasoline until the Bergius and Fischer processes of converting soft coal into oils and gasoline are adapted for commercial production. Monopolin consists of 60 per cent pure alcohol made from potatoes, ether and benzine. It sells for less than ordinary gas and is said to give more power per gallon. It is a simple process to redistil the fuel and get a grain alcohol which is virtually 100 per cent pure.

WOMEN TORTURE PRISONERS

NEW YORK, March 5.—The women of the Berber tribes in Morocco are permitted to torture all prisoners, Prince Aage of Denmark writes in his book, "A Royal Adventurer in the Foreign Legion," just published.

"They visit battlefields after dark to perform the same service upon any wounded men whom we may have been careless enough to leave behind," he adds. The book describes the hardships of campaigning against Abd el Krim in the French Foreign Legion.

SPAIN HEAVY COTTON BUYER

Imports $60,000,000 Worth Yearly, Mostly From U. S.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

MADRID, Feb. 10.—Spain spends $60,000,000 a year on cotton, mainly from the United States, for the mills in Catalonia. However, Dictator Primo de Rivera's institution of a system of bounties to encourage cotton-growing, with a view to making Spain independent of foreign supplies within 10 years, shows results.

The cotton area of 3500 acres in 1924, with a yield of 860 tons, was increased to 5250 acres, yielding 1000 tons, in 1925. The acreage rose to 11,000 last year, but the crop figures are not known. Most of the plantations are in the three fertile provinces of Andalusia. Cotton growers must register at the Cotton Bureau. Seed, information and instructors are supplied. The state guarantees to the grower about 20 cents for every two and a half pounds of raw cotton produced and undertakes the ginning. But production is costly. By reorganizing the system of bounties it is proposed to reduce the expense entailed in growing Spanish cotton whose production costs 150 per cent more than its market price.

ENGLISH SINGERS IN 16TH CENTURY CONCERT

Without Perceptible Signal They Began Chorals With Sureness of Attack.

BY THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

AMID the clatter and push of modern life the English Singers sound a tranquil note from the past. This band of incompar able artists appeared in Howard Hall, the Principia, Friday night and their singing of fifteenth and sixteenth century morets, madrigals and ballads more than justified their tremendous reputation.

To speak of the English Singers as incomparable is to use the mot juste. For there is no organization known to music lovers of either Europe or America which pretends to carry out the artistic mission which they have undertaken. Their value, of course, lies in the beauty of their ensemble singing, for the individual voices, while pleasing, are not unusual.

But for a comparison of the gracious fusion and balance which their voices attained while singing together one must go to a well trained string quartet. Even that comparison doesn't do them complete justice for the contrapuntal writers of the Elizabethan period and thereabouts believed in giving each individual voice its chance. As a result each singer is given the task of constantly emerging from the whole and falling back again without doing violence to the balance of sound.

According to the historians, the madrigal singers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries who had their reincarnation last night in these modern chanteurs, were nothing more than fairly talented amateurs. In fact, contrapuntal singing was an accomplishment that any person with pretensions to culture would necessarily have. And the gatherings at which they sang were usually of an informal nature, comparable faintly to the impromptu quartets that gather today in the village square or the corner drug store and harmonize on "Sweet Adeline."

But after hearing the English Singers you wonder how that could be possible. Nothing but the most scrupulous and exhaustive training could produce—at least in this day—such lovely effects.

Needless to say, the phrasing and the unity of the ensemble was virtually without a flaw. The phrasing would have to be—for the union of the written text and the vocal sound is so close that wooden phrasing would rob the songs of all their meaning. As it is, one gets not merely a procession of agreeable sounds but characterization and drama that are ordinarily associated exclusively with literary media.

In the presentation of the program, the English Singers attempt to preserve the same informal atmosphere that surrounded those early gatherings of madrigal and motet singers. They walked onto the stage as if they were going into a drawing room, took their seats at a table and then—without any perceptible signal from anybody—starting singing with a sureness of attack that simply couldn't be improved.

The program consisted of composition by William Byrd, Thomas Weelkes, Orlando Gibbons, Henry Purcell and other famous old English composers together with a group of Italian street cries. The audience responded visibly to the friendly attitude of the singers and the lively, humorous and naive conceits of the music.

EDWARD T. HALL GETS DIVORCE IN CLAYTON

Charged Wife With Desertion — Testified She Treated Him With Contempt.

A divorce was granted at Clayton yesterday to Edward T. Hall vice president of the Ralston-Purina Co. and former president of the St. Louis Advertising Club, from Mrs. Jessie G. Hall. He charged general indignities and desertion.

Hall testified his wife spent most of her time traveling, treated him with contempt in the presence of friends and left him a year ago, declaring she did not intend to return. They were married in Philadelphia in 1911, and separated Feb. 10, of last year. An entry of appearance and general denial of allegations was filed by Mrs. Hall, who was represented in court by an attorney.

Hall resides with his four minor children at Berry and Algonquin roads, in Glendale. The Court reserved privilege of making further order as to the custody of the children.

SKYSCRAPERS NOT FOR PARIS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 5. — American skyscrapers are being discovered anew by the French, but, while such buildings are admitted to be a necessity in some American cities, most Frenchmen comment that there is neither need of nor desire for them in Paris, and that they don't belong here.

Nearly half of the current issue of the principal illustrated periodical of France is devoted to showing that New York "has a beauty all its own, grandiose and magnificent," and to explaining "why is a skyscraper." "Titanic architecture" and "modern palaces worthy of ancient Babylon" are samples of descriptive phrases under full-page pictures of the Woolworth Building, the Chicago Tribune home and the telephone buildings in St. Louis, New York and San Francisco.

FOOTPRINTS ONLY CLEW TO CHURCH FIREBUG

Fires in Three Synagogues and Nazarene Edifice Laid to Incendiary.

Police are seeking an unidentified person of small stature who is believed to have set fire to three Jewish synagogues and a church on Thursday and Friday nights. The fires, of which appeared to be of incendiary origin, were extinguished in each case after minor damage to buildings and contents.

Footprints, found under an open window at one of the buildings and indicating the person may have been a child, constituted the only clew.

Friday night's fires, following two similar blazes Thursday night, were in the synagogues of the Nathan Harris Congregation, 1213 North Glasgow avenue, and the B'nai Abraham Congregation, Glasgow and Dickson street, a short distance away.

Entered by Window.

The first blaze, discovered at 9:50 o'clock, caused damage of about $1000. Apparently it had been started in a heap of waste paper. A watchman gave the alarm. The building is owned by Nathan Harris of 6954 Columbia avenue.

The second blaze occurred some time between 7 p. m. Thursday and 6 a. m. yesterday. It had been started from a tablecloth and had burned itself out after causing damage of $100 to furnishings. The person apparently had forced an entrance through a rear window.

Two Previous Fires.

At 9:45 p. m. Thursday a fire was discovered under a stairway in the building occupied by the Congregation Chesed Shel Emeth, 1260 North Euclid avenue. It caused damage of $50.

Half an hour later fire broke out in the Euclid Nazarene Church, at 1231 North Euclid, a few doors away. Damage, which was estimated at $225, was chiefly to books and furnishings.

Italian Papers Row Over Dante.

ROME, Feb. 20.—Mussolini has frequently put the soft pedal on his combative journalistic followers, who used daily to revise the universe and declare war on neighboring nations. Now, being forbidden to mix into controversial politics, they are reduced to quarreling among themselves about literature. There has been a lively dispute on between the newspapers Impero and Lo Stato Fascista as to which of the classic Italian writers are "truly fascist." The Impero has won the battle by claiming Dante.

RESTORES HEARING

To Many Who Are Growing Deaf

There are thousands of people growing deaf or losing their hearing in one or both ears or suffering with intense head noises. They may not be able to hear a conversation plainly or cannot hear over a telephone. Some may be wearing an ear phone. Many of these deaf people have given up hope of ever hearing again, but it is now not only possible to restore good hearing but also to relieve the head noises in many of these cases.

90% of the Deaf People May Be Benefited

Many authorities agree that at least 90 per cent of all deafness and head noises are caused directly or indirectly by colds or exposure or infection, or from catarrh of the nasal passages that works its way into the Eustachian Tube and gradually causes deafness.

Many people who have this infection or inflammation do not have any symptoms except the gradual deafness. This condition is usually made worse from fresh colds, and gradually growing worse each year.

25,000 Demonstration TREATMENTS Are To Be GIVEN AWAY THIS MONTH FREE

Dr. Coffee says most of these cases are "Tubal Deafness," infection or disease in the Eustachian Tube, and should obtain good or normal hearing.

New Book Explaining Deafness and Head Noises Sent Free

Dr. W. O. Coffee, Davenport, Iowa, one of the most widely known physicians in the Middle West, has written and published a book on deafness and head noises, telling of his wonderful experience in treating these conditions for over 45 years.

This book explains in detail practically all the different stages and kinds of deafness and head noises, the curable and the incurable kinds, written so that anyone can understand it, and should be able to tell for themselves the condition of their own ears. This book will be sent with a free trial demonstration treatment, without charge, to everyone who writes him in the next 30 days. Neither the free treatment nor the book costs you anything if you accept this offer.

Dr. Coffee Especially Appeals to Those Who are Partly Deaf and Growing Worse

Dr. Coffee especially urges every person who is dull of hearing in one or both ears, who is growing deaf, or who is getting worse with each cold, or who has head noises, to try his treatment this month free of charge. Many cases are almost completely deaf through closure of the Eustachian Tube and collapse of the ear drum. No matter how mild your case or how deaf you are, he wants you to read this book. It will probably describe your case. He wants you to try a course of this treatment on your own case, no matter how many treatments you have used. It may be just what is needed for your case as it has been for thousands of others.

25,000 BOOKS on DEAFNESS Are To Be GIVEN AWAY THIS MONTH FREE

You have everything to gain and nothing to lose in reading this book and trying this treatment on your ears. They both come by parcel post prepaid with no obligation on your part. Sign your name and address plainly.

Hundreds of Former Sufferers Like These Now Loud in Praise

Hearing Restored at 80 Years

At eighty years of age, D. B. Simmons, of Maine, ascribed partial deafness with which he was afflicted to his advanced years. Developing severe head noises, however, he determined to seek relief from Dr. Coffee of whose success with similar cases he had heard. "I am glad to be able to tell you," he writes, "that after using your treatment as prescribed, the head noises left me entirely and I am rid of the deafness besides. Can hear as well as ever."

Hearing Restored at 86

"I had suffered with nasal catarrh for seven or eight years; I had terrible head noises, my hearing was bad. It was necessary for people to talk loud, otherwise I could not hear them. I used Dr. Coffee's home treatment for four months, and it restored my hearing to such an extent that I can now take part in an ordinary conversation. The head noises are a thing of the past. I am 86 years old."

J. C. Patterson, Indiana.

Head Noises Disappear

With Mrs. Reed Page, of N. Y., Dr. Coffee quickly relieved a serious and rapidly developing case of deafness and head noises merely by prescribing his simple home treatment. From normal hearing, in scarcely four years, Mrs. Page became quite deaf. People had to shout close to her ears for her to understand them. Now she writes, "I am happy to tell you how good I feel and how much improved I am. Can hear everything, and the head noises are gone entirely."

After 10 Years' Suffering

"My hearing is now even better than when I was a boy," writes Peter Storm of Iowa. Gradually but surely growing deaf over a period of nearly ten years, Mr. Storm became afflicted with severe head noises which alarmed him greatly. Much to his amazement and when he had practically given up hope of regaining his hearing, Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment permanently relieved him within two months.

Freed After 48 Years

"I had been gradually growing deaf for 48 years. I had not been able to hear over a telephone for 17 years. Naturally I was discouraged for I had tried everything and found no relief. Dr. Coffee's treatment restored my hearing so I could hear over a telephone in either ear, quite plainly. I no longer suffer with intense head noises."

Mrs. M. Sherier, Missouri.

Acute Deafness Soon Ended

Here is a recent picture of Mrs. Mona McBride, an Illinois woman whose remarkable case and glowing testimonial letter show what this treatment can accomplish. From childhood, Mrs. McBride's hearing was affected, the result of serious illness. Her story is the most convincing proof of the merits of Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment. Mrs. McBride writes: "Upon trying Dr. Coffee's method, the hearing in my ear which had been practically deaf for nearly 20 years has returned. I did not believe it possible." Two weeks was all it required to show astonishing results. From that time on her hearing steadily improved, much to both patient's and physician's delight.

Restored Hearing in Month

This vigorous young Canadian, George Bishop, a native of Saskatchewan, tells how he suffered for 12 years and spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief to no avail. Read what he says of Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment—how his hearing has improved and the head noises disappeared as a result of this simple method: "My hearing grew so bad that people had to shout into my ear for me to understand. Dr Coffee's Treatment helped me greatly in one month. It is wonderful."

FAMILY KEEPS A GOOD SUPPLY ON HAND

The Popular Medicine So Many St. Louis People Are Praising Is the Favorite Remedy With Canaan Avenue Family.

"Your great herbal preparation is such a favorite in my home that I feel as though I could not keep house without it, hence I keep a good supply on hand at all times and each member of my family occasionally takes a dose when they are not feeling well," said Mrs. Wm. Straus, 844 Canaan avenue, St. Louis, in a recent interview with the representative of famous Herb Extract Remedy, formerly called Herb Juice.

MRS. WM. STRAUS

"I will tell you of some of the symptoms and ailments which have bothered me and mine," continued Mrs. Straus, "and of the wonderful relief obtained from use of your medicine, so you may fully understand how effectively it worked in overcoming these ailments. Constipation, inactive liver, gastritis, nervous indigestion, and stomach disorders, to say nothing of terrible headaches, dizzy spells, bilious attacks and that drowsy, worn-out feeling which most of us had. In my own case, I used it as a laxative, tonic and system regulator in a general way and can conscientiously say that its action was most pleasing and satisfactory in every particular. It is the most wonderful and thorough system purifier and regulator I have ever had in my house, and I have tried quite a number of medicines. There is no doubt about this medicine doing its work in a very effective and substantial way. It is so thorough acting that it gives complete satisfaction and is so pleasant to take that I believe everybody who takes it will like it and be benefited by its use. My entire system is wonderfully improved since I have used the herb remedy regularly for several weeks. I take advantage of every opportunity to tell some one about this medicine and what it will actually do for people in a run-down condition, brought on by constipation."

This great medicine is an Herb Extract preparation, formerly called Herb Juice, and is outselling all other medicines. Hundreds continue to call at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington avenue, to see the special demonstrator, many voluntarily giving statements for publication, praising this great medicine that their friends may be induced to try same.

MISSIONARIES FACE CHANGES IN CHINA

Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Knox, Driven Out by Unrest, Describe Hatred of Foreigners.

If Christian missionaries ever get back into China after the present enforced exodus, they will work along considerably different lines than they have in the past, Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Knox told the women's missionary organization of Union Avenue Christian Church in a lively session Friday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Knox have just returned from Tsinan, where Dr. Knox resigned his position as Roentgenologist in Shantung University a month ago because of his belief that all China soon would fall into the hands of the Southern Nationalists, by force of arms or by spread of Communist feeling.

Dr. Knox is a former student of Washington University Medical School, and Mrs. Knox was formerly Miss Bessie Lee Broch. Both were active in the affairs of the Union Avenue Church before going to China. They are visiting Mrs. Knox's mother, Mrs. Al Broch, of 5455 Delmar boulevard.

Dr. Knox Sees Russian Influence.

Dr. Knox listed three aims of the Nationalists: to unify China, to drive out all foreigners, and to raise the standards of the working classes.

"While I might agree with at least two of those aims," he remarked, "I cannot agree with their methods. Even if they do succeed in unifying China, I do not believe it will mean anything. China still will be under control of Russia. China is only the catspaw of a superior race.

"Perhaps some of the Southerners may be of a better type than the Northerners, but I can not forget two things: they despise foreigners, and they have set free the unruly element and will not hold themselves responsible for the result. They must drive out every foreigner or they have lost face in China. And if face doesn't count in China, nothing does.

Missionaries Fear Trouble.

"If any foreign trade is legitimate, the foreigners have every right to be there. Only the parts of China where foreigners have taken hold have been able to stand alone economically."

Dr. and Mrs. Knox said that 79 passengers of their steamer were missionaries who had been ordered from the Yangtse Valley by their consuls. Only one had expressed any desire ever to return to China. They told of others waiting for similar orders, not daring to face their mission boards without them, and of missionaries in Canton sleeping with rockets beneath their beds to summon aid from American gunboats in the harbor in an emergency.

Give Cause of Exodus.

For a basic cause of the exodus and of Russian dominance, they cited no less an authority than Michael Lorodin, chief adviser of the Third International to the Kwomintang, as quoted by John McCook Roots, son of Bishop Roots of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Central China, in the February issue of Asia.

"The fact is that the Christian Church is doing next to nothing toward bettering the social condition of the Chinese masses. Our strength, the strength of the Chinese communists and the Kwomintang Left, lies in our working-class program."

"The new missions in China will have to be an entirely different movement," Mrs. Knox declared. "We knew that before the clash, but we didn't expect that the Chinese would force it upon us.

"Great good had been done by the church in many ways, but little has been done to elevate the economic condition of the lower class. They would be receptive to that—they have so demonstrated in acceptance of communist leadership. But they have had enough of superstition and dogma poured down their throats for generations by their own prophets."

"So far as my own experience will answer for mission hospitals," Dr. Knox explained after the meeting, "they cannot give the Chinese people the best we know in medicine, in either preventive medicine, hospital care or sanitation, due to the fact that their equipment is inadequate and their budgets limited.

"I do not believe there's a single mission in all China—if so I haven't heard of it," broke in Mrs. Knox, "which has tried to build up decent conditions for the working class, decent houses for them outside the mission campus, or clean streets, or sanitation or even ordinary cleanliness in the homes of working people."

"Yes," commented Dr. Knox, "the idea seems to be to gain the confidence of the people through the hospital and then convert them."

DRIVER KILLED AS HE TRIES TO EXCEED 174 M.P.H.

Parry-Thomas' Car Is Wrecked as He Strives to Be First to Do Three Miles in Minute.

By JAMES SPENCER,
Automobile Editor.

J. G. Parry-Thomas, the British driver, who was killed Thursday on Pendine Sands, Wales, was making a desperate attempt at the time to regain the world's automobile speed records for the mile and the kilometer. His car, which skidded as he made a turn, threw a wheel and was wrecked, was the 450-horsepower "Babs," with which on April 28, 1926, on the same Pendine Sands he raised the record for the mile by 15 miles per hour to 171.09 m. p. h. and did the kilometer at 170.624 m. p. h. Thereby he beat the world's record of 156 m. p. h. set by "Tommy" Milton, American racing driver, on Daytona Beach, Fla., several years ago.

One of Famous Quartet.

Parry-Thomas for some years has been bracketed with Maj. Seagrave, Capt. Campbell and E. A. D. Eldridge, the four being the most famous of British racing drivers. The rivalry between them was intense. Eldridge's best feat was his driving of the old 300-horsepower boat to a road record of 146 m. p. h. on a four-mile stretch of pavement near Arpajon, in France. Parry-Thomas annexed most of the speed records on the Brooklands track, in England, with special Leyland-Thomas racing cars.

The one record which stirred the ambition of the four men was that for the mile and kilometer. Campbell had held the European record for the mile and kilometer almost continuously since 1919. He claimed the world's record for the mile, having averaged 150.764 m. p. h. in both directions.

"Tommy" Milton's 156 miles per hour in Florida was not generally accepted in Europe, because it was made in only one direction. It should be understood that in this country records generally are made in one direction. In England, however, a record for the kilometer or the mile is accepted only as the average of the speeds made on two runs, in opposite directions. For this reason Milton's record, while acclaimed in America as a world's record, was termed "unofficial" by British racing enthusiasts. Yet the British drivers realized that a "world's record" that did not surpass Milton's time would be regarded as a technical record, even in Europe. Sig. Houadahl's claim that he did 180 m. p. h. in Florida never was accepted officially anywhere.

Pendine Sands Dangerous.

Eldridge dropped out of the contest for mile honors. He competed in the last 500-mile Indianapolis race, driving his own car, which proved far too slow. He took a Miller eight back to Europe and last fall drove it better than 160 miles an hour for five miles on the Montlhery track, in France. In March, 1926, Campbell averaged over 150 m. p. h. on Pendine Sands, driving a 12-cylinder Sunbeam car, and made a mile in the direction at 152.8 m. p. h. Then Seagrave averaged 152.3 m. p. h. for the kilometer.

The danger possibilities of high speeds on the Pendine Sands, which are on the Welsh coast, became apparent when his car hit a soft spot and leaped 20 feet through the air.

Parry-Thomas Does 172 M. P. H.

Later, in April, 1926, Parry-Thomas appeared one day on Pendine Sands with "Babs," a massive car powered with a rebuilt 12-cylinder Liberty airplane engine. At the time press dispatches told how "Babs" was carted to the scene on a motor truck and how it took 7 men, using a special mechanism, to crank the engine, each of whose 12 cylinders had a bore of 5 inches and stroke of 7 inches. The engine had four carburetors, fitted with air intake scoops. Drive to the rear axle was by chain and sprockets. The radiator slanted backward, the body was streamlined, and the tail was pointed. The steering column was nearly horizontal. Altogether, a fine death trap in case of a wreck, as was proved last Saturday.

Getting under way, he averaged 170.29 miles per hour for a kilometer, and 168.674 m. p. h. for a mile, beating Milton's time by 12 miles per hour. He was timed for a mile in one direction at 172.331 m. p. h.

The next day, he averaged 170.4 m. p. h. for the kilometer and 169 for the mile. Both records were the average of runs in opposite directions.

Parry-Thomas declared that he had shown enough to justify a belief that he could drive it

One of Famous Quartet.

Parry-Thomas for some years has been bracketed with Maj. Seagrave, Capt. Campbell and E. A. D. Eldridge, the four being the most famous of British racing drivers. Rivalry between them was intense. Eldridge's best feat was his driving of the old 300-horsepower Fiat to a road record of 146 m. p. h. on a four-mile stretch of pavement near Arpajon, in France. Parry-Thomas annexed most of the speed records on the Brooklands track, in England, with special Leyland-Thomas racing cars.

The one record which stirred the ambition of the four men was that for the mile and kilometer. Campbell had held the European record for the mile and kilometer almost continuously since 1919. He claimed the world's record for the mile, having averaged 150.766 m. p. h. in both direction.

"Tommy" Milton's 156 miles per hour in Florida was not generally accepted in Europe, because it was made in only one direction. It should be understood that in all his country records generally are made in one direction. In England, however, a record for the kilometer or the mile is accepted only as the average of the speeds made on two runs, in opposite directions. For this reason Milton's record, while acclaimed in America as a world's record, was termed "unofficial" by British racing enthusiasts. Yet the British drivers realized that a "world's record" that did not surpass Milton's time would be regarded as a technical record, even in Europe. Sig. Houadahl's claim that he did 180 m. p. h. in Florida never was accepted officially anywhere.

Pendine Sands Dangerous.

Eldridge dropped out of the contest for mile honors. He competed in the last 500-mile Indianapolis race, driving his own car, which proved far too slow. He took a Miller eight back to Europe and last fall drove it better than 140 miles an hour for five miles on the Montlhery track, in France. In March, 1926, Campbell averaged over 150 m. p. h. on Pendine Sands, driving a 12-cylinder Sunbeam car, and made a mile in one direction at 152.8 m. p. h. Then Seagrave ageraged 152.3 m. p. h. for the kilometer.

The danger possibilities of high speeds on the Pendine Sands, which are on the Welsh coast, became apparent when his car hit a soft spot and leaped 30 feet through the air.

Parry-Thomas Does 172 M. P. H.

Late in April, 1926, Parry-Thomas appeared one day on Pendine Sands with "Babs," a massive car powered with a rebuilt 12-cylinder Liberty airplane engine. At the time press dispatches told how "Babs" was carted to the scene on a motor truck and how it took 7 men, using a special mechanism, to crank the engine, each of whose 12 cylinders had a bore of 5 inches and stroke of 7 inches. The engine had four carburetors, fitted with air intake stacks. Drive to the rear axle was by chain and sprockets. The radiator slanted backward, the body was streamlined, and the tail was pointed. The steering column was nearly horizontal. Altogether, a fine death trap in case of a wreck, as was proved last Sunday.

Getting under way, he averaged 169.25 miles per hour for a kilometer, and 168.074 m. p. h. for a mile, beating Milton's time by 12 miles per hour. He was timed for the mile in one direction at 172.331 m. p. h.

The next day, he averaged 170.- m. p. h. for the kilometer and 169 for the mile. Both records were the average of runs in opposite directions.

Parry-Thomas declared that "Babs" had shown enough to justify a belief that he could drive it at 180 m. p. h. on the beach. But he made no further attempts.

Campbell Does 174 M. P. H.

Incidentally, Thomas barely brushed death aside in one of his runs on the beach when soft spots caused several hair raising swerves and he had to drive with one hand while he worked his auxilliary oil pump with the other.

On Feb. 4, last, Capt. Campbell took his 12-cylinder Sunbeam to Pendine Sands even as the newspapers were telling how Maj. Seagrave was about to sail for the United States with a 1000-H. P. Sunbeam car, which had two 12-cylinder engines and was expected to do 200 m. p. h., and would try to make that speed on Daytona Beach, where conditions are much better for high speed than on Pendine Sands.

Undeterred, Campbell proceeded to put his car over the beach course at an average speed of 174 m. p. h., beating Parry-Thomas' record by four m. p. h.

Campbell was timed at 179 and a fraction miles an hour for a run in one direction, or just a hair under the 3 miles per minute.

Parry-Thomas Last Run.

Confident that "Babs" could do 180 m. p. h., and backed by the opinion of many British racing fans, who figured his car as naturally faster than Campbell's, Parry-Thomas determined on a supreme effort—to beat Campbell's 174 m. p. h., to be the first to do an official 3 miles per minute, and set a record that Seagrave would not be able to better at Daytona.

The driving chain broke as he piloted the car along the sands at a speed of 160 miles an hour. The big automobile turned three somersaults and skidded about 150 yards. A wheel came off and the broken driving chain whipped around Parry-Thomas' neck, almost severing it.

Just before starting he broke his rule against carrying mascots and tied to his car a cloth black cat which a woman motorist had brought to give him good luck. A few minutes earlier he had laughingly explained why he carried no mascot. "I put not my trust in false gods," he said.

Meanwhile, Seagrave and his 1000-H. P. car are on their way across the ocean to this country.

FIRST SPEEDWAY AUTO RACE IN 1927 IS SET FOR TODAY

New Record for 91-Inch Racers Expected in Championship Event on California Track.

The first American speedway event in 1927 under supervision of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association is to be held today on the Culver City board speedway, near Los Angeles. It will be for 250 miles, and points awarded will go toward the total for the 1927 championship, which was won last year by Harry Hartz. Of the 1000 points for this race, 500 will go to the driver finishing first.

Hopes for High Speed.

Cars competing will have the 91-cubic inch engines which are required in all AAA speedway events, as was the case last year. As qualifying laps on the one and one-quarter mile bowl were run the past week at speeds as high as 138.8 miles per hour, there is reason to hope that the year will see the little cars beating the marks set by the 122-inch cars which they succeeded after the Indianapolis race on last Memorial day.

The 122-inch cars were driven laps as fast as 145 miles per hour, and have to their credit an average of 134 m. p. h. for 300 miles and 139 m. p. h. for 15 miles.

The best a 91-inch car was able to do last year was 123 miles per hour for 200 miles, and 132 m. p. h. for 25 miles.

So it would appear that the drivers of the 91-inch cars have their work cut out for them. Also, it is not to be forgotten that Eldridge, the British driver, who failed with one of his own cars in the last Indianapolis race, took an eight-cylinder Miller Special back to Europe and drove it 140 miles per hour on the Montlhery track in France, to set an European record for five miles.

Famous Drivers in Race.

Eighteen cars are scheduled to face Starter Fred Wagner at 4 p. m., central time, this afternoon.

Nearly every noted American driver is entered in the race.

Harry Hartz, champion; Peter de Paolo, who was champion in '26; Eddie Hearne, who was champion in 1923, are contestants.

So are Frank Lockhart, the youth who won last year's Indianapolis classic; Leon Duray and Earl de Vore of France; Frank Elliott, Al Melcher, a Danish pilot; Bennie Hill, Dave Lewis, Dave Evans, Dr. William E. Shattuc, Kentucky physician, who has been a sensational driver, and others.

At least three front-drive motors are expected to be in the race. Leon Duray drove one at 138 miles an hour in practice. Dave Lewis will hold the wheel of his costly front-drive Miller special that he used last year to win the first race ever won by the new creations. Frank Elliott is to drive an expensive front-drive car built originally for Cliff Durant, millionaire Los Angeles sportsman and manufacturer.

MACKINAW TRAIL AND WEST-MICHIGAN PIKE OPEN TO AUTOS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 5.—Hugh J. Gray, manager of the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, reports that the two famous roads of Michigan, the West Michigan Pike and the Mackinaw Trail, the former being the Lake Michigan short road to the Straits of Mackinaw and the latter the interior road, are open to automobile travel their entire distance, being entirely cleared of snow. It is stated that these roads are open this year earlier than any time in the history of the resort organization in Michigan. Both are open from the State line of Indiana to the Straits of Mackinac.

Frank Rogers, State Highway Commissioner of Michigan, and his board have authorized purchase of right of way for the new location of the Mackinaw Trail between Howard City and Big Rapids, which eliminates some railroad crossings and makes a more generally satisfactory route for motorists. The remainder of the West Michigan Pike between Honor and Traverse City has been contracted for paving. This was a short piece of road, always in excellent condition, but now to be hard surface. The single detour of last year on the same two Michigan trunk lines —South of Grand Rapids—is to be finished early this year.

Test for Clutch Drag.

If the ammeter continues to show charge when the car is coasting, it is an almost certain indication that the clutch is dragging. A clattering under the floor boards when starting off in low is another indication of this malady.

PERMANENT MOTOR CAR SALES SCHOOL PLANNED

To Be Established in Cleveland for Students From All Parts of U. S.

The Cleveland Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers Association is to establish a permanent sales school. This will be an institution for teaching salesmanship, different from any previous attempts along the same line, according to Herbert Buckman, secretary, whose efforts along this line in the last few years have resulted in great advances in work among salesmen and service men.

It will be a continuous school where young men without selling experience or men already practicing salesmanship can enroll and attend regular sessions as they would in studying for other vocations. The school instruction will be combined with practical work selling among people, so that students may put into immediate practice lessons of the class room and then bring back their actual experiences for analysis and to form the foundation for additional lessons.

It is reported that the country has been combed for methods of instruction and these will be incorporated in a course of study which will be administered in connection with a business college in this city.

The institution will be operated according to practical needs of the automobile trade as outlined by the sales division of the association. Students will come from all parts of the country and dealers in many cities who have heard of the proposal to organize such a school in Cleveland have already indicated participation and practical support.

The Cleveland Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers Association, under the management of Herbert Buckman, has long been known for its efforts along educational lines and the plans for a permanent school are being watched with interest by the automotive trade all over the country.

The second class of apprentices from the public trade school took up practical shop work March 1. Forty more boys are now ready to step from Eagle School to employment in the automobile service stations of Cleveland dealers. These boys are organized into 20 pairs, so that while one boy is working in one shop for two weeks, his mate is going to school, then change about for the next two weeks. Twenty more shops may thus be supplied with boys seriously studying to be automobile mechanics.

It was boys from this group that made such wonderful records at the recent automobile show.

Honey as an Antifreeze.

Among the solutions actively pushed on the antifreeze market is honey. It will protect the cooling system against the rigors of cold weather, but it is objected to chiefly on the ground that it does not flow readily, resulting in clogging of the radiator passages. This deficiency is common to virtually all sugar solutions.

CHAPIN IS ELECTED HEAD OF NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE C OF C

Hudson Motor Car Co., Chairman, Leader in the Industry Since Its Early Days, Succeeds Clifton.

Col. Charles Clifton has resigned as president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, a position which he has held since the beginning of association work in the industry, 23 years ago.

When he took the chair in 1904, United States automobile factories were turning out 23,000 cars annually with a wholesale value of $25,000,000. Today the output of plants in this country is more than 4,400,000 vehicles annually with a wholesale value of $3,000,000,000. During his leadership the automobile has risen until it is rated first in the country today by the United States Bureau of the Census, exceeding steel and meat packing.

Organized Hudson Motor Car Co.

Col. Clifton is chairman of the Board of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co.

Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Car Co., and first vice president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, succeeds Clifton as president.

Chapin also has been a leading figure in the industry since its early days.

He organized the Hudson Motor Car Co. in 1910 and was its president until four years ago when he became chairman of the Hudson board.

AUTO HEADLIGHTS AND DRIVING SPEED TESTED

Experts Find Rate of 20 M. P. H. Allows Driver 3.4 Seconds to Recognize Obstacle.

The relationship which exists between automobile head lighting and driving speed is being studied by electrical engineers in hopes of removing the greatest dangers of night motoring.

"An automobile traveling at the rate of 20 miles an hour when its headlights reveal an obstruction 100 feet ahead allows the driver 3.4 seconds in which to recognize the obstacle," according to a study made by engineers and reported in the General Electric Review.

"Assuming that one second is taken for recognition and decision, there remain 70 feet for braking and other action.

"The same car and driver at 60 miles an hour have an entirely different problem. The single second taken for recognition and decision would bring the car within 12 feet or within one-seventh of a second of the obstruction.

"It is obvious that safety at this speed demands a recognition distance of more than 100 feet. Assume it to be 200 feet and there remains 112 feet for braking.

"Where 70 feet is ample for deceleration from 20 miles an hour, possibly 200 feet would be required for a full stop from 60 miles an hour.

"The obstruction must, therefore, be first brought into view at 312 feet, with no margin of safety for momentary inattention or wrong decisions.

"To produce equal visibility by means of an automobile headlight would require 10 times the intensity at 312 feet that easily served at 100 feet.

"Let us assume that the more intense beam has been produced as desired. Then the real difficulties appear, for this more intense beam must be more studiously planned and more precisely formed to illuminate the field of vision, and, above all, it must be more accurately controlled to prevent it from producing a glare for the approaching drivers."

TESTS TO PICK CHASSIS FOR ARMORED POLICE CAR MADE

It Will Carry Payroll of Treasury Department to Various City Institutions.

The Police Department of St. Louis is to buy an armored car to carry the payroll of the Treasury Department to the various city institutions, which at times amounts to $75,000.

The car is to have 13 portholes, 11 to fire pistols and machine guns through and a revolving turret on the top. It also will have a sedan type body and a bus chassis capable of making 50 miles per hour.

Tests were made on several chassis Thursday and Friday, on Lindell boulevard between De Baliviere avenue and Skinker road, to determine what make should be used. These were carried out at the request of M. E. Eagles, bus engineer of the St. Louis Car Co., which is to build the armored body, and were conducted by a motor cycle squad under Police Sergt. Adolph Eckstrand.

New Buick Line Able to Assemble 1300 Cars Daily

More Than 200 Tons of Parts an Hour Used—Conveyor From Engine Plant Exceeds Half Mile in Length.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FLINT, Mich., March 5.—Buick's new unified line, an assembly system said to be unrivaled for speed and economy, is now in operation, after more than a year of planning and building. This assembly system, housed under one roof, is capable of turning out over 1300 complete automobiles each day. Between 885 and 900 men, with the new system, are able to assemble 1100 complete automobiles a day. This places the actual cost of assembling each car at a figure less than the wage of a man for one day, as far as the labor item is concerned.

This is but one of the many costly items that figure in the price of the completely assembled car, however. Another expensive and difficult problem for any automobile plant is to get materials to the assembly line at the lowest possible handling cost. In the case of Buick, this means handling over 200 tons an hour. To do this with the efficiency and at lowest cost, conveyors, designed and built by Buick engineers, are in the Unified Line. From the engine plant, half a mile away, comes a steady stream of finished and tested valve-in-head engines. These come in a covered tunnel on an endless chain, over buildings and around corners. It is said to be the longest conveyor in the world.

The system has proved itself so efficient that the "float," stock kept on hand to take care of unforeseen delays, has been reduced more than 50 per cent.

The unified line consists of three assembly lines, in a building 64 feet wide. There is no interruption in assembly from the time the bare frame is started at one end until the finished car is driven away under its own power at the other. All assembly operations are performed on the line.

Buick builds chassis of three lengths and two engine sizes. There are 18 domestic body styles, several export right hand drives, many different paint combinations of bodies and wheels, two sizes of steering gears, transmissions, axles, brakes, gasoline tanks, fenders, etc. There are three styles of headlamps, and scores of other differences to consider. About the only factor which simplifies the system is that Buick builds chassis of identical quality and design.

A frame for a chassis of 128-inch wheelbase starts at the riveting bays. Throughout its long journey through thousands of assembly operations, it must in every case receive exactly the right part for this particular chassis. It must receive the proper engine, axles, springs, steering gear, wheels painted the proper color, and so on. Yet materials are so promptly delivered to the line, and in the right order, that there is never a mistake made; never a hitch in the smooth progress of assembling the car.

DUESENBERG GETTING READY FOR CAPACITY PRODUCTION

Factory buildings of Duesenberg, Inc., at Indianapolis, are being entirely rearranged. In the main building all the machinery and pieces of equipment have been moved to one side, together with tool rooms, receiving rooms, shipping rooms, etc., leaving one side entirely free for the installation of a progressive assembly unit. Machines are being cleaned, materials purchased and everything put in readiness for capacity production in the near future.

Construction will start immediately on new building, 320 feet long by 70 feet wide. This will house, besides the final test, a complete laboratory for the use of Fred S. Duesenberg, founder of the original company. It is proposed to make this the most thoroughly equipped laboratory of its kind in the world.

New sales impetus has been given the Duesenberg product since the purchase of the Duesenberg Motors Co. in October, last year, by E. L. Cord, president of the Auburn Automobile Co. Reorganized, the company has gone forward with plans to produce a deluxe automobile with a powerful motor and all the refinements that are looked for in a European "handmade" product. Both American and European body makers are now making new designs for the new car.

CARDINALS' FIRST BASEMAN TO DRIVE A WILLYS-KNIGHT

"Jim" Bottomley, first baseman for the Cardinals, has purchased one of the speedy Willys-Knight "Great Six" roadsters. He did not take it with him to training camp, but expects to use it on opening day in St. Louis.

Bottomley's new car has the latest type manifold, which materially increases the power and "pep" of the Knight sleeve valve engine that is the chief feature of the Willys-Knight Series 66A.

His car is good for 75 to 80 miles per hour, according to W. A. Elliott, branch manager for Willys-Overland.

Here it is!

Goodyear's new-type All-Weather Tread—especially designed for balloon tires

The World's Greatest Tire!

Here you see displayed the greatest tire combination ever offered to the public:

The famous SUPERTWIST cord structure—

With the new-type All-Weather Tread.

Exclusively Goodyear's—another Goodyear triumph!

The first big advantage you will get from this new tread is traction. Safe and sure-footed, the sharp-edged diamond-shaped blocks in the tread's center seize and grip and hang-on.

The second big advantage is long, slow, even tread wear, as opposed to the "cupping" and "pot-holes" until now characteristic of wear in balloons.

The third big advantage is freedom from structural failures and similar troubles, such as casing rupture and shoulder breaks.

Major benefits, these, proceeding from the new-type semi-flat tread with its heavily ribbed All-Weather pattern, and from the amazingly durable and elastic SUPERTWIST cords of which the casing is made.

We tested this tread under the harshest kind of conditions—picked it finally from eighty separate and individual designs as outranking them all—and proved the tire's traction, wear and strength in the lessons learned in the operation of the Goodyear tire-testing fleet last year over a total of 5,400,000 tire-miles!

This new Goodyear, with its new-type All-Weather tread and SUPERTWIST casing, is the greatest tire Goodyear ever made and the crowning achievement of the most progressive tire company in the world:

—the company which has never been halted in its onward sweep to leadership and which in recent years has steadily increased its pace

—which has made and placed into service nearly 100,000,000 tires, millions more than any other maker

—which alone uses nearly one-seventh of all the crude rubber produced annually on the earth, almost 50% more than any other manufacturer —which every year for the last ten years has made and sold more tires than any other company in the world —which focuses on development, chemical research and service work the largest engineering body of its kind —which operates its own cotton plantation, textile mills, rubber plantation, coal mines, factories and branches, to the end of delivering the tire-user the greatest possible value for his dollar.

These facts and others like them explain why the new All-Weather Tread Goodyear Balloon is the world's greatest tire.

It is outstandingly the newest, tested reason why more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

This great tire is available at all Goodyear Service Stations and backed by every Goodyear Dealer with a service pledged "to provide facilities so that users will get all the inbuilt Goodyear value out."

BOULEVARD TO GIRDLE KEY WEST BEING BUILT

Will Be "White Way" Terminal Drive for Overseas Highway and Cost $682,000.

A marine boulevard around the island of Key West will soon be an actuality.

The Key West boulevard, as it will be known, will unite with roads along the Key West waterfront to form a marine drive completely encircling the picturesque island city. The boulevard will be a terminal drive for the Overseas highway now about 70 per cent completed between Key West and Florida mainland, 122 miles distant. Apart from its scenic beauty, the road will prove to be a commercial convenience.

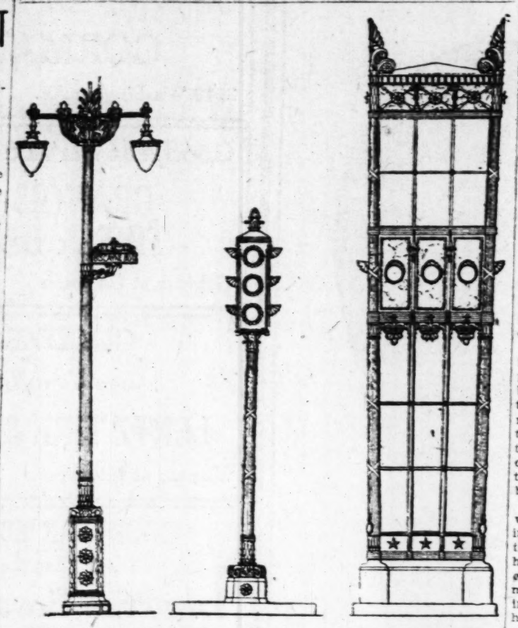
The island of Key West is about seven miles by three miles in greatest distances, but averages about two miles wide. In its eastern part it is somewhat irregular in shape, and at one point it is less than a mile in width. Though almost the entire area is platted, the more thickly built up portion of the city occupies an area of, roughly, one mile by two miles.

The boulevard under construction is part of extensive development program, and when completed will cost $682,000. The motorist will view, in turn, the Atlantic ocean, the Florida straits, the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf Stream.

The Key West boulevard starts on the south shore of the island, east of the Casa Marina Hotel, the city's most pretentious building. At White street it will pass east, down the south shore, skirting the Atlantic Ocean for almost two miles protected by a sloping concrete sea wall rising four feet above sea level. The boulevard will continue along the south side of the island, where it will be 50 feet wide, bordered on the side nearest the sea by a 20-foot-wide cement sidewalk and on the inland side by a 50-foot landscaped parkway.

The completion of the Key West boulevard will, it is predicted, help to give Key West a reputation as the Venice of the Western Hemisphere, as well as that which she now enjoys, because of her commanding naval situation, as the Gibraltar of America.

For Unified Street Architecture



Prize winning designs for traffic towers and light standards to be erected in Miami's new Biscayne boulevard, which skirts Biscayne Bay for 3½ miles. This competition is said to be the first held in an effort to develop a unified architecture for a city street.

AIR CONTROL SPEEDS AUTO PLANTS' OUTPUT

Means Lower Prices, Better Material and Workmanship, Engineers Say.

The American automobile industry is reaching new strides in productive capacity while millions of dollars in new economies are being effected through the positive, mechanical control and manipulation of air in a hundred different processes and "functions, leading plant engineers in the industry declare.

The spectacular growth of the industry with its volume of mass production has been made possible by wide adoption of air control in all the important phases of manufacture and the value of controlled air has been translated into terms of lower prices, greater efficiency and higher quality of material and workmanship to the car buyer, these engineers assert.

"It has been the speed with which the industry has adopted important developments in science to facilitate production, protect health conditions of labor, and reclaim material waste that has made it one of the most outstanding and spectacular in American history," the chief plant engineer of one of America's greatest motor car factories declared.

"Advances in the science of air conditioning has made it possible to increase the production of plants several times over without increasing their size or buildings. This is true of all the big builders such as Ford, General Motors, Willys-Overland, Chrysler, Nash, Studebaker and others.

While systematic ventilation of all buildings plays a big part in the automotive industry, it is in a multiplicity of other applications that electrically controlled air is of vital importance to the industry and its thousands of workers. According to Arthur Sheldon of Willys-Overland, many states have laws compelling industry to protect workmen from dusts, gases, fumes and other by-products of manufacture, but the motor industry has gone far beyond the letter and spirit of these laws to both protect its workmen and to increase productive capacity.

"Dust must be collected, shavings conveyed away, gases, odors and fumes driven out if production is not to be hampered and the lives and health of workmen protected," he said. "These objectionable dusts and other by-products result from grinding, polishing sand blasting and other operations, and are all handled by air driven at great force by huge blowers and other air-control equipment."

In woodworking shops an exhaust system is used to collect all sawdust, shavings and wood hog refuse, and the blown air takes it over to the bilers, where it is used for fuel. Many tons of solder are reclaimed each year because of controlled air in the room where the radiators are dipped. The air not only collects the solder drippings and other muck, but completely drives out the poisonous fumes which result from the soldering process.

$500,000 HOTEL AND CAMP IN GRAND CANYON PLANNED

Plans are under way for the installation of a $500,000 tourist development on the north rim of the Grand Canyon, in the Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona, according to the Department of the Interior.

The Department recently advertised for bids for the installation of this service. The only bid received, that of the Utah Parks Co., was opened and found satisfactory.

The company plans to invest approximately $550,000 in establishing hotel, camp and allied facilities on the north rim. The principal structure of the new development will be a central pavilion of log construction. This will contain large lounging rooms, recreation hall, storeroom, dining room that will seat 200 persons, kitchen with cold storage plant, shower baths, and accessories. Sixty-two two-room guest lodges of log construction will be provided. Each room will contain twin beds and built-in washstands. There will also be five special guest lodges each containing two rooms with private bath.

Construction of the new lodge is to be begun as soon as the contract is formally signed, and the various facilities are to be put in operation by June 15, 1928.

WHAT'S NEW LA SALLE EIGHT SHOWN IN ST. LOUIS

Companion Car to Cadillac Comes in Six Models, With Fisher-Built Bodies.

Wholly new body styles have been designed for the La Salle, the new eight-cylinder car which has been introduced by the Cadillac Motor Car Co. as a companion to the Cadillac. The La Salle is being shown today for the first time in St. Louis at the Cadillac spring salon, which is being held by the Oliver-Cadillac Co., which is to distribute the new car.

The La Salle has the same type of 90-degree "V" eight-cylinder engine as that used in the Cadillac since 1914. Its bore is 3⅛ inches, and the stroke is 4 15-16 inches. It is somewhat lighter than the Cadillac and has a slightly shorter wheelbase, but is designed as a genuinely fine car.

The new car takes its name from Rene Robert Cavelier de La Salle, who, like Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac, was a French explorer who made history in America in the time of Louis XIV of France.

The La Salle is low hung, speedy and graceful.

Radiator of Racing Car Type.

Its radiator is distinctly of the racing car type. When viewed from the front, the effect is imposing.

The six La Salle models, all built by the Fisher Body Corp., are a four-passenger phaeton, a two-passenger roadster, a convertible coupe, a two-passenger stationary coupe, a four-passenger Victoria, and a five-passenger sedan.

Interiors of closed cars are richly finished. Mohair velvets, plain or in pattern, are used. Seat cushions are tufted or plaited over luxury-type, form-fitting springs. Hardware is of a plain, dignified design, with silver finish. Vanity case, foot rest, arm rests, robe rail and "assist" cords are included where required.

Walnut panels are on doors and above the instrument board. Speedometer, clock, oil gauge, ammeter, motor heat meter, and fuel gauge are in a special die cast instrument panel, with colored pyramid center and nickeled edgings. Windshield wiper control, cigar lighter and manual spark control also are on the instrument board.

The radiator effects of power and fleetness are obtained by height, depth below top of frame, vertical shutters, and streamline cap and hood, with balanced side louvers.

Headlamps of Bullet Type.

Headlamps are of a new and distinctive design, the "bullet" type. They are assembled to the body in streamline effect, the car doors being flush with the outside edge of the lamps. They are mounted on a universal, adjustable socket, have vertical standards connecting them to the top of the frame and an original monogram rod connecting them in front of the radiator.

Side lamps of a similar design are on the cowl. Fenders, running boards and dust shields are designed to carry out the fleet effect necessary to harmonize with the low, graceful and racy bodies.

The sweeping lines are highly accentuated in the roadster and phaeton. Both have one-piece windshields, hinged at the bottom so that they may be folded over the cowl. The tops are collapsible and fold in a compact package. The upholstery in these bodies is a heavy, soft, colored, satin-finished leather.

The roadster has a large folding seat in the rear deck and a roomy golf compartment. On the rear deck are nickel bars to which

This model has been brought out in a color combination in two shades of blue. The upper panels, hood and cowl are in a dark, or Larchmont, blue, and the rest of the car in a lighter shade, called Pelham.

The four-passenger phaeton is featured by a rear luggage trunk, a built-in foot rail, a robe rail and "assist" handles. The body lines are enlivened by a Larch and Canoebrook green color design.

Many Color Combinations.

The four closed body styles, each a distinct type, are semistream-line in design and are characterized by the continuation of the front pillars downward and forward below the belt. Beauty is enhanced by various devices, including rounded corners of window recesses, the windbreak which is carried out on lamps, radiator cap, crown of fenders, and a raised portion of the cowl, which starts with a line at the hood hinge and sweeps backward in fan shape to the base of the windshield.

The convertible and the stationary coupes, also, have folding seat and golf compartments in the rear deck. Derby red has been selected for the former, and a color combination of Senator green and desert sand for the latter. However the La Salle, like the Cadillac, may be obtained in an almost unlimited variety of color combinations.

The doors of the closed bodies are of special dove-tail construction and encased in metal, eliminating wear. Those on the coupe, Victoria and sedan are decorated with walnut panels and the windows have rails also of this material.

In the four-passenger Victoria is a front passenger seat of the folding type, a package compartment behind the driver's seat and an "assist" cord on the right side. A color design consisting of black and vineyard lake, or wine color, harmonizes remarkably with the tone of the car.

Foot rests, arm rests, robe rail, smoking set and an "assist" cord on both sides are included in the equipment of the five-passenger sedan. The colors are Ardsley and Canoebrook green.

By THE AUTO EDITOR.

All three of the new Hudson custom models—the four-door brougham, the five-passenger sedan and the seven-passenger sedan—are being shown by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. These are very attractive cars, having the true custom finish and effect, from the front and rear bumpers with double bars fluted in color to match the body finish to the special radiator ornament—a winged female figure holding at utmost stretch of arms an airplane.

These custom bodies, which are by Biddle & Smart, are of aluminum. Upholstery is in fine plush mohair, soft and pretty. Seat springs are of the luxury type. Window sills and dash are in mahogany finish. The sedans have rear seat arm rests and dainty curtains, while the brougham has landau irons on the rear quarter. Sun visors are of the "Cadet" custom type. All three models have specially designed fitments and de luxe equipment. The brougham is delivered at $1810, the five-passenger sedan at $2010 and the larger sedan at $2110. All have the new Hudson super six engine and are said to be able to hold their own on the road and at hill climbing ability with any motor car.

The custom trio made an effective addition to the standard Hudson models, which include the well known coach with all-steel body.

Hup Eight Custom Cars.

Three Hupmobile eight custom models, designed by Dietrich, are now available as additions to the standard line. One of these—a five-passenger sedan—was exhibited at the St. Louis Automobile Show where it was a center of interest and now is being shown by the Weber Implement and Automobile Co.

In addition to custom body lines special upholstery and fitments, these three models have nonshatterable glass in all windows and cast bronze front window pillars.

The five-passenger sedan and a custom town car are to be delivered at $5600, while the delivery price of the sedan-limousine is $5795.

Including these custom cars, the Hupmobile eight line now comprises a total of 14 body styles, with a wide range of color combinations and upholstery options.

Three Color Options.

Three color options are now available for "The President," which is Studebaker's special custom design "Big Six" sedan that possesses a very definite distinction.

Decision to offer these new color options is another step in carrying out Studebaker's announced policy of giving "the distinctive features of custom car design without the penalty of custom car cost."

New Coupe Shown.

An interesting new model in the medium priced field shown by Midwest Motors, Inc., is a Chrysler "60" 2-passenger coupe with rumble seat that lists at $1245. It comes in wills green with flamingo carmine and gold bronze striping. Its upholstery is in mouse gray mohair. The new small wheels, gracefully rounded rear windows and smooth curves of the rear deck add to thet smart, brisk appearance of the body.

Control of the rear window is by a crank regulator which lowers the glass out of sight, permitting free conversation between occupants of the front and rumble seats and full ventilation for the body of the car when desired.

A spacious rumble seat is trimmed in moleskin imitation leather. Rear view mirror; automatic windshield wiper, bullet type head and cowl lamps; heavy rubber floor mats, and kick plates below each door are standard.

ROBERT P. PAGE JR. ELECTED PRESIDNT OF AUTOCAR CO.

Robert P. Page Jr., has been elected president of the Autocar Co., succeeding the late L. L. Woodward. Other officers were elected as follows: John S. Clarke, first vice president; Walter T. Savoye, second vice president; John C. Taney, treasurer; Roscoe T. Anthony, secretary; Miss Mary H. McMonigle, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

The new president joined the Autocar organization in 1912 as a salesman. He advanced rapidly first as manager of the Boston branch and later as New England district manager. Early last year he was appointed general sales manager of the company.

Fire Hazard Is Greater.

Winter brings the greatest fire hazard to motordom. Misfiring, carbureter flooding and "shorting" are more common at this season than any other. The motorist who realizes the greater danger exercises greater care, particularly when starting the car.

LaSalle
a companion car to Cadillac

CARRYING FORWARD the policy of a quality car for every purse and purpose, General Motors saw the need for Cadillac's developing a high grade automobile which would be as socially acceptable as Cadillac itself, but with a slightly varying field of usefulness.

For this congenial task the Cadillac organization was invited to draw freely upon the entire resources of General Motors, including the Research Laboratories, the Department of Purchases, the Fisher Body Corporation and the Proving Ground.

The result is revealed in Cadillac showrooms this week — LaSalle, a fine motor car built wholly within Cadillac's plants, but, in the widest sense of the term, a "product of General Motors."

Those who travel much in Europe have realized that there was an opportunity to introduce a Continental style in the appearance of an American car. LaSalle has realized upon that opportunity. It is radically unlike any other automobile; yet the poise and the breeding of Cadillac are there!

Never was a car so rigidly tested in advance of its presentation to the public as LaSalle has been tested at the General Motors Proving Ground. It is a new car to you; it is a tried and proved car to us—as distinguished in performance as it is different in appearance. We present LaSalle with very great pride and invite you to view its six models.

U. S.-MADE TRUCKS ARE MAKING GOOD IN ANDES

Climb Over Summit of Mountain Pass 15,003 Feet High Is Daily Routine.

By JIM LANCE.

The Andes Mountains of South America are becoming a proving ground extraordinary for motor trucks. The performance of American motor vehicles on Andean mountain roads is resulting in a rapid increase in the proportion of American trucks sold in that continent as compared with those of European manufacture.

American trucks—in this particular instance, Dodge Brothers trucks and commercial cars—are daily traveling over a pass through the Peruvian Andes that climbs to an altitude of 15,003 feet above sea level. This pass is 3276 feet higher than the Fall River Pass, in Rocky Mountain Park, Colorado, which is 11,727 feet above the sea. The Fall River Pass is the loftiest crossed by a road in this country. The next highest mountain passes in this country traversed by roads are the Monarch Pass, between Gunnison and Salida, Colo., which is 11,500 feet high, and the Berthoud Pass, which is on the main motor route from St. Louis via Denver to Salt Lake City, and is 11,350 feet high.

Trucks Traverse Lofty Pass.

Anyone who has driven an automobile over the Berthoud, Monarch or Fall River Passes, and has felt the power of his automobile engine decrease as his car has climbed higher, will realize what it means to drive a loaded truck to a point 3200 feet higher than the topmost stretch of the highest of these three noted American mountain gaps.

The man who never has driven one of these mountain roads may, perhaps, better realize the performance of these American trucks in the Andes when he considers that the 15,003-foot Peruvian pass is approximately 600 feet higher than the peaks of Mount Massive, highest mountain in Colorado, or Mount Rainer and Mount Shasta, giants of the Pacific Coast, and 450 feet higher than the tipmost pinacle of Mount Whitney, highest peak in the United States exclusive of Alaska.

Driving in the High Mountains.

"Fleets of these cars and trucks (Dodge and Graham) running from Chanchamayo Valley (at the headwaters of the Amazon River) across the crest of the Andes to Oroya, Peru, connect with the railroad head there, which runs direct to Calloa, chief seaport of Peru. Agricultural products and silver and lead from the mines can be transported far more economically by these trucks than by pack mule, which was the former method. As a result, prosperity has come to the South American interior.

More trucks and commercial cars are being purchased with the profits from the new transportation link to outside markets. Every one of the 138 Dodge Brothers and Graham Brothers units in the province of Tarma is said to be paying for itself.

A journey from Callao or Lima, capital of Peru, to the other side of the Andes brings breath-taking experiences and awe-inspiring views. Also, the traveler is amazed at what the modern motor truck can accomplish.

"Traveling east from Lima by rail, the passenger or cargo may spend the night at an altitude of 12,225 feet. The next morning, passengers and cargo are loaded into a Graham truck and started for the Chanchamayo Valley. It is first necessary to climb to an altitude of 15,003 feet within a distance of 12 miles. Thence, in another 20 miles, the truck descends to Tarma, which is at an altitude of 8210 feet. This 32-mile road is frequently driven in 1½ hours, despite heavy grades, hairpin turns and narrow bridges.

Steep, Dangerous Roads.

"Tarma is an interior Indian village of about 5000 inhabitants serving a community of about 15,000 in the surrounding valleys.

"Now, heading for La Merced in the Chanchamayo Valley, the truck continues the long descent. In the next 30 miles to the village of Palca the descent is gradual, making a drop of 1310 feet to an altitude of 7600 feet. However, from Palca to La Merced, another 23 miles, the descent is rapid, the road dropping 5200 feet to an altitude of 2400 feet at La Merced. From Palca the road is narrow with hundreds of sharp curves. These must be taken at slow speed to prevent accident, as the only safeguard is the dependability of the truck and the skill of the driver.

"La Merced is now the end of the motor road, and only mule trails continue beyond through the tropical region of the headwaters of the Amazon.

"However, a new road from La Merced to Puerto Jessop, 100 miles away, will be finished within two years. When this is completed, it will be possible to motor from Oroya to Puerto Jessop in one day. Thence, the journey eastward may be continued by small steamer to Iquitos on the Amazon, where connections are made with Booth Line steamers plying the Amazon to Para. From Para, ocean steamers continue down the Amazon to American and European ports."

Goes on Collecting Tour by Truck

CADILLAC SPRING SALON ALL THE WEEK IN ST. LOUIS

Many of the 50 Models and 500 Color Combinations in This Line Shown.

Color combinations not seen before in St. Louis—some of the 500 selections now available for Cadillac cars—are being shown at the Spring salon which the Oliver-Cadillac Co. opened yesterday and will continue today and throughout this week.

The most elaborate display of Cadillac standard and custom models, and first St. Louis showing of the new 8-cylinder La Salle car, make this salon especially noteworthy. All 6 models of the La Salle are here.

Cadillac has been a leader in the trend toward satisfying in motor car design the desire of many motorists for individually distinctive body styles or color schemes. So there are now 50 body styles in the Cadillac line.

To Prevent Wear.

Marmon engineers have taken an important step in overcoming this difficulty in the engine of the new "Little Marmon" eight. Through use of an anti-scuff valve, a small quantity of oil is forced on each cylinder wall at the time of starting, thus insuring lubrication even before circulation of oil has started. The valve operates from the starting motor pedal.

Use of the new device should prevent much of the wear on the cylinders at starting.

The oil pump in the Little Marmon is in the crankcase and is submerged in oil so that it will function at all times.

Carries Load of Furniture 620 Miles

This moving van, on a 4-ton Yellow-Knight bus chassis, delivered a load of furniture in St. Louis, 75 hours after it was taken out of the owner's home in Des Moines, Ia.

TRUCK SALES INCREASES AUGUR WELL FOR FUTURE

Graham Brothers division of Dodge Brothers, Inc., made and sold more trucks and commercial cars in January than in any previous January in the company's history. This is a definite answer to questions raised at the first of the year about what 1927 holds for the motor truck industry, according to officials.

Trucks and commercial cars shipped from all Graham Brothers plants in the first month of this year totaled 4255, as against 3765 in January, 1926, which in turn surpassed all preceding first months.

Now, production has been increased to 275 units a day, nearing the record peak established in May, 1926. Demand is still growing, the company reports.

AUBURN BEATS STOCK CARS IN SWEDISH RACE AT 85M.P.H.

Maintaining a speed of more than 85 miles an hour, an American-built automobile, an Auburn straight eight touring model outdistanced the entire field of passenger cars in a free-for-all motor race at Stockholm, Sweden, recently, the Auburn factory states. The Auburn was driven by Jerry Gorranson, one of the most brilliant dirt track race drivers.

The race was won by a special foreign racing model, said to be capable of 135 miles an hour and powered with a special designed racing motor. Auburn ran a close second to this racer.

LOADED MOVING VAN COVERS 620 MILES IN 48 DRIVING HOURS

A moving van on a fast bus chassis which left Des Moines, Ia., in a snowstorm last Sunday morning, loaded with eight rooms of furniture, arrived at a house in St. Louis 75 hours after the furniture was taken out of the owner's home in Des Moines. It was driven by C. N. Gray of the Gray-Wells Transportation and Storage Co., Des Moines.

The van traveled through Waterloo to Dubuque, covering 230 miles the first day, 60 miles of that distance being over gravel road, which was soft, and the tires cut into the road over their depths. The second day it traveled via Bloomington, Ill., to Springfield, a distance of 230 miles. Leaving Springfield Tuesday morning, the van arrived in St. Louis at noon, having made the distance of 620 miles in 48 driving hours. Sixty gallons of [illegible] were used, making an average of 11 miles per gallon.

This vehicle is a four-ton Yellow-Knight bus chassis, with 195-[illegible] power engine, using 32x7 [illegible] (duals in rear), with a [illegible] van body 18½ feet long, 8 feet wide, 7 feet high inside, [illegible] 1036 cubic feet of loading space.

The furniture is the property of O. H. Perkins, zone supervisor and manager of the St. Louis branch of General Motors Truck Co., who with his family, has moved from the Iowa city to St. Louis.

Add a Gasket, It Helps.

If one is the owner of a car [illegible] push rods of which pound against the housing on top of the engine, one can get relief from the noise by removing the housing and inserting a gasket between it and the cylinder head. This lifts the housing sufficiently to let the rods work freely.

WOULD BAR GUNMEN FROM BUYING BULLET-PROOF GLASS

Demand for bullet-proof glass by gunmen, bootleggers and rum runners has reached a point where public safety requires that the sale of this product be limited to responsible persons, according to Amory L. Haskell, president of the Triplex Safety Glass Co. of North America. To help bring about such legal action, Haskell has turned his information over to the National Crime Commission.

Particular interest, Haskell said, has been shown in bullet-proof glass by individuals having very fast cars and wishing to have the protective glass in all windows. Their reasons, of course, are not made known, but investigation has shown that the cars in question are much used in crossing the Canadian border.

"The ordinary law-abiding citizen has no need for such glass," said Haskell, "and it is short-sighted policy for the authorities to permit criminals to adopt such protection. Such glass nowadays is proof against any revolver or riot-gun fire even at the closest range, and would make criminals immune from police fire."

MAN IN LONDON HEARS AUTO HORN SOUNDED IN MICHIGAN

The Sparks-Withington Co., manufacturer of automobile horns and radios, recently perfected a new "two-tone" chime horn so different in sound and cadence from previous products that it was important that the company's London representative know exactly what it was like. Neither a letter nor specifications could describe it, and shipment of a sample required too much time.

So Harry Sparks, sales manager, evolved the idea of sounding the horn in Jackson and having it heard in London. It took two days for him to get his "number," the order for the call being placed Saturday and the connection completed Monday morning.

Sparks and the Sparton representative in London talked for three minutes at $26 per minute. Sparks pressed a button and the chime horn sounded into the receiver so clearly that the London representative said he heard it distinctly.

The call was handled through the Jackson (Mich.) telephone office as a regular long-distance call, was put through to Rocky Point, L. I., by wire, and thence by radio to Wroughton, England.

EUROPEAN AUTO RACING IS FULL OF EXCITING EPISODES

Drivers in One Race Literally Roasted Out of Their Seats—Thrills in Every Contest.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Feb. 21 (by mail).—On the whole, European automobile racing, which is largely over road courses instead of board speedways, is more exciting that motor car contests in America.

Illustrative of this was the European Grand Prix at San Sebastian in Spain, which was won by a Bugatti car because the drivers of competing automobiles were virtually roasted out of their machines.

This race was run over a 444-mile road circuit. A Bugatti supercharged straight eight driven by Goux won at a speed of 70½ m. p. h., beating a straight eight Delage driven alternately by Senechal and Bourlier, who finished eight minutes later, with Constantini third on another Bugatti.

Drivers Collapse From Heat.

The feature of the race was the collapse of the Delage drivers, who, being seated low in high-cowled cars, which had no dashboards, were overcome by the fumes from the engines and the heat of the sun. All three of the original Delage drivers had to give up the struggle for a time; in fact, only two of the six drivers in the race—Goux and Constantini, on Bugattis—went clear through.

Delage Drivers Roasted.

The Delages had more speed than the Bugattis, but their designers had not taken sufficient thought for the drivers. After six rounds of the 10.7-mile course, Morel brought his Delage to a stop at the pits and dropped almost senseless on the benches. Stretcher bearers carried him away to a hospital, where he was treated for sunstroke and burned feet. After 14 rounds, Benoist, a Delage driver, dropped helpless and exhausted by the heat against a fueling station. Partially recovering, he got up and walked to his car, but it was too much for his strength, and returning, he dropped again and had to receive medical attention.

Volunteers to the Rescue.

While this second Delage stood there without a driver, a clamor arose from the French part of the crowd for Thomas, the team manager, to take the wheels. Reluctantly he donned overalls, skull cap and goggles. He stepped out to the car, examined it, gave some instructions to a little mechanic who was head down under the cowl with his legs in the air. Still Thomas seemed reluctant to face the prospect of being asphyxiated by exhaust gases, burned by the sun and choked by the clouds of white dust raised by a scorching sirocco wind.

Then a bearded young man in a khaki suit leaped out of a fueling station and raced down the road towards the Delage depot as if on a life and death mission. It was Robert Senechal, a French light car manufacturer, president of the French Motor Cycle Club, who was prepared to submit to anything to drive a first-class racing car. Thomas gave way to him and Senechal, who never had driven a Delage, plunged into the fray.

Then came Wagner with his Delage, demanding gloves to protect his blistered hands from the sun. On the next round he stopped again to be literally douched with water and receive restoratives. Thirty miles of racing had reduced this hardiest and best-trained of drivers to a state of collapse. Senechal, despite his enthusiasm, could not keep going for more than six laps, when he stopped to have his feet treated for burns.

Then came a complete change in the weather. A fresh wind came in from the sea, reviving the Delage men. Benoist was the first to reappear, then Wagner and soon the entire Delage team, except for Morel in hospital, were on the road again. Although two of the cars had lost more than an hour, they soon were once more threatening the slower but surer Bugattis. For nearly 250 miles Costantini and Goux (Bugatti) were chased by Bourlier, Benoist and Wagner. Records for the lap were made and broken repeatedly, being carried successively to 78.8, 81 and 81.7 m. p. h. But too late; Bugatti won.

Exciting Times in British Race.

There was plenty of excitement at the British Grand Prix on the Brooklands track. To simulate road racing conditions as much as possible, three barriers of sand were built across the finishing straightaway of the track, which is near London. Drivers had to negotiate these by steering an "S"-shaped course, with such abrupt turns as to compel them to reduce speed to 20 to 30 miles per hour. Thus brakes, gear shifting, clutches and acceleration were tested severely on each of the 110 laps, each of 2.6 miles (287 miles in all).

The nine starters included three Talbots, three Delages, a Bugatti privately owned and driven, an Aston-Martin and a Halford Special.

Although this time Delage had to take second place in sheer speed, with Bugatti third in that respect, what the Talbots gained on the open stretches they lost at hours. Sixty gallons of gasoline were used, making an average of 11 miles per gallon.

This vehicle is a four-ton Yellow Knight bus chassis, with 108-horsepower engine, using 38x7 tires (duals in rear), with a moving van body 18½ feet long, 8 feet wide, 7 feet high inside, making 1036 cubic feet of loading space.

The furniture is the property of O. H. Perkins, zone supervisor and manager of the St. Louis branch of General Motors Truck Co., who, with his family, has moved from the Iowa city to St. Louis.

Add a Gasket, It Helps.

If one is the owner of a car the push rods of which pound against the housing on top of the engine, one can get relief from the noise by removing the housing and inserting a gasket between it and the cylinder head. This lifts the housing sufficiently to let the rods work freely.

PARIS, Feb. 21 (by mail).—On the whole, European automobile racing, which is largely over road courses instead of board speedways, is more exciting that motor car contests in America.

Illustrative of this was the European Grand Prix at San Sebastian in Spain, which was won by a Bugatti car because the drivers of competing automobiles were virtually roasted out of their machines.

This race was run over a 484-mile road circuit. A Bugatti supercharged straight eight driven by Goux won at a speed of 70½ m. p. h., beating a straight eight Delage driven alternately by Senechal and Bourlier, who finished eight minutes later, with Constantin third on another Bugatti.

Drivers Collapse From Heat.

The feature of the race was the collapse of the Delage drivers, who, being seated low in high-cowled cars, which had no dashboards, were overcome by the fumes from the engines and the heat of the sun. All three of the original Delage drivers had to give up the struggle for a time; in fact, only two of the six drivers in the race—Goux and Costantini, on Bugattis—went clear through.

Delage Drivers Roasted.

The Delages had more speed than the Bugattis, but their designers had not taken sufficient thought for the drivers. After six rounds of the 10.7-mile course, Morel brought his Delage to a stop at the pits and dropped almost senseless on the benches. Stretcher bearers carried him away to a hospital, where he was treated for sunstroke and burned feet. After 14 rounds, Benoist, a Delage driver, dropped helpless and exhausted by the heat against a fueling station. Partially recovering, he got up and walked to his car, but it was too much for his strength, and returning, he dropped again and had to receive medical attention.

Volunteers to the Rescue.

While this second Delage stood there without a driver, a clamor arose from the French part of the crowd for Thomas, the team manager, to take the wheel. Reluctantly he donned overalls, skull cap and goggles. He stepped out to the car, examined it, gave some instructions to a little mechanic who was head down under the cowl with his legs in the air. Still Thomas seemed reluctant to face the prospect of being asphyxiated by exhaust gases, burned by the sun and choked by the clouds of white dust raised by a scorching sirocco wind.

Then a bearded young man in a khaki suit leaped out of a fueling station and raced down the road towards the Delage depot as if on a life and death mission. It was Robert Senechal, a French light car manufacturer, president of the French Motor Cycle Club, who was prepared to submit to anything to drive a first-class racing car. Thomas gave way to him and Senechal, who never had driven a Delage, plunged into the fray.

Then came Wagner with his Delage, demanding gloves to protect his blistered hands from the sun. On the next round he stopped again to be literally douched with water and receive restoratives. Thirty miles of racing had reduced this hardiest and best-trained of drivers to a state of collapse. Senechal, despite his enthusiasm, could not keep going for more than six laps, when he stopped to have his feet treated for burns.

Then came a complete change in the weather. A fresh wind came in from the sea, reviving the Delage men. Benoist was the first to reappear, then Wagner and soon the entire Delage team, except for Morel in hospital, were on the road again. Although two of the cars had lost more than an hour, they soon were once more threatening the slower but surer Bugattis. For nearly 250 miles Costantini and Goux (Bugatti) were chased by Bourlier, Benoist and Wagner. Records for the lap were made and broken repeatedly, being carried successively to 78.8, 81 and 81.7 m. p. h. But too late; Bugatti won.

Exciting Times in British Race.

There was plenty of excitement at the British Grand Prix on the Brooklands track. To simulate road racing conditions as much as possible, three barriers of sand were built across the finishing straightaway of the track, which is near London. Drivers had to negotiate these by steering an "S" shaped course, with such abrupt turns as to compel them to reduce speed to 20 to 30 miles per hour. Thus brakes, gear shifting, clutches and acceleration were tested severely on each of the 110 laps, each of 2.6 miles (287 miles in all).

The nine starters included three Talbots, three Delages, a Bugatti privately owned and driven, an Aston-Martin and a Halford Special.

Although this time Delage had to take second place in sheer speed, with Bugatti third in that respect, what the Talbots gained on the open stretches they lost at the sandbanks owing to inferior brakes.

Excitement was caused before even one lap had been completed when one of the leading cars (a Talbot driven by Moriceau) swerved abruptly, ran wild. The front wheels splayed out slowly, then miraculously, without other damage, the car came to rest at the side of the track with a broken front axle.

Hair-Raising Skids.

We have seen how Senechal grabbed at the opportunity of driving a red-hot Delage at San Sebastian. At Brooklands he was offered a second opportunity and took it. His relative inexperience was evident in the way in which he took the sandbank turns. Whereas the other drivers coolly judged speed and braking effect "to a hair," Senechal was all excitement and violent action, executing some hair-raising skids.

There probably never was an important race in which the cars averaged so many stops apiece. First Wagner (Delage) changed all eight spark plugs, and repeated the process a lap later. Then a Talbot had the same treatment. Then there was nearly always one or more cars at the pits. Only the solitary Bugatti always kept going, slower, but sure.

Sunbeams suffered from erratic brakes; that sometimes did and sometimes didn't; brakes that did more than they ought and sometimes wouldn't do it at all. As a result their drivers, to be on the safe side, had to "tour" up to the sandbanks by comparison with the Delages, which hurtled toward the corners at 120 m. p. h. and braked only a few yards away.

Red-Hot Throttle Pedal.

But the Delage drivers soon were having the same trouble as at San Sebastian. Wagner was the first to suffer; his exhaust pipe scorching his body and roasting his feet. Then Benoist had an exhaust pipe burn through and flames played on the steel dashboard and made things hotter than he could stand. Next, Senechal was being slowly cooked. His throttle pedal became so hot that it burned a hole in the sole of his shoe. He stopped and Wagner, who had retired, took his place, Senechal immediately putting both feet in a tub of water. Later Wagner stopped and walked through the tub.

With stoppages due to excessive heat, brake troubles, ignition and carburation faults on one side or the other, the Talbot and Delage teams battled for 88 out of the 110 laps, and even then, with Talbots all out of it, their rivals were in a sorry plight, while behind them all the while was the superreliable, if slower, Bugatti.

Eventually, Senechal and Wagner got their Delage home first a 71.61 m. p. h. average. The Bugatti was second at 68.82 m. p. h. and Benoist third, with a spare Delage driver helping toward the end.

The Classic Targa Florio.

Earlier in the season Povoote cars won first three places in the Targa Florio, one of the "classics," held in Sicily over the most difficult course imaginable. The course was 67 miles around. It included six miles of steady climbing in a mountainous district, innumerable hairpin and corkscrew corners, ascents and descents of stiff hills leading from sea level to 1000 feet above. There was only one straight on the entire circuit; this extended for eight miles along the seashore. So the winner's average speed of 45.6 m. p. h., the highest ever attained on this course, was really a wonderful performance.

Delage withdrew his team when news arrived at the starting point that Masetti, twice winner of a Targa Florio race, had been killed while driving a Delage on the first round.

A Bad Roads Race.

The Northern France Automobile Club in September held what was known as the "Bad Roads Race." For the course it chose the most abominable surfaces to be found in the North of France, the roads being mostly paved with rough cobble stones or pave, as they are termed in the patois of the country. Thirty-nine competitors took part, but ony 10 finished. The winner, a Belgian Excesior, covered the 315 mies at the rate of 55.6 m. p. h.

High Speed on the Ice.

Another unsual race was held at Oslo, Norway, on the ice, which was 14 inches thick, and carried grand stands that were erected by making holes, placing poles in them and allowing the latter to freeze in position. The racetrack was not perfectly smooth surface, as might be imagined, but was furrowed where sleighs had been run in an attempt to clear away the snow. The course was on a fiord about two miles long and a mile wide.

Benoist, who had won the previous year's French Grand Prix, won the free-for-all on the ice at 68 m. p. h. with a big six-cylinder Delage. But he had found previously that it was necessary to begin his racing apprenticeship over again. He put in eight days practicing to learn how to make turns on the ice, particularly how to correct skids. He found, for instance, that if he took his foot off the accelerator suddenly a skid followed and that chains on the wheels, while beneficial on snow, actually induced skids on ice at over 60 m. p. h. In the classes for touring cars of over three liters a Chrysler, Buick and Chandler were the winners.

Women are keen competitors in many of the races at Brooklands track held at regular intervals. One of the most successful is Mrs. Duller, wife of a jockey who turned to automobile racing two or three years back. At Brooklands, a most exciting race occurred between two women amateurs who started from the same mark in a handicap. That day, in fact, four women drivers gained a first, a second and two thirds, their lowest speed being 80.72 m. p. h.

German Racing Crash.

Since the war Germany has not appeared in the picture of international racing in Europe. Nor were races of any importance held in German territory until after a lapse of 12 years, the German Grand Prix was revived on the Avus track, near Berlin. Forty cars competed in a race of 245 miles and the winner proved to be Caracciola on a two-liter supercharged Mercedes with an average speed of 84.5 m. p. h. and only one stop for gasoline.

This was a remarkable performance, for the track had been made dangerous by rain, so much so that, while leading on his fifteenth lap, Rosenberger, on a straight-eight Mercedes, skidded and crashed into the timekeeper's box, killing one of the occupants and seriously injuring three others, though both he and his mechanic escaped with slight injuries.

New Road Tracks in Europe.

Motor racing in Europe does not appear likely to lose any of its popularity. In England a new track with steep hills, bad corners and long straights is being laid out on the top and sides of a range of hills near Brighton, the favorite seaside resort for Londoners.

In Germany an even more ambitious scheme is well under way, where a new track is being built in a hilly area of the Rhineland. The local Government has the construction in hand, and is constructing the longest automobile test road and race track in the world.

To be ready this spring, the track will offer four alternative road circuits that can be used together as one or separately, giving lengths of 1¼ miles, 5½ miles, 12½ miles and 18 miles, respectively. It will be 30 feet broad, have a tarred surface, 170 banked turns, hills of a severity ranging to two as steep as 20 and 27 per cent (1 in 5½ and 1 in 1¾) and with the highest point 2500 feet above sea level.

Grand stands are being built and also main roads leading to it from Bonn, Cologne and Coblenz, all of which are about 40 miles away.

A. H. HUBER ORGANIZES FIRM TO SELL REO CARS

Takes Over Heimsch Co. Building on South Jefferson—Formal Opening Wednesday.

A new Reo dealership has been organized in St. Louis by A. H. Huber to serve the South Side of the city as an associate of Reo St. Louis, Inc., the distributer. The new firm will be known as South Side Reo, Inc.

Huber will be vice president and general manager. The president will be J. T. Scobey, and J. B. Killian, well-known South St. Louis business man, will be secretary and treasurer. Scobey will be active with Huber in the firm.

Huber for the last nine years has been a member of the sales force of the Kardell Motor Car Co., Reo distributor, which recently expanded into Reo St. Louis, Inc. He takes with him as service manager Henry Blanke, who for nine years was in the mechanical department of the Kardell Co.

The firm has taken over the building and lease of the Paul Heimsch Auto Repair Co., 2819-23 South Jefferson avenue. The building fronts 54 feet on Jefferson avenue, and is 150 feet deep, giving ample space for showroom and service station.

Reo cars will be on display by the new firm tomorrow and Reo service will be available. The formal opening is set for next Wednesday night, when there will be a reception, a special display of the new Reo "Flying Cloud" models, dancing and refreshments.

SAYS GLYCERINE WILL NOT HURT PYROXYLIN FINISH

"Practically all cars are turned out today with pyroxylin finish," writes Austin M. Wolf, of the Society of Automotive Engineers. "This fact should be remembered when pouring cold-weather solutions into the radiator, as well as the possibility of fumes escaping later in operation from the radiator.

"Glycerine can be wiped off without injury to the finish, should any be spilled upon it. Glycerine raises the boiling point of the solution higher than that of water, so that overheating will not occur.

"In some climates or seasons, the day might be quite warm followed by a considerable drop in temperature at night. The high boiling point of the glycerine solution prevents evaporation loss during the day. It is this property of glycerine that makes it unnecessary to replenish any of it throughout the cold-weather season, assuming hose clamps and other engine parts are tightened so that there can be no leakage.

The solution can be drained off at the end of the season and saved.

"Radiator glycerine should not be confused with straight glycerine, as they are not identical in specific gravity. The former is the more practical solution. The following table shows the proportion to use for various minimum temperatures and the resulting specific gravities after mixing:

Parts by Vol. Glycerine.	Water.	Specific Gravity.	Min. Temp.
3	1	1.120	—10
9	1	1.144	—30

"For checking the specific gravity of radiator glycerine solution, an ordinary storage-battery hydrometer can be used. It is usually graduated from 1.100 to 1.300, in steps of .005 or .010. Therefore the specific gravity for temperatures from 0 degree F. to 30 degrees F. can be read directly upon it. Few would wish a solution that would only protect *10 F., but to read the specific gravity corresponding to this temperature, one can approximate over the above 1.100 mark on the hydrometer scale where 1.080 would be.

"When near its freezing point, which would happen only with solutions of improper strength, a glycerine solution forms a mush which can damaged neither radiator nor water jacket. Heat from the engine, after a few revolutions, softens this mush and circulation is normal."

PEERLESS CORP. PLANS TO PUT OUT MANY SPORT ROADSTERS

"Production plans of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation for the coming season call for manufacture of a large number of sport roadsters," according to C. A. Tucker, general sales manager.

"In fact a sport roadster will be found on every chassis that the company makes, and from present indications will be one of the most popular cars in each line."

"The sport roadster has a very definite place to fill in the motor car market. Although it is apparent that the phaeton will never again enjoy its former great demand, at least in the northern half of the United States, the roadster may be depended upon to retain its popularity.

"Our experience has been that it is being bought by many as the second car in the family. In the summer it is especially appreciated while even in the winter its occupants may be protected by modern close fitting curtains so that they can be nearly as comfortable as in a closed car."

$1,300,000,000 SPENT ON RURAL HIGHWAYS IN 1925

This Amount Was Distributed Over a System of 2,001,825 Miles of Such Roads in U. S., Figures Show.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., March 5.—Tremendous increase in the nation's highway development during the past decade is revealed in figures compiled by Prof. H. R. Trumbower of the University of Wisconsin.

"In 1904," he said, "the total amount of money spent for all rural highway purposes for the country as a whole was approximately $80,000,000; in 1914 it amounted to $240,000,000, and by 1925 it had risen to $1,300,000,000. The per capita highway expenditures in 1904 were 97 cents and in 1925 they represented an outlay of about $11.50 for every man, woman and child.

"These expenditures are distributed over a system of 2,001,825 miles of rural highways of all types and descriptions in the United States—a transportation system 12 times as large as the total railroad mileage of the country. If 50 feet if assumed as the average width of the highway right-of-way, these 3,000,000 miles of highway represent an area of approximately 28,000 square miles, which is equivalent to about half the area of the State of Wisconsin or the area of the three states of New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts.

"At the end of 1925 the total surfaced rural highway mileage amounted to 521,915 miles, which was 17.4 per cent of the total mileage; in 1914 the surface mileage constituted but 10 per cent of the total. Surfaced roads include the sand clay, gravel, macadam, concrete and brick types.

"This race of increase in surfaced mileage from 10 per cent to 17.4 per cent does not reflect the full extent of the improvements made. In 1914, by far the greatest part of the surfaced mileage consisted of the lower type of surfacing, such as sand-clay and gravel. Today a very substantial part of the surfaced mileage consists of the higher surface types, such as bituminou macadam, asphalt, concrete and brick.

"The annual expenditures have increased at a much faster rate than the amount of surfaced mileage because higher types of improvements have been made and at the same time there has come to pass a general rise in the price level which has had its appropriate effect upon highway construction and maintenance costs."

Either Name Is Right.

"Wrist pin" or "piston pin?" Which is correct? Both are being used a great deal these days. Either is correct, but piston pin seems more accurate.

NEW TYPE OF STEAM-DRIVEN BUS TESTED IN NEW YORK

Tests of a new type of steam-driven bus are being conducted by the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. of New York. The boiler is the most advanced feature of the vehicle. It is of water tube type and is coupled with steam engine of conventional design.

Both economy and flexibility are claimed for the new hook-up. It is stated that the engine will operate with any kind of liquid fuel, including ordinary domestic heating fuel which costs about 7 cents a gallon. It is pointed out that the steam engine and boiler can be installed in any vehicle after clutch and transmission gears have been removed and that its operation is simple.

37,065 PAIGE MOTOR CARS SOLD IN 1926, REPORT SHOWS

In submitting to the stockholders the annual report of the Paige-Detroit Motor Co. for 1926, H. M. Jewett, chairman of the board, emphasized the fact that the company's financial position was well maintained, despite a curtailment in production resulting from outside causes in the second half of the year.

Jewett stated that sales of cars and parts in the year amounted to $36,833,470 and that the company produced and sold 37,065 cars.

The larger part of the sales were made in the first six months, which exceeded al previous records of the company. In the second half of the year the company's production and profits were seriously cut by the delays and expenses incidental to a complete change of body models and establishing a new source of body supply, an action forced on the company when its principal body manufacturer went into the hands of a receiver.

If You Store the Car.

Should you decide to lay the car up for the winter, don't forget the battery. If the storage is in your own garage, remember to charge the battery every two weeks by running the engine. The electrolyte should show 1280 by the hydrometer test. In case you have no hydrometer, let the engine run for two or three hours at a speed that would equal 20 miles an hour driving. If the battery heats up during this process, slow the engine. If the battery is turned over to a regular storage place, specify that it be charged every fortnight.

PRICES OF THREE PACKARD SIX MODELS ARE REDUCED

Reduction of $335, and No Change in Quality or Size, Are Announced.

The Packard Motor Car Co. has reduced the price of the Packard single six $335. Types with 126-inch wheel base are affected. They are three of the most popular Packard six models—the five-passenger sedan, the five-passenger phaeton and the four-passenger roadster.

The price reduction just announced makes the six-cylinder five-passenger sedan list at $2250 at Detroit. This is less than half the price of the car when it was introduced seven years ago.

In the last year more than $8,000,000 was spent at the Packard factory for machinery and other equipment with which costs could be lowered, production increased and, at the same time, quality could be bettered.

"We use the expressin 'small car' advisedly in talking of our 126-inch wheel base models," says Alvan Macauley, Packard's president. "It is a car built for a maximum of five passengers. It is a small car, but not a little car. All things are great or small by comparison and, compared to some cars, our six would be considered large.

"In the long run, it is the public which determines what a car is to be. The public has worked seven years designing Packard's small car.

"We recognized the desire of the public for a small car long ago, and in 1920 began building one, our 116 model, so called because of its wheel base. The increasing response of the public has made it possible for us to offer our small sedan now for less than the price of our original small six cylinder sedan of seven years ago, despite the fact that 4-wheel brakes, larger and more comfortable bodies, ten-inch longer wheel base, greater power and many other important factors, all dictated by the public, have been added.

"Our present small car has been developed over a period of seven years through stages proven in the laboratory of public opinion. It includes everything from luxury to performance that the public has told us it wants in the ideal small car."

No change is made in the car itself. Packard in announcing t'

HUPP MOTOR CORP. FEB. 1, HAD ORDERS TOTALING $14,500,000

The Hupp Motor Car Corporation reports that on Feb. 1 it had orders amounting to $14,500,000. This is an increase of more than $9,000,000 over the same date of the preceding year.

,000 GALLONS OF ENAMEL AILABLE AT NEW REO PLANT

Eighteen thousand gallons of enamel—literally enough to paint a small town or to float a sizable fleet—forms the working material of the new automobile enameling plant just completed by the Reo Motor Car Co. at Lansing, Mich.

This supply of enamel is contained in three 6000-gallon tanks in the ground floor, and is kept in constant movement by pump circulation so that it will remain at the proper consistency.

From the main supply, the enamel is pumped into three vats of 2,000 gallons total capacity, on the floor above. On this floor are also three electrically heated and controlled drying and baking ovens.

A slow moving, endless rack carries the finished metal automobile parts from the ground floor to the second-floor enamel vats and to the ovens, in a continuous process. After they have been carried through the first vat, the parts are conveyed to the first drying oven, where the enamel is baked hard. Then they go through the second and third vats and ovens, alternately, being delivered finally at the main factory entrance, covered with three coats of hard, smooth enamel.

Look, Then Complain.

Before complaining to a dealer about some "mysterious" trouble that is developing in the engine of the new car, better make sure that there are no white marks on the exhaust pipe to indicate that the car has been driven too fast. The exhaust pipe (except in cases where it is enameled by a baking process will give you away if you have been so unwise as to drive the new car fast.

MEXICO TO SPEND $5,000,000 IN 192 FOR ROAD BUILDING

Greatest Amount of Work to Be Done on Highway From Mexico City to West Coast and Neuvo Laredo.

MEXICO City, Feb. 26.—Mexico will spend 10,000,000 pesos (about $5,000,000 in American currency) on her road-building program for the present year, according to an announcement of the National Highway Commission.

Although this sum is 2,000,000 pesos less than the sum appropriated for the same purpose of 1926, in accordance with the plan of reduction of expenses formulated by the executive power, the Highway Commission says that in all probability more actual construction work will be carried out this year than last due to the fact that three economies have been effected.

No New Equipment Needed.

There will be no necessity of buying new machinery and equipment, since all such material was purchased last year. There also will be no necessity of spending money for works of localization, planification, establishment of camps, since the greater part of this work has already been concluded. Finally, a thorough work of reorganization has been carried out in every department of the commission with the result that a saving of 7174.45 pesos daily will be made.

The Highway Commission estimates that upwards of 2,500,000 pesos will be applied to actual road construction over the sum actually applied last year for the construction work proper.

The greatest attention will be centered on two principal highways, the first between the national capital and Acapulco, principal port of the State of Guerrero, on the west coast of the republic, to which has been allotted the monthly sum of 500,000 pesos; and to the highway from Mexico City to Nuevo Laredo, establishing easy communication for automobiles through the beautiful Canon de Huajuco and other picturesque places in the slopes of the Sierra Madre in the north.

Preliminary Work Begun.

In addition, there will be extensive works on the highway between Mexico City and Pueblo, and that between the national capital and Pachuca. On the latter preliminary work already has been begun and it is hoped to enter the secondary state of construction soon.

On the Mexico City-Puebla road, the work is said to be nearing completion, and it is hoped that the road will be complete before the summer rain sets in.

Work on the Mexico City-Acapulco road is just beginning, and it is expected that the construction gangs will be sent to the scene about March 15. Greatest attention will be made on the stretch between Acapulco and Acahuizotla, with the object of connecting the port city with Iguala. With the opening of the road between Iguala and Amacuzac, the zone by way of Taxco, teeming with every kind of natural product, mineral and vegetable, as well as cattle and agricultural products, will be thrown open. It is estimated that this road shouldn be open for traffic during the latter part of next August. The section of the Mexico City-Nuevo Laredo road, while shorter than that from the national capital to Acapulco, will require intensive work.

It is announced that the Mexico City-Pachuca and Mexico City-Puebla highways should be completed by the beginning of the rainy season. These roads are regarded as of the greatest importance, since they will guarantee tourists and travelers an efficacious means of communication and transportation. The Mexico City-Puebla road is being more frequented every day by tourists, since the road winds through the scenic districts of the region.

Why Wait for Spring?

Winter is the hardest season on automobiles, everyone is agreed. Experts on car care are asking why, in the light of this knowledge, every motorist waits until spring to have the car overhauled? Having the work done when the weather is bad and the pleasure of driving less, will assure better service from the car during the cold weather and will obviate the necessity for having the car in the shop in the spring, when the reawakening world is calling to motordom.

The World's Most Powerful Sedan of Its Size and Weight -and the Safest

NOW $1335 F.O.B. FACTORY

THE place to test performance is out on the road and that's where we invite you to prove the ability of this Studebaker Custom Sedan—the most powerful car of its size and weight in the world.

Power for You

Get behind the wheel yourself. Feel the power of its quiet L-head motor. See how slowly you can idle along in high, how smoothly it takes the throttle for acceleration, how lightning-quick it is on the pick-up, how easily it shoots through traffic, soars up steep hills and speeds arrow-swift down the free stretches.

Luxury for Your Wife

Then turn the wheel over to your wife. Let her learn what restful driving really means—the pleasure that comes from finger-tip response in steering—the ease of gear-shifting—the feather-light pressure on the positive-acting four-wheel brakes. And she will like the custom luxury of its roomy interior.

Fused Steel Assures Safety

This smart-looking Studebaker steel body saves gasoline and tires because it's lighter than wood—safer because it permits wider visibility than wood—safer also because it has been fused by electricity into a practically indestructible unit of steel—welded, not riveted—and longer-lived because steel wears while wood wears out.

A One-Profit Price

At its new low price, $1335—including over $100 worth of extra equipment—this Studebaker Custom Sedan shatters all former standards of motor car value, thanks to One-Profit manufacture! See it—drive it—now.

HUPMOBILE EIGHT
Now Brings to Pass the Changes It Forecast Months Ago

Sixes of Higher Price Now Feel the Brunt of Hupmobile Eight Success

BEGINNING early last July, Hupmobile, in its public announcements, predicted two things.

It prophesied that high-priced six-cylinder cars would not be able to stand up under comparison with the value and performance of the Hupmobile Eight.

It predicted again that the day of the higher-priced six was coming to an end—that Hupmobile had proved in its own Six the folly of paying more than $1500 for the very best the six-cylinder principle can deliver.

You have seen, in recent weeks and days, the fulfilment of these prophesies.

The success of the Hupmobile Eight has already attracted no less than five newcomers to the straight-eight field.

Prices have been sharply reduced by several well-known sixes in the higher-price division.

The reception given to the Hupmobile Eight led Hupmobile to announce months ago that the trend is undoubtedly toward eights in the fine car field, and that the very topmost in motor car beauty, quality and performance, as exemplified in its own Eight, can be bought for $2500.

Observe that, as these facts were being recorded, the sales of eight-cylinder cars were rolling up a volume which, by the end of 1926, made further inroads into the field of the higher-priced sixes.

On November 14, leading newspapers everywhere printed a momentous interview with Mr. Dubois Young, president, to the effect that the demand for Hupmobile Eight undoubtedly forecast the passing of the higher-priced six, which would inevitably follow the downward trend already recorded in four-cylinder prices.

On the heels of this, Hupmobile predicted that the public would see the eight-cylinder cars—inspired by its own Eight success—multiply in number.

What has since happened in both the eight-cylinder and six-cylinder fields is public knowledge.

All these things have come to pass because—once the public gets a clear, unblinking vision of values and begins to draw deadly parallels—the real is swiftly distinguished from the unreal, the wheat is sifted from the chaff, the sound from the unsound.

The Hupmobile Eight has made it perfectly plain and unmistakable, by its distinction, its quality and surpassing performance, that an investment of $2500 or more in anything but an eight-cylinder car cannot return anywhere near full value.

Among sixes, the Hupmobile Six—by its beauty, excellence, endurance and performance—has shown that no six can justify a price beyond $1500.

The Hupmobile Eight and the Hupmobile Six represent true value in both the eight-cylinder and the six-cylinder fields.

The fact that February, just closed, was the largest February in Hupmobile history shows that the buying public thoroughly realizes and appreciates these values.

Hupmobile Eight—Fourteen distinguished body types, $1945 to $5795, f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax.

Hupmobile Six—Five popular body styles, $1325 to $1385, f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax.

SPECIAL FEATURE SECTION OF THE

RADIO ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH RADIO

PART FIVE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 6, 1927. PAGES 1—4A

KEX, ON PACIFIC COAST, TO USE 20,000 WATTS

Located at Portland, Ore., It Will Be Third High-Powered Unit in Northwest.

Station KEX, owned by the Western Broadcasting Co., Portland, Ore., has been licensed to operate with 20,000 watts. It is literally the last broadcaster pending functioning of the new radio commission.

KEX is authorized to operate on 491.5 meters, or 670 Kcys., and will be the third high-powered station in the northwest. The others are KHQ, Spokane, and KJR, Seattle, both equipped to transmit with 20,000 watts.

High powered stations are now well distributed nationally. The northwest has KGO, at Oakland, Cal.; the east, WJZ, New York, and WGY, Schenectady, both of which have 50,000 watt transmitters, and KDKA, Pittsburg, 30,000 watts and up; the central states have KOA at Denver, rated at around 20,000 watts.

There also are ten 10-kilowatt stations, distributed as follows: WEBM, WEBH, WWAE and WGN-WLIB, in Chicago and vicinity; KTNT, Muscatine, Ia., and WBAP, Fort Worth, Tex.

These 15 high powered stations, it is believed, would serve the country adequately with entertainment and news in the event of an emergency or if there were no other stations in operation; they form the powerful backbone of the country's broadcast system.

Six other broadcast stations were licensed just prior to the signing of the new radio law by the President, and these, it is taken for granted, will be the last for two months at least. The total on the air is now 733.

The six late comes, all small stations, are:

Call	Location	Meters	Kcys.	Watts
WHEC	Rochester, N. Y.	407.6	735.6	15
KELA	Los Angeles, Cal.	440	691.4	250
KFXJ	Aneta, N. D.	222.1	1350	15
KFIP	Mitchell, S. D.	263	1140	15
WMC	Memphis, Tenn.	315	948.8	25
WWX	Washington, Pa.	215	1395	15

KTCL, Seattle, Wash., has changed its call letters from KGFA.

KFXF, Muscatine, Ia., has changed from KGEX.

WJBY, Gadsden, Ala., has changed from 260 meters, 1153 kc. to 270.1 meters, 1110 kc, and gone from 15 to 100 watts.

KFXB, Los Angeles, Cal., has changed from 1000 to 4000 watts, and from 202.6 meters, 1480 kc. to 352.7 meters, 850 kc.

KOCW, Oklahoma College for Women, Chickasha, Ok., has changed from 252.0 meters, 1190 kc. to 270.1 meters, 1110 kc.

WHT, Chicago, has changed officially from 238 meters, 1260 kc. to 399.8 meters, 750 kc. This change actually was made some time ago.

WKBF, Indianapolis, Ind., has changed from 244 meters, 1229 kc. to 243.8 meters, 1230 kc, and from 50 to 500 watts.

KUT, University of Texas, Austin, Tex., has changed from 230.6 meters, 1300 kc. to 272.6 meters, 1100 kc.

Birkenholz will play the "Symphony Espagnole," by Edward Lalo, as his contribution to the evening's program. This selection was written for the violin and orchestra, being composed in 1872. Soloists in the Victor Hour Next Friday Evening

HAROLD BAUER,

CHALIAPIN IN RADIO DEBUT FRIDAY NIGHT

Famous Russian, Harold Bauer, Dusolina Giannini, Flonzaley Quartet in Victor Hour.

Feodor Challapin, the distinguished Russian basso, and one of the most romantic figures in the operatic world, will make his American radio debut next Friday evening in the sixth 1927 Victor Hour concert. On the same program will be Dusolina Giannini, soprano; Harold Bauer, pianist, and the Flonzaley String Quartet.

Beginning at 8, central time, the concert will be broadcast through WJZ, KDKA, KYW, WHAS, WSB, WMC and WSM.

Few artists have had a career so colorful as has Challapin. Born in Russia, he became, at the age of 7, a cobbler's apprentice. At times he worked as wood carver, bookbinder's apprentice, pawnbroker's clerk and novice in a monastery. The depth of feeling and atmosphere that he puts into his renditions of the "Song of the Volga Boatmen" can be traced back to the days when he was a longshoreman on the Volga at 17 cents a day. At 17, he was in comic opera at $6 a week, and from that time his rise to operatic fame was spectacular. This season he has been touring the United States with his own opera company. On March 21 he is to return to the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Miss Giannini, who was born in America and was heard on a Victor program last year, has completed her second triumphal operatic and concert tour of Germany this season. Already widely known in America through her concert appearances, she has been something of an operatic sensation in Germany.

Harold Bauer, generally recognized as one of the masters of the piano.

The Flonzaley Quartet for some years has been called the best chamber music organization. It is composed of Adolfo Betti, first violin; Alfred Pochon, second violin; Iwan d'Archambeau, 'cello, and Nicholas Moldavan, viola.

The program follows:

Menuette Op 18, from "Quartet No. 4 in C Minor" ..... Beethoven
Irish Reel ..... Pochon
Flonzaley Quartet
"Ritorna Vincitor," from "Aida" ..... Verdi
"I Love You Truly" ..... Jacobs-Bond
Dusolina Giannini
Caprice, from "Alceste" ..... Gluck-Saint-Saens
Fantasie—Impromptu ..... Chopin
Harold Bauer
"Two Grenadiers" ..... Schumann
"Song of the Flea" ..... Moussorgsky
Feodor Challapin
Andante, un poco Adagio, from Quintet in F Minor ..... Brahms
Harold Bauer and Flonzaley Quartet
"Just a Wearyin for You" ..... Jacobs-Bond
"My Mother" ..... Marsden
Dusolina Giannini
"Song of the Volga Boatmen" ..... Russian Folk Song

KSD TO BROADCAST HOOVER ADDRESS SATURDAY EVENING

An address by Secretary of Commerce Hoover is to be broadcast through KSD next Saturday night. It is expected that Hoover will begin speaking about 7:30, central time.

CORNERSTONE LAYING FOR NEW KFUO STATION MARCH 13

Ceremonies of laying the cornerstone of the new KFUO radio building, which is under construction, are scheduled for next Sunday afternoon, March 13.

As has been told, KFUO soon will have a 1000-watt transmitter in operation. The new radio building will house special studios and broadcasting facilities. The 200-foot towers for the new station's antenna have been erected.

MOSCOW ART ORCHESTRA TO PLAY ON KSD THIS AFTERNOON

Arno Arriga's Moscow Art Orchestra will play in the third Crosley Hour which will be broadcast through KSD this afternoon. This orchestra played in the first Crosley chain program in the series which began Feb. 6. The programs are broadcast on alternate Sundays.

IRVIN S. COBB TO RELATE TALES OF SOUTH ON KSD

Writer Will Appear in Eveready Hour Program Tuesday Evening.

With Irvin S. Cobb as master of ceremonies, the Eveready Hour to be broadcast next Tuesday evening through KSD will have a distinctly Southern flavor.

This program is to be of a type which the Eveready Hour directors have had in mind for some time. Cobb was chosen for the program because he has written and related a famous list of stories of the old and the new South. Some of the best of these stories he will adapt to his part in the program Tuesday night.

The musical part will be varied, but Southern in flavor. Among the musical numbers will be several of the finest of the Negro spirituals. There also will be orchestral and vocal numbers of the lighter, livlier music.

Virginia Rea, soprano; Barbara Maurel, mezzo-soprano, and the Eveready Revellers will sing, while the Eveready Orchestra will play the accompaniment and orchestral numbers.

Stromberg-Carlson Again Produces
A 5-tube Receiver that is Outstanding

Three years is a long time for pride of ownership to last in radio. But—owners have never stopped boasting of the results that they enjoy from their original 5-tube Stromberg-Carlsons purchased back as far as 1924. On such loyalty, is founded public confidence in Stromberg-Carlson.

Today, meriting the continuance of this loyalty, there is another 5-tube Stromberg-Carlson, which embodies these up-to-date advantages:

1. Uncurtailed musical scale assured by duplicating the audio system that has made the 6-tube Stromberg-Carlson famous for its tone quality.
2. Increased selectivity and freedom from interference, due to total shielding of coils which eliminates back-door pick-up.
3. Super-Amplification resulting from tuned antenna and balanced circuits. This gives 13 times the amplification possible with the average antenna type, 6-tube, single control receiver.
4. Economical Operation ensured by keeping the number of tubes to a minimum through super-amplification, and by providing a voltmeter to protect tube life.
5. New beauty of panel and fineness of cabinet equaling the costliest Stromberg-Carlson.
6. Permanence of Value. The same never-reduced price as the original Stromberg-Carlson 5-tube receiver. Stromberg-Carlson again guarantees not to reduce prices.

Every Stromberg-Carlson can be bought equipped to operate from your electric light socket with "socket-power" devices of Stromberg-Carlson design. Ask your dealer to let you tune in on a 5-tube Stromberg-Carlson in his store or in your home.

DEVELOPS TUBE TO WORK DIRECT FROM LIGHT SOCKET

J. S. Van Horne has developed a radio tube that works direct from an electric light socket. It operates on "raw" alternating current and requires no intermediate apparatus other than a common step-down transformer, much like the top transformer used for miniature electric trains.

In use, the tube is said to be entirely free from "hum."

Van Horne, who is president of the Van Horne Co., says that production of the new tube will begin at once. He declares it has opened an entirely new principle of tube construction. It is planned to incorporate this principle in standard Van Horne tubes.

NOTED STRING QUARTET PLAYS ON KSD TONIGHT

London Musicians Will Be Featured in the Atwater Kent Concert.

The London String Quartet, one of the famous chamber music organizations, will broadcast the Atwater Kent concert to night from KSD.

Organized in 1908, this quartet has given more than 150 concerts in London, and has made three tours of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Spain, and two tours of South America. It has toured the United States and Canada four times, and has played in Honolulu twice, with seven concerts in France and Holland.

Chamber music originated in the old days when most gentlemen played some kind of string instrument. Most manor houses had music rooms with instruments where the gentlemen amused themselves playing together. They were the wealthy patrons of the composers, who wrote music for them.

The object of the composers was not melody, but difficult exercises that would enable the players to show their skill and dexterity. It was pure music of precision and exactness—musician's music—requiring more virtuosity to play in a quartet where there is no direction.

In England nearly every town has its amateur string quartet, and every school has its organization of four string instruments. The interest in chamber music is said to be increasing all over the world, and new organizations of chamber music players are arising all the time. The London organization is the oldest and the only string quartet which has never been subsidized. Its success is ascribed to adoption of old English songs and other melodic numbers.

The quartet consists of James Levey, first violin; Thomas Petre, second violin; H. Waldo Warner, viola, and C. Warwick-Evans, 'cello. The program, which will be broadcast at 8:15, follows.

Quartet in D minor, Mozart.
Andante Cantabile, Tschaikowsky.
Canzonetta from Quartet in E flat major, op. 12, Mendelssohn.
Sally in Our Alley, Frank Bridge.
Molly on the Shore, Percy Grainger.
Theme and Variations from posthumous Quartet in D minor, Schubert.
Finale Presto from Quartet in D, Op. 18 No. 3, Beethoven.

OPERA, 'MARTHA,' FROM KSD TOMORROW NIGHT

Flotow's Work to Be Given Tabloid Form by New York Company.

Flotow's opera, "Martha," broadcast in tabloid form by KSD at 9 o'clock tomorrow night, it will be presented by the Broadcasting Grand Opera Company, directed by Cesare [illegible] with the following cast:

Lady Harriet, Genia Zielinska; Nancy, Devora Nadworney; Plunkett, Carl Rollins; Sir Tristan, Nino Ruisi; Lionel, Giuseppe di Benedetto.

The scene is laid in Portugland. Lady Harriet, the [illegible] in honor to the Queen, has [illegible] the monotony of court life, [illegible] an open window she hears the [illegible] of peasants on the way to the [illegible] Richmond, and she decides to [illegible] company them in disguise. She introduces her cousin, Sir Tristan, [illegible] Nancy to accompany her. They arrive at the fair and two [illegible] Lionel and Plunkett, appear in the crowd and being struck by the [illegible] looks of the girls, offer to engage them for a year's service. The [illegible] protests, but is driven away as the terrified girls are led away by the farmers. They are soon at the farmhouse, where the young [illegible] ers soon find them to be [illegible] quainted with menial duties.

Lionel falls in love with [illegible] who is Lady Harriet, but is [illegible] to scorn. The two girls at last determine to escape and [illegible] night they slip away with the [illegible] Sir Tristan, who awaits them in a carriage. The young farmers [illegible] come to watch the Queen and [illegible] court at the hunt. In the midst of the festivities Lady Harriet appears and although Lionel is amazed at seeing his beloved Martha in the dress of a lady, pleads his cause with more ardor. Lady Harriet rudely dismisses him and declares that Lionel is insane.

After his rejection by Lady Harriet, Lionel's mind becomes clouded so Plunkett decides to present his foster brother's ring to the Queen to prove Lionel the son of the banished Earl of Derby. He is then reinstated, but refuses to be comforted, and to restore his sanity a complete reproduction of the fair at Richmond Fair is arranged. The opera ends, as most grand operas do not, with general rejoicing.

ARMY BAND CONCERTS FROM WJZ AND KYW WEDNESDAY

The weekly concerts of the United States army band at Washington, will henceforth be broadcast from WJZ and KYW, on Wednesday nights at 6:30 central time.

This is one of the leading military bands of the country. It was organized in 1922, when 80 musicians were selected for outstanding ability from the bands of the United States Army and concentrated at Fort Hunt, Va. [illegible] Pershing was then Chief of Staff, and he was behind the movement to give the United States an army band that would compare favorably with the military bands of every other nation.

In September, 1922, the band was moved to Washington Barracks, and Capt. William J. Stannard was appointed band leader and Master Sergeant Willis Ross, drum major. The band has furnished the military music for virtually all of the important military and diplomatic affairs in Washington and other parts of the country.

WMAQ, CHICAGO, INCLUDED IN CHAIN OF WHICH KSD IS A UNIT

The inclusion of station WMAQ (447.5 meters; 670 kc) owned and operated by the Chicago Daily News, as part of the chain in which KSD is a link, is announced.

Because management of station WQJ, Chicago, has recently been acquired by the Chicago Daily News the latter has right at present in the 447.5 meter band in Chicago, thus permitting broadcasting of chain programs at any hour of the night or day.

It is expected that it will be April first before WMAQ will be participated in the regular chain broadcasts.

Connect Loud Speaker in Series

When using two or more speakers, always connect in series so that the current goes through each speaker and then through the receiver. This increases the impedance of the speaker circuit and is best for better quality than a parallel connection, where the impedance will be reduced far below that

RIGHT THRU ST. LOUIS WITH THE CUSTOM-BUILT REMLER INFRA-DYNE RECEIVER

St. Louis, Mo., March 2, 1927

VAN ASHE RADIO CO., 210 N. Tenth St.—I have built a number of tuned radio frequency and super-heterodyne sets with good results but was never entirely satisfied until I built the REMLER INFRA-DYNE. Since building the Infradyne in September I have received stations regularly from Winnipeg to Mexico City and from New York to San Francisco with all St. Louis stations on the air and I live only a mile from KMOX. The set is so selective, so powerful and has such sweet tone that I cannot praise it too much.

"I Never Thought a Radio Could Fool Me"

QUITE a common expression when a visitor to our store hears the Synchrophase for the first time.

Its tone is so full, round and true to voice or instrument itself, one does not realize that the Synchrophase is reproducing it.

Among several exclusive Grebe developments, the Colortone is largely responsible for this superior reception, but Binocular Coils, S-L-F Condensers, etc., have much to do with it as you will realize if you will

OPERA, 'MARTHA,' FROM KSD TOMORROW NIGHT

From an open window she hears the song of peasants on the way to a fair in Richmond, and she decides to join the company them in disguise. She introduces her cousin, Sir Tristan, and Nancy to accompany her. They arrive at the fair and two farmers, Lionel and Plunkett, appear in the crowd and being struck by the good looks of the girls, offer to engage them for a year's service. Their protests, but is driven away and the terrified girls are led away by the farmers. They are soon at the farmhouse, where the young farmers soon find them to be unacquainted with menial duties.

Lionel falls in love with Martha, who is Lady Harriet, but is laughed to scorn. The two girls at length determine to escape and in the night they slip away with the aid of Sir Tristan, who awaits them with a carriage. The young farmers have come to watch the Queen and her court at the hunt. In the midst of the festivities Lady Harriet appears and although Lionel is amazed at seeing his beloved Martha in the dress of a lady, pleads his case with more ardor. Lady Harriet rudely dismisses him and declares that Lionel is insane.

After his rejection by Lady Harriet, Lionel's mind becomes clouded so Plunkett decides to present his foster brother's ring to the Queen to prove Lionel the son of the banished Earl of Derby. He is soon reinstated, but refuses to be comforted, and to restore his mind a complete reproduction of the scene at Richmond Fair is arranged. The opera ends, as most grand operas do not, with general rejoicing.

ARMY BAND CONCERTS FROM WJZ AND KYW WEDNESDAY

The weekly concerts of the United States army band at Washington, will henceforth be broadcast from WJZ and KYW, on Wednesday nights at 6:30 central time.

This is one of the leading military bands of the country. It was organized in 1922, when 90 musicians were selected for outstanding ability from the bands of the United States Army and concentrated at Fort Hunt, Va. Gen. Pershing was then Chief of Staff and he was behind the movement to give the United States an army band that would compare favorably with the military bands of any other nation.

In September, 1922, the band was moved to Washington Barracks, and Capt. William J. Stannard was appointed band leader and Master Sergeant Willis S. Ross, drum major. The band has furnished the military music for virtually all of the important military and diplomatic affairs in Washington and other parts of the country.

WMAQ, CHICAGO, INCLUDED IN CHAIN OF WHICH KSD IS A LINK

The inclusion of station WMAQ (447.5 meters; 670 kc) owned and operated by the Chicago Daily News, as part of the chin in which KSD is a link, is announced.

Because management of station WQJ, Chicago, has recently been acquired by the Chicago Daily News the latter has right of way in the 447.5 meter band in Chicago, thus permitting broadcasting of chain programs at any hour of the night or day.

It is expected that it will be April first before WMAQ will participated in the regular chain broadcasts.

Distance

Distant stations often broadcast on exactly the same wavelength as locals. This new Freshman set is so powerful that it brings in stations from all over the country. Sometimes it is desirable to cut out the distant station broadcasting on the same wavelength as the local to which you are listening; if so, just pull out the distance switch indicated above.

MERELY turn the dial from point to point and station after station comes in separately, clearly and distinctly. The one dial is the only tuning device on this new Freshman Radio. Its amazing power allows stations from a great to be tuned in right through the locals. Its superior construction and efficiency separate the different wave-lengths and tune out the undesired stations with startling allowing you to listen to exactly the station that you desire without bother or interference and with fine which is the result of scientifically constructed audio transformers perfectly designed and co-ordinated to match this powerful radio.

Atlanta Educator Praises Results of Its Use in Schools of That City.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex. March 5.—Atlanta, Ga., has the distinction of being the first sizeable city to adopt radio as a definite part of its school equipment, said Willis A. Sutton, Superintendent of Schools of Atlanta, in a speech before the department of superintendence, National Education Association, here.

"As a means of broadening the school horizon, of stimulating new interests and promoting teamwork throughout the whole organization," Sutton continued, "the radio has proved of inestimable value.

"Radio is developing new life; it gets hold of that ethereal element known as the imagination. Curiosity is aroused. More information is sought. Purpose is strengthened and life ennobled by radio lectures and instruction. Life and Dust." Duets will include "Under the Bamboo Tree" and the "Kashmiri Song."

WJZ's Arm Chair Hour will be broadcast at 9 Friday night instead of Wednesday night. The program follows: "Sweetest Story Ever Told," Quartet; "Rio Nights," Quartet; "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," Quartet; "Dear Old Pal o' Mine," Vibraphone solo; "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," Quartet; "Oh Promise Me," violin solo; "I Love You Truly," Quartet; "There's Music in the Air," Quartet; "Home Sweet Home," Quartet.

Program for Saturday.

The Keystone Duo, composed of Darl Bethman, baritone, and Steele Jamison, tenor, will be heard in a special concert with the WJZ Studio orchestra at 9 Saturday night.

Some of the compositions to be rendered will be "March of the Dwarfs" by Grieg; "Molly," sung by Darl Bethman; "Have a Smile," Duo and orchestra; "Far Away Bells," Duo; "I Love a Little Cottage," tenor; "Artists Life," Strauss, orchestra; "Mary Dear," from "Honeymoon Lane," duo, and "Have a smile," orchestra.

NEW TUBE FOR IMPEDANCE AND RESISTANCE COUPLING

Development work has been completed on a new Cunningham special purpose high mu amplifier tube for resistance and impedance coupled audio frequency amplification circuits. The new tube has just come on the market. It is known as the CX-340 and is the sixteenth type bearing the Cunningham name.

General operation specifications of the CX-340 are as follows: filament voltage, 5.0 volts; filament current, .25 ampere; recommended "B" voltage, 135 to 180 volts; amplication factor (mu), 30.

Audio frequency amplification today is accomplished by three general methods: transformer coupling, impedance coupling and resistance coupling. The requirement of the amplifier tube for resistance and impedance coupling is identical, but entirely different than the tube requirement for transformer coupling.

In a preliminary audio resistance or impedance coupled circuit the voltage amplification is obtained primarily through the tube, and the requirement is an extremely high voltage amplification factor in the tube itself. The new Cunningham CX-340 has a voltage amplification factor (mu) of 30, so the theoretical possible voltage gain per stage is 30.

There seems to be a general impression in the radio world that a resistance coupled audio frequency circuit is extremely simple to build. It is not true, however, that good tone quality can be had from any resistance coupled amplifier carelessly thrown together. The requirements, while simple, are severe and must be rigidly adhered to if the tube is to do its best work.

With a properly designed circuit, the CX-340, with either resistance or impedance coupling, offers remarkable audio amplification possibilities.

LIGHT OPERA SELECTIONS FROM KSD FRIDAY EVENING

Selections from light operas and operettas will feature the half-hour program to be broadcast Friday evening through KSD at 8 o'clock. The program will be presented by the National Light Opera Quartet, whose members are Adele Parkhurst, soprano; Frances Paperte, contralto; George O'Brien, tenor, and Jack Oakley, bass.

The program will consist of four ensemble selections, a solo by George O'Brien, and duets rendered by Adele Parkhurst and Jack Oakley, and Frances Paperte and George O'Brien.

FOR INSTALLMENT BUYING

Buying on the installment plan, when well regulated, is a benefit to customers and dealers, and it would be a mistake to try to curb installment sales of radio merchandise, says D. S. Spector, general manager of the Merchandising Division of Federal-Brandes, Inc., maker of Koister radio sets and Brandes speakers. Occasionally a cry is raised against it. But it is a well established custom, he says, and as long as it remains on a firm basis, it will not do any harm.

"A great deal of American buying is on the installment system, by popular demand. Should the radio industry pose as King Canute and try to stop the tide? It can't be done."

Protect Set From Dust and Dirt.

A set mounted on a panel and not in a cabinet allows the entire system to be exposed to the ordinary dust and dirt of the air. Such a set should be inspected, especially around the condenser plates, which generally collect 90 per cent of this dust and dirt, thereby greatly cutting down the efficiency of the condenser.

"Last of Mrs. Cheyney" Brings Ina Claire In Smart Crook Comedy

Bertha Kalich and Harry Lauder Week at the Shubert. Company Plays "Daddy Long Legs."

INA CLAIRE, who has not been seen in "The Awful Truth" here five years, will be the attraction at the Shubert-Rialto the week is to be divided between the Shubert-Rialto and the Harry Lauder. Mme. Kalich will hold forth Wednesday nights in "The Riddle Woman." Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights in "The Riddle Woman." Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Harry Lauder will devote the time to his own peculiar style of entertainment. The National Players, at the Empress, will devote themselves to itself tonight when the Woodward Players will present the charming little comedy drama, "Daddy Long Legs."

IN New York last season "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" was one of the outstanding dramatic hits and a first class crook comedy fairly firmly established itself as a most comedienne of the contemporary stage, which she attained after a steady climb. Louisville. George W. Lederer saw her in Chicago, took her from the "family" and starred her in "Jumping Jupiter" with Richard Carle of the company. Her imitation of Ina Claire "stopped the show." Later Lederer married her, who thought her at that time not clever enough so would have none of her. Later Lederer did engage her for many hundreds of dollars.

Jesse Lasky, vice president of the Famous Players outfit, "discovered" Miss Claire, when she was playing at the Folies Bergere, New York, where she was doing imitations. Then Henry B. Harris "discovered" her in the leading role of "The Quaker Girl," a London success, hit and romped away with the show. Miss Claire appeared in "The Quaker Girl" that she was asked to play by A. E. (Pat) Malone, who was in New York at the time. George Edwardes, of the London Gaiety, was so impressed with the result that Edwardes signed her up as the leading woman that this manager ever had. She played leading roles in London in both "The Girl Behind the Gun" and "The Girl on the Bond Street."

Then David Belasco "discovered" her and starred her as a comedienne in "Polly With a Past," and it was Charles Dillingham who "discovered" her as a star in the play.

IN "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" Ina Claire plays the part of Lady Each of his characters through an error of Charles, the butler to George, the husband, in the following manner:

CHARLES—In the vernacular, we would be known as the social goods. Lady Cheyney is being hostesses, rich, charming and most popular. How most describe her as a lady. Lady Cheyney is rich and beautiful; a woman who calls a spade a spade means it.

GEORGE—I like her. She sounds like a peach. She sate "Willie, and me a match."

CHARLES—She was born with one. Then we have Mrs. Wynton, who married the most stupid of God's creatures and remained faithful to him. She is either very nervous.

GEORGE—I like the old party.

CHARLES—In her way, George, Lady Cheyney in life has been to find people. She has Tuesday and serving them up on a platter should they fail her by being unamusing. She drain on them as they go down it on the menu.

GEORGE—The old one with the pearls? I don't think much of her.

CHARLES—She is Mrs. Webley. Webley is in her chair one day looking into her mirror. At that moment the last of her husband's prospects; looking into that glass, and Webley, I am not at home." With the knowledge of conditions even a Bishop's eyesight can't see pearls but became respectable. He is the recluse of all our English homes.

GEORGE—I must say I like the old boy. It. 'Ere they didn't make 'alf a fuss over him when 'e came in.

CHARLES—The tall bloke with the rich, eligible bachelor; an intimate friend of considerable importance. Dukes open doors for him when he calls on them. To have got him he seldom goes anywhere.

GEORGE—The chap they all call

"Last of Mrs. Cheyney" Brings Ina Claire Here In Smart Crook Comedy

Bertha Kalich and Harry Lauder Divide the Week at the Shubert, While Stock Company Plays "Daddy Long Legs."

INA CLAIRE, who has not been seen in St. Louis since she played "The Awful Truth" here five years ago comse to the American Theater tomorrow night in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." Out at the Shubert-Rialto the week is to be divided up by Bertha Kalich and Harry Lauder. Mme. Kalich will hold forth tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday nights in "The Riddle Woman" while Lauder, on another of his "farewell tours" will devote Thursday, Friday and Saturday to his own peculiar style of entertainment.

The National Players, at the Empress, has the dramatic field to itself tonight when the Woodward organization starts a week of the charming little comedy drama, "Daddy Long Legs."

IN New York last season "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" was one of the outstanding dramatic hits and the Frederick Lonsdale polite crook comedy fairly firmly established Ina Claire as the foremost comedienne of the contemporary American Theater, a position which she attained after a steady climb from "small time" vaudeville. George W. Lederer saw her do a turn as a child mimic in Chicago, took her from the "family time" in vaudeville and put her in "Jumping Jupiter" with Richard Carle, as the ingenue of the company. Her imitation of Harry Lauder in this production "stopped the show." Later Lederer introduced her to Flo Ziegfeld, who thought her at that time not clever enough for the Follies, and so would have none of her. Later—several seasons later, he did engage her for many hundreds of dollars a week and liked it!

Jesse Lasky, vice president of the Famous Players-Lasky movie outfit, "discovered" Miss Claire, when he was the active impresario at the Folies Bergere, New York, when she appeared there with her imitations. Then Henry B. Harris "discovered" her and put her in the leading role of "The Quaker Girl," where she made a resounding hit and romped away with the show. It was while Miss Claire was in "The Quaker Girl" that she was again "discovered" by Captain J. A. E. (Pat) Malone, who was in New York on a scouting trip for George Edwardes, of the London Gaiety Theater, with the net result that Edwardes signed her up as the first and only American leading woman that this manager ever engaged. She had the star roles in London in both "The Girl from Utah" and "The Belle of Bond Street."

Then David Belasco "discovered" Miss Claire and starred her as a comedienne in "Polly With a Past" and "The Gold Diggers," and it was Charles Dillingham who "discovered" her for her present play.

IN "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" Lonsdale sounds the keynote of each of his characters through an epigramatic description given by Charles, the butler to George, the junior footman, in the following manner:

CHARLES—In the vernacular, we have with us today what may be known as the social goods. Lady Mary Sindelay, one of our leading hostesses, rich, charming and modest. In fact, one might almost describe her as a lady. Lady Jean Houghton, 23, courageous and beautiful; a woman who calls a spade a bloody spade and means it.

GEORGE—I like 'er. She said to me out there just now, "Willie, 'and me a match."

CHARLES—She was born with a natural desire to please everyone. Then we have Mrs. Wynton, young attractive, a person. She married the most stupid of God's creatures, but rumor has it she has remained faithful to him. She is either a very good woman, George, or very nervous.

GEORGE—I like the old party they call Maria.

CHARLES—In her way, George, she's a darling. Her business in life has been to find people. She has a habit of finding them on Tuesday and serving them up on a gold salver on Wednesday. But, should they fail her by being unamusing, it is she who closes the drain on them as they go down it on Thursday.

GEORGE—The old one with the painted face and the pearls—I don't think much of her.

CHARLES—She is Mrs. Webley. It is said of her that seated in her chair one day looking into her glass she spied a double chin. At that moment the last of her many lovers called to pay his respects; looking into that glass, and without flinching, she said, "I am not at home." With the knowledge that, given suitable conditions even a Bishop's eyesight can be affected, she kept to her pearls but became respectable. Her house today is the most exclusive of all our English homes.

GEORGE—I must say I like them when they can get away with it. 'Ere they didn't make 'alf a fuss of that bloke with the tall 'at when 'e came in.

CHARLES—The tall bloke with the tall 'at was my Lord Elton, a rich, eligible bachelor; an intimate friend of royalty and a man of considerable importance. Dukes open their doors personally when he calls on them. To have got him here today is a triumph—he seldom goes anywhere.

BEHIND THE SCREENS Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 5.

HOLLYWOOD pretty generally is elated at word from New York that Famous Players-Lasky will concentrate all of its feature producing in its new Hollywood studio. Jesse Lasky announced that transfer of production activities from the Long Island studio will be effected as each unit finishes its current picture. He said about 25 per cent of the company's pictures have been made in the East. The Long Island studio will be turned over for rehearsal purposes to the Publix Theaters and for use by the Paramount short features now being organized. The executive forces of the studio will be transferred to the west coast. This move of Famous Players is the latest of a general exodus of the picture makers from the East.

Mary Pickford, Norma Talmadge, Gloria Swanson, Douglas Fairbanks and other moving picture stars and producers now own five prerelease film theaters and are constructing four additional in which their films will be exhibited prior to general release, it has been revealed by Joe Schenck, chairman of the board of directors of United Artists Theater Circuit, in announcing to stockholders the fact that nine United Artists Theaters and probably more of the 20 planned for the circuit will be in actual operation before the end of 1927. Two of these theaters will be opened in September and two in November of this year. Five are now in operation, according to the statement. Schenck said this is the first time that film stars have owned in whole or in part theaters in which their films are exhibited.

On May 1 George Jessel will start work on his second starring vehicle for Warner Bros., "The Jazz Singer." This is the stage play in which Jessel scored in New York and throughout the country. A part of the original cast will support Jessel in this film.

"The Jazz Singer" will have a Vitaphone touch in several sequences with special emphasis laid on the musical renditions by Jessel in the synagogue. The choir will be supplied by one of the leading synagogues in Los Angeles.

Irene Rich will be starred in Clyde Fitch's famous stage play, "The Climbers," which will go into production shortly. Tom Gibson is adapting the story, which will be directed by Paul L. Stein, responsible for the last Rich vehicle, "Don't Tell the Wife."

Richard Barthelmess, who broke a small bone in the foot while playing tennis in Beverly Hills recently, is, in spite of his injury, going ahead with his acting and finding it not so hard at that. It was at first feared the accident would for some time delay production on "The Patent Leather Kid," in which Barthelmess is starring, but the scenario calls for Barthelmess to enact the role of a wounded World War soldier part of the time and the schedule of the scenes was hastily rearranged to meet the situation, so that Dick is today doing those sequences in which he moves around in a wheel chair and hobbles a bit on crutches.

"Babe Comes Home," the title of the production in which Babe Ruth is co-featured with Anna Q. Nilsson, was not written with the baseball idol in mind for the leading role. First National acquired the baseball story months before under the title of "Said With Soap," written by Gerald Beaumont, following its publication in one of the national magazines. At the time of its purchase there was no thought of signing Ruth.

Buster Collier, son of a famous father, has a new angle on giving folks "a chance." It was William Collier Sr., the well-known stage comedian, who first put his son, then a curly-haired kid of 6, into a stage play. Now, Buster, having attained fame in his own right, is planning to return the compliment and give his dad "a chance" in one of the forthcoming pictures, in which Buster will be featured.

An ingenious bit of set designing whereby the main street of a small town near First National's Burbank studios was partially reproduced within the studio to match with outdoor scenes, is a feature of "The Sunset Derby," the race picture which Charles R. Rogers is producing. The more intimate scenes were filmed within the studio, and when "long shots" of the street were needed, the scenes actually made in the small town's main artery matched perfectly with those filmed before. Mary Astor and William Collier Jr. are featured in "The Sunset Derby."

Casting has been completed for "The Poor Nut," Jack Mulhall is featured with Charlie Murray and Jane Winton. Others in the cast include Jean Arthur, Glenn Tryon, Maurice Ryan, Henry Vibart and Cornelius Keefe.

Contracts have been closed by First National covering the purchase of the world motion picture rights in a comedy entitled "Casanova's Son," by Rudolph Letha, together with Lothar's screen adaptation of this comedy.

"Big Bertha," a "different" war comedy, featuring Charlie Murray and George Sidney, has gone into the cutting room following its completion on the Burbank lot. The scenes of the story are laid partly in New York City and partly on the Russo-German front during the World War. Natalie Kingston, Wampas Baby Star for 1927, has the feminine lead.

Milton Sills starts work this week on his next starring picture "Diamonds in the Rough," with Charles Brabin directing.

Vera Veronina, Russian film actress, who makes her American debut in the forthcoming "The Whirlwind of Youth," was virtually driven into a film career by the Bolshevik uprising. She was born in Odessa, June 29, 1904, and re-

"Trelawny Of The Wells" Coming

AS part of the whirlwind tour of the larger cities of the country which "Trelawny of the Wells" is to make following the close of its enormously successful revival in New York, the "all star" organization will come to St. Louis for two performances early in April.

The play, now at the New Amsterdam Theater, will end its New York run on March 19. In the cast are John Drew, Pauline Lord, Helen Gahagan, Estelle Winwood, Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, O. P. Heggie, Otto Kruger, Rollo Peters and a dozen others. Since the opening performance on Jan. 31, all attendance records and box office grosses for such an undertaking have been broken. The last performance of the revival in New York, to be given March 19, will be the fifty-sixth—in a run in which the amount of the ticket sales will probably exceed $200,000.

A special train will carry the company on the tour on which only Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago will be full-week stands, the other principal cities being limited to one, two and three days. The tour will be a circular one, beginning either in Boston or Chicago, and will probably be of seven weeks duration.

Vaudeville Makes Stand Against Movie Menace With Sharp Price Cut

Reduced Admission Charges Has Brought About Sudden Growth in Attendance—Tom Meighan Explains "On Location."

By NIE.

JUST how much the price of admission has had to do with the smothering of the legitimate, so called, stage by the movie houses, is pretty well demonstrated by the Orpheum Theater here. The vaudeville house, along with the dramatic and musical comedy show shops, had suffered for several years from the opposition in the cinema palaces and last season there were times when it looked as though the Orpheum Circuit would run of red ink. Then came the introduction of a motion picture on the Orpheum's program and the cutting of admission prices to about the level of the movie houses and as a result business has boomed until it looks as though 1927 would be the banner year in vaudeville history, from point of attendance, in St. Louis.

The fact that vaudeville is celebrating its centennial this year has been commented on several times in these columns and the suddenly increased attendance for this form of entertainment here brings to mind some convincing figures as to its 1827 and 1927 number of theaters, seating capacity, attendance and artists engaged in that form of essentially American stage entertainment which grew out of the variety shows of 100 years ago to the present national indoor amusement of vaudeville.

IN 1827, one theater (the Lafayette) in New York "started things" by giving an entire program to separate and contrasted variety acts. That house contained 800 seats; but played to an average of 280 people at each performance. Not so good, what? But 26 years later—in 1853—there were six theaters with an aggregate of 4800 seating capacity, playing variety to 2400 (half capacity) at each performance as the historic averages show.

In 1883 there were 28 American theaters devoted to vaudeville. The combined seating capacity of these 28 houses was 25,200 and they were playing to an average of 18,600 persons per performance. Not so bad, and getting better as the circuits widened and the shows improved. This period showed the turning point and progress went by jumps and bounds, for 1900 startled the show world with a list of 95 vaudeville theaters, having an aggregate seating capacity of 196,000 and an average attendance of 162,000 at daily performances.

THE current season finds no less than 721 vaudeville theaters on the American circuits. Their combined seating capacity is 1,009,400 and their average attendance each day (based on the first half of the present season), is 1,600,000—far more than the seating capacities, explained by numbers of shows given daily.

As to the performers of variety and vaudeville, in 1827 there were 12, just an even dozen, of professed variety performers. Nine employes "ran" that first variety house. In 1853 there were 36 with 60 employes and in 1883 there were 220 artists and 280 employes. In 1900 there were 1140 vaudeville artists and 970 vaudeville theater employes to "look after 'em."

Now, this year there are more than 12,000 artists (in the National Vaudeville Artists Association alone) and more than 14,000 employes constantly engaged in the 721 theaters that dot the big circuits from coast to coast.

Some history!

THE announcement, in another column on this page, that Famous Players would give up making pictures in the east and do all its work hereafter in California does not, of course, mean that producing units will be kept within the limits of the Hollywood studios. Companies will be sent out "on location" as usual and Tom Meighan, a Famous Players star, whose picture, "Blind Alleys," incidentally, is at the Missouri this week, explains why.

"We are often asked," says Meighan, "why we travel thousands of miles for locations. When we arrive in a small town accompanied by 40 or 50 people, a mass of camera equipment and a carload of reflectors, platforms, poles, etc., people stare and wonder what it's all about.

"Often there are more technical assistants than actors. The mechanics of picture making are a revelation to those who have never seen a company at work.

"Magazines and newspapers have described many processes of the business. Many illusions have been destroyed. There are thousands of picture goers who think that any kind of background can be constructed in a studio. When they meet us on location they're surprised.

"Once when I told a man we'd come to his city for atmosphere he thought I was talking about the weather. The mistake was natural. Weather is one of the most important considerations in outdoor picture-making, but when I mentioned atmosphere I meant all the elements that go to add realism to a story and its setting.

"During the past few years I have made pictures in California, Panama, Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, the Canadian Rockies, Ireland, the wheat fields of Alberta and New York City. In each instance our traveling added something besides scenic background to the picture.

Bertha Kalich, at the Shubert, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Successful writers understand the characters they are writing about. Often they have lived and studied in the locales described. We do the same thing in a different way.

"It would be impossible for directors and players to stay in Hollywood or New York and produce pictures indefinitely. One would soon lose touch with the varying forms of life they portray. Artificiality would creep in and honest reproductions of types and situations be totally lost.

"I don't say there is no artificiality now. There is. Normal emotions gestures and situations have to be slightly exaggerated at times to get across the impression desired in picture form. What I do say is this: It's impossible to get across just the right amount of exaggeration or understand the emotions of characters unless directors and players meet all kinds of people

Symphony to End Season With Concerts This Week At Scottish Cathedral

The 47th Year of Organization to Come to a Close With Orchestra Blowing Music Of Four Famous Composers.

UNLESS something unexpected necessitates a change in plans, the two final concerts of the Symphony season, next Friday afternoon and Saturday night, will be given in the Scottish Rite Cathedral as the wind up of the forty-seventh season of the organization. There will be no soloist for these last two concerts but Director Ganz will invade the orchestra as an instrumentalist, and in presenting the Handel Concerto Grosso in B minor will conduct from the piano.

Mr. Ganz' program is in a sense a recapitulation—a summing up of the musical year. Achieving its unity through pure singing melodies characteristic to the four works played, and through the hall-mark of style in that larger sense of perfection in art achievement through economy of means; it nevertheless brings together four composers of radically different musical theories and musical methods, and serves to contrast the difference between the orchestra of two centuries ago and of today and between the intimate and the purely objective in music.

Handel, whose work is stamped with vital, intensive and personal emotion, and whose orchestra of 200 years ago was but the embryo of the orchestra of today, is brought into juxtaposition with Richard Strauss, that teller of musical tales whose achievement would be purely intellectual were it not for his spontaneous Mozartean melodies, and whose orchestra commands every resource the moderns know. He in turn has on the one side Hugo Wolff, sensitive, delicate, subjective, whose "Italian Serenade" for small orchestra will be played; and on the other, Johannes Brahms, who in his First Symphony pours forth a Shakspearean melody, pregnant with a Shakspearean thought.

Such a program becomes a seasonal review—for all that none of its works have been presented hitherto in the course of this season, because it is significant of Ganz's catholicity of taste in building his programs and of his endeavor to have those programs reflect that wide view of music which refuses to bar from the temple of art any masterwork which is stamped by authentic style.

In detail the offering is:

Concerto Grosso in B minor..Handel
I. Largo, Allegro; II. Aria; III. Largo, Allegro (played without pause).
Italian Serenade .....Wolff
Death and Transfiguration, Tone Poem for Full Orchestra ("Tod und Verklarung"), Op 24— Strauss Intermission.
Symphony No. 1 in C minor, Op. 68 .....Brahms
I. Un Poco sostenuto, Allegro; II. Andante sostenuto; III. Un poco allegretto e grazioso; IV. Adagio, Allegro non troppo ma con brio.

Pop Concert Will Be Held At W. U. Today

THE regular Sunday afternoon Pop concert of the Symphony Orchestra will be given as usual at 3:15 today, arrangements have been made to use Field House, on Big Bend boulevard, near Forsythe boulevard, on the Washington University grounds.

A "woman's day" program, sponsored by the Women's Advertising Club, will be the feature of the concert. Women are the soloists of the occasion and as a tribute Mr. Ganz has chosen as a principal orchestral offering Saint-Saens' "The Wheel of Omphale," in which the gallant Frenchman musically pictures Hercules captive to Omphale's charm. Goldmark's "Sakuntala" overture, the ballet music from Meyerbeer's "The Prophet," and Caesar Cui's "Orientale," are among other orchestral numbers.

The program will give the audience its first opportunity to judge Ganz as a composer for the piano in combination with orchestra, for Corinne Frederick, a young pianist, is to present the "Concert-Piece" composed by him several years ago.

Miss Jackes, who is to sing the famous aria, "Pius Grand Dans Son Obscurite," from Gounod's "The Queen of Sheba," with the orchestra, and also a group of songs to piano accompaniment of Mrs. Frank A. Habig, has been soprano soloist at Centenary Methodist Episcopal and other St. Louis churches. She is prominent in the College Club and has been a Veiled Prophet Maid of Honor.

Overture to "Sakuntala"...Goldmark
Aria, "Plus grand dans son ob scurite" from "The Queen of Sheba" .....Gounod
"The Wheel of Omphale" Symphonic Poem No. 1 op. 31... ..... Saint-Saens

Box Capacity Doubled For Summer Opera

Advance Orders for Municipal Season in Forest Park Largest in History of the Organization.

THE work of rearranging the box seat section of the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, with a view of providing a large number of new boxes for next summer's Municipal Opera season, which opens June 6, is completed. Under the new plans there will be 170 boxes seating 1014 persons, as compared to the previous arrangement of 93 boxes seating 552 persons.

Space for two additional rows of boxes was made possible by the use of part of the promenade which separates the box seats from the first rows in the auditorium proper and by moving the orchestra pit forward. The promenade across the front of the stage has been eliminated so that a new type of footlights could be installed to improve the lighting of next summer's productions.

The box seats have been popular with Municipal Opera patrons since the beginning of the al fresco productions in 1919. Most of the choice locations have been held by St. Louisans who renewed their season reservations each year. The new boxes, with the exception of two, will each hold six persons.

The advance season reservations for 1927 are the largest in the history of the summer enterprise, with the subscriptions at the present time amounting to more than $100,000. The new boxes will be thrown open for season reservation tomorrow.

INA CLAIRE COMES IN POLITE CROOK PLAY TO AMERICAN

laugh. Who is he?

Charles—He? He's quite of another kind. He's my Lord Dilling. Young, rich, attractive and clever. Had he been born a poor man he might have died a great one. But he has allowed life to spoil him. He has a reputation with women that is extremely bad; consequently, as hope is a quality possessed by all women, women ask him everywhere. I would describe him as a man who has kept more husbands at home than any other man of modern times.

SOME six or seven years ago Mme. Kalich played here in "The Riddle Woman," which she brings back to the Shubert tomorrow night. This play, by Charlotte Wells and Dorothy Donnelly, it may be remembered, is a story of European social conditions and traditions, with the scenes laid in Denmark. It is primarily a study in the nature of woman as she is represented on the Continent, where the question of marriage assumes a different aspect from what it does here. In essence it is a test of the character of Lillia Olrik, the wife of a wealthy Danish shipowner.

She and her sister had been left orphans by a gambling father and were about to drown themselves because of their hopeless condition, when Lars Olrik rescues them and marries the older girl. Behind the calm exterior of the wife burns a fiery temperament, and, as the play proceeds, it develops that she had been the victim of a social parasite, Count Helsinger, and that still another girl, the daughter of her husband's partner, had also suffered at his hands. The impecunious Count is blackmailing both of them. One girl kills herself, but Lillia fights it all out to the satisfaction of her husband and the audience.

LAUDER, the Scottish comedian and singer, comes to the Shubert Thursday, following the Kalich engagement, for three nights and Friday and Saturday matinees. It is announced that the greater part of the current program comprises entirely new songs, composed during the singer's long absence from the United States, with the most popular of the old songs revived. "Romin' in th' Gloamin'" "I Love a Lassie" and several other; Abed Latell, canine imitator, program. The assisting company includes Harry Moore, paper tearer; Alfred Latell, canine imitator; George Lyons, harp virtuoso; Suzette and Jose, dancers, and Emily Keady, violinist.

IDA MAY CHADWICK, tap dancer, who has been featured in a number of musical revues, will share first honors with Al K. Hall on the bill that opens at the Orpheum today. Miss Chadwick will present a song and dance divertissement, assisted by six girls called the "Dizzy Blondes." Hall, who stepped from burlesque to musical comedy and vaudeville, will present a comedy bit, embellished with song, dance and music, entitled "The Sap at the Beach." Hall is what is known in theatrical parlance as a "nut" comic. He will be assisted by two girls and a man. A bit of the classics will be offered by Herma and Huan Reyes, concert pianiste and violiniste. Walter Brower, whose facetious discussion on matrimony, won him a good measure of fame as a monologist; Jones and Rea in a hard-hearing and stuttering turn, and Margaret Stewart's posing act also will be on the bill.

GENERAL DIRECTOR WOODWARD of the National Players is this week alternating his production of the newer current Broadway successes with that jewel of fancy from the heart strings of Jean Webster, which she named "Daddy Long Legs." A cast of 21 characters will produce the play.

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT.

NEW YORK, March 5.

FOR the most part, the new plays which the past fortnight has brought to town have been unimportant short-winded endeavors which the annalists of the stage will have difficulty in remembering when they compile their funny statistics at the end of the season.

In the batch one finds a metaphysical melodrama by the prolific Pirandello, a piece called "Right You Are If You Think You Are," a three-act comedy wherein the Italian dramatist, like Pontius Pilate, asks "What is truth?" and, at considerable length, answers "It depends on where you are standing."

The playgoer attending this entertainment, now being staged by the Theater Guild on stray afternoons when their playhouse is not busy, does feel a little like Alice astroll in the garden with that exhausting potentate, the Red Queen. The two of them, you will remember, had to run till they were breathless for the dubious privilege of staying where they were.

THEN there is "Crime," a crook play compounded by the same accomplices who wrote "East Is West." I never saw that earlier effort by Shipman and Hymer. It had already been running a year when, in 1918, I returned from a long vacation and I had some notion of not reviewing it until the final week when I could predict sagely, and with presumably convulsing effect, that it would not run long. Unfortunately for this elfin plan, the fool play ran all the following season.

Their new opus is a melodrama about an elegant, kindly criminal who plans all the better burglaries and is in a fearful pet when any of his rough, bungling operatives get so excited as to kill someone while at work. He keeps a life-size drawing of a policeman in his library just for target practice, because he wants his men trained to disable a pursuing bluecoat without just that final touch of manslaughter which makes safe-cracking so unpopular with the onlooking democracy.

"Crime" follows in rich detail the planning and execution of a Times Square jewelry store robbery, staged before the delighted eyes of the audience. In the play the feeling runs high against the malignant police and District Attorney who, obviously, make life dangerous for the thieves just because they want to get elected Governor or for some equally selfish reason.

On the first night, each thrust of this sort at the Sheriff of Nottingham wrung a very spasm of applause from the audience, in which, I take it, there were quite a few gunmen enjoying an evening of innocent relaxation. When the enterprising burglar's not a burgling, when the cut-throat is not occupied in crime, he often drops in, I fancy, on a first night. The idea has occasionally occurred to me while studying some of the more distinctive faces around be between the acts. "Crime," then, is a violent charade addressed to the tabloid public.

ANOTHER newcomer is "Money From Home," a curiously lifeless comedy which was called "Coal Oil Jennie" when it was new in Chicago a few months ago. It is the third-rate work of the same Frank Craven who wrote "The First Year" and it has all the marks of a piece ground out, not because he felt he had a play in his system, but because he felt it was high time he wrote something. "Money From Home" is workmanlike and not unamusing but sapless.

If this pastoral letter seems a trifle fretful, the peevish note might be offset by a burst of applause at this point. I would fain assure travelers to this city that its stages are not without good fare for grown-ups. I myself have greatly enjoyed such plays as "Saturday's Children," "The Road to Rome," "Cradle Song," "The Constant Wife," "The Brothers Karamazoff," "Ned McCobb's Daughters" and "The Barker" and, in the melodic line (to filch a phrase from the music critics) one could not do better than attend "The Pirates of Penzance," "Peggy-Ann," "Criss-Cross" (that's the Fred Stone family album) and George White's Scandals.

MUCH speculative interest attaches to some of the plays now being written. Cries of travail seep through the cracks of sundry locked doors in this neighborhood. Maurine Watkins is busy making a play out of "Revelry," the novel of political corruption by Samuel Hopkins Adams, which has proved so disturbing to some readers. It is a study of the disastrous consequences which can befall when chance and the democratic inertia catapult a small-town man into the presidency.

Unquestionably Mr. Adams wrote his burning book with the late President Harding in mind and while he was at considerable pains to make it clear that his central figure was purely fictional, unquestionably he meant the reader to member the state of affairs which had been the book's inspiration. The greatest importance, therefore, attaches to the casting of this role when "Revelry" goes into rehearsal. It is up to the producer to decide then and there whether the play wants to avoid or emphasize the Harding resemblance.

In German such a play is called a schlusselstuck and in French a drame a clef. The English language has no equivalent term and must needs borrow the phrase from across the channel. One notable schlusselstuck of recent seasons was the one called "The Discharge," which caused such profitable ructions when it was produced in Berlin five or six years ago. It dealt with the dropping of the pilot, Bismarck, and made so sorry a picture of the present exile of Doorn that each performance in Berlin was attended by hysterics in the audience. For a time the police had to close it for the sake of peace but the performance wrigglew free and the play had great success not only in Berlin but all over Germany.

I mention "The Discharge" here and now because it was the work of that extraordinary journalist, historian and polemical expert who was born into a family named Kohn and who writes under the name of Emil Ludwig. Ludwig's "Napoleon" is a hefty volume through which one gallops as if it were a mystery tale and only last Monday, his America publishers brought out his fascinating biography of the ex-Kaiser, a book which, with exquisite and surgical precision, flays that disastrous man alive.

Long before Ludwig came to fame and fortune by the immense success of these dynamic biographies of his, he was known as a wandering journalist who followed his work as London correspondent by going to the front for the Berliner Tageblatt and filled in his spare time writing romantic tragedies of which he turned out 12 before he came to the conclusion that he would better try his hand at some other art form.

Garden Theater To Open June 7 For Eight Plays

"Fashion, or Life in New York" to Be Novelty of the Season Which Brings Kane as Falstaff.

THE Garden Theater, 7200 Olive Street road, will open for the season June 7 for a season of eight weeks of drama. There will be no other form of entertainment at the open-air theater this season.

It is planned to give six performances a week, beginning Tuesday nights and running through the including Sundays. Monday nights will be given over to dress rehearsals. The eight plays chosen represent mainly the wishes of the season subscribers and patrons of Garden Theater. Much time was spent in the choice of plays, taking into account especially the suitability of these plays to the stage of the theater. The works selected are: "As You Like It," "The Taming of the Shrew," "She Stoops to Conquer," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Romeo and Juliet," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Fashion, or Life in New York," and "Merry Wives of Windsor."

The novelty this season will be "Fashion, or Life in New York," which was the rage in Gotham and in other parts of the country, including St. Louis, in 1845. The play was revived in New York and in Chicago with marked success. In Chicago it was done by the Goodman Players, who are going to present it at Garden Theater.

"Merry Wives of Windsor" was selected because of the many requests of patrons to see Whitford Kane as Falstaff. He has been engaged to appear in this part.

under all kinds of conditions. In other words—they must know life."

"FINGER PRINTS," which is at the Grand Central this week, is the first picture in which Louise Fazenda, who has been starred unofficially for many seasons, is recognized as an official star by the picture producers. Thereby she takes place at the head of the Warner Brothers roster along with John Barrymore, Syd Chaplin, Dolores Costello, Monte Blue, and—since the competition in films is sometimes inhuman—Rin-Tin-Tin.

Many a time Louise Fazenda, since her earliest days in Mack Sennett comedies, has stolen the applause of the show from the official stars. Time and again she has won popularity contests. Frequently exhibitors have put her name in stellar place on the theater fronts, when the producers seemed to think somebody else was the star of the show. Regularly has Fazenda been "featured" in theater billing. But only in "Finger Prints" has she acquired the recognition of stardom that all actors aim for.

Facing the Music

THE Civic Orchestra will give its concert on Thursday at 8:15 at the Soldan High School. This orchestra, formerly under the direction of Ellis Levy, but now under the direction of Max Steindel of the St. Louis Symphony, was organized to give the young musicians in the city a chance to study and play symphonic music. There are some interesting numbers on the program. In memory of Beethoven, they are playing the Egmont Overture. The Hadyn Trio will be played by Ethel Knobeloch, violin; Louise Evers, cello, and Deborah Carnowsky, piano.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson Butler, concert pianiste, of Arkadelphia, Ark., will be introduced to a St. Louis audience at a musicale tea, under the sponsorship of David Earle at Hotel Chase on Thursday at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Butler has given recitals throughout the South and also has played in Chicago.

The music of "The Vagabond King" will be included in the Sunday Concert program of Loew's State orchestra at 1:30 o'clock today. The ballet music, Hugette's Waltz, "Love for Sale," "Some Day," "Love Me Tonight," "Only a Rose" and the "Song of the Vagabonds" will be included in this selection which Don Albert's orchestra will present. For his "big" number, Albert will offer the second movement of Franz Schubert's "Symphony in C Major." Sinding's "Rustle of Spring," the overture to Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave," the ballet music from Gounod's "Faust," and Ellenberg's "Mandolin Serenade" are also included in the program.

The Morning Etude will hold its regular bi-monthly musicale in the Town Club Auditorium at 10:30 Wednesday morning. The subject is the American Opera, "Shanewis," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, which will be presented by Dr. Ivan Lee Holt. Guest speaker, Following Dr. Holt's lecture a musical program will be given.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink will give a song recital here on Monday evening, April 4. Madame Schumann-Heink is on a journey of 20,000 miles, called the Golden Jubilee Tour, in celebration of her 50 years before the public. When she made her farewell appearance with the Damrosch Orchestra, in December, she was presented with a handsome gift from Harry Flagler, president of the Symphony Society, and also an embossed scroll from the musicians of the orchestra, making her an honorary member for life of the organization, an honor conferred on one previous occasion in the history of the orchestra.

Williard MacGregor, pianist, now of Indianapolis, but whose home still is St. Louis, will give a piano recital at Sheldon Auditorium on Friday evening, March 25. MacGregor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. MacGregor and had his training while in St. Louis under Leo C. Miller and Charles Galloway. He was a member of the master class conducted by Rudolph Ganz in Chicago and won a scholarship there. Later he went abroad, studying under Isidor Philipp and Nadia Boulanger.

The New York String Quartet will give a concert at Sheldon Auditorium, Tuesday evening, March 29, under the auspices of the St. Louis Chamber Music Society. This will be the final concert of the society this year and the fifth successive season for the New York String in St. Louis.

The fifth organ recital by William Theodore Diebels, organist, will be given at the New Cathedral this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The soloists will be George E. Minshall, tenor and George H. Schmitt, baritone.

Stars to Appear at Actors' Fund Dinner

The advance sale of tickets for the dinner and entertainment at Hotel Chase Thursday night, March 31, for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America, indicates a capacity audience will be in attendance. Former Mayor Kiel reported to the local committee sponsoring the dinner at a meeting last Friday. Kiel accepted the post of chairman of the committee at the invitation of Otto H. Kahn, financier and art patron of New York, who is directing a nation-wide campaign to raise an endowment of $1,500,000 for the Actors' Fund. The St. Louis quota is $15,000.

A single ticket costing $12.50 covers both the dinner and the entertainment program. All funds remaining after expenses are paid will be devoted to the Actors' Fund endowment, as will the proceeds of a souvenir program. The entertainment features will be provided without cost by theatrical stars appearing in St. Louis on March 31, and by other stage celebrities who will be brought to the city. Another feature will be the first public appearance of the 200 singers now in training for places in the chorus of the 1927 Municipal Opera company. The entertainment program will be staged by Charles Sinclair, general stage director for the Municipal Theater Association, and will be under the supervision of David E. Russell, manager of the Municipal Opera.

The Actors' Fund is a theatrical charity organized 44 years ago. It seeks to relieve the distress of ill, disabled, aged and infirm actors and actresses. It spends annually more than $200,000 in this work, and this includes the maintenance of a home for aged actors on Staten Island. The fund is supported by benefits, donations, occasional bequests and other small limited incomes.

Tickets for the dinner will be placed on sale tomorrow at the box offices of all local theaters and at the news stands of the Jefferson, Statler and Mayfair hotels.

The Morning Etude will hold its regular bi-monthly musicale in the Town Club Auditorium at 10:30 Wednesday morning. The subject is the American Opera, "Shanewis," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, which will be presented by Dr. Ivan Lee Holt. Guest speaker. Following Dr. Holt's lecture a musical program will be given.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink will give a song recital here on Monday evening, April 4. Madame Schumann-Heink is on a journey of 20,000 miles, called her Golden Jubilee Tour, in celebration of her 50 years before the public. When she made her farewell appearance with the Damrosch Orchestra, in December, she was presented with a handsome gift from Harry Flagler, president of the Symphony Society, and also an embossed scroll from the musicians of the orchestra, making her an honorary member for life of the organization, an honor conferred only on one previous occasion in the history of the orchestra.

Williard MacGregor, pianist, now of Indianapolis, but whose home still is St. Louis, will give a piano recital at Sheldon Auditorium on Friday evening, March 25. MacGregor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. MacGregor and had his training while in St. Louis under Leo C. Miller and Charles Galloway. He was a member of the master class conducted by Rudolph Ganz in Chicago and won a scholarship there. Later he went abroad, studying under Isidor Philipp and Nadia Boulanger.

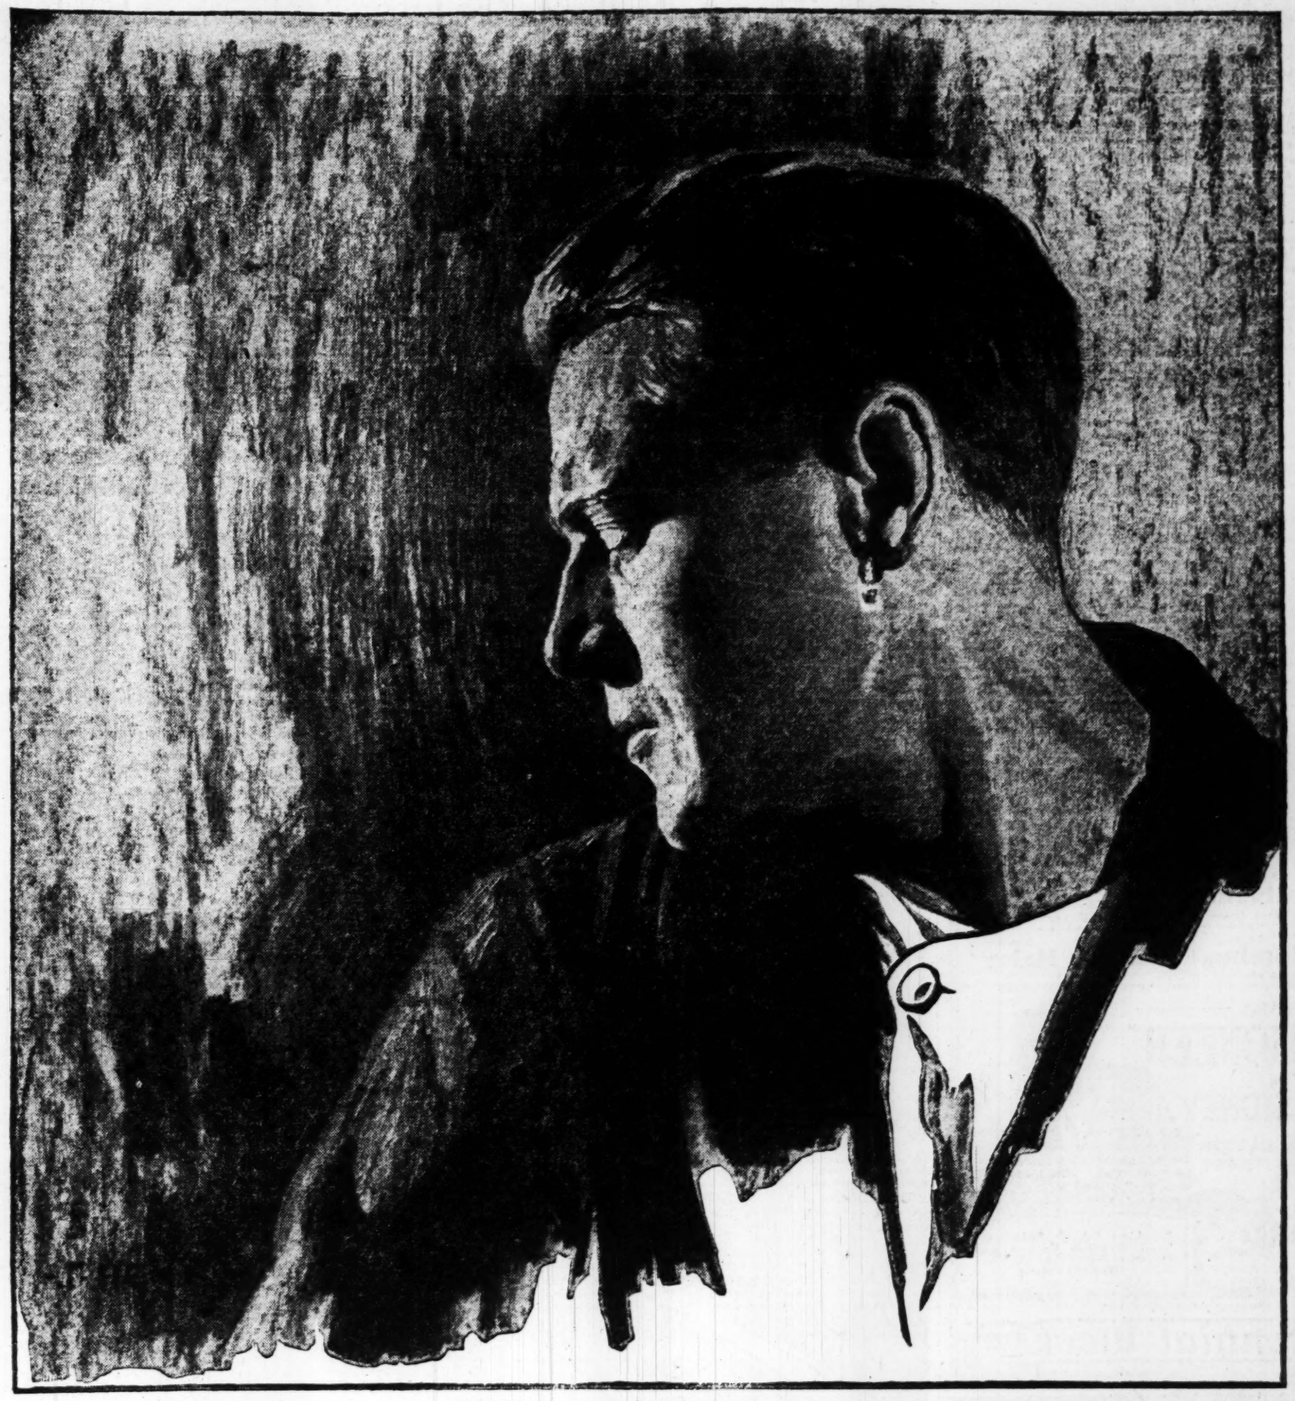
AT THE FIRST WHITE WARNING



CONTROL DANDRUFF!

DON'T dally with loose dandruff (epithelial debris) for one moment.

Always unsightly, it is often the danger signal of very serious scalp trouble—possible loss of hair, or worse, humiliating baldness.

Go after loose dandruff in earnest at the first white warning.

The systematic use of Listerine will usually do the trick. Nothing complicated about it, either.

You simply douse it on the scalp full strength and massage thoroly. Use plenty of it. And do it systematically. You will be simply delighted with the results in a very short time.

Aside from its ability to check dandruff, Listerine has an exhilarating effect that makes your scalp feel clean, soothed and healthy. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo.

A Postscript for Ladies

Few preparations equal Listerine as a means of keeping hair well groomed. It seems to have a natural faculty for keeping the hair in a glossy wave and renewing its life after a "permanent."

IMPORTANT NEWS
The price of Listerine Tooth Paste for a large tube is 25¢. This price coupled with the effectiveness of the paste itself is a combination you'll like.

LISTERINE

and dandruff simply do not get along together

BEHIND THE SCREENS

ceived her early education in Odessa, Moscow, Kiev and St. Petersburg. At the age of 15 she was withdrawn from school, the Bolsheviki uprising having brought about conditions which made impossible any further study in public institutions. At this time her father, who had been a journalist, took his family and traveled to various cities in Russia. Going to Vienna over the Polish frontier, Miss Veronina did her first motion picture work with the Sascha Company, then actively engaged in production in the Austrian capital.

With the departure of Bebe Daniels and Clarence Badger for Del Monte, "Senorita," Miss Daniels' newest picture officially went into production. "Senorita" is a comedy-drama of an American girl who impulsively dons the garb of a Spanish caballero and in that guise visits her grandfather in South America.

"Stark Love," Paramount's photodrama of the natural life of America's hidden race, the mountaineers of North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, is having its Broadway premiere. It is declared by critics to rank with Robert Flaherty's "Nanook of the North," and "Moana," and with "Grass." The picture, which has a dramatic story revealing the uncivilized life and customs of the most primitive people in America, was produced by Karl Brown, one of the foremost cameramen of motion pictures. Brown, a native of Kentucky, conceived the idea of making the mountaineer film and aroused the enthusiasm of Jesse Lasky, who agreed to finance the filming. None of the cast ever had seen a motion picture except Helen Mundy, the heroine.

Clara Bow, selected by virtually the unanimous vote of the Los Angeles motion picture critics, as the winner of the Wampas achievement trophy as the baby star of the class of 1924, who had made the most signal progress in her screen career, received a big cup in her Beverly Hills home from the hands of Alberta Vaughn, another 1924 starlet, instead of before the multitude who attend the annual Wampas frolic and ball. Miss Bow was unable to attend the ball, being confined to her home recuperating from a cold which necessitated temporary suspension of the production of her current starring vehicle, "Rough House Rosie."

Pola Negri is planning to take a flying vacation trip to Europe immediately following the completion of "The Woman on Trial." The star expects to leave Hollywood the first week in April and sail on the Leviathan from New York. She will spend virtually all her time abroad in France. She will start back to America in time to reach Hollywood by May 15, when she is slated to begin work on the screen version of "Rachel," one of the great tragediennes of history. Camera work on "The Woman on Trial" is scheduled to begin within a few days with Mauritz Stiller, who made "Hotel Imperial," as the director.

James Cruze has been assigned to direct "Beau Sabreur," Christopher Wren's sequel to "Beau Geste." Production will soon get under way.

Inspired by a passage from Samuel Butler's novel, "The Way of All Flesh," which is declared to be peculiarly applicable to the screen story, it has been decided to change the title of Emil Janning's first American-made picture from "The Man Who Forgot God" to "The Way of All Flesh."

Gayne Whitman, who plays a featured role in "Too Many Crooks," the photoplay which brings Mildred Davis back to the screen, appeared in more than 600 legitimate stage plays before starting his career in pictures.

Jack Dougherty has been selected to play the role of the 'heavy' in "Arizona Bound," the initial vehicle of Gary Cooper, Paramount's new Western star, who is scheduled to commence production within the next few days.

Wallace Beery, who has just completed "The Big Sneeze," a picture based on the stage play, "Looie the Fourteenth," is in New York on a vacation.

"The Princess From Hoboken" has been completed, and is now being cut and titled. It is a farce comedy, and has in the principal roles Edmund Burns, Blanche Mehaffey, Ethel Clayton, Lou Tellegen, Babe London and Charles McHugh.

"The Broken Gate," by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon," has been completed, and is scheduled for release March 15. In the cast are Dorothy Phillips, William Collier Jr., Florence Turner, Gibson Gowland, Phillips Smalley and Charles A. Post.

In pursuit of plays, Marshall Neilan set out for New York last Monday. The director plans on making a flying trip to Manhattan, coming home within the course of two weeks, with enough screen material to turn out four Neilan productions during the course of the next 12 months. The producer-director's new contract with United Artists calls for him to turn out a quartet of feature pictures this coming year. Immediately Neilan returns from New York he will plunge into the first production at his own studios in Edendale.

Louise Fazenda and J. Farrell Macdonald are working together in a picture for the first time in 14 years. It is "Cradle Snatchers," being made at Fox Films studios under the direction of Howard Hawks and Macdonald is playing Miss Fazenda's husband. The fact calls for reminiscences, because it was Macdonald who gave Miss Fazenda her first part in pictures. He was a director at Universal and Louise was just out of high school. The part was very dramatic. Louise played a starving mother with a baby. She was so good in the part that Macdonald raved when she went into custard pie comedies shortly afterward. "I still insist," says Macdonald, "that Louise is a fine dramatic actress."

"Missouri Pacific Day" Tomorrow.

"Missouri Pacific Day" will be celebrated at the luncheon meeting of the Traffic Club at noon tomorrow at the Chamber of Commerce. Tomorrow is ladies' day and arrangements have been made to seat 650 persons.

Don't Squeeze Blackheads —Dissolve Them

Squeezing out blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sane way to get rid of these blemishes is to dissolve them. Get two ounces of Calonite powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and every one, big or little, will disappear at once.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

A Knowledge Test

A NEW form of entertainment, and entirely instructive, which bids fair to exceed in popularity the cross-word puzzle, is now appearing daily in the six-page Post-Dispatch Magazine. It is to test one's memory as to facts. Below is a sample series of ten questions. Look them over and see how many you can answer. The correct replies will be found printed on page six of this section. In tomorrow's Post-Dispatch, and the days to follow, similar series of ten questions will be printed.

1—What was the name of Caesar's wife?

2—Who was in command of the English warships at the Battle of Jutland?

3—What is the difference between an atom and a molecule?

4—What is a viola?

5—Who wrote "Lady Windemere's Fan?"

6—What three Governors preceded Gov. Baker of Missouri?

7—Who wrote the opera La Boheme?

8—What American battle was fought long after a treaty of peace had been signed?

9—What state in the Union is a perfect rectangle?

10—How many times larger is a farm, three miles square, than a farm of one square mile?

W. U. Players Will Give "The Youngest"

The Little Theater of Washington University will present on May 5 and 6 at the Artists' Guild, Philip Barry's three-act comedy of modern American home life, "The Youngest." This play will mark the third of the organization's productions, and will be coached by Harry R. McClain and Miss Marion Epstein.

The cast includes Carol Crouse, Maxine Goldman, Dorothy Brandenburger, Genevieve Harnett, Ruth Moore, William Hener, Jerry Gruner Jr., Paul Chamberlain and Wallace Jones.

Historic Pebbles for Harding Shaft.

By the Associated Press.

METLAKATLA, Alaska, March 5.—Four pebbles from the estate of George Washington at Mount Vernon will form part of a memorial in this Indian town in honor of the late President Harding. The memorial will mark the spot on which the President stood in making the first address of his Alaskan tour. Roderick F. Davis, Tsimpsian Indian, who as Mayor of Metlakatla, welcomed the President, obtained the pebbbles when on a visit to Washington.

WOMAN SECRETARY IS "EYES" OF BLIND JUDGE IN CINCINNATI

Sightless Jurist Confounds Lawyers by Describing Settings He Cannot See.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., March 5.—A woman secretary sits in court and describes to the sightless Judge Samuel W. Bell, presiding jurist of Cincinnati's Five Municipal Courts, the actions and characteristics of prisoners.

A woman's intuitive and observative powers serve him as well, Judge Bell says, as a pair of eyes. He lost his sight years ago, celebrating a Republican victory with a cannon, but his memory is so keen that he has confounded lawyers in his court by describing settings over which they bickered or reciting passages of law.

He has been instrused with leadership of relief work among the blind in Cincinnati, and a home for blind workmen here was founded largely through his efforts and bears his name.

A PIMPLY SKIN NEEDS SULPHUR

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out.

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arm or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur.

FRENCH BLACKSMITH MADE MEMBER OF LEGION OF HONOR

France Pays Tribut eto Aged Artisan for Work in Era of Machinery.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 5.—Because he stands for the ancient tradition of the clanging forge and possesses in an age of machinery the skill of an old artisan, France has pinned the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor on the breast of a working blacksmith.

In 1924, Jean-Marie Bigot, 65 years old, was declared the best workman in his trade, for a finely chased iron church door. The ring of the forge is heard night and day from the basement smithy in his home close to Paris. During the day he executes orders for skilled iron work. At night he hammers away at whatever pleases him.

The war took from him the four sons who might have carried on his work.

WILHELM'S ENVOY REBUKED

German Republic Objects to Reference to "Emperor and King."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 5.—Leopold von Kleist, the new general legal representative for the Hohenzollern family, has had to learn that he cannot put the Kaiser-and-King stuff over on the officials of the Republic. As soon as he assumed office, he had a letterhead printed with the caption, "Representative of the Prussian Royal House." In his first letter to the present Prussian authorities, written on this stationery, he introduced himself as representative of His Majesty, the Emperor and King. By return mail he received a letter reminding him that there had been a revolution in Germany, and that there was neither a Prussian royal house nor an Emperor and King. Herr von Kleist was quick to see the point, and the reminder sufficed for him to speak in later communications of the former royal house and the former Emperor and King.

GERMANS BAR WORD 'SUICIDE'

Substitution of Term Meaning "Free Death" Grows in Favor.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 5.—There is a growing objection in Germany to the word "selbstmord" (self-murder, suicide). The word "freitod" (free or voluntary death) has been suggested in its place and is rapidly supplanting "selbstmord." The Socialist Vorwaerts was the first paper to come out publicly for the change. As its viewpoint is essentially agnostic, it does not recognize the taking of one's own life as murder, but holds that suicide is voluntarily parting from life. This organ of the left is by no means alone in its contention.

Papers of the right, with a religious background, are also beginning to use the word. Thus the Deutsche Tages Zeitung, organ of the Protestant junkers and agrarians, recently published an article entitled, "Der Freitod der Japaner," in which the Japanese practice of committing "harakiri" is described as a custom which savors much of the heroic.

G. E. MARCHAND TO SPEAK AT MOOLAH TEMPLE

University Society Head Will Discuss "Turning Your Ability Into Cash."

G. E. Marchand, president of the National University Society, with headquarters in New York City, will speak at Moolah Temple at 7:30 Tuesday evening on the subject of "Turning Your Ability Into Cash." He comes to St. Louis under the auspices of the local alumni group of the society.

In connection with his talk Marchand will demonstrate a new method of presenting educational subjects through appeal to eye rather than the ear. He advocates the use of charts, motion pictures, living models rather than mere lecture courses and believes that students grasp subjects thus presented more easily and retain them longer.

Cross, Feverish Child is Bilious or Constipated

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated or stomach sour

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, bowels

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.
When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.
Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, sold by "California Fig Syrup Company."

ACTIVITIES OF BOY AND GIRL SCOUTS

SCOUT INSPECTIONS TO BEGIN TOMORROW

More Than 400 Troops in City and County Will Be Visited.

An official inspection of all Boy Scout troops in St. Louis and the county, as one of the major events of the first quarter of the 1927 achievement contest, will start tomorrow evening, and continue for two weeks. Each of the more than 300 troops under the St. Louis Council will be visited by a regularly-appointed inspector, who will check the results of the troops in their work toward their self-assigned quotas.

Each troop has pledged itself that by the inspection date a certain percent of its membership, including all commissioned officers, would be in full uniform, with all insignia properly placed. Troops who fail to reach this quota by the inspection date will be disqualified for the first quarter award, to be presented at the Scout Circus this month. The quota, however, may be made up later, and the troop given an opportunity to win the yearly award, which will be presented at the circus next year.

District executives are mailing notices to Scoutmaster this week informing them of the dates their troop will be inspected. The inspectors also will check the status of the active noncommissioned officers of the troops.

The official uniform for scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters follows:

The official uniform for scouts is: Regulation scout breeches, stockings, shirt (color of district) neckerchief. The scouts should wear the following insignia: Troop numerals on left arm, service stars above left pocket of shirt, patrol emblem on right arm, badge of rank on left sleeve just above wristband, and patrol leaders bars, if entitled to them, on left arm just below shoulder. Scouts are to wear any other insignia denoting efficiency of honor they have earned.

SOUTH DISTRICT.

The date of next south district court of honor will be announced next Sunday. Scouts who have won merit badges but have not received them will be given a final chance at this meeting to appear before the court and receive them. Every troop that has scouts appearing before the court of honor for merit badges is requested to have its troop flag present with a color bearer other than a scout receiving rewards. As the troop flag number will be called it is necessary that the flag be present. A program has been arranged and all scouts in the south district are invited to attend as a troop, with parents, or individually. Applications for merit badges should be turned in this week as this will be the last court of honor meeting in the district until May.

Scout Pat Schanzle was presented with a year's subscription to Boys' Life for winning a contest in tests passed, conducted by Troop 62 for two months. Schanzle completed all his first-class work to win this award.

Six new scouts were invested into Troop 42 last Thursday. The troop officers planned a hike to Big River this week end to locate a camping site for the troop to use next summer. Scout Kalina was appointed troop scribe, and he will attend the training school for scribes on Thursday nights at the Roosevelt High School. The Troop Committee also is planning to attend the troop committeemen's training course at the same place.

The troop is at work on its circus assignment. Members will attend the next district court of honor in a body.

The monthly report shows 10 new Scouts, and nine promotions during February. A meeting of the fathers of the boys was held Friday evening, and it is likely that a Fathers' Club will be organized soon.

Troop 245 last Sunday hiked to a point about 15 miles south of St. Charles, 25 Scouts and nine fathers being present. Twenty-five tests were passed. The features of the day were a game of Capture the Flag and signaling between two high hills. When passing through St. Charles early Sunday morning, the troop helped the local fire department extinguish a roof fire. The troop met Friday night. Several of the boys spent the evening outdoors practicing signaling with flash-lights, while part of the troop remained at the meeting place and took part in a signaling game worked out by the Assistant Scoutmaster.

Troop 100 is planning a party for the parents of the troop, March 16. The boys expect to put on a model meeting and a number of demonstrations. Scoutmaster H. R. Turner has taken this troop over permanently. The boys have been practicing for their knot-tying event in the Circus.

About 15 fathers of Scouts in Troop 143 were present at the last meeting and organized a Father's Club to assist in the activities of the troop. Mr. Laemmli, of Headquarters, addressed the fathers on organization. Twenty Scouts were present. The troop has presented former Scoutmaster Karcher with a ring.

Troop 198, of St. John Episcopal Church, is conducting a 100 per cent Scout contest. The boy who proves himself to be the best all-around Scout during the week is given the honor of wearing a gold medal. Lee Mockler was the winner of the contest last week.

West District.

The patrol leaders and assistant patrol leaders of Troop 59 will attend the Patrol Leaders' School at Ben Blewett Junior High School tomorrow night. Several members of the troop's drum and bugle corps attended the rehearsal for the consolidated drum and bugle corps at the circus, held at Sherman Park Community Center yesterday morning. For the benefit of scouts of Troop 59 who cannot attend these rehearsals, special rehearsals of the beats that are to be played will be held after scout meeting.

Fourteen boys from Troop 13 attended a special scout service at St. John's M. E. Church, South, and heard the sermon by the Rev. Mr. Holt, Feb. 20. On Washington's birthday, 19 scouts from the troop attended the scout parade gathering at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. The third scout law, "a scout is helpful," was explained by Scout Louis Romansky at a meeting of Troop 30 at the new Y. M. H. A., Tuesday evening. Harry Laba's Wolf Patrol won a series of interpatrol contests, including the signaling of 10 names of trees, drawing a compass, naming three constellations, drawing a map with seven trail signs on it, and making a life-line. A test on the significance of the scout badge was part of the program. A drum and bugle corps will be organized soon. The troop will build a tower at the Scout Circus.

Troop 17 of the First United Presbyterian Church, University City, is growing steadily, boys being received into the troop on transfers and as recruits. A drum and bugle corps is being organized, and troop and patrol projects are planned.

Troop 26 of Delmar Baptist Church has a standard Troop Committee, the members of which are: E. R. McCarthy, S. Hall, Earl Ellis, F. L. Lawrence and William Kaut.

About 200 parents and relatives of scouts gathered at St. Rose's School Hall Monday night for a special "parents' night" meeting held by Troop 44. After the opening flag ceremony, the scoutmaster conducted the formal tenderfoot investiture of Scouts Cento, Cleary, Burnes, Bardgett, Mattis, Esphorst, Rayn, Streb and Sweeney. A demonstration of knot-tying, first aid, primitive fire-building and signaling was given.

Scouts Kearney, Emmett, Burnes, Kurz and Lehmkuhl were invested with second-class badges by Troop Committeeman Thomas Kinsella, and Scouts Brownstone, Novelly, Fuchs, Emmett and Else with first-class badges by the Rev. Charles O'Donnell of the Troop Committee. Senior Patrol Leader Celestine Wehmeyer, who completed the last training course of St. Louis Council, was commissioned assistant scoutmaster.

Talks were made by West District Field Executive Reaves and Deputy Commissioner Lindsley. After patrol stunts and "taps," ice cream and cake were served. Those who wished remained for an informal "good time," music being provided by the Young Ladies' Sodality of the Church.

SUBURBAN DISTRICT.

Three new boys registered with Pacific 1, last week, and Walter Ferrell and Clyde Denton advanced to the rank of second class. The troop will participate in the Fire Building event at the Circuit. The boys will come in from Pacific on the train and spend the night at the Railroad Y. M. C. A.

Denmark Donnelly, newly appointed chairman of Webster Groves 7 Troop Committee, attended the meeting last week with Scoutmaster Murray L. Ligon.

At the last meeting Webster Groves 8 spent some time making plans for its part in the Circus. The Scouts will participate in the knot-tying event, so in order to polish up on this feature they played some knot-tying games, the one that proved the most interesting being an inter-patrol knot-baseball game. The Buffalo Patrol is in the lead in an inter-patrol contest, hotly pursued by the Pine Tree Patrol. The Pine Three Patrol will take an overnight hike to Camp Thornton Saturday.

Committeeman Seidell, of Webster Groves 9, took charge of the meeting Friday. During the meeting a fire broke out across the street and the Scouts rushed over to help, but the blaze was small, and was quickly extinguished. The troop then resumed its meeting, and Seidell spoke on the "Origin of the First Writing."

The Scouts of Maryland Heights 1 assembled at the home of Scout Robert Scheffing last Sunday and practiced the fire by friction event for the Circus. On the hike they were forced to build a bridge of logs to cross a small creek. Six girls passed the fire-building test and nine the compass test.

The girls of Troop 20 were shown through a fire-engine house last week by Assistant Fire Chief Koeln, who explained the various apparatus and their uses. He also told of the usual causes of fires and what precautions the girls could take to prevent them. He ended by demonstrating how to turn in an alarm from a fire box.

The girls of Troop 44 took part in a masquerade and entertainment given for the pupils of the Bates School last Saturday by the School Mothers and Fathers' Club. The troop presented a sketch, "The Toy Shop." Three new members joined at a meeting Monday. A hike to the troop cabin is planned for March 19.

The Bluebell patrol won a Morse signalling contest Monday by Coenia Troop 56, and the Eagle patrol won three games, "Spots," "Lemonade" "and Telegraph." Dorothy Wessels and the captain have passed their Health-winner badge test.

The girls of Senior Troop 1 studied the characteristics of six common birds for the second class bird-study test Tuesday. The birds studied were the crow, red-headed woodpecker, cardinal, bluejay, brown thrasher and robin.

GIRL SCOUTS TO TAKE TESTS IN LIFE-SAVING

Red Cross Worker to Conduct Examination at Town Club Wednesday.

Girl Scouts of St. Louis will have use of the swimming pool at the Town Club for an hour between 4 and 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, for instruction in life saving by Commander Longfellow, associate director of the National Red Cross staff, who will be in St. Louis this week. The instruction will consist of various carries, breaks and methods of approaching a drowning person, and resuscitation after the victim has been brought ashore.

The standard Red Cross life-saving examination will be given, as will another, to pass qualified examiners. Girls successfully passing the test will be eligible for the Girl Scout Life-Saving Badge, as well as the Red Cross insignia. Life saving is stressed in Girl Scout work.

The Girl Scout Patrol Leaders' Association met Wednesday and decided that every troop should have an official reporter, whose business it will be to see that all new activities are published on their page. A meeting will be held next week for scribes, or a representative, if the troop has no scribe, to discuss plans. Miss Piper showed the girls how to make an improvised stretcher, called a Spanish bowline. It enables two or three girls to carry a load that would be too heavy for one. St. Patrick's day games and songs completed the program.

Three girls have been chosen from the patrol leaders to manage the printing of a small book of Girl Scout songs. Cecile Field, Troop 22, is chairman of the Song Committee; Linda Pellarin, Troop 21, is on the Make-Up Committee to arrange the cover, and Melva Russler is chairman for distribution.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought in any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Keeping the System So Clean There Are No Body Odors

A lot of people who never have to take a laxative eat a candy cascaret now and then. Do you know why?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction. To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every druggist has for 10c and 25c.

"IT'S GLORIOUS to have no more dread of faulty elimination. And to know there can be no offense to perspiration, and no need to check it. I would never be without the candy laxative—

ALBANIAN METROPOLIS IS CITY OF POVERTY

Primitive and Picturesque Scutari, With 60,000 Population, Has One Drug Store.

(This is another of an interesting series of articles dealing with Albania's people and their problems.)

By JOHN GUNTHER,
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.

(Copyright, 1927.)

SCUTARIA, Albania, March 5.—After a few weeks in Tirana I went to Scutaria for a few days. It is the largest city in Albania, thrice the size of the little Moslem capital. From Tirana to Scutari is only 100 miles. Yet that 100 miles spans two civilizations. Scutari is as different from Tirana as New Orleans is from Duluth.

And the line of demarcation is marked—of all things topsy-turvy in the world—by the pig.

Tirana is quite exclusively Moslem, as is all Central Albania, and the pig is unknown. It was as hard to find a pork chop in Tirana as to find running water. Neither exists. Scutari, capital of the North, is largely Roman Catholic, and the pig is not barred. We knew we had crossed the border when we saw the first pigs on the road, two hours from Scutari. Nearer Scutari pigs flooded the road and countryside and our automobile actually ran over one.

It was a good ride. We slipped away from Tirana, past the minarets and files of cypress, and from the Durazzo road could look back to the little capital in its bowl of gray-green hills. We passed Croia, where Scanderberg's castle squats on the hill; then the forest of Mabaresh, where the trees are cut to about three feet of the ground, so that the roots will sprout branches for the flocks; then to Meloti and over the Mati River.

Strip of Barren Land.

The Mati was high and crossing it was an adventure. We took on a pilot. That is, a barefooted guide preceded us; at snail's pace, the car followed him through the water, twisting, turning, circling to hold to the ford; the current is deep and the holes are dangerous. The car was in water to the axles.

I have never seen such desolate country. The hills stretched ahead, bare and gray, a series of ragged, barren promontories. We drove for four hours and did not encounter four persons. The goats clambered along the road, smelling out weeds and not finding many. Mostly they have to be fed from branches clipped from the trees, for from the shoots growing from the exposed roots. There is no grass, no cultivation, no color.

Along the road we saw great mawny mounds built around trees; they looked like gigantic beehives. The chauffeur explained that the corn—what little there is in summer—is stacked that way, set around a tree. The tree stumps make good pediments. It is brought down from the fertile passes and stored during the winter out of doors. Naturally Albania has no silos of farm storehouses.

"Can the people make a living here?"

"No, sir," he replied, and explained that this district of Albania is almost depopulated now; the extreme poverty of the country cannot assimilate a new inhabitant.

Even a Drug Store.

Scutari is a different story. It has lots of inhabitants: pigs, bullocks, oxen, buffalo, bedbugs, goats and about 60,000 people. It is a

Even a Drug Store.

Scutari is a different story. It has lots of inhabitants: pigs, bullocks, oxen, buffalo, bedbugs, goats and about 60,000 people. It is a real city—for Albania—and after Tirana it was a shock. Sidewalks! An actual main street! A bank! Even—miracle—a drug store! But there is another side to the picture. Scutari is bigger, but it is very nearly as remote as Tirana. There is only one English-speaking family in Scutari.

It is a city with a very definite atmosphere; rather a bustling city, after Tirana. The streets are thronged—mountain men in white trousers, peasants in purple and green plush trousers, Shala women in their wide black bell-like skirts—all plodding to market, goatskin slippers on their feet, strapped to the ankle with embroidered, brightly colored cords; wearing huge shaggy sheepskin coats, the long white hair outside; every man with a rifle, and often long silver-handled pistol, in his red sash.

The Roman Catholic women, too, are picturesque. They wear such a ritualistic costume that at first I thought they must be priestesses. But it is the ordinary costume of the women. It consists of a brilliantly, savagely scarlet coat, encrusted with embroidery in gold; the coat has voluminous sleeves, and meets trousers of darker red; a cowl is worn, also of scarlet and gold. The Moslem women wear shawls of cheap cotton stuff, invariably striped in dark crimson and white. They are of course veiled, the veils usually black.

Scutari has a charm—white-walled streets and the gurgle of water in a gutter; gypsy music from a curtained, shrouded cafe and a crescent moon kissing a minaret; a snarl of races and a poverty so crushing as to be incredible.

How It Is Possible for a Moderate Priced Appliance to Contain Actu RADIUM

While Radium is the rarest and highest-priced substance in the world, it is also the most powerful, consequently a little goes a long way. It is difficult to form a conception of the vast amount of energy stored in even the most minute quantity of Radium.

A one-hundreth-millionth milligram will throw out one hundred thousand combined rays in twenty-four hours at a velocity of 12,000 to 180,000 miles per second. Radium will give out light, heat and other forms of energy for an estimated period of 2500 years before total disintegration takes place.

The Los Angeles Times, March 2, 1922, in a special article, stated: "From a bit of Radium no larger than the head of a pin, millions of electrons are being erupted continually and these eruptions will continue so long as the radium lasts. From each atom, however, only eighty-eight positive and eighty-eight negative electrons are thrown out, as according to Moseley's law, the Radium atom contains only one hundred and seventy-six electrons of both kinds. The great flight of electrons comes from innumerable atoms one after another exploding their particles into space."

Radium is usually produced from Carnotite ore by a very expensive process. From hundred to four hundred tons of ore have treated to produce one gram of radium. can be understood when it is remembered Radium is a disintegration product of U there being only one part of Radium t 000 parts of the Uranium in any ore.

The laboratory of the Radium Applia pany has succeeded in working out a process whereby Carnotite ore of the grade in Radium content is stimulat fortified by the addition of actual Radium eral cents of this very expensive mat then applied on the surface of a light able pad, 4½x11 inches in size.

These pads are thoroughly tested as to activity before being sold, and with the same Radio-active mixture be no variation in the Radio-activity they emanate continuously through a years.

This process, combined with the conceivable power of an atom of plains why these pads can be and sold at a price within the tically everyone.

Will RADIUM at Last Open the Door of the Great Unknown?

ARTHUR BRISBANE says: "Radium is the one hope of unhappy thousands. Radium is destined to open many closed doors to science."

MADAM CURIE, the discoverer of Radium, says: "The most important property of the rays is the production of physiological effects on the cells of the human organism."

DR. HENRI LETILLION, of the Institute of France, says: "The body of man can be transformed by Radium into a machine of perfect health, vitality and beauty."

PROF. LAZARUS BARLOW of London says: "I was never more confident that Radium is one of the greatest agencies in the treatment of disease ever discovered."

DR. E. STILLMAN BAILEY says: "The rays seem to work miracles. One of the principal causes of old age is hardening of the arteries, due to increased blood pressure. The radium prevents this. Acute pains disappear as if by magic. Jaded appetites become alive again. Red blood corpuscles have increased by 250,000 within 48 hours."

DR. C. EVERETT FIELD of New York says: "That is what the radio-active treatment will do—stimulate the chemical composition of the body, eliminate the danger of the accumulation of poisons and carry us on in health and vigor over many more years than are now considered the normal span of life."

The discovery of radio-activity has to an extent revolutionized the theory and practice of modern medicine, for it has shown the existence of an entirely new and very efficient element, or source from which healing power may be obtained, and which has proven itself a powerful accessory in the treatment of various diseases. Numerous ailments and have been treated successfully with emanations."

The great healing power of this substance is due to the fact that it is termed "Radio-Active," that is, it emits taneously rays or waves of energy at a rate from 12,000 to 180,000 miles These rays have the power to penetrate substances and they EXERT A REMARK STIMULATING INFLUENCE UPON THE CULATION OF THE BLOOD.

The chief effect of the radiations from um and its disintegration products is to duce an ionization of the atoms of substance the rays penetrate. Chemi follow as secondary result of the ionization.

Prof. Carl Von Noorden and Prof. believe that in contradistinction to forms of electro-therapy, we possess active substances means of carrying energy into the depths of the body, subjecting the juices, protoplasm and the cells to an immediate bombardment plosion of electrical atoms. We may designate this internal treatment with Active substances as "internal electro Radium has a distinct physiological on the human system. Thousands Have Proven the Marvelous Effects of Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad Without Risking a Penny

Tens of thousands of people have tried out these Pads, with the privilege of returning them if not satisfied. Read what people are saying—these extracts are from just a few of the many thousands of letters we are receiving all the time:

RHEUMATISM

Whitmans, W. Va.

"Some time ago I ordered a Radio-Active Solar Pad for my right side. I had been suffering from Rheumatism and could not work. About two weeks after I began wearing the pad I began to feel better and can now say I am a healthy man. I am working every day and do not have any pain."

San Jose, Cal.

"Your pad is all O. K.; it has removed all pain and I think my rheumatism has left. I don't feel any more pain nor any stiffness in joints. I would not give it up for anything. I am sure you have a good thing."

INDIGESTION

Philadelphia, Pa.

"I tell you I was near death's door. I did not know what it was to go to bed and sleep, and in the day time I would almost walk like a drunken person for the want of sleep. Now I get a good night's sleep again and am not bothered with indigestion."

New Orleans, La.

"Just a few lines to tell you what a wonder your pad is. I have had less pain in these three months than I had in three years before. I was almost dead when I first sent for the pad. I could not eat anything without it almost cramping me to death, and now I don't have that heavy feeling after eating."

STOMACH TROUBLE

Chicago, Ill.

"After suffering from stomach trouble for 11 years I wore your Pad for a week. I have gained my health back. I am never tired any more like I used to be and I am full of pep. Never in my life did I feel as good as I am now feeling."

SIX AILMENTS GONE

San Francisco, Calif.

"Upon recommendation of a physician, I purchased one of your Radio Active Solar Pads, with the following results:

"For seven years past I have been afflicted with chronic lumbago, frequent attacks of pleurisy, neuritis, neurasthenia, rheumatism in the left knee and indigestion which caused ulcers in the mouth.

"Thirty days after applying pad, I have scarcely any symptoms of any of the foregoing disorders and most of them have been entirely eradicated. I will add that I am over 70 years of age and that I feel as young as I did at 40."

ASTHMA

Rock Island, Ill.

"He has had asthma since he was a young man and he is now past 75 years old. He bought one of your Pads. He began to get better right along—has no more cough and sleeps right along."

Aurora, Ill.

"I am very much pleased with the Radio-Active Solar Pad and I do not think of returning it. I feel different in every way. My asthma and my nerves are improving more by using the Radio-Active Solar Pad than under any other treatment I had ever tried."

BLOOD PRESSURE

Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I have been wearing your Radio-Active Solar Pad for 45 days. It has done me a world of good. I have bought it for high blood pressure. Two years ago I contracted influenza and pneumonia. I have been under the care of four doctors for treatments for high blood pressure and heart trouble. I am a woman 44 years old and had a blood pressure of 245. My blood pressure could be brought down to very near normal, but would not stay down. The reason it would not stay down was because it was brought down too fast. Then I got the Pad, knowing that the wearing of this pad continuously would bring it down slow but sure, which it is doing. Since childhood I have been troubled with constipation. Since using the Pad it has been overcome. This is only one of the many things it has done for me. It has decreased a thumping of my heart at night which greatly troubled me. It has overcome my poor circulation.

CONSTIPATION

Madison, Wis.

"I am feeling a whole lot better and have more ambition and my bowels move more natural every day now, that is something they have not done for several years."

NEURITIS

Athens, Ga., June 10, 1925.

"I suffered from neuritis of the spine, shoulders, hips, chest and arms for 20 years, and I spent a fortune trying to get relief. At the end of 20 years I was worse. I ordered one of your Radio-Active Solar Pads; after wearing it for five days I had no pain to amount to anything. I have been wearing it night and day since January 13, 1925, and I never felt better in my life."

PARALYSIS

San Francisco.

"When I received the Pad I had been paralyzed all on one side of my face—couldn't close my eyes. When I would laugh only one side of my face would laugh and I looked terrible. I would cry every time I looked in the mirror, for I thought I would look that way forever. I took electric treatments every day, but they seemed to do me no good. I saw your ad in the paper and thought I would try it. I had been that way for five weeks. In two weeks my face began to move. Now when I laugh, I can laugh on both sides. And I love to laugh, and when I couldn't laugh it was a terrible feeling. I can't express how thankful I am, and I am still getting better every day. Thank you over and over for what you have done for me."

SCIATICA

Lexington, Neb.

"After wearing your Pad 30 days I will say that it is all you claim. I had been in bed two weeks with sciatica. Began to feel better the third day and in three days more I went to work."

KIDNEY AND BLADDER

"I certainly would not part with this pad for any amount of money if I could not get another. For 10 or 12 years my back ached me so bad I could hardly move, and I took all kinds of bladder and kidney medicines and did everything I could hear of, but got no relief. I continually had bad headaches all the time and spent lots of money, but never got any better. It's now a year, I believe, or about a year, that I sent for the Radio-Active Pad. The best money I ever spent. I am now about all right, never have headaches, backaches any more. I am working every day and feel just fine. Sleep now, where before I could never sleep or rest. Eat anything. I am 63 years old in June and never felt better in my life. I do not look careworn like I did before I got the Pad. If the people that are ailing only knew what these Pads will do for them there would be no hesitating. They are worth a hundred times their price. You really don't know how wonderfully thankful I am that I noticed your ad in the paper."

It is conceded by recognized medical authorities that sluggishness or poor circulation is the cause of nearly all human ailments, and that where there is a perfect circulation disease in any form cannot long exist.

When you stop to consider that the one underlying cause of nearly every known malady is CONGESTION—the one remedy CIRCULATION—all Claims made for the Radio-Active Solar Pad are not only reasonable, but in strict accord with modern medical science.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For only 75 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

GUARD CROWN JEWELS IN TOWER OF LONDON

Authorities Take Extra Precautions Since Daring Robberies Have Occured.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 5.—The crown jewels of England, valued at tens of millions of dollars, have been placed under stricter guard, since visiting American gunmen were credited with participating in a series of gigantic jewel robberies recently.

The jewels, spread out in glittering array, are seen by thousands of American tourists every year in the Tower of London. They simply pay their sixpence, walk by two guards attired like the familiar portraits of Henry VIII, and staid and gush over the jewels as long as they like. Then they rush out to send picture postcards back to Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Apparently they are under very little supervision and many are heard to remark how easy it would be to break the glass and help one's self to a couple of million dollar crowns or a sceptre or two. But the last serious attempt to raid the crowd jewels, was made by Col. Blood in 1671 and he never recovered.

Burglar-Proof Jewel Room.

The jewel room in the Tower of London is as nearly burglar proof as human ingenuity can devise. The octagonal glass jewel case in which the jewels are stored is protected by slender steel bars five inches apart and looks commonplace enough. It stands in the center of the jewel room and is about 10 feet high. The jewels are arranged artistically on white satin tiers.

Any attempt, however, to tamper with the case would set alarm bells ringing all over the Tower, while the outer gates of the fortress, started by William the Conqueror, would automatically clang shut. At the same instant the occupants of the jewel room would find themselves imprisoned by the mechanical closing of the doors which would convert the jewel room into a large penitentiary cell. Steel shutters, ordinarily hidden from view, would automatically descend over the glass case containing the jewels, converting it into a gigantic eight-sided safe.

Guarded by Secrecy.

Before the would-be burglar knew what was happening the chances are he would find himself at Scotland Yard.

Among other jewels, the case contains:

The Crown of England made for Charles II.

The King's State Crown made for Queen Victoria's coronation, containing a gigantic ruby given to the Black Prince and worn by Henry V. at Agincourt, a portion of the Cullinan diamond presented to Edward VII by Transvaal, the Stuart "sapphire" and 3000 smaller diamonds of only a few carats each.

The Imperial State Crown, made for King George V for the Delhi Durbar, containing a large emerald and more than 6000 diamonds.

Queen Mary's State Crown, containing the famous Koh-i-noor diamond presented to Queen Victoria by the East India Co. and the two other portions of the Cullinan diamond.

The Royal scepter which has the largest cut diamond in the world for a nob.

When His Majetsy needs any of these trinkets they are taken from the Tower of London to Buckingham Palace by an ordinary automobile without any special precautions other than secrecy.

How to Keep a Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the mother watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian Senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or straining. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to a nursing infant.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family, young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

ST. LOUIS HEADS SYSTEM OF CHEAP TRANSPORTATION

City Most Advantageously Located, Says James E. Smith of Mississippi Valley Association.

CONGRESS GRATIFIED WATERWAY BOOSTERS

Every Request Granted, He Asserts on Return From Washington—Outline of Achievements.

St. Louis was pictured as head of "the greatest system of cheap transportation in the world" by James E. Smith, head of the Mississippi Valley Association, upon his return Friday from Washington where, he said, "the advocates of the waterways got everything they went after."

Legislation for waterways included:

A $71,000,000 authorization bill, the first in 10 years, providing for a nine-foot channel between St. Louis and Cairo; a nine-foot "Lakes to the Gulf" waterway, connecting St. Louis with Chicago, and surveys for nine-foot channels connecting St. Louis with Kansas City on the Missouri and the Twin Cities on the Upper Mississippi.

$60,000,000 Appropriation.

A $60,000,000 annual rivers and harbors bill for improvements already authorized, including $10,000,000 for flood control on the Lower Mississippi.

Appropriation of the untouched $2,000,000 of the $5,000,000 authorized capital of the Inland Waterways Corporation, $1,000,000 for a reserve fund and $1,000,000 for equipment for the Upper Mississippi barge line, to connect with the lower river line at St. Louis.

Promotion of Brig.-Gen. Ashburn, executive head of the corporation, to Major-General with increase in pay to $10,000 a year.

Passage of the notorious "conference bill" considered a wedge to force Army engineers to let all river improvement on contract.

Future Success Assured.

In addition, he related, building of a railroad bridge across the Ohio River at Cincinnati with piers too close together to permit passage of barge traffic had been prevented. The War Department had been convinced by waterways advocates, he said, that building of the bridge along these plans would be to throw away the benefits of the $110,000,000 spent in improving that river and the Cumberland & Ohio Railroad had agreed thereafter to offer its plans in line with engineers' suggestions of the Engineers' Corps.

"This clean sweep virtually assures success for all our future plans," Smith declared. "It is largely due to the fact that our program has been placed before the people in such a way that very few are opposed to it. The attitude of the average member of the Senate and House toward any waterways legislation now is that he knows his constituents are in favor of it.

"Our Battle Is Won."

"Our battle is won, so far as channel work is concerned. Of course, there still is much to be done for the waterways' companies to be organized to put barge lines in those channels, and terminals to be built for cities to avail themselves of water transportation, but I feel that the particular things I've been working for over a period of 25 years have been realized.

"Of course, you know the things I've been dreaming of means more to St. Louis than any other city. St. Louis will become the head of the greatest system of cheap transportation in the world. It is right in the heart of 16,000 miles of water-connected waterways."

Chamberlain Sculptor Carves Clever Indentation.

Tabling of the notorious "pork barrel bill," considered a wedge to force Army engineers to let all river improvement on contract.

Future Success Assured.

In addition, he related, building of a railroad bridge across the Ohio River at Cincinnati with piers too close together to permit passage of barge traffic had been prevented. The War Department had been convinced by waterways advocates, he said, that building of the bridge along those plans would be to throw away the benefits of the $110,000,000 spent in improving the river, and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad had agreed, therefore, to alter its plans in line with suggestions of the Engineers' Corps.

LONDON, March 5.—Joseph Chamberlain's newly unveiled statue in the members' lobby of the House of Commons does not show Chamberlain's monocle, which is also such a distinguishing feature of his son, Austen Chamberlain, the present Minister of Foreign Affairs. But the sculptor very cleverly suggested the rimless glass, which could not be reproduced in stone.

He did it by putting in the position beneath the eye in which a single glass would rest, and seems standing immediately in front of the statue can easily imagine the monocle in place.

School Children's Teeth Defective.

Eighty to 85 per cent of school children have defective teeth, Dr. Virgil Loeb, professor of stomatology in the Washington University School of Dentistry, told the Mothers' Club in a lecture on mouth hygiene at the Baden School Friday afternoon. Care of the temporary teeth was stressed as being equally as important as the care of the permanent teeth, neglect often resulting in diseased conditions of remote parts of the body.

NOW 86 YEARS OLD AND FEELS LIKE 40

"I HAVE been using Black-Draught for about forty years—have used it so long until when I go in the drug store they usually ask me if it is Black-Draught I want, and it usually is," says Col. W. A. Roark, a retired U. S. marshal and timber land owner, in Cleveland, Texas.

"I used to have dizziness, bad taste in my mouth, and I wouldn't feel like going around.

"After a few doses of Black-Draught, I would feel well and fit for any work.

"I believe Black-Draught is the best system cleanser made. I am now 86 years old and feel like 40.

"I keep myself in shape with Black-Draught.

"If I let myself get constipated, my back aches; I get a bad, dull feeling in my head, and when I found that Black-Draught would relieve all this, I take it in time and do not suffer this trouble any more.

"I have taken it for hoarseness and colds and found it relieved me. I take small doses and believe this is more beneficial for me.

"I gladly recommend Black-Draught to friends, and as for myself, I am absolutely satisfied that it can't be beat for indigestion and constipation."

Constipation locks up poisons in the body and allows them to do their dangerous work.

Drive out these poisons with Thedford's Black-Draught, the purely vegetable laxative. In use over 85 years.

Taken in time, it has helped thousands of men and women to get rid of many dangerous poisons which otherwise might have caused them serious afflictions.

HEALTH NEWS SERVICE PRAISED BY DOCTORS

Tuberculosis Information and General Topics Declared Boon to State's Physicians.

The medical news service originated by the advisory medical staff of the Tuberculosis & Health Society of St. Louis, for the benefit of general practitioners, has proved of considerable value, Dr. A. J. McLaughlin, chairman of the staff and a member of the United States Public Health Service, told the staff at a meeting last week.

This service was designed to give family physicians, usually the first to discover tubercular persons, up-to-the-minute information in concise and readable form about progress in the treatment of tuberculosis. A series of 18 articles by specialists, covering every phase of the disease and giving information about sanatoria, climate, altitude, home care, nursing and other topics, was sent out during the last year to more than 1700 physicians in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Organizations in numerous other communities have asked for copies of the series as a guide in following this example, and the Missouri Tuberculosis Association is sending the series to all physicians of the State.

General health, as well as tuberculosis, interests the society, and recently a series of such articles has been issued. Dr. McLaughlin said more than 600 physicians had commended this work and suggested it be extended to cover various medical problems.

At the staff meeting, among subjects discussed were those of annual physical examinations for all citizens and a more comprehensive health program among Negroes. The staff is planning to co-operate with the Missouri Tuberculosis Association in holding clinics in many Missouri small towns.

New members of the advisory medical staff for 1927 are Drs. A. C. Bedal, L. C. Boisliniere, J. F. Bredeck, Edward P. Buddy, R. C. Byrnes, A. B. Day, Charles Everman, A. M. Frank, Alfred Goldman, W. W. Graves, T. C. Hemplemann, A. C. Henske, J. H. Humphrey, W. H. Luedde, A. J. McLaughlin, L. Schlenker, R. E. Schwartz, Selig Simon, Jacob J. Singer, H. I. Spector, Max Starkloff, A. E. No Diet for Chicago Beauty

CHICAGO, ILL.—To meet and with Lillian Rau in her charm- home at 8117 Exchange Ave., one would guess that a year ago was a nervous wreck, and ld eat nothing—not even ap- . Everything she ate fermented formed gas in her stomach. day, thanks to Adlerika, she s wonderful and no longer has diet but can eat anything.

Intestinal Stasis

RECENT medical discoveries show that such cases as Miss Rau's—in fact, nearly all s of stomach and bowel trou- are due to just one cause, testinal Stasis. World-famous cialists tell us that this insidi- disease, which is caused by proper food and lack of correct rcise, afflicts three people out every four.

Intestinal Stasis means the too movement of waste food mat- through the intestines. By ng too long in the body, this er ferments, forms gas and ons, and is the cause of sour mach, gas bloating and indi- tion. Even if the bowels move daily, enough old matter may be left to form gas, hinder digestion and poison the system. Ordinary laxatives or soda or magnesia cannot give more than temporary relief from Intestinal Stasis or Gas. Only continued, REAL intestinal cleansing can help permanently.

Dr. Carl Weschcke, in his private practice, first used the bowel cleanser and intestinal prophylactic now known as Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal evacuant with vegetable buckthorn and cascara, together with glycerine and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. Unlike other medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Stomach Gas

THE FIRST effect of Adlerika is to relieve gas on the stomach and gas bloating. Often ONE spoonful brings out a surprising amount of old poisonous matter which you never guessed was in your system, and which may have been the hidden cause of gas, indigestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other trouble. Even if your bowels move daily, Adlerika frequently brings out an astonishing amount of additional matter which might otherwise poison your system.

Many doctors recognize Adlerika as the one dependable remedy for Intestinal Stasis and Gas, or whenever REAL bowel cleansing is necessary. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you.

84 YEARS A PUBLIC CHARGE, WOMAN DIES IN POORHOUSE

Abandoned When 6 Weeks Old and Mystery of Identity Was Never Solved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5.—Miss Mary Jane Hoyt died several days ago at the Albany County Almshouse, where she had been an inmate for the most part of 84 years, and with her death was sealed the mystery which has shrouded her identity all her life.

Miss Hoyt was a 6-week-old baby, abandoned by her parents, when she first became a charge of Albany County. No inkling has ever been given of her parentage.

Records of the almshouse show that she was received from the "P. Orphan Asylum" when she was 12 in 1855. Leo M. Doody, Commissioner of Charities, is now tracing back through the records of the Albany Orphan Asylum to discover if the "P." asylum, thought to mean either the public asylum or the Protestant asylum, is the institution referred to.

British Novelist Says Mothers Can't Run a Business.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 5.—"You can't run a business and a baby at the same time; a baby is a whole-time job," said Miss Storm Jameson, British novelist, in the discussion started by G. K. Chesterton in his debate on that subject with Lady Rhondda. In private life she is Mrs. Guy Chapman.

"I once ran a baby myself," she said. "I run a good many other things at the same time since the baby and I were living in a somewhat rural community, with the nearest shop five miles away and the nearest telephone half an hour's walk."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble nervousness, constipation, dizziness sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

French Professor Explains Cause Of Old Age

HOW FOLKS PAST 40 MAY HELP RENEW YOUTHFUL STRENGTH, "PEP" AND ENERGY

That the strength of our intestinal organs gives the most accurate measure of our health and length of life is the opinion of Dr. Edouard Ketterer, Professor of the Academy of Medicine of Paris. He attributes the principal cause of old age to organic troubles, and the body becomes filled with poisons. But now that Science has found a way to produce a vitalizing internal exercise of the organs by the marvelous restorative Radium power of ARIUM tablets, signs of sick and advancing years often quickly give way to renewed strength, energy and vigorous activity.

William E. Kleist of Washington says: "I have been taking ARIUM Tablets for a general run-down condition — nervousness, stomach trouble, kidney and bladder trouble and many other ailments. I had tried doctors and patent medicines and everything failed but ARIUM. It has wrought a wonderful change in my condition." C. A. Bates of Plainville, Conn., writes: "I have taken only two boxes of ARIUM Tablets, but it has helped my nerves and vitality very much."

If you suffer from kidney trouble, torpid liver, bladder weakness or high blood pressure, with a consequent lack of FORCE and NERVE ENERGY, you owe it to yourself to try ARIUM at once. A multitude of alarming symptoms often quickly disappear. Lame back, rheumatic twinges and aches, dizziness, pains in the head, sour stomach, disturbed nights and other distressing middle age ailments may rapidly become a thing of the past. You should see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

NOTE: The Associated Radium Chemists, Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM guarantees successful and satisfactory results in every case from its progressive use or money refunded, and also that a definite quantity of genuine radium is used in its preparation. ARIUM is easy and economical to take and may now be readily obtained in this city from any good druggists such as Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co., Walgreen Drug Co., Speckart Bros., Medler's Pharmacies, Johnson Bros. Drug Co.

CONFERENCE CALLED ON MENTAL HEALTH

First State-Wide Meeting on Subject to Be Held in St. Louis in April.

The steady increase of mental diseases despite the advances made by medical science will be the principal subject discussed at the Mental Health Conference, to be held at the St. Louis Medical Society Building, 3821 Lindell boulevard, April 4 and 5.

More beds are utilized for mental disease than for all other types of disease combined, and there are as many other mentally diseased persons outside institutions as within, according to Dr. William Nelson, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Missouri Hygiene Society, which is sponsoring the conference.

"Mental disease in St. Louis is increasing noticeably," Dr. Nelson said. "The population of the City Sanitarium has increased 25 per cent within the last five years as a result of the increase in mental disorders. The institution was built to accommodate 2000 patients and now houses 3040."

The meeting is to be the first State-wide conference of the kind held in Missouri, and it is expected that delegations from Kansas City, St. Joseph, Jefferson City, Sedalia and other smaller cities will attend. An effort is being made to interest the Federation of Women's Clubs as well as civic and fraternal bodies in the conference. Methods of controlling mental disorders will be discussed by physicians and others familiar with the subject at three meetings daily during the conference, which will be open to the public.

2510 FATALITIES IN COAL MINES REPORTED IN 1926

166 Miners Were Killed in Illinois and Nine in Missouri Last Year.

Coal-mine fatalities in the United States during 1926 totaled 2510. There were 166 fatalities in Illinois coal mines, 178 in Kentucky, 124 in Oklahoma, 9 in Missouri and 7 in Arkansas. Pennsylvania was high with 878.

The output of coal during 1926 is estimated by the Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce, at 663,290,000 tons; hence the fatality rate was 3.78 for each 1,000,000 tons, as compared with 2.84 for 1925.

Examination of the causes of accidents showed a slight reduction in deaths due to falls of roof and coal, and explosives; and a slight increase in deaths resulting from haulage accidents and gas and dust explosions.

The time of day when most accidents occurred was near 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Coal-mine fatalities in Illinois by months were: January, 19; February, 16; March, 11; April, 10; May, 12; June, 3; July, 10; August, 14; September, 13; October, 12; November, 18, and December, 28.

MIDDLE WEST STATES TO JOIN TO SAVE NATURAL RESOURCES

Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan Plan Attractions for Tourist Trade.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The fight to preserve natural resources of the Middle West is expected to be unified at a conference here May 9 to 14.

Governors of five Midwest states have been asked to attend and marshal a small army of conservationists.

Announcement of the gathering was made by Gov. Zimmerman of Wisconsin, who has invited the chief executives of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan to attend.

The proposition has been put on a business basis—that states which do not take steps to preserve their natural beauty will lose some of the tourist revenues. It is argued that tourists visit states to enjoy the outdoor life and the beauty of forests and streams. Tourist revenue is estimated to be $100,000,000 annually in Wisconsin.

In his call, Zimmerman said:

"It is my hope at the conference we may make some headway toward reforestation, establishing of game preserves, prevention of forest fires, beautifying of highways and unifying game laws so the game hog who jumps from state to state during the hunting season may be controlled."

STUDIES NAPOLEONIC WARS

Stresemann Bolsters Criticism of Accuracy of Historic Drama.

BERLIN, March 5.—Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann, whose vacation on the Italian and French Rivieras was somewhat of a political mystery, is now revealed as having spent his spare moments in the harmless intrigue of delving into the history of the Napoleonic wars at the beginning of the last century.

Stresemann has been gathering material to back up his criticism of the stage drama "Neidhart von Gneisenau" by Wolfgang Goetz in which the then Quartermaster General von Gneisenau is depicted as the brains of the Prussian Army that drove out Napoleon's forces while Field Marshal Gebhart von Bluecher garnered all the credit in history.

Stresemann recently wrote a review of the play in which he contended that the piece which intended to right a historical wrong was in itself not entirely accurate. The Foreign Minister's view was challenged by some historians, and the reply which he has been working out will soon be published in a literary review.

Fashion Features the Truly Feminine Figure

In New Spring Models Created by Mol-May

THE fashionable figure is no longer an imitation of the boyish figure with flat angular lines—women are once again appreciating the beauty of their own natural curves. The natural lines are now given full play; but the natural lines of the average feminine figure are unfortunately not always beautiful. They lack symmetry and must be gently but firmly molded into graceful contours and delightful proportions that are pleasing to the eye. This is what the Mol-May Foundation Garments do. No bones, no steel—but exquisitely soft materials and elastic are scientifically made into one-piece and half-garments that mold the figure to the loveliest and most natural form.

The Correct Garment for Your Figure Will Be Fitted by an Expert Corsetiere in Our Corset Section

Illustrated above—a Mol-May one-piece garment with diaphragm control, that is scientifically constructed for the larger woman who has developed a full figure. A Glowing Complexion, Radiantly Youthful

A lovely delicate, satiny skin, shaded like a June rose. How dear to the heart of every woman is the desire to possess such a ravishing complexion. If your skin is soiled, muddy, freckled, covered with liver spots, moth patches and pimples, you too, can have a beautiful, clear, velvety complexion. Wherever the best toilet articles are sold, you can obtain an ounce of pure mercolized wax. Apply to your face at night, before retiring, like cold cream, and wash off in the morning. Lifeless, discolored skin, moth patches and all defects are washed off with it, without any discomfort to you. No more need you envy others. A beautiful, rosy, young skin of exquisite loveliness and velvety softness is yours. And how easily you obtained it. And more wonderful is the fact that your complexion is natural. Unlike a cosmetic, instead of putting this wax on when you go outdoors, you wash it off, leaving your skin clear, smooth and healthy. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

Careless Washing Spoils the Hair

The simple hair styles of today make beautiful hair a necessity.

Luckily, beautiful hair is now easily obtained. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

SINCE SUSAN WENT ABROAD

SUSAN wasn't exactly a wallflower, but she was never exhausted from dancing. That was last year.

Since then, Susan has been to Europe. . . . These French coutourieres certainly do sew chic into their frocks. And their hats have a dash that communicates itself to the wearer.

But much more striking than Susan's sartorial transformation, is her air of poise, her savoir faire. She knows just how to accept a compliment (a rare act!), how to turn a phrase, how to tell a story. She knows when to speak and when to be eloquently silent. She has acquired taste and tact—two things which no amount of schooling could give her. It made a new girl of Susan!

"And so she sailed for Europe"

—— will give you further details. It was written by a woman who went abroad alone—and sailed our ships. May we give you a copy? Please address Dept. N, White Star Line, Louderman Bldg., 11th and Locust Sts., ground floor, St. Louis, or authorized agents.

Lady Paget To Speak at Luncheon

Lady Muriel Paget of London, who speaks at the luncheon next Wednesday at the Hotel Statler, under the auspices of Neighborhood Association, will be heard by board members and staff representatives of practically all St. Louis social agencies, as well as members of clubs and civic organizations.

Tables are being reserved for the luncheon, at which Lady Paget will tell of British hospitals and child welfare stations founded by her in a number of the Baltic states during the World War, and their present work as continued under governmental supervision. She has just returned from a visit to Russia, Rumania and Czecho-Slovakia.

Mrs. N. A. McMillan, president of Neighborhood Association, is chairman of the luncheon committees. Mrs. Oscar Johnson of the hostesses committee, and the ushers will be Junior League members. Individual or organization reservations may be made with Mrs. Thomas H. West, 11 Westmoreland place. The luncheon is open to all interested.

Albert J. Kennedy of Boston, secretary of the National Federation of Settlements and head worker of the South End Settlement, Boston, will arrive in St. Louis Wednesday, and attend the luncheon. He will speak on the work of American settlements.

Lady Paget enlisted in war work at the begining of the war, and served on the Russian frontier going through the siege of Kiev. She distributed millions of dollars, contributed by the British for relief work, and has been decorated by a number of governments for her services.

Agencies co-operating in the luncheon which have tables include the Wednesday Club, Town Club, English Speaking Union, League of Women Voters, Young Women's Christian Association, Catholic Women's League, Board of Religious Organizations, Catholic Women's Council, Maternity Hospital, St. Louis Children's Hospital, Provident Association, Methodist Orphans' Home, Daughters of the American Revolution, Jewish Orphans' Home, Maurey Chapter, D. USE OF COSMETIC INCREASES

Chemical Society Finds It Has Jumped Sixfold in Last 10 Years.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Because of the "much greater addiction of women and girls to cosmetics of all kinds than before the war," the output of such preparations in the United States has multiplied sixfold in the last 10 years, the American Chemical Society announced today.

This expansion is also partly attributed to development of sales in Latin-American countries. The area of manufacture in this country, the report says, is confined almost wholly to Eastern and mid-Western states. New York is far in the lead, with Illinois second. The number of plants is between 500 and 600. Creams, rouges and face powders are said to rank first in annual value, their production aggregating more than $34,000,000. Dentifrices come next with more than $25,000,000 and other classes total more than $141,000,000.

SAYS MAN, 86, JILTED HER

Wheeling, Va., Divorcee, 36, Seeks $300,000 for Broken Promise.

By the Associated Press.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 5.—Lillian Russell Toothman, 36-year-old Wheeling divorcee, today sued James Hawley, 86, wealthy retired real estate broker, for $300,000, alleging breach of promise to marry.

Mrs. Toothman, in her bill of complaint, charged Hawley prevailed upon her to divorce her husband under promise of marriage and that he furnished the money to pay the court costs. After she obtained a divorce, she said, Hawley furnished an apartment for her and her four adopted children until last fall when, she alleged, he repudiated the marriage contract.

Shoe Made of Old Auto Tires.

SCUTARIA, Albania, Feb. 15.—Nothing is ever wasted in Albania. And the canny Albanian has found a use now for that most useless article, the old automobile tire. In Scutari there is a whole row of shops in the old bazar where craftsmen are busy, day in, day out, carving, punching, sewing wornout tires—into shoes. American rubber shoes are popular with the Albanian peasant nowadays.

FOR PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING

Circulines in clear fresh water!

With Certainty— a wave like Nature's own

The secret of your permanent wave is in the Circulines you see pictured here. It is because there is a different Circuline for each of the ten variations of hair structure that a Circuline wave is always safe, as naturally flowing as though Nature had waved it herself.

But here is a warning: Because your hairdresser uses a Circuline machine is not in itself assurance that she is giving you a Circuline wave. You must be sure she uses authentic Circulines. They come individually wrapped with the name "Nestle Circuline" stamped on the glassine wrapper.

Only when you see them, when your hairdresser uses them, are you sure of a Circuline wave.

Imitations dangerous to the hair containing lye, ammonia, potash, are riding on the wave of Circuline's popularity. Avoid them!

Circulines are gentle, safe, sure. Demand that your hairdresser use them.

Sparkling!

"The light that lies in woman's eyes"—and only cynics say lies and lies and lies—needs for its perfect setting the answering sparkle of satiny complexion! Miss Mae V. Cahill, 5404 Sixth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., complimented on hers, exclaims: "Oh! That's due to my using the unusually flattering Black and White Face Powder. It's so artistically tinted it seems to glow with life, even in the box, and on my skin it matches my coloring exactly. I never saw anything like the way it clings for hours with such natural beauty, and keeps me looking as fresh and well-groomed as tho I'd just stepped away from my dressing table."

The pure, delicately fragranced Black and White Face Powder, in the dainty 25c boxes, comes in four true tones—white, flesh, pink and brunette—each one enhancing the flesh tint for which it is intended. If yours is not among them, you can get it by blending two of these until you find the shade most becoming to you.

Best results come from using Black and White Skin Soap along with the Black and White Beauty Creations.

Activities of Women's Clubs And Societies

The Civic Committee of the Wednesday Club, Mrs. George E. Chamberlin chairman, will hear the second lecture by Wilbur B. Jones in his series on "Laws That Affect and Protect Women," Tuesday at 4 p. m. Mr. Jones will discuss wills, inheritance taxes, contracts and other legal matters affecting women.

The Special Program Committee, Mrs. Hermann von Schrenk chairman, will introduce Dr. Will Durant Wednesday at 8 p. m. He will discuss "The Psychological Differences of Men and Women." Dr. Durant, as director of the Labor Temple School in New York, considered the most successful experiment in adult education, learned to make the subject of philosophy as interesting as fiction. He is preparing a history of the nineteenth century, which he believes is an epoch of greatest influence on the future, which will take the form of a drama in four acts: The Age of Napoleon, 1789-1815; The Age of Romance, 1815-1848; The Age of Hugo, 1848-1871, and the Age of Empire, 1871-1914.

The History and Literature Section of the Monday Club of Webster Groves, Mrs. E. H. Elkhoff chairman, at its last meeting responded to roll call with favorite excerpts from the poem, "The Flight of the Duchess." The special topic, "The Meaning of the Poem," was given by Mrs. S. F. Burnet. Under direction of Mrs. William W. Keysor, the poem, "James Lee's Wife," was discussed and excerpts were read by various members. The Education and Current Topics Section, Mrs. John A. Nolan chairman, presented a "Rural Missouri" program under leadership of Mrs. Maurice Wright. Mrs. George B. Gilmore read a paper on "Rural Churches." Mrs. Gilbert Morrison spoke on "Rural Libraries," and Mrs. James F. Cook on "Rural Schools in Missouri."

The executive board of the Monday Club met Thursday, Mrs. George Stephens, first vice president, presiding.

The Monday Club will hold an opening meeting with a civics program tomorrow and candidates for city offices have been invited to speak. The Better Homes Group, Mrs. E. W. Newlin, chairman, will meet Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. to hear a program on "Exterior Decorating and Gardening." Miss Katherine Perkins of Shaw's Garden will be the speaker. The Parliamentary Law Group, Mrs. James McCleave chairman, will meet for study under the leadership of Mrs. N. P. Zimmer, Thursday at 10 a. m.

Miss Lucile Smith will discuss "Japan's Policy Toward China" at a meeting of the International Relations Study Group of the St. Louis College Club at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. The Civic Committee will meet for luncheon at 1 p. m. Monday. Mrs. Anna S. Harris, secretary of the Missouri Association for the Blind, will talk on her work.

Mrs. Charles W. Martin will be in charge of the Music Study Group meeting at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday. The "Life and Works of Beethoven" will be the subject, and Mrs. Martin will talk on "The Sonata Form." Special emphasis is given Beethoven at this time in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of his death.

Dr. Arthur Bostwick will speak at the College Club Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. Preceding his lecture tea will be served. Miss Lenabelle Stiles will be the hostess and she will be assisted by Mrs. George Hetlage, Mrs. W. R. Teeters, Mrs. Albert H. Leonard and Miss Helen Koch. The Literature Committee will be in charge of the program.

Mlle. Bataille will be in charge of the French study group which meets Wednesday at 3:30 p. m.

The March meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Federation will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, at Lucecock Lodge, 3628 Delmar boulevard. Mrs. J.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

LAW ON INGRATITUDE IN FRANCE RECOVERS GIFTS

Former Dressmaker's Model Who Tired of Elderly Husband Loses Costly Chateau.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 5.—Good-looking "gold diggers" in France are running afoul of an old French law that makes ingratitude an adequate legal reason for reclaiming gifts.

A real chateau on the banks of the Seine is the latest present to change hands when a beautiful dressmaker's model, Germaine Mouton, tired of her elderly husband as soon as the honeymoon was over.

Monsieur Lefranc, the rich husband, got a divorce when Germaine grew cold. When he heard a younger and handsomer man was to get the chateau he asked for it back.

The place had been bought by the two, jointly, before their marriage and given by deed to the bride. The court, when it learned the model's salary had been 175 francs a month, said she couldn't have bought half a chateau on that and decided the old law on ingratitude applied to her case.

Bequests likewise have been upset in French courts for the same reason, so the "gold diggers" never are sure they can keep what they get unless they live up to the spirit of their bargains.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL FAMILY EXCEPTIONALLY WELL READ

Classics, Detective Stories and Books on Sports Included in Members' Libraries.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 5.—The British royal family is exceptionally well read. The Duke and Duchess of York insisted on having a parcel of new books sent to them every week during their Australian tour.

The taste of the Duchess, who is the greater reader, tends toward classical literature. The Duke is interested in books on sporting subjects and likes a good detective story.

The Prince of Wales at York House, has an interesting collection of books on travel in various countries, most of them dealing with places visited during his tours.

Queen Mary is the greatest reader. One of her favorite authors is Dickens. She recently attended a luncheon at which the menu cards were decorated with sketches of characters from Dickens' books. After lunch the guests began guessing the names of the characters. Queen Mary named correctly 14 of the 19 characters.

Traffic Club Luncheon Tomorrow.

A luncheon entirely of food produced along the Missouri Pacific lines will be held by the St. Louis Traffic Club at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow at the Chamber of Commerce. C. E. Perkins, vice president in charge of traffic, will speak.

POOR SPELLING MAY PREVENT BRIAND JOINING ACADEMY

French Foreign Minister Said to Desire Membership. Started Life as Lawyer.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 5.—Poor spelling may keep Aristide Briand out of the Academie Francaise, composed of 40 "immortals," all supposedly quite literary.

The Foreign Minister is said to have cast sheep's eyes at a seat in the famous society, but he has not announced his candidacy.

Briand has formed more Governments than any other man in France, but hostile critics say he wouldn't last very long in a spelling bee. They refer to a 30-word note he wrote in which were two mispelled words and an error of syntax. The note, one of congratulation to a friend, is reproduced photographically in one periodical as proof of its contention that "his literary qualifications are insufficient" for fame as a man of letters.

Briand started life as a lawyer but turned to politics early. Whether his educational shortcomings are real or fancied, they attract the greater attention because of his presence in the Cabinet of Premier Poincare. They have very little in common. Clemenceau is credited with a phrase, often cited, that runs:

"Briand knows nothing but understands everything; Poincare knows everything but understands nothing." The Tiger's claws are sharp.

HELP FOR 314 HOMELESS MEN

Bureau Reports Activities for Month of February.

The Bureau for Homeless Men, an agency of the Community Fund working in co-operation with the Municipal Lodging House, served a total of 314 men in February, according to the monthly report filed Friday. Of this number 138 were unemployed, 42 were ill, 70 were men more than 60 years old, and others were suffering physical handicaps.

A letter of thanks was received from a university graduate now earning a good salary with a Kansas oil company who was cared for by the bureau when he was stranded in St. Louis. Robert C. Van Hyning of Akron, O., has joined the bureau's staff.

Slayer's Body Found in Slough.

HICKMAN, Ky., March 5.—The body of Henry Walker, Negro, who in January shot and killed Zelner Leech, planter of Tiptonville, Tenn., 35 miles from here, was found this morning floating in a slough two miles from the tragedy. He is believed to have been stricken with cramps while trying to swim the slough following the killing.

Has Science Discovered an Electro-Magnet that Banishes Pain and Disease?

Will The I-ON-A-CO, Amazing Scientific Invention of Gaylord Wilshire (famous lecturer, man of letters, pioneer) Change the Present Methods of Treating the Sick?

Wilshire's I-ON-A-CO Now in St. Louis

Gaylord Wilshire, the inventor of I-ON-A-CO, is an international figure and explorer of note, and authority on economics and famed as the founder of the Wilshire District in Los Angeles. Beautiful Wilshire Boulevard was named after him.

He has opened large offices in this city for the FREE public demonstration of his invention, the I-ON-A-CO.

You and your friends are invited to come in and take the delightful treatments and hear one or more of the interesting, instructive talks on the Electro-Magnetic Therapy Theory.

All along the Pacific Coast—in every city, town and village from San Diego in the south to Seattle in the north, you meet and hear of thousands of grateful men and women paying enthusiastic tribute to Wilshire's Ionaco, explaining how it has brought them good health. In homes where sickness and misery have dwelt for years you now find happiness and health. This remarkable electro-magnet is daily restoring sufferers to the joys of health. In all walks of life the sick and the ailing are finding relief. The rich and the poor alike sing the praises of science's latest offering that betters the condition of all who are ailing. Almost every disease shows rapid response to Ionaco. Chronic sufferers from arthritis, rheumatism, neuralgia, neuritis, eczema and many other troubles (see list below) all find relief. Thousands of sufferers have gone on record with the written word to tell of their miraculous recoveries. Every day, in thousands of homes, happiness and health are being restored by the twice-a-day 10-minute Ionaco treatments. The results are too apparent and too wonderful not to convince the most skeptical.

Theory of I-ON-A-CO, The Electro-Magnet That Offers NEW HOPE to All Who Are Ailing---

"I had long watched with great interest," says Gaylord Wilshire, the discoverer of I-ON-A-CO, "in a recent interview, "the experiments of the Medical world with electricity in the treating of disease. But I discovered that magnetism offered a more wonderful field to science for research. The therapeutic value of my electro-magnet—Ionaco, will quickly demonstrate this to any open-minded investigator by the actual results secured through its use. Ionaco is an extremely simple apparatus both in construction and operation. It is a coiled magnet, placed around the body. When attached to any electric light socket, magnetism is then generated and permeates in and through the body. There is no shock or sensation of any kind other than a pleasing exhilaration that brings color to the skin and a sparkle to the eye."

RESULTS QUICKLY APPARENT

While the results secured by the use of the Ionaco are apparent, the reason WHY these results follow the use of the instrument, is most scientific. The action of electro-magnetism on the iron in the blood stream is highly technical and deals with the deepest of all studies, the function and life of cell growth in the human body. It has only been in very recent years that the purpose of iron in the body has been determined.

It is a fact which medical science has known for years—namely, that most forms of ill-health are caused by toxaemia. And toxaemia simply means an accumulation of dead cells in the body. When the oxygen, carried by the blood, does not unite with these cells, they cannot be eliminated. They remain in the body and become highly poisonous.

IRON AND OXYGEN

Added to this fact is another fact recently discovered by the German biologist, Professor Otto Warburg, and demonstrated by him before the Rockefeller Institute. He proved that it is the iron in our chemical make-up which acts as a catalyzer between oxygen and the cells. That is, the iron causes the oxygen to unite with the cells. Hence, by magnetizing the iron, its value as a catalyzer is increased, and there is a corresponding increase in the oxidation of dead cells.

This, then, explains the seemingly miraculous effect of the I-ON-A-CO. Through magnetization the dead cells are oxidized, then quickly eliminated. And with the source of disease thus removed, health returns.

SEE FOR YOURSELF

There is nothing mysterious about I-ON-A-CO. It is a simple, natural, delightful treatment. You can visit the Wilshire I-ON-A-CO office and see its amazing results with your own eyes. You can try it yourself, absolutely without charge, and judge by your own experience. Come in and make this delightful 10-minute test. Surely a return to health is worth it. If you cannot call, send for our booklet, giving details about this new method of drugless healing which is used right in your home. The coupon brings a free copy. Mail it today. If you prefer we will gladly send a representative to give you a Free Demonstration in your own home.

Blood Pressure Reduced

"After hearing a radio lecture I called at the office to be treated, for high blood pressure, which was at that time around 184 and 195. "A blood pressure test, after taking twenty-minute treatment reduced this pressure something like twenty millimeter points. And after taking treatments for a period of three weeks it was running about 132 to 138. It made it possible for me to sleep more normally than I have for the past seven months."

MRS. A. L. SPIETZEN, 425 N. Arden, Los Angeles

Lumbago Relieved

"I have been troubled for some time with a very severe pain in my back and right arm. With the very first treatment of your Ionaco, the pain in my back disappeared. I have now taken four treatments and am feeling like a new man."

A. D. HIMMELMANN, San Francisco, Cal., With W. & I. Slone

Make This Simple Test:

THE free demonstrations are a delightful experience. If you suffer pain—no matter how severe or what the cause—one free treatment may bring complete relief, as it has in many other cases. We simply want to prove to you what I-ON-A-CO may accomplish for you.

An I-ON-A-CO treatment requires about 10 minutes. You do not have to remove your clothes. There is no electrifying, no exercising, no manipulation, not the slightest discomfort. On the contrary, the experience is delightful. Can you afford to disregard this offer — to drift along sick, unhappy, miserable — when a 10-minute treatment may point the way to renewed health! You have nothing to lose; everything to gain. Isn't it plain common sense at least to investigate?

In 1917 he was president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. From 1918 to 1922 he was on the Engineering Council and its successor, the American Engineering Council.

Record of His Work.

The Conrey Placer Mining Co., which built the first gold dredges capable of operating successfully in the cold winters of Montana, was organized by Moore.

His career, to which last night's speakers called attention, began by successive employment in the geological surveys of Michigan, Missouri and Kentucky. Then, during the exciting dayes of a boom, he was a consulting engineer at Leadville, Colo. Among positions he has held are: Managing director, treasurer and president, Slate Creek Iron Co. of Kentucky; president, Rose Run Iron Co. of Kentucky; president, Tecumseh Iron Co. of Alabama; president; Admiralty Zinc Co. of Oklahoma.

In 1920 Moore was made an honorary member of the Engineers' Club. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, and of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity; of the St. Louis Academy of Science, the Round Table and Noonday clubs.

Born in Connersville, Ind., in 1849, Moore is a member of an engineering family, his father having been chief engineer and general manager of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. He was graduated from Miami University, Oxford, O., with the degree of A. B., in 1870, and from Columbia University School of Mines. Miami gave him the honorary degree of LL. D. in 1920. His home is at 3414 Hawthorne avenue and his office in the Merchants-Laclede Building.

By the Associated Press.

SALATIGA, Java, March 5.—Promotion landed a Javanese paymaster in jail here when his successor discovered he had been defrauding the Dutch colonial treasury for years by carrying dead men on his payroll. Natives here sign receipts by fingerprints, and it has been found that hundreds of fingerprints on pay vouchers were the paymaster's own. He had been fingerprinting the pay vouchers of dead natives and pocketing the money.

THAT TASTES GOOD!

—AND IT'S PURE COD LIVER OIL

A glorious discovery; cod liver oil that all can take with a smile! Cod liver oil with the old objectionable taste taken out! All you can taste is a delectable chocolaty flavor—rich and full—a taste so good that it makes you want to lick the spoon.

A few weeks with coco cod will paint the cheeks of any human—just about double the energies of any man, woman, or child. And children love it! Coco cod is pure codliver oil—with nothing but the old objectionable taste taken out. And nothing added except pure egg yolks which supply the other recognized vitalizing vitamins every human system needs. Pure cod liver oil in the new form, coco cod, is the only cod liver oil containing the three essential vitamins. Don't be without it! By this time you can get it at any drug store.

250,000 SALE OF REAL ESTATE IN DOWNTOWN ZONE

Three-Story Building on Washington Is Sold to Owner of Adjoining 7-Story Structure.

REPORTS INDICATE RENEWED ACTIVITIES

Long-Term Lease Delivered to Woolworth Co. for Southeast Corner of Eighth and Olive Streets.

By Berry Moore.

Operations in the downtown district are being renewed on a broader scale, it is indicated by sales and leases recorded and negotiations pending, and transactions on Washington avenue and on Olive street are cited as a distinctive feature of the week, in reports by the Singer-Klein Realty Co., Cornet Zeibig, Martin & Breitt and Jack Dubinsky.

Adding to his holdings in this district, Abraham Tober yesterday bought 50 feet 9 inches by 150 feet, improved with a three-story building at 1208-10-12 Washington avenue. A total of $250,000 was the reported consideration. Title was taken in the name of the Tober Realty Co., of which Tober is president.

The property belonged to the Burdeau Realty Co., of which George T. Burdeau is president, on which erected the building. Jack Dubinsky, with offices in the Kinnwright Building, handled the negotiations.

An adjoining seven-story building, occupying a lot 50x150 feet, also owned by Tober, the purchase from the Burdeau company giving him a total frontage on Washington avenue of 100 feet, with a depth of 150 feet, extending through to St. Charles street. Tober has no plans for the enlargement of the seven-story building in connection with the puchase.

Annual rentals aggregating $18,- are derived from the three-story building.

Marquette Hotel Sold.

Eclipsing all other transactions of the week was the purchase by Alexander W. Snyder of Chicago of the 10-story Marquette Hotel building and site at the southeast corner of Washington avenue and Eighteenth street, as was told in Thursday's Post-Dispatch.

The Singer-Klein Realty Co., in connection with Herman Zuechel, handled the deal. The structure has a frontage on Washington avenue of 150 feet, with the same frontage on St. Charles, by a depth of Eighteenth of 116 feet.

The former owner was the Levitt Corporation, of which J. M. Levitt is president and secretary. It purchased the property two years ago. The Plaisance Apartment Hotel in Chicago was acquired by the Levitt Corporation in this connection, presumably in part payment. Levitt will go to Chicago to take over the Plaisance.

The Marquette, comprising 400 rooms, was built about 20 years ago by a syndicate formed by Fletcher R. Harris, which erected several other high-class structures in the wholesale section.

Woolworth Contracts Delivered.

The 99-year lease of the southeast corner of Eighth and Olive streets, for which contracts were entered into about a year ago, with F. W. Woolworth & Co., was delivered yesterday by Cornet & Zeibig, representing the Turner estate, Martin & Breitt represented Woolworth.

A three-story building occupied by Greenfield Bros. occupies the corner, the site having 78 feet on Olive street and 126 feet on Eighth street.

Woolworth's plans originally contemplated a structure to extend from Olive to Pine, embracing the entire west half of this block, but the prices asked for the Pine street corner and adjoining holdings halted the project. Overtures looking to a revival of negotiations are anticipated. This, however, is purely speculative.

New 5 and 10 Cent Store.

Greenfield Bros., who have occupied the corner for the last 10 years, have been given an extension of their lease, which recently expired, until June 1, when Woolworth & Co. will remodel the present building for another five and ten cent store, presumably pending negotiations for the adjoining ground.

F. W. Woolworth & Co. had its most notable year in 1926, when the volume of sales exceeded $253,000,000, having more than doubled in several years, according to Standard Service, a statistical publication. Annual sales gain is attributed in part to the opening of new stores of which 60 were added in 1926.

Beaumning, King & Co. recently obtained a 99-year lease of the factory building, with site, now occupied by the Weil Suit & Cloak

Browning, King & Co. recently leased a 99-year lease of the property building, with site, now occupied by the Weil Suit & Cloak Co., under a lease which shortly will expire. Browning, King & Co., now at Seventh and St. Charles streets, has disclosed no plans.

The lot, 50x109 feet, is given a valuation in the lease of $500,000 on a 5 per cent basis, the annual net rental being $25,000. Martin & Breitt negotiated this lease, which was recently chronicled in the Post-Dispatch.

SALES IN SUBDIVISIONS OF BUSH-BURNS REALTY CO.

Bush-Burns Realty Co. reports continued activity in its subdivision of Northampton on South Kingshighway. During the past week sales have been closed by which the Richardson Building Co. purchased 704 front feet of vacant ground in Northampton, to be immediately improved with high-class two-family flats. The William Drozda Realty Co acquired 356 feet on Lawn avenue in Northampton, on which modern bungalows will be erected immediately.

Bush-Burns also reports the sale of two new five-room bungalows on Ashland avenue in Hedgleigh Park for account of H. C. Volkmann, the purchasers being represented by L. John Morest. A building permit was taken out for the Hampton Investment Co., a client of Bush-Burns Realty Co., for the erection of a modern fire-proof building, consisting of stores and efficiency apartments on the southeast corner of Natural Bridge and Williams street, immediately across from the Chevrolet plant.

Contracts were signed last week with the Fruin-Colnon Contracting Co. for the grading and installation of sewers and water mains in the Bush-Burns subdivision of Electra Park on North Goodfellow avenue.

UNION EASTON TRUST CO. TO ACT AS SUBDIVISION AGENTS

The Union Easton Trust Co. reports the closing of a deal as selling agents for a 50-acre subdivision on Manchester road, St. Louis County.

M'FADDEN LAW PERMITS 5-YEAR LOANS BY BANKS

Provision to Finance Real Estate Development Is Restricted to 50 Per Cent of Valuation.

TRANSACTIONS TO BE WITHIN 100 MILES

Depositories May Use Only One-Quarter of Surplus or Savings Deposits in Such Deals.

Permission for national banks to make five-year loans on improved real estate is an important provision of the new McFadden banking act. The provision, which opens a new source of first importance for financing real estate development, covers both city property and farm land. Its passage has been urged by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which points out that the previous provision permitting only one-year loans has been practically inoperative, since, as a matter of fact, few real estate loans are made or can be made on a one-year basis.

New regulations included in the act empowering national banks to buy and sell investment securities are also expected to be of importance in reference to real estate securities.

Loans Limited to 50 Per Cent.

Provisions of the act empowering long-term loans secured by first lien upon improved real estate are as follows:

"Any national banking association may make loans secured by first lien upon improved real estate, including improved farm land, situated within its Federal reserve district or within a radius of 100 miles of the place in which such bank is located, irrespective of district lines.

"A loan secured by real estate within the meaning of this section shall be in the form of an obligation or obligations secured by mortgage, trust deed, or other such instrument upon real estate when the entire amount of such obligation or obligations is made or is sold to such association. The amount of any such loan shall not exceed 50 per centum of the actual value of the real estate offered for security, but no such loan upon such security shall be made for a longer term than five years.

Surplus Restrictions.

"Any such bank may make such loans in an aggregate sum including in such aggregate any such loans on which it is liable as indorser or guarantor or otherwise equal to 25 per centum of the amount of the capital stock of such association actually paid in and unimpaired and 25 per centum of its unimpaired surplus fund, or to one-half of its savings deposits, at the election of the association, subject to the general limitation contained in section 6200 of the Revised Statutes of the United States."

"Legislation concerning the three subjects of subdivision control, mapped streets and regional planning may be said to be the trial and error stage." The recommendations of the model act in the three lines of development now being worked out experimentally in American cities are strikingly in accord with the recommendations for establishment of municipal control of subdivision development in the metropolitan areas of cities adopted in January of the present year by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The association's action followed a two-year study made jointly with the American City Planning Institute and the National Conference on City Planning.

OPEN AIR DANCE PAVILION FOR OSAGE HILLS CLUB

Extensive improvements contracted for by the Osage Country Club on the Big Bend boulevard in Osage Hills will include an open air dance pavilion at the rear of the new club building with an awning roof and hard-surfaced floor, and a patio between this and the swimming pool for open air dinging.

A retaining wall will surround the open air patio, with steps leading to the pool. Outside of the wall will be flag-stone walks leading to the pool from the men's and women's locker rooms.

The dance pavilion overlooking the swimming pool, together with the screened porch on the pool side of the professional golf house will greatly enlarge and add to the facilities of the club, as well as adding beauty to its general setting.

All the improvements to be made will be in keeping with the architecture of the club building, with the use of native stone for the professional golf house and walls surrounding the patio.

MARCH TWENTY-FIRST

The official date of Spring's arrival. Perhaps you did not realize how near Spring is. Just around the corner, some say, but the Sonquils, tulips and iris say its' here now and they are ready to prove it. You will want to be prepared to have a garden with the home you are going to buy. It does not cost much and the "reward is exceedingly great." Select your home in beautiful Pasadena Park, where the pure air will permit flowers to grow and families to enjoy health. The furnished display bungalow is at 810 North Hills Drive.

THREE-CORNERED RACE ON FOR NEW DRY CHIEF

Haynes, Yellowley and Jones Being Urged for Job Under Reorganization.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The passage of the bill providing for reorganization of the prohibition unit in the Treasury Department precipitated a spirited contest for chief of the new bureau. Roy A. Haynes, Commissioner of Prohibition, E. C. Yellowley, Prohibition Administrator in the Chicago district, and James E. Jones, Prohibition director, are being urged for the job.

Haynes and Yellowley, intimate friends for years, are now rivals, each supported by dry organizations. The coming of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews as prohibition chief broke up the formidable organization of Haynes in the prohibition unit. His forces dwindled from 200 to less than half a dozen. Under the new act the chief of the prohibition bureau is to have legal responsibility for the enforcement of the Volstead and other laws.

Haynes is backed by Senator Willis (Rep.)) of Ohio, but Jones is from Ohio, and Willis would not oppose his promotion. It is understood here that Andrews is well satisfied with Jones' work as director of prohibition, and wants to keep him as his chief lieutenant. In recent months Haynes has been a traveling representative of the prohibition unit; work has not been clearly defined. Yellowley has a good field record and Andrews considers him a practical and aggressive operator.

The Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals urged upon Congress the reorganization bill, which was also indorsed by Secretary Mellon, Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair and Andrews.

"This measure," the Methodist Board asserts, "is intended only to enable the Government to do work which has been laid upon it by Congress. It will make prohibition enforcement easier and more efficient. It will add nothing whatever to the statutory strength of prohibition as a policy."

Members of Congress are keenly interested in the contest for the dry bureau position. They believe Haynes will have the support of the Anti-Saloon League officers in Ohio and get the place. Jones is not a candidate for the job but his record in the prohibition unit has made him strong with Andrews and friends would like to see him promoted.

DISCHARGED INTERNES SEEK REINSTATEMENT AT HOSPITAL

Drs. Kimmel and Carlstrom Were Dismissed for Throwing Old Piano From Window.

Drs. Richard K. Kimmel and Fred J. Carlstrom, city hospital internes, who were dismissed from the resident staff Friday for throwing an old grand piano from a window of the internes' recreation room a week ago, will appeal from the dismissal order to Hospital Commissioner Shankland.

Dr. Kimmel, a graduate of Washington University, was in the second year of his interneship. Dr. Carlstrom was graduated from the St. Louis University Medical School last June and entered the hospital a month later. Their appeal will be based on the efficiency of their efforts since entering the hospital and the fact that the piano, which was in disuse, was thrown from the window as a playful prank.

NO MARRIAGE IN 50 YEARS, PSYCHOLOGIST DECLARES

Says Radical Change Must Come If Custom Is to Survive That Long.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Unless some radical change takes place in marriage as a tribal custom, there will be no such thing 50 years from now, Dr. John B. Watson, Psychologist, formerly of Johns Hopkins University, said today at the "School for Parents" where 1000 mothers, teachers and child welfare workers took part in a study of child training.

"The mystery of marriage has been broken down. We must have a new kind of ethics, based on a scientific study of human behavior as a way to more simple marital adjustments," Dr. Watson said.

Dr. Edwin A. Kirkpatrick, president of the Massachusetts State Normal College at Fitchburg, said failure to discuss sex problems frankly with the children caused most of the troubles and worries of the parents.

"Instead of preaching to young people, we should place all the essential facts frankly before them," he said. "To succeed, though, we must free ourselves from fear of evil and belief in its powers. We must have faith in truth, beauty and goodness. We must have faith that they will, when given a fair chance, triumph in the souls of our young people over ugliness and vileness."

SACASA HEADQUARTERS AT WASHINGTON TO BE CLOSED

Latin-Americans See in This the Collapse of Nicaraguan Revolt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The office conducted here by T. S. Vacara, confidential agent of Nicaraguan Liberals, followers of former Vice President Sacasa, is about to be closed, it is learned today. The closing is attributed to lack of funds.

Dr. Vaca, a Philadelphia physician and naturalized American citizen, has been the mouthpiece for the Liberal cause ever since Sacasa acclaimed by his party as "constitutional president of Nicaragua," left Washington last February. He has been assisted by E. Carazo Morales, formerly attached to the Nicaraguan legation here.

In Latin-American diplomatic circles this move was interpreted as indicating the collapse of the Sacasa Liberal revolution. It was stated that the Sacasa adherents were working across country toward the Costa Rican frontier, leaving Sacasa and his cabinet stranded at Puerto Cabezas without support and without funds.

The transport Henderson is due at Corinto tomorrow with 1200 marines.

DUCHESS WADES INTO RIVER TO LAND 8-POUND TROUT

Plays Fish Half an Hour in New Zealand Stream; Husband Has Poor Luck.

By the Associated Press.

NAPIER, New Zealand, March 5.—Next to the wirelessed news that her little daughter, Princess Elizabeth, had cut her first tooth back in London, the Duchess of York says her greatest thrill on her present trip to the Antipodes came from catching an eight-pound rainbow trout.

The Duchess is fond of fishing. Accordingly, when the royal train carrying the Duke and the Duchess on their tour of New Zealand arrived at Toka Anu, they took a day off from official functions and went fishing. They got up at 6 o'clock in the morning and went to the Tongariro River in quest of trout, which were introduced to this country years ago from California.

The Duchess waded in and started casting. When a trout struck she followed it in play till she was waist deep in the swift current. She played the trout half an hour, then landed it.

The Duke had an off day. He caught only a few little fellows while the Duchess landed enough to provide lunch for the entire party.

ILLINOIS MAIL FLYER WINS HARMON AVIATION TROPHY

It Is Awarded to Shirley J. Short for Having Done Most to Demonstrate Reliability.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The Harmon trophy for 1926 was presented by President Coolidge today to Shirley J. Short of Elliott, Ill., pilot of the United States air mail service, for having done the most during the year to demonstrate the reliability of the airplane as a means of transportation. Postmaster-General New and Assistant Postmaster-General Glover, the head of the air mail service, accompanied Short to the White House for the presentation.

The trophy, awarded by the International League of Aviators, was established by Clifford Harmon, the first man to fly an airplane across Long Island Sound.

Short has flown 75,520 miles in two years, by day and night, in many kinds of weather and in many types of planes.

TWO RADIO COMMISSIONERS GET RECESS APPOINTMENTS

Hoover Promises Neither Politics Nor Other Selfish Interest Will Be Tolerated.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Regulation for radio under a Federal commission was brought closer to actuality today when President Coolidge gave recess appointments to the two members needed to complete such a board and Secretary Hoover invited all five of the new commissioners to come to Washington.

While Congress enacted a law to set up a commission of five, with power to control radio broadcasting, appropriations to sustain it failed in the filibuster jam that marked the closing hours of the Senate.

Orestes H. Caldwell of New York and Henry A. Bellows of Minnesota, two of the five named to the commission, failed to obtain Senate confirmation before adjournment, but received recess appointments today from the President. The lack of funds, commerce Department officials said, would greatly hamper the commission, but Secretary Hoover indicated he would do his best to help out the situation by lending the commission a clerical staff, office space, or anything else he could lawfully provide. He said the Federal regulation would be aimed at preventing "radio listeners from being dominated by politics or any other selfish interest in control of broadcasting."

INSURANCE FIRM NAMES NEW MANAGER, TAKES MORE SPACE

Edmund P. Melson, president of the Continental Life of St. Louis, has announced the appointment of Carl N. Crispin of Columbus, O., as manager of the group department of the Continental. As a beginning of group insurance activity by the Continental in St. Louis, the employes of the Grand National Bank were covered by a group life policy this week, the bank paying the entire premium.

Melson reports that the Continental is enlarging its group and accident departments, looking to increased activity in those fields this year. In order to provide additional space for the office force of the accident department, the medical department of the company has been moved from the Continental Life Building to the Ozark Building. The accident department has shown an increase in premium income of 124 per cent in 1926 over the previous year. B. H. Manning is manager of this department. Melson expects the company to go past the $100,000,000 mark of insurance in force this year.

Referring to the spectacular growth of insurance throughout the country, Melson said, "Group insurance has been a conspicuous feature of the large life insurance development in recent years. It was only 15 years ago that the first group policy was written. Today there is more than $5,500,000,000 of group insurance in force. Claim money is being sent into the homes of workers at the rate of more than $1,000,000 a week. Only 40 per cent of the claim cases show that the workers had any other insurance in force at the time."

CONTRACTS TO BE LET IN MONTH FOR TWO NEW BRIDGES

One Will Cross the Missouri at Ft. Bellefontaine, the Other the Mississippi at Alton.

$2,400,000 INVOLVED IN THE PROJECTS

Both to Be Finished in About a Year—Will Cut Distance From St. Louis to Alton 4.7 Miles.

Contracts for the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at the site of Fort Bellefontaine, seven miles north of St. Louis, and for the building of an allied bridge across the Mississippi at Alton are expected to be awarded in about a month, financing plans for the $2,400,000 project having been completed.

About a year is expected to be required for the construction. The distance from Broadway and Olive street to Alton, via the McKinley Bridge and the Tri-Cities is 25.9 miles, but the new pair of bridges will reduce this to 21.2 miles and bring Alton even nearer the West End of St. Louis. The new bridges will enable traffic to avoid numerous railroad grade-crossings on the East Side and will open the comparatively inaccessible point of St. Charles County adjacent to the mouth of the Missouri. Connecting at that point with State highway No. 94, they will greatly facilitate communication between Western Illinois and out-state Missouri.

The route through St. Louis County, from the end of Broadway in Baden, will be by way of Bellefontaine and Jamestown roads, now made, and about one mile of new road, the right of way for which has been acquired. The Missouri River bridge will be immediately downstream from the Burlington Railroad bridge at Fort Bellefontaine.

Connects With Cross-State Highway

Existing roads for about two miles across the St. Charles County point will be improved above the flood grade by the bridge interests, connecting with No. 94, a fine gravel road running to St. Charles and the Kansas City air line highway. The Mississippi bridge will be just downstream from another Burlington bridge and will span the railroad tracks on the Alton levee, landing at Broadway and Langdon street, several blocks east of the center of the Illinois city.

Toll for crossing both bridges, it is announced, will probably be about the same as the McKinley bridge toll, where the average charge is said to be 27 cents a vehicle, and there will be a less toll for one bridge alone.

Both bridges will be high, to avoid draw spans, and will be of the reinforced concrete, cantilever type. The one at Alton, with approaches, will be 3600 feet long and the one at Fort Bellefontaine 3900 feet. Each will have a 20-foot concrete roadway. The financiers anticipate that the two states eventually may wish to take over the bridges. Illinois highway No. 3, concrete, which parallels the Mississippi from Rock Island to Chester, passes through Alton. State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage, Mo., started the project.

Financing the Project.

Next Wednesday, the Alton Bridge Committee, a group of business men, will start seeking subscriptions in Alton for $650,000 in $ per cent preferred stock, at $100 a share par. With each share will be given two shares of the common, or voting stock, of no par value. In addition, 27,000 shares of common stock will be taken largely by the promoters. First mortgage 5 per cent bonds in the sum of $1,750,000 will be offered for public sale.

The Alton-St. Louis Bridge Co. is to be incorporated under Delaware laws. Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., Bitting & Co., and the William R. Compton Co., all of St. Louis, are the financiers. Harrington, Howard & Ash of Kansas City, who are building highway bridges across the Mississippi at Louisiana and Cape Girardeau, Mo., are the engineers.

It is not expected that there will be competition between this project and one planned by other interests to span the Mississippi at Chain of Rocks, to connect with the Alton and Edwardsville highways at Mitchell, Ill., says Meredith C. Jones of Anderson & Co. Jones estimates 60,000 vehicles would use the twin bridges the first year, half of which would be Alton traffic, which would prefer this route to the Chain of Rocks way. The latter bridge, plans for which have not been completed, would be more likely to attract traffic from Springfield, Ill., and beyond.

With each share will be given two shares of the common, or voting stock, of no par value. In addition, 37,000 shares of common stock will be taken largely by the promoters. DEFUNCT MILLINERY FIRM HEAD SURRENDERS ON INDICTMENT

Henry G. Latal Charged By Federal Grand Jury With Using Mails to Defraud.

Henry G. Latal of 6609 Chamberlain avenue, yesterday appeared at the Federal Building and surrendered to Postoffice Inspector Uttley on an indictment returned by the grand jury several days ago. He is charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with the sending of false financial statements to Eastern manufacturers and wholesalers to obtain credit for the Dorothy Lee Mfg. Co., manufacturers of millinery, of which he formerly was president.

Latal's company went into bankruptcy several months ago. It occupied quarters at 615 North Ninth street. Latal gave bond of $5000 to appear for trial March 21.

WANTS QUICK ACTION ON TRANSIT SYSTEM

Traffic Club Committee Says City Is Hampered by Lack of Transportation Facilities.

A special committee of the Traffic Club, appointed by President Henry J. Dentzman, has prepared a report for the board of governors declaring that the lack of rapid transit is retarding the development of Greater St. Louis. A remedy should be provided as quickly as possible, the report declares, "irrespective of the means employed."

There is considerable merit, the committee says, in the report of the Rapid Transit Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which advocated subways and other improvements, and also in the subsequent public suggestions on the subject. The latter was a reference in particular to the editorial proposal by the Post-Dispatch last month for a Rapid Transit Commission of experts to study the community's needs.

For Immediate Action.

"Whether subways shall be constructed in the downtown district or to the outskirts of Greater St. Louis, or whether there shall be considered a district of elevated structures remains to be developed," the Traffic Club committee reported, "but one or both should be provided, and that forthwith."

Members of the committee were W. R. Huey, chairman; T. H. Mulderig, C. W. Wheeler, W. E. Rosenbaum and F. G. Maxwell.

Alfred Henry Eisman, "rapid transit candidate" for the Republican nomination for Alderman from the Twenty-second Ward and president of the new Central Union of Neighborhood Organizations, which is working for transit improvement along the lines suggested by the Post-Dispatch received the indorsement of representatives of several of the constituent organizations, at a meeting at 4129 Clarence avenue Friday night. He took occasion to make the following statement concerning the railroad terminal reorganization and bridge exchange scheme:

Favors Popular Vote.

"I do not think the people will be deceived as to their best interests in the matter of a fair conclusion on the bridge-terminal question. St. Louisans have always been able to decide conservatively what they need. This matter is too important to be passed on without giving our citizens a chance to register their personal opinion on the question by vote. The people will be fair. Service is the paramount feature of any contract to be made. Quibbling over technicalities won't bring service. Let the voice of the people be heard on this important subject. Since argument exists on the bridge terminal problem, I favor submitting the present ordinance to the people, together with an amended plan, embodying in ordinance form any conservative alternatives, which take into consideration the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the paramount problem of service."

Delay in Legislature Endangers Chances of Transit Bill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 5.—The rapid transit bill, authorizing the creation of a Rapid Transit Commission for St. Louis, failed to get to engrossment this week, and the delay is seriously affecting its chances, as it will have to go from the House to the Senate, in the 10 or 12 days remaining of the legislative session.

O. J. Papke of St. Louis, who introduced the measure, waited in vain today and yesterday for a chance to bring it to engrossment, though it was No. 2 on the engrossment calendar. The House gave its whole time to the third reading and final passage of measures already engrossed and the same program is planned for Monday.

Hunts Spring Meeting. She would probably never have heard of The Boat Race or Belmont Park, which was a pity because so few people were rowing men and well-known steeple-chasers. But quite suddenly John forgot her drawbacks, and found himself holding a small brown hand across the discreet little table, and saying unexpectedly:

"I'd like to kiss the tip of your nose." Then, with no more restraint than a maniac:

"And one of those curls at the back of your neck," he continued, losing all caution.

"Also your upper lip and the tiny mole near the centre of your chin. Hell!"

A rosy flush bathed Denise in an ecstatic flood. They were very happy. A gentleman in the centre of the room, slightly embittered with the passing years, said:

"Look at those two idiots. Disgusting self-absorption, as usual. Ego, Ego, eternal Ego! Why, she's positively swooning with admiration for that good-looking dumb-bell. Revolting!"

His companion thought they were rather sweet. The violin and saxophone wove a pattern of rhythm which they followed smoothly, with the pleasure of perfectly matched steps keeping perfect time. In a distressingly short time, the musicians were putting away their instruments and waiters

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.

AND now, again, Washington society twists the delicious name of "Hoyt" around its tongue—a trifle more palatable now than ever before, thanks to the dainty frosting of British blue blood—and smacks its lips for more.

For Nancy—novelist, temperamentalist, she who, a few years back gave Washington a never-to-be-forgotten thrill by leaving her affianced one waiting at the altar—has followed the trail of those who came before. She has left her bridegroom of four months, just as she left her first love. And the bridegroom, not knowing Nancy as Washington society knows her, is waiting vainly in his fashionable apartment for her to return.

If he knew, he would pack his trunks quietly and trundle along back to Merry England.

For there are omens that course through the Hoyt veins, inevitably mixed with the blue fluid, roads from the past that converge in the end to a single point. And the purple-shawled matrons, satisfied beyond question that this is the point, chorus the eternal coda:

"I told you so!"

Three years ago Nancy was to have married Lieutenant Frederick Wiseman-Clarke, British Royal Navy, attached to the embassy in Washington. The invitations were sent out, the day arrived, the canopy even had been stretched down the steps from the door to the curb. In the boudoir of the bride-to-be the wedding gown was spread upon the bed.

But she changed her mind, this strange, unanswerable Nancy. As she sat at her dressing table, contemplating the future, the picture suddenly faded.

There was a simple, unexplained announcement:

"Miss Hoyt has been taken suddenly ill. The wedding has been indefinitely postponed."

And Washington society was plunged, instantly, into a flutter of excitement.

From the shocked young naval attache came only the most tactful answers, as the siege of reporters began. No, there was no break between them. Was he responsible? Ridiculous! Responsible for what? No, there had been no misunderstanding. He wore a casual smile, as he granted his interview. Finally he made a single statement for them all.

"Miss Hoyt is ill. Extremely ill. The wedding has been postponed, as she is physically unable to go through with it. I do not know when it will take place. Now, if you gentlemen will excuse me"——

And, in point of fact, he might have got away with it, except for the fact that Nancy, on the following afternoon, decided to go for a stroll along Massachusetts avenue.

The host of friends and relations of the young officer, who had come from England for the occasion, went back to England, whence they came, and following, shortly after, went Lieutenant Frederick Wiseman-Clarke, late fiance of Miss Nancy Hoyt.

Before Nancy came her sister, Elinor, who gave fashionable Washington plenty to talk about.

TO BEGIN with, Henry M. Hoyt, father of the two girls, was the son of former Governor Hoyt of Pennsylvania, and himself the incumbent of the enviable and distinguished position of Solicitor-General for the State Department. Beside Nancy and Elinor there were two other children, Henry M. Jr. and Morton. It was to Elinor that the specter of marital disaster first came, while Nancy was still a small child.

In 1906, just after the death of her esteemed father, Elinor made her debut early in January, heralded as the most beautiful bud Washington had known in many a season. She soon after became engaged, and in September was married to Philip S. Hichborn, son of the late Rear Admiral Philip Hichborn and one of Washington's most popular young bachelors.

"A love match"—was what the sapient matrons termed it, and three years of apparently perfect happiness passed. A son was born—Nancy's first nephew—Philip Hichborn III, and skies seemed bright. Too bright.

Four doors from the Hichborn home on Eighteenth street lived Horace Wylie, wealthy clubman and man about town, and, incidentally, Philip Hichborn's closest friend, though some years older. He had known Elinor Hoyt from her childhood, had seen her grow from infant to child and from child to woman. He had watched her develop from a homely, angular gawk of a tomboy into one of the most exquisite women in the national capital. He was a frequent visitor at the Hichborn home at all times.

Then, with the same unaccountable suddenness that was to characterize the "postponement" of her younger sister's wedding more than 20 years later, Elinor Hoyt Hichborn gave Washington society its first typically Hoyt sensation.

Ten days before Christmas, 1910, she disappeared, quietly and unobtrusively. And at the same time there disappeared also Horace Wylie.

Weeks later it was learned that the two had gone to Canada together, and thence to Europe. For three months the elopers lived at Monte Carlo, while young Hichborn and his infant son, and Mrs. Wylie and her four children, tried as best they could to brave the gossip.

In April they came back to Washington, seeking forgiveness. They found it, and all went well enough for six months. But the job of living down the past was too much. Always there was a tinge of frigidity, even from the oldest of friends. In September it happened all over again. Elinor Hichborn and Horace Wylie eloped to Paris, and before they went the man signed his entire estate over to Mrs. Wylie—some $600,000 all told.

Mrs. Wylie, with that stamina of character that comes with age and experience, closed her eyes, forced her face into a smile and went on with her task of raising her four children. But young Hichborn, still in his twenties, and lacking that stamina, broke under the strain. He went to California for several months, but with little gain. Early in March, 1912, he returned to Washington, where he heard rumors that his wife and Wylie were living together in Paris, and that a child had been born to them.

Late in the afternoon of March 27, friends passing the house of his sister, where he had been staying, heard what sounded like a shot from within, and after consideration decided to investigate. They found him on the floor of his room, a bullet through his brain, and a pistol in his hand. There was a note on his writing desk, written in a sprawling, uncertain hand:

"I am not to blame for this. . . . I think I have lost my mind. I want all my property to go to my son, Philip."

Mrs. Wylie subsequently divorced her husband, who married Elinor in Paris, where, as Elinor Wylie, she started her career as one of America's best-known modern poets. In 1923 she divorced Wylie and married William Rose Benet, a poet almost as famous as herself.

THUS, in the plastic childhood days of Nancy Hoyt's life were woven an intricate mass of family unhappiness, of sidelong glances from those who might have been her closest friends, and of strange, unaccountable character quirks of those nearest her.

In her school—she attended the fashionable Holten Arms on S street, near the Woodrow Wilson home—she made a mark for herself as a student. Mrs. Hoyt, worn with the worries of her eldest daughter, of the son Henry, who seemed subject to attacks of severe melancholia, and of the other son, Morton, who was then just coming of age, had little time or energy to devote to the youngest of the family.

There was much time to study, and with some new spectre of unpleasantness clouding the family skies at each new turn, the strange little gawk of a girl found studies not too disagreeable as a pastime.

In 1920 Henry, the elder brother, committed suicide in one of his fits of depression. Two years later Nancy made her debut.

And as a debutante she was a profound and unquestionable sensation. She was as beautiful, perhaps, as her sister had been, years before, and in the little group of super-intellectuals, made up largely of the younger members of the diplomatic set, she was a welcome and refreshing addition.

It was in this little clique of intelligentsia that Nancy met the much-sought-after and coveted Lieutenant Wiseman-Clarke. She had known him some ten months when the engagement was finally announced, as the most important one of the season.

The wedding was to take place at the Hoyt home, with a tremendous reception to follow. The parties and affairs in honor of the bridal party were among the most brilliant in Washington's history, attended not only by diplomats of every degree of importance and obscurity, but as well by the "cave-dweller" or very conservative old-residential set.

Speculation was rife at the time as to whether any lesser soul than Nancy could have so "combined oil and water."

And so the day approached, and with it her change of heart. The bomb exploded, and the sporting Britisher went back to London. And Nancy, upon his departure, began to assume the role of the temperamentaliste—the role of her sister Elinor.

Grimly, almost bitterly, she plunged herself into writing, and the left-at-the-church episode began to be eclipsed by matters of greater import.

HENRY L. MENCKEN, the celebrated editor and critic, took an active interest in her, and adopted her as his protege. Within a year she had sold stories to many of the most exclusive magazines in the country.

Nancy was, with this, the typical artiste: highly strung, temperamental to the last degree, a trifle arrogant, a trifle more conceited, and strongly opinionated. That she was a genius was generally conceded without question, and the concession usually used to excuse her moral and material selfishness.

As a conversationalist, she was clever to the last degree, in a cryptic vein. She held, on her tongue-tip, a limitless wealth of sparkling epigrams and witticisms that served, effectually, to wither any intellectual rival, and she reigned, in her glory, challenged only by the brilliant young sister-debutante, Natalie Hays Hammond, daughter of the famous mining engineer, John Hays Hammond.

Even this challenge, however, was not serious, for the two intellects were of totally different natures, and not amenable to comparison.

Outside her writing, Nancy's sole interest was in the Junior League—an organization of debutantes for charity work in the needy sections of the city. In this she managed, directed and produced for several successive years the annual entertainment of the organization, taking a prominent part in each affair.

Even there, however, the irrepressible temperament showed itself. In the last performance she refused to go on with her act at the last moment, pleading a sprained ankle from the dress rehearsal. With the same complacency that characterized her Massachusetts avenue stroll the day after the wedding that never took place, she appeared at the entertainment after the acts were over, and spent the remainder of the evening dancing.

Meanwhile, Morton, the surviving brother, had married the exquisite Jean Bankhead, daughter of the Representative from Alabama, granddaughter of the late Senator from the same State, and sister of Tallulah Bankhead, the actress, and after a short essay at married life had agreed with her that the future of each would be brighter without the other's shadow.

Jean hied herself off to Paris—good-naturedly, for she was one of those rare, imperturbable souls to whom even marital happiness is just another chapter of life, to be written in or edited out—to get a divorce.

Nancy followed in the summer of 1925, spent the best part of six months delving into the coverts of the city of romance, and came back to America armed with a novel that was gobbled up first by her publisher, and later by the public.

"Roundabout" was, in point of fact, little more than an embellished autobiography. Its climax was the jilting of a handsome young man on the very steps of the bridal church. And because it was recognized as such, as well as because it was really a work of merit, it went into one edition after another.

In answer, Nancy again took herself off across the seas in quest of material. That was last summer.

IT WAS London, this time, and in London there was one Nicholas, Crown Prince of Rumania, later and more familiarly known throughout this great land of democracy as "Prince Nicky." Her wit intrigued the Prince, and he enjoyed her company. And during the course of their acquaintance he introduced her to Gerald Wynn Wynne, son of the late Major and Mrs. Reginald Wynn Wynne of London.

The courtship was brief; so brief, in fact, that before Washington had heard that Nancy had been well settled in London they heard of her marriage. The ceremony took place, late in October, at the fashionable St. George's, Hanover Square.

The new bridegroom—a quiet, unassuming young man, who appeared more in the light of an adopted son than a husband—was brought back to America, displayed, as though at the end of a string, and then placed comfortably in the little apartment on Q street. For four months they lived there together, and outwardly things seemed to be going nicely.

Washington society, however, had its doubts. There were the omens from the past, fingers that pointed, all to a single end. At the outset, Nancy's tongue had been bridled marvelously. The crypticisms of yesterday had been strangely absent. But gradually the bridles loosened, and the role of intelligentsia began to creep back. Here, vaguely, a mental parry; there, a subtle phrase.

They were seen together less and less often. And finally, when a friend called at the apartment one afternoon, to be referred to the home of Mrs. Hoyt, the cat was out of the bag.

It wasn't a surprise to Washington society, which remembered the past.

And so, across the gilded cups, mingled with the bouquet of expensive tea, and accompanied by the chatter of charity balls, comes ever that same chant from the purple shawls: "I told you so!"

Henry Wise Wood.

A Missouri Farmer Overthrows Canadian Premier

Henry Wise Wood Became the Champion of the Alberta Agriculturists and Now Pulls the Strings That Work the Government.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CALGARY, Canada.

HE STARTED in Missouri and tarried a while in the Dakotas; passed through the trials and tribulations of dry years, grasshoppers and the Nonpartisan League there. Now he's the power behind the Prime Minister's throne in the Canadian province of Alberta; Henry Wise Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta.

This Missouri farmer, chief executive for years of the smoothest and most powerful political machine ever known in Canada, was invited to become Premier of Alberta when his cohorts swept the old-line Liberal party out of power and almost out of existence in 1921. He declined the honor, but he retained control as effectively or more so than if he had donned the toga.

Henry Wise Wood named the Premier of the Province, the Attorney-General and the other members of the Cabinet, and it is a common understanding in Alberta that they do as he tells them.

He even fired one Premier, through a caucus of Farmer-Government members of the Legislature, without his own name appearing in print, and appointed his Attorney-General, Hon. J. E. Brownlee, a former solicitor in the office of the United Farmers of Alberta, to the throne. He softened the blow in that case by seeing that the departed spokesman was sent to England as a plenipotentiary-extraordinary to find new settlers for Alberta farms.

With a new Prime Minister at the helm, and a general shuffle in the Cabinet, the Missouri leader went into action again in 1926, when the old-line parties made a bold bid for renewed political power.

The parties found that Mr. Wood's hired hands in the Capitol and Mr. Wood's cohorts on the farms still drove where he directed, regardless of opposition. The Farmer Government stayed in power with a stronger following than they secured in the landslide of 1921 and the crown never tottered on the "uncrowned king's" head.

Henry Wise Wood, while directing the course of government, is theoretically directed in turn by the so-called nonpolitical group organization known as the United Farmers of Alberta, or U. F. A., as they are called for short.

The U. F. A. meet in annual convention every year, complete with gaudy badges, and re-elect Henry Wise Wood to the presidency. They have done so for 11 yars now, and while other names are invariably placed before the convention, the nominees just as invariably rise to withdraw, and Mr. Wood's mimeographed speech of acceptance is read but drowned in the cheers of the faithful.

The other function of the U. F. A. convention is to pass a raft of resolutions embodying legislation by and for the farmers. The U. F. A. resolutions are passed to the U. F. A. Government, after being carefully sifted by the U. F. A. president, and those that receive the O. K. of the chief are placed upon the statute books of the Province, nailed firmly there by the weight of a three-quarter majority in the provincial Legislature. The whole procedure is simple, childlike, but the tactics that founded this formidable political dictation were far from being elementary.

Henry Wise Wood was born on a farm in Ralls County, Missouri, on May 31, 1860. He was educated in the rural school of his district, at a private school in Monroe City and at the Christian University, Canton, Missouri.

MR. WOOD lived on his native farm until soon after the beginning of the present century, with the exception of three years spent in Texas, later moving to the Dakotas, and, a short time afterwards, to Alberta. He became a naturalized British subject in 1911.

He appeared on the Alberta scene in the early part of the present century, when land in the Canadian province was far cheaper than in Missouri, or even in the Dakotas. Scores of thousands of American farmers moved across the north American boundary line with bag and baggage to the prairie acres of Alberta. With them went H. W. Wood, and in the van were hundreds of other Americans, who learned their politics in a hard school, and who now sit on the right hand of the master in an ultra-British possession.

Not, it may be remarked in parenthesis, that any henchman gets too close to the right hand of Henry Wise Wood. They sit at a respectful distance. Mr. Wood is training no successor and none is indispensable in the U. F. A. but Mr. Wood himself.

H. W. Wood was and is an indifferent farmer himself. His Alberta farm is no model, nor has it ever paid any astounding dividends. But Mr. Wood was a wizard at codifying all the wrongs, griefs and complaints that farmers in a new land can suffer. He soon became the champion of the Alberta agriculturist, who is chiefly a grower of wheat.

LIKE farmers the world over, the Alberta wheat grower thoroughly believed that he had never got a square deal from the "big interests" in the east—railroad companies, implement makers, banks or from that arch-enemy of the farmer, the grain trade. Wood studied these evils—real or alleged—and displayed singular skill in organizing the victims thereof into an effective fighting force. First, he became perpetual president of the United Farmers of Alberta, then president of the Alberta Wheat Pool—of which more later.

Henry Wise Wood decided in 1921—perhaps long before that, for he has few real confidantes—that he had a powerful political machine in his control, with his farmers' locals in every district of a vast province. In other words, the soup was boiling nicely.

A Liberal Government had been in power since 1905 and parts of its history were lurid, to say the least. Wood began preaching a peculiar doctrine of his own that he labeled the "economic group theory." He called upon all groups of industrialists to unite and to elect their representatives to the provincial Legislature, to run the province by co-operative action.

With whoops of joy, the farmers, who began to perceive what Henry Wise Wood had known for a long time, that about five-sixths of Alberta's industry was agricultural, tore down the old party standards and very nearly elected five-sixths of the members of the provincial Legislature.

WITH the spoils of victory in their hands, or rather in the hands of Henry Wise Wood, the farmers forgot the altruistic portions of the Wood economic group theory. Their trouble, their responsibility. Why divide those spoils with the other industrial groups, which were so nearly nonexistent? They didn't; they still keep them.

The farmers' success may have been a little overwhelming to the victors themselves. Suddenly a group of farmers who had spent all their spare time for years heartily damning the Government, found that they owned the Legislature, from roof tree to cellar, but that no Government existed. They hadn't one themselves. What they did have, in addition to a preponderating majority of members of assorted ages, sexes and degrees of political experience was Henry Wise Wood. So to Henry Wood they turned.

The first Government caucus was held in Henry Wise Wood's offices at the headquarters of the United Farmers of Alberta. Naturally the clamor was that Wood himself should take the premiership. Wood refused flatly.

AFTER long hours of deliberation the new Farmer members — note the capital F, for the Farmers were now the official administration of the province, and entitled to it—accepted the Prime Minister selected, probably long before, by Mr. Wood. They also selected the solicitor for the U. F. A. as Attorney-General and other Cabinet members put forward by the master, all of whom had been leading platform lights in the U. F. A., although none of them had shone very brightly when the particularly bright light of Henry Wise Wood himself was in evidence.

The Prime Minister who received the approval of that first legislative conference was Hon. Herbert Greenfield, at that time a rough and ready orator from the backwoods, who later became much the polished diplomat—so polished, in fact, that he eventually found himself ousted from his premiership and installed in a more congenial atmosphere as a high Government official in London, England. Henry Wise Wood, who still wears, apparently, the black slouch hat that he took over from Missouri with him, wants no silk lids nor frock coats in his little Downing street.

From these beginnings Mr. Wood has built up a Government that may be ousted in a hundred years or so, but which for his lifetime is unmistakably his personal chattel. The extraordinary part of the whole thing is that little public outcry has arisen from the other "industrial groups," nor from the white-collar inhabitants of the province, save and except, of course, at election times, and as the Government is firmly intrenched these elections come but once every five years, and are then little more than formalities, breaks in legislative monotony. The result is always a foregone conclusion. The Farmers go back into power and the public settles down again under the Wood dictatorship, far more amiably than do the Italians under that other great dictator, Mussolini.

COMPARISON of H. W. Wood with Mussolini may not be so far-fetched as it might appear at first sight. With Alberta provincial affairs securely under his thumb, Mr. Wood began to direct his influence toward Federal activities, and the direct outcome of his economic group theory was, last year, one of the most uproarious situations in Federal politics for several decades.

By a process of infiltration; or whatever one may wish to call it, Farmer members, thinly camouflaged as Progressives, found themselves invading the halls of the dominion Parliament, until in 1926 they found themselves holding the balance of power between the Liberal Government, headed by Premier Mackenzie King, and the old die-hard Conservative faction, led by the now deposed Right Honorable Arthur Meighen.

While Mackenzie King danced to the tune played by the Farmers he stayed in power—precariously. Then the tune changed to ragtime and King toppled, paving the way for the short-lived Conservative regime of 1926 and the bitterest election campaign that has been waged anywhere for years. The Farmers switched and defeated the Government by a few votes.

But there were defections from the Farmer ranks in Ottawa. "Ginger Groups" and other insurgents put the machine badly out of gear.

HENRY WISE WOOD, seeing the handwriting on the wall before it was apparent to other eyes, decided to send his "solid sixteen" members from Alberta down to Ottawa under the banner of the U. F. A.. He didn't quite achieve the full quota, but he bagged most of the Federal seats in the province, and his henchmen went to Ottawa no longer labeled "Progressives" nor belonging to any other political group than that which already held power in their own province. They went as U. F. A. members, plain and simple, and there they sit, the wedge that may bring the Missouri farmer to even greater places of authority in British Canada.

On the nonpolitical side of the fence, Wood's power is also growing. He is head of the big Alberta Wheat Pool, the first organization of its kind in Canada. The plan has spread to Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and when it spreads, as there is little doubt that it will, to other parts of the continent and of the globe, Henry Wise Wood is going to find himself somewhere near the driver's seat of one of the most formidable trade combines ever imagined. Another American, Aaron Sapiro of Chicago, had a hand in the making of the great Alberta pool, but H. W. Wood soon made it plain that he was the man at the wheel.

Henry Wise Wood, American maker of Canadian Governments, dreams that through co-operating pool agencies the wheat grower can gain and keep absolute control of the world's wheat markets. And this farmer from Missouri has proved that he has the capacity to make his dreams, in a most uncanny way, come true.

SAN FRANCISCO, California.

THE Chinese girl named Ham Leong, also known as the "Butterfly Girl" of San Francisco's Chinatown, has been murdered.

Decked in the jewels which were a source of wonder to half the Oriental populace, the "slave girl" was found by a friend one night recently, her throat slit with a pair of shears. Whether the jealousy of rival lovers, the hatred of warring tongs or an unsuspected motive caused her murder is as great a mystery as it was on the night on which the crime was discovered.

The police of San Francisco have made an investigation, the baffling, half-hidden clews have been followed down, the murder has been entered on the police records. But the slaying of Ham Leong will remain, they fear, like the tragic passing of other butterflies of Chinatown, a legend.

Many have come and many have gone before Ham Leong. Despite the laws of East and West, young girls, sold into slavery in China, have found their way to these shores.

Twenty to twenty-five years ago there flourished in Chinatown a vice district, similar to that which existed in Shanghai and other Chinese cities; similar, too, to the Yoshiwara in Tokio. Many of the butterfly slave girls were destined for this district.

Others found their way into domestic slavery. The wives of wealthy Chinese merchants had one or two girl slaves, whose lives were one long strain of unremitting hardship and toil.

Twenty years ago it was comparatively simple to import a slave girl. She was accompanied by an older woman, whom she was taught to call "mother," during the voyage. She was instructed to tell strangers and immigration officials that she was coming to America with her mother, where they would join the father, already established in the new land. On the journey over she was well treated, and was given attractive clothes and toys.

SHE was given no warning of the fate which awaited her in San Francisco's Chinatown. England and other nations have done much to stamp out this traffic at its source, in the Chinese cities under foreign protectorates. But there was always the problem, however, of the poverty-stricken Chinese family, unable to support numerous offspring. These families defeated the intent of the laws.

Frequently a slave girl escaped to reveal momentarily the system that prevailed behind the inscrutable, impassive face that Chinatown presented to the world. There is the case of Loi Mui, who was held a prisoner for six years.

Shuffling home through the fog, a Chinese youth saw a paper flutter down before him. He picked it up and read its message, in Chinese characters:

"I am a slave girl. I wish to get away from my cruel masters. I have been kept a prisoner six years on the fourth floor of 1115 Stockton street. My name is Loi Mui. I was brought here from China when I was a little girl. I have a friend who says if I can send word to the man who passes in blue clothes with a star they will help me. I want to go back to China. Please help me."

The Chinese youth, born in America, knew the dangers of appealing to the white man's law, the swift vengeance of the tongs that would probably follow. Moved by the appeal, however, he gave the note to the police, first extracting a promise that his name would never be revealed. Loi Mui was rescued an hour after the note had been found and a few days later was deported. She had been sold into slavery as a child of 12, and held, police claimed, by the powerful Hip Sing Tong.

FREQUENT tong wars that extended to the Chinese districts of almost every large city in the United States were started over the charms of one or another of the slave girls. Frequently the missions in San Francisco's Chinatown played a part in the rescue of these butterfly girls.

Ham Leong's fate was less harsh than that which has befallen the majority of girls imported as slaves. It may have been because of her singular beauty or her skill in fantastic Chinese dances, heralded the length of the West coast, that won her a life of comparative ease, a life, it is believed, in which she was comparatively happy.

Born of Chinese peasants, Ham Leong had been sold into slavery as a small child, and shortly afterward she had been brought to America. She had come first to the then booming Chinatown of Fresno, California, as the slave girl of a wealthy Oriental.

Maturing at an early age, she grew fairer than the venerated lotus blossom. Nightly the sound of her dancing feet was heard in the house of her wealthy master. She danced her way into his heart.

For a time everything went well in the household. Ham Leong was pampered and petted—and happy. The merchant was charmed with her.

Then came an event that proved a turning point in Ham Leong's life. A young Chinese servant became enamored of her, and she responded to his love. For months, it is said, secretly, the romance progressed. Apparently, neither of them considered the consequences of discovery.

It was inevitable that the merchant should discover the infidelity of his slave girl. Inevitably, too, when he discovered her with the servant, he regarded her as tainted, since her lips had touched another's.

The servant was discharged and again Ham Leong was sold. Eighteen years old now and fully matured, the word of her charm had spread far. There were many bidders, it is said, for the dancing butterfly. The highest bidder was a wealthy San Francisco Chinese, and Ham Leong went to grace the yellow colony that spreads along the waterfront, looking out toward the Golden Gate.

BEFORE a year had passed Ham Leong had become the talk of the two worlds that merge but never meet. The cabarets of the Western world knew her lightly slippered feet that moved so swiftly to the jazz tempo. Chinatown knew her dancing, too, to the weird sound of strangely shaped fiddles and stranger drums.

There is something of a mystery about the position she enjoyed in Chinatown. She lived in the seclusion of an apartment, alone, scarlet hangings and Chinese embroideries on the wall. There were visitors, of course, but Ham Leong seems to have had the right to choose her callers. Whether her new owner gave her her freedom, whether he had established her in the apartment, no one attempts to say.

Along the narrow streets of Chinatown she was known as a "protected woman." She passed through the strife and turmoil of tong warfare unharmed. It is even intimated that she played some part in the solemn conclaves that preceded and concluded these wars.

It was rumored that the head of the most powerful of the tongs was her "protector." It was rumored, too, that the love affair with the young servant had not been broken off; that, on the contrary, it had continued since Ham Leong had come to San Francisco. Ham Leong was happy during these years, her friends say.

Mrs. Lim Choy was perhaps her closest friend. Each night she called her on the telephone. They exchanged the deepest confidences. It was Mrs. Lim Choy's belief that she knew all the secrets of Ham Leong.

On the night of the murder Lim Choy could get no response when she called her friend. Again and again, until midnight, she telephoned. Then she went to the Washington street apartment to investigate.

The door was closed but unlocked. Inside she found everything in order, Ham Leong in bed, apparently asleep. She tried to waken her.

Pulling back the coverlet, she discovered the tragedy and ran screaming into the street. The policeman on the beat came back to the apartment with her. Ham Leong, it was discovered, had been dead for some time. The shears had been left in the wound.

The butterfly girl was dressed in her finest garments, brilliant Cantonese robes, with an old heavily brocaded Mandarin coat for a shroud. On her hands were several diamond rings, one of them valued at $800. In her ears were pearl earrings and about her neck was a string of jade. Whoever had murdered her had placed her on the bed and had drawn up the covers about her.

Obviously, robbery was not the motive for the murder. Mrs. Lim Choy also scouted a possible theory of suicide. Ham Leong had no reason to end her own life.

There were no marks of other violence on the body, no indication that Ham Leong had struggled with her murderer. This led to a police theory that she had been murdered while she slept, possibly as she lay napping on the profusely cushioned couch near the window that looked out over Chinatown.

Letters on Ham Leong's dresser offered no clew. Translated, they proved to be merely part of an innocent correspondence with a girl friend in Los Angeles. Neither could Chow Jing nor Billie Hee, in adjoining apartments, throw any light on the murder. They had heard nothing.

MRS. LIM CHOY could give the police no aid. There had been no information of impending tragedy in her friend's life.

The slim shears used to commit the murder savor of the Orient, police say. But they do not exclude the possibility that the slayer may have been an Occidental. The Chinese, when questioned, merely grunt and shake their heads.

There, it seems, the story will end. Ham Leong's tragedy is not the first. Many another butterfly girl has gone before her. Ordinarily their passing is unostentatious. They simply drop out of sight, and the Occidental world knows nothing of their going.

The case of Ham Leong was different. She was known to both races. There are many conjectures about the murder. Some believe it was Ham Leong's servant-lover. Police are searching for him. Others think it was another Chinese woman, seeking the hand and favor of her wealthy "protector." Still others hold that the tong leader himself killed Ham Leong when he heard of her clandestine love. Still another belief attributes the crime to a tongman foe of her "protector," seeking this means of striking deepest into the heart of his enemy.

The police are not optimistic. They believe the crime will never be solved. With Ham Leong went the secret of her tragedy, and if Chinatown knows—as the police believe—Chinatown will never tell.

CHARGED WITH CALLING MUSSOLINI A PIG

Amerigo Dumini, St. Louis Born Fascist Who Drove the Car Which Bore Matteoti to His Doom, Faces Five Years of Solitary Confinement.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

ROME.

FIVE years in solitary confinement is the fate which hangs on the tense of a verb for Amerigo Dumini, born in St. Louis 33 years ago, and now engaged in another effort to free himself from the grasp of Fascisti intrigues that have reduced him from a leading henchman to a despised prisoner.

The crime for which he is now serving 14 months is that of lese majeste. He is charged with speaking disrespectfully of Mussolini.

Previously he had served less than three months for his part in the murder of the Socialist Deputy, Giacomo Matteoti. But that crime, it is whispered, was performed in the services of the State, and four years and seven months of the sentence were commuted by Mussolini.

Now, with the threat that Dumini will have to serve, besides the 14 months imposed for the alleged slur, the four years and seven months that were commuted, his lawyer has taken an appeal to the Supreme Tribunal, arguing on the basis of the construction of the Italian verb, parlare, that Dumini intended his disrespectful remark for an old enemy in the Fascisti party, Albino Volpi, and not for Mussolini.

Parlare means "to speak." Its form in the present tense, "I speak," is parlo, in the past perfect tense, "I had spoken," is parlato. Dumini claims he said, referring to Volpi, as the "President" of a minor Fascisti order: "If I had spoken I could have made that pig of a president take 30 years of solitary confinement." He was discussing the Matteoti murder, and, he maintains, the share of the blame for that crime which was Volpi's. The detective who caused his arrest says his words were: "If I speak, I could make him take 30 years," interpreting the remark as a threat against Mussolini as "President of the Council." Grammarians as well as lawyers will wrangle over this fine point when the case is heard by the highest court in the land.

BEHIND the situation in which Dumini finds himself in an amazing series of plots and counterplots in which human life was pitted against human life with the lordship of all Italy for Mussolini as the goal. In the thick of it all was this hot-headed young adventurer.

Even in his childhood in St. Louis, where he lived until he was nearly 5 years old with his father, Adolphe Dumini, a portrait painter, and his mother, who had been an English school teacher in Florence, Amerigo had the name of being something of a madcap. His pranks, it is said, are still remembered by housekeepers with whom the Duminis stayed.

The elder Dumini had prospered in St. Louis. When the death of his father called him back to Italy, his young English wife grieved. She had been fond of America; she mistrusted Italy.

The Dumini family, Amerigo in the center.

The Dumini's older son, Alberto, born in Italy, was of a quiet, studious temperament, in marked contrast to Amerigo. Both boys were bright and progressed rapidly in their studies at school, but Amerigo never won any awards for good behavior.

It was during the war that Amerigo had full opportunity to display his special talents. He took part in almost every important battle in which the Italian troops participated from the very outbreak of hostilities. He risked his life in various exploits.

It was in the closing year of the war that he learned of the new movement, Fascism, that was sweeping all Italy.

Returning to the front from a brief leave, he preached the new doctrine among his fellow soldiers, arousing enthusiasm for the cause of the "Blackshirts."

At the close of the war the Fascists found ample work for him to do. The entire population must be brought under the sway of Fascism, the Socialists and other opponents must be cowed. It is rumored that Dumini was involved in the death of 11 Socialists and other disturbers whom it had been found necessary to get out of the way. Like all other Fascists, he worshiped Mussolini.

On June 10, 1924, there was important work afoot. The millionaire Socialist, Matteoti, had threatened to make a speech in the Chamber of Deputies exposing the methods of Mussolini. In his possession were certain significant papers and documents. The order went out, it is reported, to steal the evidence in Matteoti's possession.

The Socialist Deputy disappeared and all Italy was aroused by the search that followed. It was openly said that the Fascisti were responsible. Several party leaders were arrested but released. Two months later Matteoti's body, containing numerous stab wounds, was found.

IT WAS nearly two years before anyone was brought to trial. Then Dumini, Albino Volpi and three other leaders of the Ceheka, or terrorists' organization, were brought to trial at Chieti, a sleepy village, where Fascists could dominate the proceedings.

From the first it was believed that the trial would be more or less a farce. Dumini proved the hero of the day. Brought to the stand, he took entire blame for the death of Matteoti, but claimed that the Socialist met his death accidentally during the attempt to kidnap him. The court accepted this fiction, despite the testimony of other witnesses, and Dumini, with Volpi, who also had accepted a share of the blame, was sentenced to five years.

Prison was only another pleasant episode for the heroic young Fascist. He was given his freedom within the prison walls, the best of food and quarters, and was even permitted to entertain his friends at tea occasionally. Moreover, Mussolini saw that Dumini's family received an income of about $2000 a month during his imprisonment. On May 26, 1926, he was given his freedom.

But now, having time for reflection, Dumini began to feel that he had been unjustly treated. He had been made to bear the stigma for a crime in which, he now claims, he played only a minor role. He contends that he only drove the car while four others murdered Matteoti in the rear compartment of a large limousine, separated from the driver's seat by a glass partition. Mussolini and other Fascist leaders began to realize, too, that Dumini knew too much about their stormy episodes in the early history of Fascism, now best forgotten. A watch was set upon Dumini's movements. He was put out of the Association of the Bold, of Milan, a leading Fascisti order. Smarting under this and other real and imagined wrongs, Dumini began to write an account of certain episodes in the history of Fascism in which he had played a part, having in mind, perhaps, doing as another leader, Cesare Rossi, had done, escaping to Paris and there publishing an exoneration of his own conduct.

DUMINI'S ST. LOUIS HISTORY

AT the behest of John Ringen, stove manufacturer and wealthy patron of the arts, Adolphe Dumini, Italian portrait painter, came to St. Louis in 1892, bringing with him his wife, who had been an English school teacher in Florence. For a month they made their home with the Ringens at 4367 Delmar boulevard. Dumini painted portraits for Ringen and members of his family and found other work for his brush which brought in a comfortable income.

Amerigo Dumini, the son, was born on January 3, 1894, at 2818 Franklin avenue, where the family resided for a brief time. The Duminis later moved to 1730 Franklin avenue, where they lived until returning to Italy in 1898, called back by the death of Adolphe Dumini's father who also had been a painter.

Giacomo Matteoti.

Before this could be carried out another grudge arose for Dumini's settlement. While staying with his family at Oste Mare, a summer resort near Rome, Dumini learned that his brother, Alberto, had been murdered in the Albanian city, Scutari. Forthwith he went to Scutari to avenge his brother. Finding that the murderer had fled, Dumini returned to Rome, persuaded a friend or two to join him and returned to Scutari, where they drove out the slayer's family, burned his house, drove off the livestock and destroyed the estate on which he had lived.

Returning to Italy, he chafed under the restraint of the guard that had been set to watch him, and members of his family were subject to many annoyances. On the night of last September 23, Dumini stood talking with three or four young Fascisti before the offices of "L'Impero," Fascist newspaper. The Matteoti murder came into the conversation. Dumini waxed loud and angry.

"That pig of a President!" he exclaimed as the discussion grew more violent. "If I had spoken I could have made him take 30 years of solitary confinement."

The next morning he was arrested, charged by Francesco Braccio, an aide to the Commissioner of Police, with speaking disrespectfully of and imputing criminal guilt to Mussolini. This had been made punishable by a jail sentence under a statute enacted December 24, 1925.

Dumini protested the charge. He contended that by "President" he referred to Albino Volpi, who had been, at the time of the Matteoti murder, President of the Association of the Bold, of Milan. His protests were disregarded. The wheels of the law were put in motion. Police seized papers and photographs which he had kept in a safety box in Rome.

Alberto and Amerigo Dumini (on right), from a photograph taken in St. Louis.

A lawyer who belonged neither to the Fascisti party nor to the opposition was employed by Dumini. It seemed impossible that he could be sentenced to prison. Having searched his rooms and found a revolver for which he had no government permit, another charge, that of possessing firearms illegally, was entered.

AT HIS trial numerous witnesses were arrayed to prove that he had said nothing derogatory to Mussolini. Two of the young men with whom he had been talking testified that they did not believe his remark referred to the Prime Minister. He swore to his admiration for Il Duce.

"It is not an accurate statement that in private discourse Mussolini is referred to as 'President of the Council,' much less as 'President,'" Dumini's lawyer contends, arguing in a brief which he will file with the supreme tribunal that Mussolini could not possibly have been intended. "Because he is the highest in the estimation of the public, he is called simply 'Mussolini.' None speaking of that great character, Cavour, would dream of saying 'The President of the Council, Cavour.' Cavour is simply and historically 'Cavour,' just as in the hearts and the minds of the Italians Mussolini is uniquely—'Mussolini.'"

"It is therefore logical," the report of the trial court concluded, "and natural that Dumini, in voicing all his violent resentments against the party, believing that he was badly treated and regarded as a suspicious character, after having wished evil to Marinelli, Vaselli and Volpi (all Fascisti leaders) should finish by inveighing also against the President of the Council, and of the Party, in the same breath, wishing it to him first, being greater than they."

"It is incredible!" Dumini's lawyer murmured, overcome by this garbled logic. But incredible or not, Dumini was sentenced to 14 months on the two charges. He was sent to a distant prison in the mountains of Northern Italy, where existence was far from being as pleasant as it had been on the occasion of the previous jail term. Visitors are forbidden.

Now on a question as minute as the tense of the verb which Dumini used in making his fatal remark will depend whether or not he will gain his freedom on an appeal to the Supreme Tribunal. There is the question, too, of whether or not the previous commutation will be revoked. Dumini thinks that he has a chance for freedom with the higher court. There are those high in the councils of the Fascisti, however, who are cynical enough to believe that the young man will be kept behind prison bars as long as any possible justification can be found. He knows too much, they say.

Battling a Hunchback's Evil Genius

Master Man Hunters—IX

THE story of Abadie, the hunch-back gang leader of Paris, is another in the Master Man Hunter series revealing the individualistic genius of both the hunter and the hunted in France. Abadie was a foundling who, as a child, was passed around from one family of crooks to another. When he reached manhood he had so well absorbed his environmental influences that his skill in crime was uncanny.

By JOSEPH GOLLOMB

WHEN Abadie was a night and a day old somebody wrapped him in a bundle of rags and left him whimpering behind a pile of cabbages in a corner of Les Halles, the big central markets in Paris. His voice, no stronger than a kitten's, came to the ears of a sodden beggar woman, known about the markets as Pink-Eye, who was shuffling to her "home," a cellar hole near the markets.

She, an old rag of humanity herself, 50 years old but looking much more and clad in a wardrobe gathered from refuse heaps, was the only person who ever did anything for Abadie. Picking Abadie and his rags up exactly as she had picked many another discarded bit from refuse heaps, she took the infant to her cellar.

It was not kindness that moved the old crone. What she saw in Abadie was an aid in her begging. In the technique of panhandling a baby in one's arms is a help. So Pink-Eye decided that Abadie could earn for her more than the cost of his keep.

With Abadie as assistant in begging she induced a dairy dealer in the big market to let her have a bit of skimmed milk for the infant. Pouring the near-milk into the rum bottle, Pink-Eye forced one of the used rubber nipples over the neck of the bottle and gave it to Abadie to suck. This was the nearest thing to a mother's care he ever got.

During the day he worked for her, of course. Swathed in a mass of picturesquely squalid rags, squalid both by necessity and by choice on the part of Pink-Eye, since a baby in rags moves the hardest heart to charity, Abadie more than trebled Pink-Eye's takings. The worse the weather the more Abadie's exposure to it enriched Pink-Eye.

It must have been that Abadie was born of the toughest of weed stock. For he did not die, tiny and frail as he was.

One day when Pink-Eye was warming the thin blood in her with raw rum she tried to put Abadie back into the "cradle" and stumbled and fell with him. He fell on his back on the cellar stones, but as baby bones are soft he was not killed. Something in his backbone twisted, however.

Pink-Eye did not know it, of course; nor would she have cared much had she known, for the infant only yowled. But that twist in the backbone meant that when the youngster grew up he would be a hunchback.

WHEN Abadie was a little older Pink-Eye died and a begging couple took him over. Later on he wandered away to still another vagabond pair.

This couple added petty thieving to their means of getting something for nothing, and in this Abadie proved useful.

He was an apt pupil, was tiny enough to wriggle through even a small hole in a cellar window and apparently could see in the dark and smell loot as a rat smells cheese.

At 6 he was a keen-eyed little gnome, with spindly legs and arms, a hump on his back and pasty complexioned. In his face shrewdness and greed mingled with a strange sensitiveness and at the same time impudence. He had dirty gray eyes, small and brilliant, and a high forehead, which in his case meant something.

For he had such an avid intelligence that, without a soul showing him anything, he was learning to read from street signs, had already learned to count up to 40 from watching his beggar owners go over their day's alms, and could read faces amazingly for a child. He knew just when he could be insolent with impunity and when it was dangerous.

But it was not merely as a thieving young animal that Abadie was growing up. That avid mind of his which learned to read from street signs and theatrical posters soon found itself hungry to read. He fed on scraps of newspapers and old magazines; discarded reading matter found in the gutter; books of fairy tales he snatched from well-cared-for children in the garden of the Tuileries when their nurses were not looking; books he stole from the little open-air stalls on the left bank of the Seine.

Abadie devoured these as ravenously as he devoured food, which was ravenously indeed, for he was a creature of powerful greeds.

Youngsters of Abadie's age read dime novels, thrill to them, then go back to their marbles and tops. Abadie read them, thrilled to them, and went on to play them out in real life to the extent that lay in his power. Through some twist in his nature—or was it because life had twisted him so?—to him the villains of the dime novels he read were the heroes, while the heroes of these stories impressed him only as people who did not deserve to win. He, Abadie, meant to be a hero himself, the kind who preyed on others and would not be frustrated by any goody-goody "hero."

He began on a small scale. At 11 one has to begin on a small scale in such a career as Abadie definitely chose for himself. He had long ago thrown off his career as assistant beggar by the simple process of robbing the beggars who last "owned" him and running off to shift for himself. This he did by petty stealing by day, and living in a cellar with several young thieves by night.

Rapidly his stealing outgrew the category of petty larceny. Soon he learned to break into stores and homes. By 13 he committed his first full-fledged burglary and had the satisfaction of knowing that the police had a slight description of him and were looking for him.

By 15 he had three youths calling him "leader" and acting as subordinates in small burglaries he planned.

By 16 he and his gang—which now counted half a dozen—perpetrated their first assault, knocking unconscious a night watchman who came on them as they were looting a warehouse.

By 17 Abadie got his biggest thrill when he plunged his sharp clasp knife into the ribs of a detective who was stalking him. The detective did not die. But Abadie, like a young tiger, got his first taste of blood—and liked it.

Meanwhile, his voracious mind and imagination were devouring riches as avidly as he was looting. He found his way to jungle philosophy as naturally as a beast of prey finds its way to its own kind of food. The savage side of the philosophy of anarchism, of Nietzsche, of each-for-himself-and-the-devil-take-the-hindmost, was good, red meat to him. Then he would write out his philosophy in a journal the police eventually found.

At 18 he wrote: "Life is battle. I strike down whatever opposes me. Society is divided into two camps: those that have and those that have not. Cut off the heads of those that have in order that we may have our turn at having. The strong eat the weak. It is for the police to count the dead."

SOON after that the police began their count. Abadie, who was a jealous chieftain, had a lieutenant by the name of Ketch, a youth little less keen and devilish in courage than Abadie. Abadie suspected that Ketch would not die of sorrow if anything happened to Abadie, as Ketch was ambitious to be leader himself.

In their world, to wish for the death of someone is more nearly equal to the deed than elsewhere. So Abadie watched Ketch and chance held his dagger ready.

Ketch had a sweetheart who pleased Abadie's taste—for, hunchback though he was, Abadie considered himself something of a connoisseur in women. Annette in turn was fascinated by Abadie's ugliness and masterful belief in himself. She told him one day that Ketch had confided to her his intention of putting an end to him soon and assuming the leadership of the gang. Whereupon Abadie waited one dark night till Ketch showed up at a rendezvous with Annette. From the dark he plunged his dagger into his lieutenant's heart.

Meanwhile, Abadie was bringing into play as leader the imagination he was so richly feeding through reading. He and his new lieutenant, Gilles, a fiery youngster of 16, drew up a written constitution, written in cipher code invented by Abadie. There were 35 articles and a penal code in case of the violation of any of the provisions of the constitution.

Then they held a solemn ceremony, at which blood from the wrists of the nine members of the band was mixed in a cup with the heart's blood of their latest victim, a jeweler's assistant they had killed in a burglary. With this ghastly ink they signed the constitution and swore allegiance to it. The death penalty was prescribed for the violation of any of the seven of its articles. Among the provisions were:

"It is forbidden for any of the band to have a sweetheart for a period longer than one month. It breeds dangerous attachments. Any woman selected by a member of the band for a period of less than one month must pass her time as servant in the household of the chief, subject to his surveillance.

"AT THE end of the month, even if she proves to be trustworthy, she must be dismissed; and no other member of the band shall have anything to do with her. If any of the band is found confiding any of the affairs or secrets of our organization to a woman he shall be put to death."

By "trustworthy" Abadie meant that the woman could be depended upon to help the band in their burglaries. They would send such a woman to take a place as domestic servant in a household they intended to rob. If, with her help, the burglary was successful, she was "trustworthy" enough to be allowed to be with the band for a month. It is a proof of the fear the band struck into the hearts of their women accomplices that not once were they betrayed by any of their discarded mistresses.

Gilles, Abadie's lieutenant, was shot and killed by a householder during a burglary. The gang revenged themselves by killing in turn the householder and his daughter several nights later. The place of Gilles was taken by a newcomer, who attracted Abadie's liking by his cold-blooded nature.

Abadie Was Picked Out of a Pile of Cabbages But He Grew Up to Be the Scourge of Paris.

"Kill him," shrieked Abadie to Francois through a mist of rage.

This newcomer was a medical student, Leblez, who gave up his studies soon after he joined the band. But he did not lose whatever it was that first attracted him to the study of medicine.

He and Abadie were out on a "job" together which necessitated their working for some time over a wall safe. The owners were away and the two desperadoes thought they would be able to work undisturbed. But into the room as they worked there sprang a fine looking figure of a man.

"What are you doing?"—he began, but never finished. For Leblez knocked him over the head with a poker and stilled his tongue forever.

"A splendid specimen!" coolly said Leblez. "I would have liked dissecting him when I was at medical school. In fact, I am coming back tonight with my scalpels."

He and Abadie had dinner that night at a famous restaurant. After liqueurs Leblez rose. "A charming evening, my dear Abadie! Sorry to leave you. But I have a little work to do. It will remind me of my medical school days. I wonder if my scalpels are still good."

Next day he said to Abadie:

"He was a splendid specimen. And I seemed to have lost little of my training."

BETWEEN Abadie and Leblez they devised what they called their "coup de cornet" in killing with the dagger. Abadie described it thus in his journal: "You plunge the knife into the throat and turn it right and left. The wound is always fatal."

When Abadie was 20 the police were at work running down his band. The detective in charge of the hunt was a young man named Martin.

Martin was a brilliant youngster who, like many of his fellow detectives of the Paris police, had imagination and intuition rather than the downright virtues of patience and doggedness of the Scotland Yard man. With these qualities he preferred to work on individual initiative rather than with a team, to gamble rather than to invest conservatively.

His imagination had been engrossed with the shadowy figures of a band of burglars who did not hesitate to murder, who had foiled detection, who were rolling up a long record of unpunished crime and seemed to have brilliant leadership and organization.

Of the leader of that gang there was only the vaguest outline in the minds of the Paris police. From spies among the underworld, from glimpses by terrified householders whose homes were robbed, from the little that detectives up to then had been able to gather of the band, there was some sort of cripple or deformed man at the head of the band, a man who combined keen mind, savage zest and great skill in the technique of crime. More than that, the police did not know either of the leader or of his followers.

Martin asked to be assigned work in bringing that band to justice. He had a plan, he told his chief, which required his playing a lone hand until he should call for help. He was told to go ahead.

Several days later the boulevard press of Paris was lively with the story of one Perugin, who had escaped prison in the south of France and who was suspected of being in Paris in hiding. The papers told, though in vague outlines, of an exceptionally bold escape, involving the murder of a prison guard who had befriended him. He was to have died on the guillotine for the murder of a rich aunt who had cut him off in her will because of his many escapades with the police. There was a bit of description of the man in the papers, particularly of his exceptional size and strength.

Several nights later one of the most exclusive resorts of the underworld in Paris noted a tall, quiet stranger come in and sit down alone to drink. Speculation at once began as to who the stranger was; every stranger was the subject of lively interest in that place. The proprietor, who was exceptionally well informed of every phase of Paris life that interested the police, took a good look at the stranger.

"He looks to me like that man Perugin I read about in the paper a few days ago—the fellow who broke out of jail down in Marseilles. A keen dog, if it is he. I'll see if I can find out."

He strolled over to the stranger and casually asked:

"Come from Marseilles?"

The stranger leaped to his feet, shot his hand to his belt, and snarled:

"What in hell do you care?"

He did not strike, but one could glimpse a knife in his belt and his manner showed it would not take much to make him fight. The proprietor nodded.

"You're a testy bird. Meet some of my friends and drink with us."

THE stranger gave his name as Francois, which was about as illuminating as calling himself John would be under similar circumstances in an American dive. He kept himself aloof and showed his suspicion plainly, his manner being that of a man on guard against the world. But he also seemed harassed with loneliness.

"If you're a stranger in Paris, I have some rooms to let in the back of the house. It's a quiet place for those who want—quiet. No questions asked or answered. The right kind of company if you want it. But the rates are rather high."

Francois thought this over and nodded. "I'll come."

He came, with very little baggage, next day, a hand satchel containing apparently all he owned. The landlord gave him a room and tried to cultivate his acquaintance further. He had little success. So he decided to find out more in his own way.

When Francois left for a walk one afternoon the landlord let himself into his room with a passkey, worked open the lock on Francois's valise and examined the contents. They did not reveal much directly. But the proprietor, who was a member of Abadie's band, knew how to deduce much from little.

"He is Perugin," he told Abadie later, in the latter's well-hidden flat in the Butte Chaumont section of Paris.

"Bring him here to a party," Abadie said. "We'll give him a look."

Francois, who seemed to grow lonelier and more morose every day, was induced to come to a "small and knowing party" at Abadie's house. Abadie himself did not appear at first. But through a peephole he studied Francois all evening and compared notes with some of his lieutenants.

The stranger seemed a surly brute, but able and daring; for it looked as though he were already operating in Paris on his own. There were rumors of skillful burglaries by some newcomer. The signs pointed to Francois.

Before the end of Abadie's party the host himself appeared and made his acquaintance. Abadie pumped him, but got little direct information. He did get, however, a favorable impression of the hard caliber of the man. The more he studied him and the more Francois kept to himself the more Abadie got interested.

FINALLY, though with caution, Abadie broached the subject of a "partnership in a paying adventure," as he put it. Francois was hard to interest. But Abadie by now was keen to get him and persevered. It was only after several days of persuasion that Francois finally consented to join Abadie in a risky but promising burglary at the house of a Cabinet Minister. Abadie's object was to test Francois for membership in his band.

The plan of the house to be looted was supplied by a woman who had Abadie's current love and had managed to secure a position as domestic in the house of the wealthy Cabinet Minister at Neuilly, a fashionable part of Paris. The family of the Minister were away for the winter holidays, and it was understood that none but a watchman remained. There were some negotiable bonds, some jewelry and other valuables to be had if a strong house safe could be cracked open.

Abadie and Francois, dressed in evening clothes, top hats and fur-trimmed overcoats, drove down to the house toward midnight in a stylish little closed car a member of the band had stolen for the occasion. In Abadie's hands were the keys to the house. He and Francois strolled up to the front door, chatting in a matter of fact way. Two policemen on bicycles rode past, looked at the two fur-clad, top-hatted gentlemen admitting themselves into the Cabinet Minister's house with the air of being at home. The agents of the law must have seen nothing wrong in this, for they pedaled on without another look.

Abadie knew from the servant just where the watchman would be at that hour, and entered the room without a sound. The watchman's revolver would not speak, for the servant had quietly abstracted the bullets. So Abadie had little fear. His blackjack was in his hand as he opened the door. Francois was at his back, his revolver out and ready.

The watchman was drowsing in his chair as Abadie opened the door. Abadie crept up to him. But suddenly the watchman leaped up, whirled and seized Abadie's wrist. With a twist that almost broke Abadie's slender wrist, he tore the blackjack out of his hand and hurled Abadie against the wall. But as he was toppling backward Abadie whipped out his automatic.

To his horror there was only a succession of clicks. Something was wrong with the trigger.

"Kill him!" shrieked Abadie to Francois through a red mist of rage.

But Abadie failed to hear the expected drum of revolver fire. He saw Francois standing by the watchman's side, looking down coldly at Abadie. There was in something policemanlike about both the watchman and Francois that sent a shock through Abadie. He leaped to his feet like a cat and crouched against the wall. From his inside coat pocket he whipped out his sheath knife. His teeth flashed in his dwarf face, his dirty gray eyes gleamed.

"Partners, are you?" he snarled. "Then come and get me!"

Francois turned his head and over his shoulder called:

"Come in!"

Five heavily built men tramped into the room, revolvers in their hands. Francois impatiently exclaimed:

"So much artillery show for just one rat! Have you no pride? I'll take care of him!"

Abadie shrieked: "Do you think my bust will let you live?"

Francois advanced slowly to Abadie, his revolver pointing straight at the pit of his stomach, his finger on the trigger, his eyes on Abadie's dagger. "Open your fingers, runt, or I'll shoot where it won't kill but will mess you up badly!"

Abadie's hand flew up like a cat's, the dagger shot through the air, missed Francois' heart by inches and stuck in the wall. Francois flushed with anger, struck the revolver back into his pocket and grasped the hunchback with one powerful hand about the slender throat.

"It will give me pleasure to break that crooked back of yours!" he growled; and Abadie felt iron closing about his windpipe. In the hands of the young giant he was like a doll. When he had given himself up and lost the hand let up for an instant. He caught a bit of breath.

"I'll make a deal!" Abadie whimpered. "I'll give the band up"—Abadie began.

"No good. You'll meet them all at the police station when you get there."

Abadie's agitated eyes took on a crafty look.

"But you haven't got much of a case against them or me. It'll take you a devil of a lot of effort to make it guillotine affairs for them—without my help."

Francois pretended not to hear and ordered Abadie handcuffed and taken to the Prefecture of Police.

But several weeks later, while preparations for trying the band were taking place, one of the prosecutors visited Abadie in his cell.

"What are you willing to do to save your neck?" he asked.

Abadie squinted at him. "Tell you enough to send the rest of the crowd to the guillotine—provided I'm not sent there myself."

THE bargain was made. Abadie cleverly arranging it so that the honor of the French court in trying the band was involved to insure his escape from the death sentence. To draw forth such a promise and bargain, Abadie told bits of information which served well as samples. The goods he was delivering seemed worth the promise, and Abadie got it.

The band was then tried. But at the crucial moments of the trial it was found that the promise had been bought with false goods. Abadie's information did not stand the test of cross-examination. He had cheated. The Judge was outraged.

"You are making a fool of justice," he said sternly to Abadie.

"Exactly!" Abadie grinned. "You see, I am the pilot of my band. I have to do anything that will save them. That's why I'm their leader."

He was sent to the penal colony at faraway Caledonia. Here he kept the authorities busy. On his first day he rebelled.

"I hate the bouillon," he shouted. "It's too clear. The eggs are too much cooked. I want wine, and hate your water. My health suffers."

His health seemed to have no effect on his defiance. He was locked up in solitary confinement. But the guard found him busy making an effort to escape. He had made a knife of part of a sardine can, cut his trousers into strips and was fashioning a rope wherewith to let himself out of the window. He was taken to the director of the prison, whom he insolently addressed.

"You see, one does not necessarily die just because your courts pronounce the death sentence. And one does not have to stay here forever just because one has been given a life sentence."

"What would you do if you had succeeded in making your escape?" the director asked curiously.

"I'd go back to my old life and build up another gang!"

But fever finally put him in a cell whence none escape until some greater judgment day. With the Paris police, however, he lives as one of its liveliest memories.

The proprietor, who was exceptionally acquainted with every form of Paris life, took a good look at the stranger.

The Cool-Headed Friend

By ALICE DUER MILLER

WHEN our slave-holding forefathers enunciated the self-evident truth that all men were created equal, they thought little about women, and less about that most dangerous of all special privileges, beauty — the great class distinction that no legislation so far has attempted to reach.

Agatha Morland was beautiful and, being also young, gentle, not offensively intelligent, and an only child, she had always had everything that she wanted; until at the age of 21 she fell in love with Cecil. He too had always had what he wanted, but from causes not quite as creditable. When Cecil got what he wanted he was extremely agreeable, and radiated a sort of happiness that made everybody else happy; also, when he didn't get what he wanted he could so poison the atmosphere that for everyone present all joy immediately died.

He was a clerk in a broker's office, yet there was no luxury of modern life which was not almost wearisomely pressed on his acceptance—not because he flattered and toadied the rich—quite the other way—the rich were ridiculously subservient to Cecil. Great financiers sent their cars to the subway station to rush Cecil to the links, because he played golf so well and was so pleasant to play with. Proud ladies who had been known to go in to dinner without waiting for an Ambassador or a Senator would wait patiently for Cecil.

Obviously he was the last man in the world with whom Agatha ought to have fallen in love. Nevertheless she did.

By June the engagement was generally known to all their acquaintances, and still hotly denied by their intimate friends; and Agatha's eyes shone, and she grew thinner and much more beautiful, and she called Cecil up every morning on the telephone.

THEN Agatha's mother sent for Paula. There is, or ought to be, one person like Paula in every group. She was calm and clever, and—not always the same thing—extremely wise. It would be difficult to describe her without making her sound perfect, and she was not perfect, for she had one fault—she was cold. That was what made her so kind and patient and loyal and unselfish—she was always trying to make up for the fact that she knew—and so did other people—that she did just lack a little emotion.

She came and had tea with Mrs. Morland, while Agatha was known to be safely out with Cecil.

Paula didn't say much—she never did—but she listened divinely. Mrs. Morland poured it all out. "I don't know what I have done to deserve this—it isn't as if I were a mercenary mother—maneuvering Agatha into some great, rich, magnificent marriage. I never asked anything but that she should be happy. She won't be happy with this boy. Agatha says I think that because I'm old—of another generation. So I want to ask you, Paula, as a contemporary of theirs—is it true that any girl would jump at the chance of marrying Cecil?"

"Not I, Mrs. Morland."

"You never felt his attraction?"

"I like men," said Paula, "not pretty, spoilt children."

"So do I," said her hostess. She was a little afraid of Paula. Paula was always kind to older people and treated them as if they were human beings, not as if their parental function were their only excuse for existing, and rather a poor excuse at that. But in spite of her kindness there was a level calmness in her gray-blue eyes.

"It has occurred to me, Paula, that you are the only person in the world who could help us. You might take him away yourself."

Paula laughed. "I take a man away from Agatha!" she said. "That is indeed an idea born of parental frenzy."

"A great many men have been in love with you, Paula."

"A good many sentimental friendships have matured into quite respectable offers of marriage. But the thunderbolt—ah, no. It's my dream, Mrs. Morland, but it never happens."

"It must be your own fault then, my dear, for you're a pretty woman and that figure and that voice of yours—both might go to a man's head. The fault must be with you."

"Of course," answered the girl, "the fault—if it is a fault—is that I have no emotions. To turn people's heads you must feel something yourself. I don't. Here I am 25 and have never been in love."

"Never the least bit?"

Paula became scientific in manner.

"Occasionally, when I first meet a man, I have felt I would not be averse to flying with him to a desert island," she answered, and her cool tone took every ray of passion out of the avowal, "but by the time he has courted me a year or so, and considered my feelings, and reflected on the serious responsibilities of matrimony, I never have the faintest stirring of any emotion left. But it wasn't to discuss these problems of mine, but Agatha's . . ."

Mrs. Morland held up her forefinger. "They are not unconnected, my dear. It's because you are so cool and level-headed that I think you could take Cecil away. You could think of the right thing to say . . . you're so clever."

BUT Paula would not stop laughing and shaking her head. "I'm clever enough to know this," she replied, "that there are the following objections to your plan: (a) Cecil would not believe me, for I've known him all my life and never concealed the fact that I think him a dull boy; (b) if he did believe me, he would not care at all, but would simply regard me as another rather unimportant jewel in his crown; and (c) if he did believe me and responded to my emotion, the only effect on Agatha would be to make her more than ever determined to snatch him back."

"Then what can we do?" asked Agatha's mother, desperately.

Paula slapped her hands together briskly. "Only one thing. I'll look about for another man — some one who will make steady and somewhat different love to Agatha all through the summer, while poor Cecil is hard at work in Wall Street. When is he taking his holiday? September? Good; we'll get our man for August, though that's just the kind of man you never can find when you need him, but I'll try."

She saw, on thinking the matter over, that the new man must have prestige. He must have prestige, not because Agatha was incapable of falling in love with a lowly and unknown man, but because, when time was lacking, prestige started a man just that much ahead. Paula considered a young tennis champion for the month of August. She considered a young economic expert who had suddenly shot into the limelight, but who turned out to be engaged. She considered a Senator.

Then one evening at the theater she saw the right man. He was in the next box, with two or three other men—no women. She thought he might be a new Ambassador from—well, say Spain or the Argentine. He was thin and dark. Once or twice their glances met and passed. He had a queer combination in his expression—very blank and masklike as to face, very swift and keen as to eye. She asked who he was, and Mr. Morland, who was in her party, knew all about him.

HIS name was Ormsby. He was a geologist, and had been wandering about a mountain range of southeastern Europe when famine and disease had suddenly swept down upon a population of some 5000 people, isolated in a remote valley. The Red Cross had put all its supplies and powers into his hands; and he had struggled with these conditions and conquered them. Many young men in the last seven years have done as much. The strange feature of Ormsby's achievement was that after the actual famine and epidemic were over, he had stayed on in the little community, a dictator—an uncrowned but extraordinarily powerful ruler. Nominally the villages belonged to one of the new divisions of Europe. Actually they belonged to Ormsby.

"You seem to be very much interested in him," said Mr. Morland. "Shall I bring him in and introduce him?"

Paula declined the honor, but made Mr. Morland understand that Ormsby must be secured for a week end at the camp.

The Morlands had a camp on one of the Adirondack lakes, a camp built in the early days—detached log cabins and a large central building. Paula arrived there for a visit.

When she came to breakfast, she could see that something was wrong. Mrs. Morland's eyes kept meeting hers with significance. She had already noted that Agatha looked ill—the girl's eyes were pale and surrounded by purple shadows. But it was 11 o'clock before Mrs. Morland could talk to Paula in her own cabin.

"I should like to kill that man," she said, and Paula was under no misapprehension as to who was meant. "He has stopped writing. Now and then we get a telegram, telephoned in, you know: 'Too busy to write today. Letter follows tomorrow. Love. Cecil,' and the letter never does follow. 'Love, Cecil.' And Agatha actually defends him—says one day it's the fault of the postoffice, and the next that Cecil isn't the kind of man to write letters.

"Oh," she said, "I know all about you, and what I don't know I have made up."

She's loyal to him, Paula. She won't even flirt a little with Bobbie. I asked Bobbie particularly, because you know in old times . . . there was some question . . . and he is a handsome, charming boy . . ."

"You didn't always think so," answered Paula, with her wise smile.

Mrs. Morland sighed.

"Dear Mrs. Morland," said Paula, "no boy is any good—he's just an inferior Cecil. What we want is a man of a different type entirely."

"Ah, if we could find him!"

"He's coming on Friday," said Paula.

MRS. MORLAND was so much surprised that she stared with her mouth a trifle open. Paula explained about Ormsby. She made him sound extraordinarily romantic, even in the ears of an older woman.

"Imagine," Paula said, and she rose to her feet and began to move about the little cabin, "he was as powerful and arbitrary as an Eastern satrap, yet as liberal and humane as a young American ought to be. They say there never was such a complete one-man power in the world—not Saladin, nor Napoleon, nor even Mussolini. When you see him, you'll get the feeling of a very remarkable man. He's not handsome, but he's tall and thin; and power, dear Mrs. Morland, flows from him. I assure you, if he wants Agatha, and practically all men do want Agatha, he'll have her."

"My dear," said Mrs. Morland solemnly, "if you have done this for us . . ." Tears came into her eyes.

They spent the rest of their time together discussing how the idea of Mr. Ormsby could be presented to Agatha so that he would appear romantic without exciting her suspicions; for, as her mother pointed out, if she thought that treachery to Cecil was contemplated, she might take the first train to New York.

Paula was aided in her task by Ormsby's reputation. Other people knew anecdotes about him too and betrayed—more flattering than anecdote or praise—a desire to assert acquaintance with him.—"Oh, yes, I know him, at least I once saw him. . . ." Paula could see Agatha thinking it over, saying to herself, "If I weren't engaged, and perfectly loyal to Cecil. . . ." Paula heightened the portrait a little.

Mr. Morland and his guests arrived just before dinner—supper, it was called in camp. Paula went to the main cabin in time to watch the whole spectacle, and found the new guest was already there.

She introduced herself and he would have done the same, but she stopped him.

"Oh," she said, "I know all about you, and what I didn't know, I must confess, I made up—and I've done very well by you."

"I hope I shall think so," he replied, with just a faint trace of the dictator in his tone. "What have you made up?"

"Characteristic anecdotes, I think you would call them," said Paula, not at all alarmed by his dictatorship.

"And would you tell me why?"

"Yes, some day, but not now," she returned, for other people were beginning to come in. Last of all came Agatha in a crimson dress. Paula, watching Ormsby attentively, saw that he was moved by her beauty. "So that's all right," she thought.

AGATHA sat next to him at the table. Only her friend and her mother could have told that she was exerting herself to win Ormsby, for no conscious effort was visible. She did not smile at him, or even talk to him very much, or sparkle. No, it was only that something tender and confident seemed to emanate from her, something wondering and gentle, like a little child thrusting up a tiny hand into the hand of a grown-up. How well Paula knew that manner of Agatha's—she had others, but that was her best bet.

After supper, when some people had settled down to bridge and others to books, Ormsby and Agatha wandered out on the piazza, and then onto the lake. Mrs. Morland and Paula exchanged quick glances of triumph.

The next day, Saturday, things continued to go well. Ormsby and Agatha went off to climb a neighboring mountain—an expedition which would have taken about two hours, and did actually consume all the time between luncheon and supper.

In the evening, again the lake, moonlight and a canoe. Mrs. Morland could hardly conceal her high spirits. She found a moment to whisper to Paula, "It's better even than we knew. He remembers seeing her last summer on the Seatons' yacht. Did she ever go on their yacht?"

"Yes, I shall never forget it," answered Paula. "She and I went on board for a swim, and I dived off the top-rail—to show off—wasn't it horrid of me? I blush when I think of it."

"My dear," said her hostess, "the man is perfect, and you are the cleverest girl in the world."

"Very good at other people's lives," said Paula. She went to bed feeling rather sad, thinking how incapable she was of doing for herself what she had done for her friend.

THE next morning, Sunday, the first reverse occurred. When Agatha nestled toward Ormsby—for Agatha was one of those girls who can nestle without coming within three feet of a person—and asked if he would like to paddle her down the lake to do an errand at the inn, he answered regretfully that he had some work to do which simply couldn't be put off another day.

What did that mean? Paula looked at him to read his mind, and found he was looking calmly, almost defiantly, at her.

In the afternoon he chose to play a foursome at golf with Paula and a young couple. By evening, when he showed signs of repentance, Agatha had turned sulky, and would not listen to anything he suggested.

Mrs. Morland and Paula exchanged glances of desperation and withdrew to the piazza.

"What can be the matter?" said Paula.

"I know what the trouble is," returned the older woman. "The trouble is that in the early stages of an emotional relation all men are congenital idiots."

"Not this one—oh, not this one."

"Look for yourself," said Mrs. Morland, and they both peered in the window. Ormsby seemed very self-possessed. "When a situation is once clear and defined, a man can be as wise, courageous, and decisive as a woman—even more so, perhaps—but in the early stages, I repeat, they are all idiots. You flatter this man by thinking he has a plan. He hasn't. He has forgotten that he's going away at noon tomorrow. When he gets back to New York, he will tell some trusted friend that he has met his ideal woman, that some day, if he is worthy, he hopes to make her his wife. His life will very likely be wrecked when he finds that she is marrying Cecil. And he'll never know that he had the whole situation in his own hand, and let it go."

"Can he be as stupid as that?" said Paula.

"They all are," answered the older woman sadly. "Take my husband—a very clever man, you'll admit. We met first on the ocean—10 days on a slow ship, and we fell wildly in love the first day out. We were together every moment. I was ready to order my trousseau on landing. But what did he do? He disappeared for two weeks, and then turned up with a wonderful piece of news—he was almost afraid to tell me—he was in love with me! I had to pretend to be surprised, and you can imagine what I had been going through during those two weeks."

Paula looked through the window a long time. Then she said, "Suppose a disinterested third person spoke to him."

"You, my dear?"

Paula nodded. "It's a chance, Mrs. Morland. It might kill the romance, and yet I think I could do it so that it wouldn't. I will, if you say so."

Mrs. Morland did say so. It seemed their only hope.

WHEN everyone began to drift away to bed, Paula was found standing like a sentinel at Ormsby's elbow. She said: "Wait a moment, will you? I have something to say to you." He made no answer, but remained in the deep shadows of the piazza, and no one appeared to notice that Paula remained there too.

Presently they were alone.

"Well?" said Ormsby in his deep voice.

"I want," she said briskly, "to tell you something of human relations about which you seem to be ignorant."

"Such knowledge always comes in handy," he replied. She wished now that she had chosen a spot for the interview where she could have seen his face.

"I want to point out to you," she said, "that in the early stages of an emotional relation men are congenital idiots." She stopped, finding the roof of her mouth dry.

"You interest me very much," he said.

"Either they see and understand nothing, or they dare not act on what they see and understand."

"And are women wiser?"

"Yes, women in that early moment are wise—they see clearly and feel simply. Mr. Ormsby, there is a moment in the early stages of a love affair when a woman may be carried off her feet—a moment that never returns."

"How do you know that?" he asked. "Are you like that?"

Of course, she had foreseen this complication and was ready to deal with it. "No, I'm not. I'm not talking of myself. . . ."

"But I should like to talk about you," said the voice out of the darkness.

"No, you wouldn't, for I haven't any of these emotions. I'm as cold as a stone. All these emotions have passed me by."

"Am I to take this as a warning?"

Something in his tone made Paula aware of the fact that she was unusually nervous. Her hands were like ice. "It's just a statement of fact," she replied drily. "I have always been a looker-on. As such, I can give you a valuable piece of information—that there is a moment which you must not let pass—no matter how high your motives. Prudence or humility, or. . . ."

"Wait a bit, wait a bit," he interrupted. "Think of it from a man's point of view. It isn't pleasant to be repulsed by a woman you love—especially if you say to yourself that you mightn't have been repulsed, if you had had the self-control to wait a little."

"But that," said Paula crossly, "is just what I'm trying to tell you is wrong. You are less likely to be repulsed early than late. Be brave—risk everything—ask for what you want—take it, if there seems. . . ."

She continued to speak but less audibly, for she found she was enunciating into the serge pocket of Ormsby's coat.

Having No Cares of Her Own, Paula Helped Others. This Case Worried Her, Until—

THE intellectual type, as everybody knows, is slow to act—cannot act, in fact, until it has thought. For two or three seconds Paula did nothing, because she found herself unable to think out what it was she ought to do—and those two or three seconds were critical; they gave Ormsby an unshakable impression of success.

"There's no use," he said, "in giving me the top of your head to kiss."

By this time, Paula had reached the conclusion that she ought to make an effort to get away. She tightened all her muscles. He did the same.

"Evidently you have not listened to a word I said," she remarked, in a cold, bored tone. It would have been an excellent tone for a woman snubbing a man at the distance of five feet. "Will you be so good as to let me go?" she said.

"In a word, no. Would you raise your head for an instant?" His hand was under her chin.

"Certainly not."

He didn't insist. "Well," he said, "we must think of a compromise. In diplomatic deadlocks," he continued, leaning his cheek on the top of her head, "it is my experience that you can always find a compromise. But it takes time, and just at present, for some reason, my mind is not working as clearly as it sometimes does."

There was a long pause.

"You know I came out here," said Paula—and even in her own ears the statement sounded foolish—"I came out here to speak to you about Agatha."

"And yet you had the insolence to call me idiotic!"

"You must remember that you and I have hardly even spoken to each other."

"I see you overrate the importance of words—and if you will lift your head for an instant. . . ."

"No."

"Fortunately I'm a patient person."

"Patient! I don't see any sign of it."

"No? You've seen all you're likely to see."

"But you never knew until Friday that I existed."

"Wrong, my dear. So right on basic principles—so wrong in detail! I saw you last summer dive off the rail of a yacht and thought you had the loveliest figure in the world. I saw you at the theater the other evening—saw you! You looked at me twice, good looks, too. You were smiling; I thought you had the prettiest mouth a man ever thought of too much. And when Mr. Morland told me that you had particularly asked him to ask me here for Sunday . . ."

"He told you that?" cried Paula, and lifted her head in surprise.

It was not by any means the first time a man had kissed Paula, but it was the first time there had been any real co-operation in the process.

WHEN she moved quietly along the path to her own cabin some time later, she was engaged in wondering—not at the fact that she had fallen in love—not at the suddenness—not at the reversal of all her ideas about herself—but simply at this: that she was going to see Ormsby the next day. What could be more glorious than that! At breakfast she would see him. She would be stirring her coffee or helping herself to oatmeal, and she would look up and he would be in the room——as great a moment as had ever been in anyone's life.

She turned on the light in her room, and found Mrs. Morland sitting very alert and erect in an armchair. Paula looked at her—she had forgotten that her hostess existed.

"Well, my dear," said Mrs. Morland, utterly unchanged by the complete alteration that had taken place in the universe, "You were some time, but I suppose you accomplished a great deal?"

"Well," said Paula, and no judge upon the bench could have weighed a word more carefully—only she did not seem to be able to think of any others to add to it.

Mrs. Morland wriggled down into the chair. "Tell me just what happened," she said.

Paula's mind—that magnificent and far-famed organ—did not respond to the demand made upon it. "Well," she said again, and added, with an effort, "I think perhaps I cleared the situation up a little."

There was a pause, and then Mrs. Morland said, "I should say you had." Paula stared at her, and she went on: "I was sitting just inside the window all the time. I heard every word—not that there was so much talking done, either."

It was a moment for a wise woman to make a complete explanation—to set herself right—it was a crisis, and Paula had always been good in crises, but what she said now was quite unlike Paula.

She said, "Oh, Mrs. Morland, don't you think he's wonderful?"

MRS. DUMBLY

Anti-Toothpick. The Salad Shortage.

THE minutes of the last meeting of our club were minutes of agony to me! Of course, I'm frightfully interested in our campaign to prevent the use of toothpicks in the United States of America—I think it's just perfectly lovely to belong to a club so that you can spend your time preventing things—and I'm horribly thrilled about our carrying the campaign to the State Legislature—but I do think our Press Committee should have sent the newspapers more publicity about the paper I read!

Not that I care anything about the notoriety! I have only the interests of our campaign at heart, but I do think a little more mention might have been made of it after all the trouble I had—with the meeting being held at my house and my having to worry about the soloists and having all those nuts on my mind.

I refer to the nuts in the salad, of course. I had just discovered that there weren't enough salads to go around when Mrs. Wouldbegrand, our president, came to me with all the phalanxes of beads on her chest palpitating with excitement to say that Miss Wangem, the piano soloist, who was to have appeared third on the program, said she had to leave early and that she'd have to play first or not at all.

"Oh, that's all right," I said, trying to remember the introductions to my speech while I thought up some plan for expanding the salads. "Miss Highnotes was to have sung then, but we'll just put her on later."

And then I saw that Miss Highnotes stood beside me, with her eyebrows lifted like two exclamation points. But I explained to her tactfully: "Oh, Miss Highnotes, you've no idea how the ladies feel about your singing! At the last meeting they passed a resolution of thanks when you'd finished! We do so want to give you the place of honor at the end of the program!"

AND thinking the matter was settled, I went to the kitchen to tell Katie, the maid, to take a nut and a grape off of each salad and make three more. But Miss Fusadoodle, who was directing the Toothpick Pageant followed me there to tell me that she'd promised the little girls in the pageant that they should come at the end and that their mothers, after working so hard over their costumes, were expecting it.

Of course, I felt that they shouldn't have minded—that they should have had the interests of the campaign at heart rather than their own place on the program—and anyway I do think my speech should have come at the end—but I told them they might appear last.

When Miss Highnotes found that she was transferred to the middle of the program she went downstairs and cried. But then some lady has a good cry at every one of our club meetings. And I couldn't do anything about it, for I had to go to the kitchen to tell Katie to take a half a grape and a half a nut off each salad to make two more for two ladies who had just come in, and when I got back it was time for me to read my paper.

If I do say so—I write rather well. One of the ladies told me afterwards that if I could change my vocabulary and my style and my way of tellings things I'd make a good writer.

My paper began: "Ladies, country women and fellow citizens, one has only to glance at the throngs issuing morning, noon and night from our downtown restaurants and cafeterias to realize that men, women and even sweet young girls, all over our broad and beautiful land are becoming addicts of the face-disfiguring toothpick habit. According to statistics issued by the International Bureau for the Abolishment of Toothpicks the toothpicks seen on the streets of any of our great cities after any meal would, if placed end on end, reach from Herrin, Illinois, to Hollywood, California. The toothpicks manipulated by diners of this country at one dinner would, if converted into lumber, furnish the woodwork for a hundred men of war.

"It is interesting to note that the toothpick is worn with almost any type of costume, but is seen mainly on the street. Usually it is inserted between the teeth on the side of the mouth nearest the user's companion. It lifts the upper lip gently on one side, giving the mouth the appearance of that of an Airedale about to snarl."

Reparceling the Nuts. The End of the Program.

I CONCLUDED my speech with a passionate plea that the society do all in its power to stamp out this beauty-destroying evil.

Then six little girls dressed to represent toothpicks gave a pageant depicting the perils of the toothpick habit, after which a resolution was passed condemning the use of toothpicks in any form whatsoever.

A committee was appointed to send a letter containing the text of the resolution to the Mayor, the Chief of Police, the Governor of our State, our State Senator and President Coolidge. A committee was appointed to see what could be done about removing toothpicks from tables in restaurants and cafeterias. A committee was appointed to attend to the distribution of toothpick literature and another to see that our campaign received press publicity.

We somehow forgot to have Miss Highnotes sing, but I don't think she should have minded. I, of course, have nothing but the interests of our campaign at heart. But I do think my speech should have come at the end of the program!

RING LARDNER

Home-Made Opera. Preserving the Illusion.

TO THE EDITOR: It may seem kind of late to bring this subject up, but anyway the day before the Chicago Opera company broadcasted the Garden scene from Faust, the radio editor of a New York paper made the remark in print that he did not see why it was anything for people to get excited about because opera was opera whether you set in the parquet or the gallery of the opera house or listened to it in the privacy of your own love nest except that maybe they was a slight advantage in the last named method because a man wouldn't have to dress but could loll around in the ease and comfort of bedroom slippers, kimona and nightgown. He might have added that when you get it over the radio there is no ushers or firemen to keep you from smoking all through the performance and whenever the music is either too dull or too exciting you can reach for a bottle and freshen yourself up. And you don't have to pay no $7.70 for your seat.

But that ain't the half of it, dearie. The great big edge that the radio audience enjoys is that they can't see the singers. They can forget that most of the chorus gals has got legs that is eight laps to the mile and faces which it is hardly fair to call by that name, and the chorus men has to wear beards so people won't think they are Mr. Rockefeller, and their acting is pretty near as realistic as the world's series of 1919.

No Officious Firemen. The Antique Lieutenant.

And as far as the principals is concerned, well in the Faust garden scene, which was the first of the broadcasts, the only two of them I ever seen on the stage was Irene Pavloska and Maria Claessens. As I remember her, Irene was a peach and would make just as cute a heroine as you could ask for, but in this opera she plays the part of Marguerite's male fiance and does her love making in soprano and it would take a strong imagination to watch her and believe she was anybody but Irene Pavloska, whereas if you don't watch her you can just pretend she is one of Marguerite's girl friends come to call. Madame Claessens plays a duenna which can be any age from 45 up so it don't make no difference if you see her or not. You can bet she is made up to look old enough as that is the least of a opera star's troubles.

THE same may be said of Mr. Vanni-Marcoux, who sang Mephistopheles and probably had no difficulty in looking like the devil. Miss Mason, the Marguerite, has got one of the prettiest voices I ever heard, but just the same Marguerite was supposed to be a flapper and inasmuch as Miss Mason has been singing leading roles for several years and probably took at least two or three months' lessons before she started in, why I bet you wouldn't never mistake her on or off the stage for Helen Hayes. Ditto for the Faust, Mr. Hackett. In the story, Mephisto lifts his face and renews his youth and yet I will wager that when he made his entrance in Act 2, nobody said, "Why there's Jackie Coogan!"

I won't never forget my first attendance at Madam Butterfly. I read up the story before I went and was looking for Cho-Cho-San to be a beautiful little Jap gal and Suzuki another Jap gal and Lieutenant Pinkerton the kind of a young, slim naval officer that all gals goes crazy over. Well, the two gals turned out to be Italian dames that had made up for the part by chalking out their horizontal eyebrows and painting on some that was perpendicular. And Lieutenant Pinkerton had been in the navy so long that he must have felt ashamed of himself for not wearing a rear admiral's cap and bells.

NOW here is a little scheme I have been working on and I gladly pass it along for what it is worth to all music fans that prefer their opera by air. We will say for example that the next broadcast will be Cavalleria Rusticana. Well, first buy a libretto or a opera guide and get the story in your mind. Then buy a couple of moving picture periodicals or a magazine like Vanity Fair that runs pictures of pretty gals. Select a picture of, say, Anastasia Reilly, cut it out like you would a paper doll ann name it Santuzza. Then do the same with a picture of Gertrude Lawrence and name it Lola. A man in a collegiate klothes ad or a picture of Jack Barrymore or Menjou will do for Turiddu. Lola's husband, Alfio, is described as a carter, so the next taxi you ride in, tear out the driver's picture and that will be O. K. for him. You can get a suitable Lucia out of any tabloid that happens to be running a mother story. The Detroit Athletic Club News often prints a photograph of an entire Ziegfeld or Gene Buck chorus. Get one of these and use it for your ensemble.

For a stage, place a table near the loud speaker and when your opera begins, move your paper dolls around to suit the action. When Turiddu and Lola are crooning their pretty duet, you will be looking at Jack Barrymore and Gertrude Lawrence, people who you could believe might have fell for each other and not people that look like they must have been hauled to the theater in two Mack trucks and that when one or both of them finally gets killed, it is because the head of some packing house has decided they can't never grow no bigger.

That is my scheme for stay-at-home opera goers and any ideas you may have to add to it, why address them to your neighborhood druggist or direct to "The Mange," Great Neck, Long Island. RING LARDNER.

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretfulness. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

AT CHARITY BALL were Misses Alice Caverly, Marie Wright and Elsie Cover, each of whom won a prize by these intriguing costumes. They say that smiles made bright by daily use of Pepsodent also had their effect upon the preference of the judge.

(Above) MISS BETTY BYRNE, returning to fill Broadway engagements, greets newspaper men with the characteristic "Betty" smile. And it is at its best when Pepsodent is included in her beauty helps.

(Above) GLORIOUS YOUTH is at its best in present times, authorities tell us. For there has come a new understanding of health and how to gain it. In the smiles of Ruth Schmidt and Dorothy Tobin you'll find evidence of the part Pepsodent plays in healthy teeth and winning smiles.

Such Smiles as These

Come Now By Freeing Teeth of Film

Remove Daily—a New Way Dentists Urge

THAT many of the commoner tooth and gum troubles, and most cases of so-called "off-color" teeth, are due to a film that forms on teeth which ordinary brushing does not successfully combat, is today's dental opinion.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film—a slippery sort of coating. Film absorbs discolorations and thus makes teeth look dull and dingy. It breeds germs and bacteria and invites tartar, decay and pyorrhea. It is a menace to tooth and gum health that must be combated.

Thus dental authorities now seriously urge that film be removed at least twice every day—in the morning and at bedtime. To do so, obtain Pepsodent—a special, film-removing dentifrice most dentists favor. It curdles the film, then removes it and polishes the teeth to high lustre in gentle safety to enamel. It combats the acids of decay. It acts, too, to firm and harden the gums; thus meeting, in many ways, the requirements of modern findings.

Send for 10-Day Free Tube

Old-time dentifrices did not adequately fight film. That is why this modern protective way, as a twice a day habit, and at least twice a year calls on your dentist, are being so widely advised.

Accept this test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights massage Pepsodent into the gums to firm and harden them.

SMILES ARE DAZZLING WHITE when film is gone. Teeth sparkle like polished jewels. Gums firm to healthy coral tint. Thus this new scientific way of dental care becomes one of the greatest beauty treatments of the day, and, with its unique therapeutic and prophylactic qualities, a great aid in oral hygiene.

Now
...comes a better way to end Corns!

Here is good news for Blue-jay's millions of friends. Good old Blue-jay . . . always the safest and gentlest way to end a corn, has acquired new refinements for 1927. No change in medication. It would be folly to tamper with the magic wax which has ended over 50,000,000 corns. But there is a new pad . . . a creamy-white pad to match the pinky whiteness of the skin. And a new-shaped disc of medication to reach even the awkwardly placed corn without spreading. To say nothing of a sprightly new package.

With its new daintiness, Blue-jay retains all its old efficiency . . . A cool pad fits over the corn and stops the pain . . . The medication is "controlled." . . . And you cannot put on too much or too little. . . . There's just the right amount in each plaster to end the corn . . . The new Blue-jay costs no more, and may be had at all drug stores. For calluses and bunions use Blue-jay Bunion and Callus Plasters.

MRS. VANDERBILT'S spacious English living room, where deep divans, old Chinese chests, Ispahan rugs, books and rare prints rest the eye with blended beauty while three windows look out over the ever changeful pageant of the East River. In a gown of silver gray crepe Mrs. Vanderbilt is informally receiving friends with characteristic graciousness and charm

In her little Georgian morning room, with its panelled walls of deal, a Chinese blue Queen Anne desk and gay chintzes, MRS. VANDERBILT relaxes after her duties in her many charities. Especially to the Neurological Institute of New York, the only hospital in the United States devoted exclusively to nervous and mental diseases, Mrs. Vanderbilt gives liberally of her time and means

In her Enchanting House in Sutton Place

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt receives with informal charm

AMONG America's great hostesses, Mrs. William Kissam Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Oliver Harriman, has few peers. Few have quite her quality of distinction, quite her high-bred charm. She entertains in her enchanting house in Sutton Place with delightful informality.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is a beauty-lover—beauty in art, in all phases of life appeals to her. Everything contributing to womanly charm she holds important, prizing all the subtle qualities of feminine grace and loveliness.

She advocates the daily use of the same Two fragrant Creams for the care of the skin that other distinguished and beautiful women sponsor. Concerning them she says: "Through the stress of a multitude of engagements Pond's Creams will give you the assurance of being your best self. And I say this with a sincerity that comes from actual acquaintance."

This is how they should be used:—

Before retiring at night, and often during the day, pat Pond's Cold Cream over your skin. Its fine oils lift from the pores all clogging dust and powder. Wipe off and repeat, finishing with a dash of cold water. If your skin is dry, a little Cream left on until morning keeps your tissues supple.

After every cleansing except the bedtime one, apply lightly just a little Pond's Vanishing Cream. It makes a marvelous powder base, gives a lovely even finish and guards the smooth white texture of your hands. It protects your face admirably, too, when you fare forth into weather, soot and dust.

Care for your skin with these Two delightful Creams made by Pond's. They will, as Mrs. Vanderbilt suggests, give you the assurance of being your best self.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's New York house is a fine example of the Georgian style

"SMOKE, GREASE, no fresh air to breathe. As a chef, these are the conditions I have had to work under all my life. I got so constipated that I had to take pills continually. After some time, however, the pills did not work right. In the meantime I had hired a baker to do some pastry work for me and one day he said, 'You look sick, you need a rest and fresh air.' I told him I knew that as well as he did but had to work to take care of my family. Then he suggested Fleischmann's Yeast and I took him up on that. At the start it was unpleasant to take but I kept on eating it every day for about three months, sometimes in milk and sometimes in water. It surely brought my health back to me. I feel like a new man, have plenty of appetite and have regained my normal weight. I wish that all those who work inside would eat Yeast. They would get rid of their grouches and be able to start the day's work in good humor."

Steve Antich, Denver, Colo.

"For Years I was always tired"

"I WAS IRRITABLE, DESPONDENT. Constipation clogged my system with the wastes from my own body; day after day I was literally, slowly poisoning myself. This had gone on for so long that I had begun almost to think my condition was normal.

"I had heard of Fleischmann's Yeast again and again; I had listened to my friends tell what it had done for them. But, until a physician suggested it, I had never thought of trying it myself.

"The doctor told me that intestinal poisons were daily being absorbed into my body. First of all, he said, elimination must be made certain and regular.

"How simple and easy it was! Just three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day. I am alert, full of unconquerable energy. Constipation is gone—forever. My old optimism is on tap again."

THOUSANDS of letters like this are received by the Fleischmann Company every year. One person in every three American families is a user of this remarkable food today.

The millions of tiny active Yeast plants in every cake speed up elimination, keep the entire digestive tract clean. They aid digestion, clear the skin. They actually neutralize the poisons of constipation. Unlike weakening, habit-forming cathartics, Fleischmann's Yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles—"trains" them to do their proper work again.

Millions have found relief from their ailments in this sure, natural way. Start eating Fleischmann's Yeast today! Buy two or three days' supply at a time and keep in a cool dry place.

The New Easy Way to have your rightful, vigorous health

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day, one before each meal. Eat it plain in small pieces, or on crackers, in fruit juice, water or milk. For constipation physicians say it is best to dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before meals and before going to bed. (Be sure that a regular time for evacuation is made habitual.) Dangerous cathartics will gradually become unnecessary.

SIX MEN HOLD UP MOTORBUS GARAGE; FLEE WITH $2880

Robbers Drive Into People's Station in Wellston in Auto, Hammer Way Into Cashier's Cage.

EMPLOYES FORCED TO LIE ON FLOOR

One Worker Escapes Unseen, Gives Alarm and Fires on Highwaymen as They Drive Away.

Six men in a curtained touring car entered the garage of the Peo-ple's Motorbus Co. in Wellston early today, held up eight em-ployes, sledge-hammered a way to the cashier's steel cage, took $2880 and rode away, under fire from a bus employe and a Deputy Constable, whose shots they re-turned.

The garage, at St. Charles road and Ogden avenue, is used by the Page, Union and Florissant lines of the curtained car drove in, at 7:45 o'clock, five men piled out, leaving the driver inside. The rob-bers pointed revolvers at five me-chanics who were working about the busses, and two remained to guard the mechanics as they lay on the floor. Two more took charge of the night foreman and assistant foreman.

A fifth robber carried a sledge, and with it he battered down the cashier's steel door. Clarence Smith, cashier, who was finishing the night's work within, had ar-ranged the paper money in piles, and had made up rolls of coin. All this the robber swept into waste basket, which he carried back to the machine, followed by his com-rades.

One Employe Overlooked.

There was one man in the ga-rage whom the robbers had not seen. He was Tom Raye, whose duty is to lubricate the busses. Raye was under a bus when the robbers uttered their first "hands up!" Instead of coming out and lying on the floor with the mechanics, he slid under the next bus unnoticed by the robbers, and then under other busses, until he reached the rear door.

Raye ran into an all-night res-taurant, next door, and borrowed a revolver from the proprietor. Standing on the front steps of the restaurant, he waited for the tour-ing car to come out of the garage. As it came out, he began firing.

His first shot was heard by Dep-uty Constable Frank Robinson of Normandy, in an auto repair shop a short distance away. Robinson ran out, and when he saw that shots were coming from the car, he be-gan firing his revolver at it. Raye fired five times and Robinson seven times, emptying their revol-vers. Seven or eight shots came Smith's way, and one bullet tore Rob-inson's coat.

Sledge Left Behind.

Robinson's car, which was un-dergoing repairs, could not be used in the pursuit, and the deputy fol-lowed the robbers' car on foot un-til his weapon was empty.

The sledge, which was left be-hind, was taken in charge by the police, to examine it for finger prints. A telephone instrument, taken from the garage wall by one of the robbers, also was to be ex-amined.

The bus company refused to state the amount of the loss, but the surety company on which the loss falls said it would not exceed $3000, and that the estimate of $2880, made by employes, probably was correct.

Woman Held Up on Way to Bank and Robbed of $270.

Mrs. Tina Sheahan, bookkeeper for the Langenberg Dry Goods Co., 3618 Biddle street, was held up by an armed young man and robbed of a package containing $270 in cash and $283 in checks when wait-ing for a street car at High and Cass streets at 12:40 p. m. today.

Mrs. Sheahan, who is 30 years old and resides at 1421 Marcus avenue, had just stepped from the curb on the northwest corner to board an eastbound car on her way to the National Bank of Commerce when the robber blocked her path, pressed a revolver muzzle against her breast and demanded, "Stick your hands up and don't say anything." She released the package and was disarmed. The man ran west in Cass street and escaped. A motor-man pursued but lost sight of him at Fourteenth street.
